Reagan Attends Regents

COMBINED AP & UPI

BERKELEY — National Guard units, alerted by Gov. Ronald Reagan, moved into neighboring Oakland in full battle gear this morning to stand by for use if needed at the University of California.

Truck convoys rolled into Oakland on freeway routes from the north and south.

Reagan alerted the National Guard last night after police and 2,000 demonstrators had clashed on the Berkeley campus in a fog of tear gas.

REAGAN ANGRY

Meanwhile, going into a Regents meeting near the strife-racked U.C. campus, Reagan today lashed out angrily at critics who blame police for the disorders on campus.

"I am sick and tired of the argument whether attempts to enforce law and order create more trouble," the Governor said.

He said he blamed the university administration for allowing dissident student rallies and for failure to expel militant demonstrators.

Asked if he intended to seek the ouster of Roger W. Heyns as Berkeley chancellor, Reagan said, "Not at all. I don't know where that started. I know of no one on the Board of Regents even thinking of it."

13 INJURED

When yesterday's battle ended, 26 demonstrators and 13 law officers were injured and 15 persons were under arrest.

"All forces including the National Guard have been alerted," Reagan said last night. Asked if he were willing to risk a confrontation with militant students by attending today's university Board of Regents meeting adjacent to the campus, Reagan replied: "You bet your sweet life."

Yesterday's demonstrators, shouting "We want Reagan . . . get 'em . . . Kill 'em," smashed windows with rocks and screamed obscenities at University

ACCIDENT INTERRUPTS POWER

Electric power to the entire Sleepy Hollow area was knocked out today when this car, driven by Michelle Bledsoe, 16, 161 Deer Hollow Road, Sleepy Hollow, sheared off a utility pole carrying a 12,000-volt power line. The Pacific Gas and Electric Co. hoped to have power restored by 1 p.m., but San Anselmo police said the southbound lane of Butterfield Road would be closed the rest of the day. Miss Bledsoe was treated for forehead cuts. The accident occurred shortly before 10 a.m. in front of 251 Butterfield Road, San Anselmo.

Assassin's Widow Takes Shaw Stand

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Lee Harvey Oswald's widow, summoned today as a defense witness at Clay Shaw's conspiracy trial, contradicted prosecution testimony that her late husband was a bearded beatnik who shared an apartment with an eccentric homosexual.

Mrs. Marina Oswald Porter, a slender Russian-born blonde who has remarried and lives in Richardson, Tex., was called as the first witness for the defense after the judge threw out a motion by Shaw's attorneys for a directed verdict of innocent.

Mrs. Porter said the only night Oswald spent away from home when they lived in New Orleans was one night in jail.

Shaw, 55, a retired New Orleans businessman, is charged with conspiring with Oswald, David W. Ferrie and others to assassinate President John F. Kennedy, who was slain in Dallas, Tex., Nov. 22, 1963.

The key state witness, Perry Raymond Russo, testified that he knew Oswald as Leon Oswald who shared an apartment with Ferrie, described as an eccentric homosexual by several witnesses. Russo said he overheard the plotting during a party at Ferrie's apartment in September 1963.

"Do you know what a beatnik or a hippie looks like?" asked defense attorney F. Irvin Dymond.

"Yes," replied Mrs. Porter.

"Did you ever see Le Harvey Oswald looking like a beatnik?"

"No, sir."

Mrs. Porter testified she had never heard Oswald mention a Clay Shaw or a "Clem Ber-

Rabbi Sees Israeli Status During Trip

By JOANNE GRANT

"There is no danger of any immediate explosion" in the Middle East, believes Marin Rabbi Morton Hoffman who returned Wednesday from a six-day 20,000 mile fact-finding trip to Israel. (See Mideast story, page 3.)

"No one anticipates that there will be a war" in the next few years, Rabbi Hoffman said in an interview yesterday at Congregation Rodef Sholom in Santa Venetia.

However, he qualified the reassuring statements, pointing out Israel would defend itself is seriously attacked. And, he admitted, peace is not expected soon either, perhaps not until a new generation of Arab leaders.

Meanwhile, the policy of Israel, especially the Israeli Army, is "to live and let live" as long as possible, said Rabbi Hoffman after his fourth and fastest trip to Israel.

Rabbi Hoffman maintained the border incidents are created by the Arabs, chiefly as scare tactics to keep the impression that it is a powder keg — especially now that President Nixon is planning to visit Europe.

The border incidents are also due to Arab frustration at their inability to infiltrate Israel along the borders since Israel equipped itself with electronic fences which detect possible intruders by radar, said Rabbi Hoffman.

Teachers Eye Plan To End State Strike

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Striking teachers at San Francisco State College spent yesterday discussing a proposed compromise settlement of the dispute which has kept the campus in turmoil for months.

A decision on whether to accept the compromise and end the strike may be announced by tomorrow by spokesmen for the local American Federation of Teachers group.

In another development yesterday, Superior Court Judge William A. O'Brien refused to modify an order he made Monday placing about $500,000 in student funds in receivership.

The Associated Students organization charged the fund freeze was an attempt to "intimidate, silence or quash" worthwhile programs.

Five-Way Transplant Patients Responding

NEW YORK (AP) — Five persons who received organ transplants from a single donor were reported doing very well today while a sixth transplant from the same donor was scheduled for later in the day. (See another transplant story, page 2.)

The five persons received the heart, liver, both kidneys and a cornea. The sixth person is to receive the second cornea removed from a 57-year-old man who died of a brain tumor.

The series of operations, which included the first in which a heart was removed at one hospital and carried to another for implantation, began at Memorial and New York hospitals Wednesday night.

The man who provided the organs had been in a coma for a month and two brothers had given permission for the transplants.

The heart was removed in a half-hour operation at Memorial Hospital and placed in a saline solution in a stainless steel bucket. Two young surgeons took the heart to New York Hospital through a block-long tunnel.

A 36-year-old man got the heart in a 53-minute operation.

The donor's two kidney's were removed and transplanted into a 19-year-old boy and a 38-year-old woman at New York Hospital..

Back at Memorial, doctors removed the donor's liver and transplanted it into a 27-year-old bride of six months, Lynne Varney, who had a 14-pound cancerous tumor removed from her liver in an earlier operation.

Last night the cornea of the same donor was transplanted into a 64-year-old man. The other cornea was to be given today to a 50-year-old man.

New York Hospital's surgery chief, Dr. C. Walton Lillehei, said the organs of one donor can give life to 17 people, in addition to nonvital organs like the cornea.

Stanford Hit By Rampage

STANFORD (UPI) — A band of black students went on a wild rampage at the Stanford book store yesterday, pulling, hundreds of books off shelves and pushing over art displays.

The students apparently were angered by the failure of Stanford President Kenneth Pitzer to attend a meeting with Black Student Union leaders. Dr. Pitzer was returning to his office to meet with them when the incident occurred.

A bookstore employee said the two dozen students "swept in like a hurricane" and then quickly disappeared. Damage was estimated at $1,000. There were no arrests and no injuries.

Earlier, 400 BSU members and supporters held a noon rally and then marched to the president's office and from there to the faculty club where Dr. Pitzer was having lunch.

Johnny Scott, BSU leader, said "we want a black culture house here. We want a drama group which we will support. We want a black vice president. We want all of this because it's right."

Ninety-eight candidates have filed for 55 seats on 17 school district school boards in Marin, the Marin Junior College District Board and the Marin County Board of Education.

There will be races in all districts expect Union and Nicasio in the April trustee elections.

One of the late developments yesterday was the creation of a race for the Trustee Area 1 Novato area seat on the county board. Gary F. Huff of the Air Force filed to challenge incumbent James A. Swenson, who was appointed to the board to succeed Edith Kanoff, who resigned.

A late flurry of candidates boosted the field to nine in Novato Unified District making it the most crowded race in the county. The final rush also swelled the field to eight competing

RFK Teen Volunteer Describes His Wound

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An 18-year-old volunteer in Robert F. Kennedy's presidential primary campaign said today that the night the senator was shot "I felt something kick me."

He looked down, said Irwin Neal Stroll, and "that's when I noticed I had blue pants on and I saw red."

Stroll was one of five persons wounded last June 5 when Kennedy was mortally wounded by gunfire. He has filed suit for more than $1 million against Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, on trial charged with murdering Kennedy.

Today's session of the trial was delayed for 30 minutes by a conference in the judge's chambers. It was believed attorneys were discussing a black notebook in which Sirhan reportedly inscribed a deadline for Kennedy's death.

Defense attorneys said they would object strenuously to their introduction on grounds they were seized illegally from the Sirhan home.

Mayor Samuel Yorty of Los Angeles made the first reference to the 9-by-12 inch books soon after Kennedy died.

Sirhan, he said, wrote of "the necessity of assassinating Sen. Kennedy before June 5, 1968."

The death date was met. Kennedy was shot early that day in a pantry of the Ambassador Hotel just after winning the California Democratic presidential primary.

Autopsy Pending For Mrs. Uris

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — Dist. Atty. Martin G. Dumont said a decision would be made today on whether to autopsy the body of Mrs. Marjorie Uris, found shot to death near the mountain home she shared with her husband, novelist Leon Uris.

Mrs. Uris

Dumont said, "It appears to be a suicide."

Uris, author of the best-selling "Exodus" and "Topaz" talked briefly with authorities called in after the finding of the body by a passerby yesterday, then went into seclusion.

Dumont said Sheriff Carroll Whitmire of Pitkin County told him Mrs. Uris, 26, died of a bullet fired into her mouth from a pistol, owned by Uris, which was found lying near her. Pitkin said two other shots had been triggered off, one into the ground and one into her purse.

The couple was married in Hollywood last Sept. 8 after a romance which began with a meeting in this ski resort town in the Colorado high country.

German Convention

HANNOVER, West Germany (UPI)—The National Democratic Party, accused of being neo-Nazi, will hold its national convention in several Bavarian towns this weekend, spokesmen said yesterday. They said the party had rented meeting halls in the towns after it was barred from one in Bamberg.

Nixon Calls For Reform Of Elections

WASHINGTON (AP) — President nixon has called for limited electoral reform, but has stopped short of endorsing the direct popular vote system that has wide backing in Congress.

Observing that the present electoral vote system "is deeply rooted in American history," Nixon cautioned Congress against trying to abolish it.

Instead, he said in a message to Congress yesterday, electoral reform should aim at dividing each state's electoral vote "in a manner that may more closely approximate the popular vote than does the present system."

CONSERVATIVES' PLAN

Nixon thus threw his support to some form of proportional distribution of the electoral vote, a reform generally backed by conservatives as an alternative to the one-man, one-vote approach of the direct popular election favored by many congressmen.

Sen. Hugh Scott, R-PA., said Nixon's message would give impetus to "long-awaited congressional action" to bring about reform of the electoral college system.

Nixon said in the past he has favored dividing the electoral vote among the presidential candidates in the same proportion as they divide a state's electoral vote, but that he is not endorsing any specific plan now.

One suggested plan, which Nixon did not rule out, calls for awarding one electoral vote for each congressional district carried by a candidate, with two votes going to the statewide popular winner.

WOULD HAVE WON

Under either of these plans Nixon would have defeated John F. Kennedy in 1960, although under the proportional plan he would have fallen seven votes short of the 270 electoral voted needed for a majority.

In his message to Congress Nixon proposed dealing with such a problem by providing that a winning candidate need get only 40 per cent of the electoral vote to become president.

If no candidate gets 40 per cent, he said, there should be a nationwide popular run-off election between the two top candidates.

Moscow Adds To Growing Berlin Crisis

BERLIN (AP) — The Soviet Union intensified the war of nerves over West Berlin today, announcing the Warsaw Pact forces would stage maneuvers in East Germany early in March.

The date and the exact location of the war games were not given in the official announcement by Tass, the Soviet news agency.

Tass said the maneuvers would be held "in the central and western regions of the German Democratic Republic." This indicated an area of operations between West Berlin and the West German border, 110 miles west of the city.

The maneuvers will be supervised by Marshal Ivan Yakubovsky, commander in chief of the Warsaw Pact forces, and will "perfect the joint action of troops in different types of combat operations," Tass said.

Heavy Soviet tank and troop movements into East Germany were reported by travelers arriving in Prague yesterday.

U.S. Hints Common Peace Table Ground

PARIS (AP) — The adversaries in the Vietnam peace talks may be on the extreme edge of the common ground which U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge declares is necessary for a start toward a settlement.

That is the cautious impression U.S. and South Vietnamese negotiators formed after yesterday's weekly meeting.

1. The North Vietnamese have shifted the focus of their publicly expressed interest onto a terrain chosen by Lodge. Instead of emphasizing that the United States and the Saigon government must accept the political demands of North Vietnam and the Viet Cong, Hanoi envoy Xuan Thuy moved to the forefront his insistence that the United States unconditionally withdraw its troops from South Vietnam. Thus North Vietnam is now treating a military question as the No. 1 issue on an unfixed agenda.

Although Thuy declared that the U.S. withdrawal must be made without conditions, observers saw the possibility of a parallel with the negotiations for a halt in the U.S. bombing of North Vietnam. Hanoi then insisted publicly that the bombing halt must be unconditional but later made secret concessions.

A similar compromise to provide mutual troop withdrawals also is considered possible.

From the beginning of the four-party talks, Lodge has urged that measures of military de-escalation be the first order of business.

2. Lodge tried hard to reassure the other side that the United States shares their expressed view that a final settlement ought to conform to the spirit of the 1954 Geneva agreements on Vietnam.

Taking Thuy's words at the previous session as his own, Lodge affirmed: "We support the principles of sovereignty, independence, unity and territorial integrity" of Vietnam.

3. The final encouraging sign was a matter of atmosphere.

At their news conferences after the session, the spokesmen for North Vietnam and the NLF appeared less strident and acrimonious than they had after previous meetings. There was less name calling and no desk thumping at all.

Russ Thought Trying Space Bomb System

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense officials say they think the Soviet Union has decided to deploy an orbital bomb system in space.

They indicate that accumulating evidence, presumably gathered from Soviet tests monitored by the United States, points toward the Kremlin's intention to mount the program, call a Fractional Orbital Bombardment System.

This conclusion comes only a month after Cark M. Clifford, in his final report as secretary of defense, said the United States was uncertain about Soviet use of the FOBS.

An FOBS would be boosted into a low orbit, generally about 100 miles above Earth, and would be fired by remote control at ground targets before completing its first circuit.

Officials refuse to discuss intelligence, but it is known that the Russians have conducted at least 13 FOBS tests. The first seven reported flopped, but the next six were said to have worked.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Autopsy Pending For Mrs. Uris

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — Dist. Atty. Martin G. Dumont said a decision would be made today on whether to autopsy the body of Mrs. Marjorie Uris, found shot to death near the mountain home she shared with her husband, novelist Leon Uris.

Mrs. Uris

Dumont said, "It appears to be a suicide."

Uris, author of the best-selling "Exodus" and "Topaz" talked briefly with authorities called in after the finding of the body by a passerby yesterday, then went into seclusion.

Dumont said Sheriff Carroll Whitmire of Pitkin County told him Mrs. Uris, 26, died of a bullet fired into her mouth from a pistol, owned by Uris, which was found lying near her. Pitkin said two other shots had been triggered off, one into the ground and one into her purse.

The couple was married in Hollywood last Sept. 8 after a romance which began with a meeting in this ski resort town in the Colorado high country.

German Convention

HANNOVER, West Germany (UPI)—The National Democratic Party, accused of being neo-Nazi, will hold its national convention in several Bavarian towns this weekend, spokesmen said yesterday. They said the party had rented meeting halls in the towns after it was barred from one in Bamberg.

Israeli Image

JERUSALEM (UPI) — A prominent member of Israel's parliament blamed Foreign Minister Agga Eban last night for what he termed Israel's warlike image abroad. Rightwing member Arieh Ben Eliezer also said Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan "does a lot of lamage . . . because the world at least takes him seriously."

Ginger Lauded

LONDON (AP) — American actress Ginger Rogers received a tremendous ovation from a sellout crowd of 2,800 at the Royal Theater in the British opening of the musical "Mame" last night.

"I am very proud and you are superb," the 57-year-old former movie star told the audience in a curtain speech.

Nixon Calls For Reform Of Elections

WASHINGTON (AP) — President nixon has called for limited electoral reform, but has stopped short of endorsing the direct popular vote system that has wide backing in Congress.

Observing that the present electoral vote system "is deeply rooted in American history," Nixon cautioned Congress against trying to abolish it.

Instead, he said in a message to Congress yesterday, electoral reform should aim at dividing each state's electoral vote "in a manner that may more closely approximate the popular vote than does the present system."

CONSERVATIVES' PLAN

Nixon thus threw his support to some form of proportional distribution of the electoral vote, a reform generally backed by conservatives as an alternative to the one-man, one-vote approach of the direct popular election favored by many congressmen.

Sen. Hugh Scott, R-PA., said Nixon's message would give impetus to "long-awaited congressional action" to bring about reform of the electoral college system.

Nixon said in the past he has favored dividing the electoral vote among the presidential candidates in the same proportion as they divide a state's electoral vote, but that he is not endorsing any specific plan now.

One suggested plan, which Nixon did not rule out, calls for awarding one electoral vote for each congressional district carried by a candidate, with two votes going to the statewide popular winner.

WOULD HAVE WON

Under either of these plans Nixon would have defeated John F. Kennedy in 1960, although under the proportional plan he would have fallen seven votes short of the 270 electoral voted needed for a majority.

In his message to Congress Nixon proposed dealing with such a problem by providing that a winning candidate need get only 40 per cent of the electoral vote to become president.

If no candidate gets 40 per cent, he said, there should be a nationwide popular run-off election between the two top candidates.

WAVE SKIMMER — Hovercraft ferry service is to start Sunday between Vancouver and Nanaimo, B.C. This $420,000 vehicle can carry 35 passengers across the water in a 45-minute trip that takes 1 hour 50 minutes by conventional ferryboat. (AP Wirephoto)

Senate In Deeper ABM System Split

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee has wound up hearings on the nuclear nonproliferation treaty with all signs pointing to approval of that pet administration project but mounting trouble for another.

Discussion of the treaty to curb the spread of nuclear weapons was all but forgotten yesterday as critics used committee hearings as a forum to oppose the Sentinel antiballistic missile (ABM) system.

They were unsuccessful, however, in trying to get Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird to guarantee the Sentinel program will not be resumed without an all-out effort to obtain agreement with the Soviet Union that neither side will build such defenses.

Laird, although testifying in favor of the treaty, told the committee "I personally favor going forward with such a system."

In spite of the critics, charges that resumption of the Sentinel program would violate provisions of the treaty, the committee ended its hearing yesterday with all indications pointing toward its approval of the pact sometime next week.

The committee already has approved it once, reporting it to the floor last session when it was never brought to a vote.

As did Secretary of State William P. Rogers two days earlier, Laird said he did not believe the treaty's article calling for good-faith negotiations on nuclear disarmament was a bar to missile defense deployment.

During his testimony on the treaty, Laird noted at several points that Congress had approved the Sentinel program under the Johnson administration as a defense against Red China.

But it is now widely viewed in Congress as the possible beginning of a thick system, costing up to $60 billion, that would be deployed against Soviet missiles.

FAST, NOISY TRIP

Canadians To Ride Hovercraft Ferries

VANCOUVER, B.C. (UPI)—The first scheduled Hovercraft service in Canada will begin here Sunday with regular runs of the air-cushioned craft from Vancouver to Nanaimo on Vancouver Island.

(SFO Helicopters, Inc., tested similar craft on San Francisco Bay under a federal grant in 1966, but the vehicles were not put into commercial service on a continuing basis.)

Pacific Hovercraft Ltd. will inaugurate the twice-daily runs carrying passengers 40 miles across the Strait of Georgia.

For $7, a passenger will make the trip in under an hour, less than half the time it takes the 1,000-passenger B.C. ferry, which charges the same rate.

"Initially we will operate a service to Nanaimo two times a day and return," said Byng Heeney, executive vice president of the privately-owned company.

"At the moment we only have one SRN-6, a 35-passenger craft," he explained. "We have two more models coming in about six weeks. The first is expected here in March and the other in April."

At this time, he said, Pacific Hovercraft will begin operating six return trips to both Nanaimo and Victoria, the provincial capital.

Neither of these hovercraft, which glide on a cushion of air can carry cars, but Heeney said his firm is considering use of models capable of carrying 300 passengers and 30 automobiles.

Heeney said Pacific Hovercraft had considered buying other forms of ferry transportation before deciding on the SRN-6.

"We looked at hydrofoils and all sorts of things, but the hovercraft was the obvious choice because it was the safest," he said.

"The waters in lower southwestern British Columbia are just full of logs and loose timber. We chose these amphibious machines so that if we don't see a log floating in the water we can go right over it."

Powered by a 900-horsepower Bristol Siddeley gas turbine, the 10-ton, 48-foot SRN-6 is capable of speeds exceeding 60 miles per hour, regardless of whether it is traveling on land, snow or water.

The hovercraft is by no means a quiet form of transportation and when it skims over land or water on a four-foot cushion of air it reminds one of a plane attempting to take off.

The interior is similar to that of any city transit bus with two rows of seats lining each side. At the rear of the craft it is necessary to raise your voice to be able to be heard over the noise of the engine. In the front section, the vibration is tremendous and vocal communication difficult.

One serious problem facing the pioneer hovercraft service is the shortage of pilots. Presently there are less than 100 hovercraft pilots around the world, and there is only one certified instructor in North America.

He is Per Kjeldstadli, a rugged Norwegian who is chief pilot and instructor for Pacific Hovercraft.

To date, Kjeldstadli has trained about 20 per cent of the world's hovercraft pilots, all of them in Canada.

Terrorist Bomb Kills Two, Hurts 14 Israeli

JERUSALEM (AP) — An explosion ripped through Jerusalem's largest supermarket today as crowds of Jews were stocking up for the start of the Sabbath at sundown. Two young Jewish men were killed, the government radio said, and at least 12 persons were injured.

Most of the wounded were believed to be women. One was an Australian major in Israel with the United Nations.

The building, across the street from the King David Hotel, was a shambles of broken glass and damaged goods. All its windows were blown out.

The charge was in a small box that was planted at the cake and candy counter. A time fuse set it off. Police said a second charge was found and disarmed in the store.

Police said a smaller bomb was discovered near the British Consulate half a mile away. It was detonated in a field.

As in earlier bombings, Israeli police set up roadblocks today between the Jewish and Arab quarters of Jerusalem to prevent retaliatory attacks on the Arabs.

There was a steady oxodus as Arabs who work in west Jerusalem for the Israelis, hurried back to the safety of their homes.

Meanwhile, Baghdad Radio announced that Iraq had executed the noncommissioned army officer who headed the Israeli spy ring from which seven members were executed yesterday.

No developments were reported today in connection with the Arab guerrilla attack on the Israeli airliner in Switzerland Tuesday. Israel awaited the outcome of an appeal for international action to halt Arab terrorist attacks on commercial planes.

The Arab world still expected an Israeli reprisal, and Al Ahram, the semiofficial Cairo newspaper, predicted it would be aimed at Egypt.

On the diplomatic front, Al Ahram reported Egypt has informed the United States that American proposals on how to approach the Big Four talks on the Middle East "would not be conducive" to reaching a peace settlement.

Al Ahram called for a Big Four declaration "rejecting the principle of occupation of territories by force, demanding an Israeli withdrawal and affirming the necessity for implementation of the November resolution" of the U.N. Security Council.

Only one per cent of Rhode Island's labor force is engaged in farming.

Gallery Shows LBJ's Portrait

The bust, slightly larger than life size, will go on display in the presidential section of the gallery today. It is by Jimilu Mason of Alexandria, Va.

The portrait, which Johnson called "the ugliest thing I ever saw," was given to the gallery by the artist, Peter Hurd of New Mexico. It will be placed on exhibition at a later time, the gallery said.

"The waters in lower southwestern British Columbia are just full of logs and loose timber. We chose these amphibious machines so that if we don't see a log floating in the water we can go right over it."

Powered by a 900-horsepower Bristol Siddeley gas turbine, the 10-ton, 48-foot SRN-6 is capable of speeds exceeding 60 miles per hour, regardless of whether it is traveling on land, snow or water.

The hovercraft is by no means a quiet form of transportation and when it skims over land or water on a four-foot cushion of air it reminds one of a plane attempting to take off.

The interior is similar to that of any city transit bus with two rows of seats lining each side. At the rear of the craft it is necessary to raise your voice to be able to be heard over the noise of the engine. In the front section, the vibration is tremendous and vocal communication difficult.

One serious problem facing the pioneer hovercraft service is the shortage of pilots. Presently there are less than 100 hovercraft pilots around the world, and there is only one certified instructor in North America.

He is Per Kjeldstadli, a rugged Norwegian who is chief pilot and instructor for Pacific Hovercraft.

To date, Kjeldstadli has trained about 20 per cent of the world's hovercraft pilots, all of them in Canada.

Terrorist Bomb Kills Two, Hurts 14 Israeli

JERUSALEM (AP) — An explosion ripped through Jerusalem's largest supermarket today as crowds of Jews were stocking up for the start of the Sabbath at sundown. Two young Jewish men were killed, the government radio said, and at least 12 persons were injured.

Most of the wounded were believed to be women. One was an Australian major in Israel with the United Nations.

The building, across the street from the King David Hotel, was a shambles of broken glass and damaged goods. All its windows were blown out.

The charge was in a small box that was planted at the cake and candy counter. A time fuse set it off. Police said a second charge was found and disarmed in the store.

Police said a smaller bomb was discovered near the British Consulate half a mile away. It was detonated in a field.

As in earlier bombings, Israeli police set up roadblocks today between the Jewish and Arab quarters of Jerusalem to prevent retaliatory attacks on the Arabs.

There was a steady oxodus as Arabs who work in west Jerusalem for the Israelis, hurried back to the safety of their homes.

Meanwhile, Baghdad Radio announced that Iraq had executed the noncommissioned army officer who headed the Israeli spy ring from which seven members were executed yesterday.

No developments were reported today in connection with the Arab guerrilla attack on the Israeli airliner in Switzerland Tuesday. Israel awaited the outcome of an appeal for international action to halt Arab terrorist attacks on commercial planes.

The Arab world still expected an Israeli reprisal, and Al Ahram, the semiofficial Cairo newspaper, predicted it would be aimed at Egypt.

On the diplomatic front, Al Ahram reported Egypt has informed the United States that American proposals on how to approach the Big Four talks on the Middle East "would not be conducive" to reaching a peace settlement.

Al Ahram called for a Big Four declaration "rejecting the principle of occupation of territories by force, demanding an Israeli withdrawal and affirming the necessity for implementation of the November resolution" of the U.N. Security Council.

Gallery Shows LBJ's Portrait

The bust, slightly larger than life size, will go on display in the presidential section of the gallery today. It is by Jimilu Mason of Alexandria, Va.

The portrait, which Johnson called "the ugliest thing I ever saw," was given to the gallery by the artist, Peter Hurd of New Mexico. It will be placed on exhibition at a later time, the gallery said.

We think we put out better ones.
We think you should be the judge, though.
So we're having a Value Showdown. We're inviting America into our showrooms for a more-than-casual look at our cars. To prod and to probe and to find out once and for all who gives you more car for your money.
For instance, we're offering automatic transmissions, big V8 engines, and power disc brakes for less money than a year ago.
We give you Full Coil suspension, acrylic lacquer finish, lockable steering wheel, ignition and transmission lever, flush-and-dry rocker panels and Body by Fisher.
But what does our competition give you?
What are they offering?
We could tell you.
But coming from us it would probably sound like a put-down.
And we don't believe in putting people down.
Just first.
See for yourself. At your Chevrolet dealer's.

Chevrolet Value Showdown.

Far be it from us to take anything away from our competition. Except maybe you.

and the possibility of war, tension is not high in Israel, as Rabbi Hoffman had expected.

And, he found the people confident. Not an arrogant kind of confidence, he added hastily, but "the kind of confidence of a guy looking reality in the face" and accepting it.

Rabbi Hoffman, who speaks fluent Hebrew, said he gained his insight by talking with "the man on the street," not just the officials who could speak English.

Some of the Israelis with whom he spoke lived near the Jordanian River, the border, on a kibbutz which has been supplied with protective concrete bunkers in case of border attacks.

One of the shelters, said Rabbi Hoffman, sleeps 180 adults and was built at a cost of $14 million.

Another is designed especially for infants and the children sleep there every night, regardless of attacks.

He noted across the border, Jordanians have moved inland and become refugees. Their towns have become ghost towns, inhabited only by the terrorists, he said.

While the welfare of her people is of immense concern to Israel, he said, "Every tax dollar that Israel gets has to go for defense." Taxes are heavy, as much as half of a salary.

The defense budget this year is $900 million and the figure does not include the 50 U.S. F4 Phantom jets the Johnson administration agreed to sell to Israel, Rabbi Hoffman said.

Meanwhile, other critical needs such as hospitals, schools and homes for the aged must wait, either for outside funds or the day Israel can afford them.

Rabbi Hoffman said a major purpose of the visit, by 150 rabbis from all over the U.S., was to determine social needs and to plan for Israel's survival. Hoffman was selected to make the tour because he is president of the Northern California Board of Rabbis.

The top priority, he said, is immigration. "There are still millions of Jews living under oppression who need a haven. It's the whole reason Israel is."

Israel expects 35,000 to 45,000 immigrants this year, from Eastern Europe and North Africa. He did not name specific countries, fearing it would bring Arab pressure and "jeopardize some family reunions."

Oppression in most of these countries has increased since the Israeli victory in June 1967, he said.

The new arrivals move immediately to an absorption center to begin a six-month intensive study of Hebrew and a skill. They receive food and shelter at the centers, Rabbi Hoffman said.

He reporte it costs about $5,000 per immigrant for the six months and if, say 40,000 come in this year, the total cost would be $200 million. Last year, 30,000 persons immigrated and the Jewish community outside Israel provided $170 million.

Following the training, the new residents enter the labor market — Israel has full employment — and become self sufficient, contributing members of the economy.

Rabbi Hoffman lashed out at the attacks on Israeli airlines, such as the one in Zurich last week, noting the planes are vital to continuing the immigration program.

He defended Israel's retalitory attack on Lebanese planes and said there has not been a single border incident with Lebanon since then.

Meanwhile, incidents continue on other fronts and Israel remains alert for more serious attacks, but most Israelites continue living happy, normal lives, Rabbi Hoffman said.

Stolen TV Found Inside Stopped Car

An auto with a darkened rear light and no front license plate was halted today in San Rafael and found to be carrying a new color television set stolen earlier from a San Rafael appliance store, police said.

The driver of the car, Edward Guillory, 20, of San Francisco, was booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of burglary. Bail was set at $5,000.

Sgt. Phillip D. Green stopped the auto at about 3 a.m. as it was about to enter Highway 101 from Second Street. Police said Green noticed a wing window broken and found upon inspecting the engine that the ignition had been tampered with.

After arresting Guillory, when the suspect could produce no identification, Green found the television in the trunk and determined upon a check of local appliance stores that it had been stolen from the J and J Appliance Center at 1541 Fourth Street.

Also missing from the store were six tape recorders, a clock radio, record player and a second television. Police were attempting today to locate the items, valued at more than $1,000.

trand," the alias that Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison contends Shaw used during the plotting. Russo said Shaw was introduced to him at the Ferrie apartment as Clem Bertrand.

She also testified that she never heard Oswald mention either Ferrie or Russo.

The defense began its case after Judge Edward A. Haggerty Jr. of Criminal District Court denied a motion that he direct the jury to return a verdict of innocent.

Dymond moved for the directed acquittal immediately after the prosecution rested its case yesterday. Haggerty recessed court after the motion was filed Thursday and said he would study transcripts of all testimony by Russo, the state's star witness. Haggerty did not mention Russo's testimony in his decision.

They were arrested in a car on Lucas Valley Road.

Hall, where the board of regents opened a two-day meeting.

"There aren't enough policemen in the world" to handle persistent campus demonstrations, he said in an informal address. "We're up against guerrilla warfare," he said in explaining the National Guard alert last night.

Reagan complained the university "hasn't matched us" in efforts to control dissident students. He said, "When you're engaged in guerrilla warfare, you eliminate them by firing the faculty involved and expelling the students."

Yesterday's disorder was the most violent outbreak at the campus since the Third World Liberation Front, a coalition of minority students, went on strike nearly a month ago. Many in the mob were nonstudents, offcampus radicals and Berkeley's hippie "street people."

A cannister of tear gas thrown by one of the 3,000 demonstrators touched off the barrage of police tear gas, which enveloped the campus. The screaming dissidents ran through the thick clouds, tossing back police cannisters, overturning two paddy wagons and smashing out three windows, and pelting the pursuing officers with rocks, bottles and cans.

A dozen students and one professor were treated for cuts and tear gas. Four highway patrolmen were injured by rocks, including division chief Tom Houchins.

Most of the arrested demonstrators were held on $3,000 bail. Among them was Tom Collins, editor of the campus newspaper, who was charged with inciting a riot and released on $100 bail.

Reagan also expressed sharp annoyance today with state college trustees who said they had not heard of enrollments of unqualified students at knifepoint at San Francisco State College.

"If their judgment is as lacking as their memory, I can understand the state of education in California today," he said as he went into a meeting of the university Regents at Berkeley.

Plan For Bridge Gains Support

The Sleepy Hollow Homes Association last night endorsed plans by the county planning department for a two-lane bridge on Butterfield Road, according to Association President Frank Berto.

Work on the bridge, to replace an old one, is scheduled to start in April, Berto said. It will take three months to construct and will require a temporary bridge west of the existing bridge for a detour.

Berto said county officials have put the preliminary cost of the bridge at $35,000.

and the possibility of war, tension is not high in Israel, as Rabbi Hoffman had expected.

And, he found the people confident. Not an arrogant kind of confidence, he added hastily, but "the kind of confidence of a guy looking reality in the face" and accepting it.

Rabbi Hoffman, who speaks fluent Hebrew, said he gained his insight by talking with "the man on the street," not just the officials who could speak English.

Some of the Israelis with whom he spoke lived near the Jordanian River, the border, on a kibbutz which has been supplied with protective concrete bunkers in case of border attacks.

One of the shelters, said Rabbi Hoffman, sleeps 180 adults and was built at a cost of $14 million.

Another is designed especially for infants and the children sleep there every night, regardless of attacks.

He noted across the border, Jordanians have moved inland and become refugees. Their towns have become ghost towns, inhabited only by the terrorists, he said.

While the welfare of her people is of immense concern to Israel, he said, "Every tax dollar that Israel gets has to go for defense." Taxes are heavy, as much as half of a salary.

The defense budget this year is $900 million and the figure does not include the 50 U.S. F4 Phantom jets the Johnson administration agreed to sell to Israel, Rabbi Hoffman said.

Meanwhile, other critical needs such as hospitals, schools and homes for the aged must wait, either for outside funds or the day Israel can afford them.

Rabbi Hoffman said a major purpose of the visit, by 150 rabbis from all over the U.S., was to determine social needs and to plan for Israel's survival. Hoffman was selected to make the tour because he is president of the Northern California Board of Rabbis.

The top priority, he said, is immigration. "There are still millions of Jews living under oppression who need a haven. It's the whole reason Israel is."

Israel expects 35,000 to 45,000 immigrants this year, from Eastern Europe and North Africa. He did not name specific countries, fearing it would bring Arab pressure and "jeopardize some family reunions."

Oppression in most of these countries has increased since the Israeli victory in June 1967, he said.

The new arrivals move immediately to an absorption center to begin a six-month intensive study of Hebrew and a skill. They receive food and shelter at the centers, Rabbi Hoffman said.

He reporte it costs about $5,000 per immigrant for the six months and if, say 40,000 come in this year, the total cost would be $200 million. Last year, 30,000 persons immigrated and the Jewish community outside Israel provided $170 million.

Following the training, the new residents enter the labor market — Israel has full employment — and become self sufficient, contributing members of the economy.

Rabbi Hoffman lashed out at the attacks on Israeli airlines, such as the one in Zurich last week, noting the planes are vital to continuing the immigration program.

He defended Israel's retalitory attack on Lebanese planes and said there has not been a single border incident with Lebanon since then.

Meanwhile, incidents continue on other fronts and Israel remains alert for more serious attacks, but most Israelites continue living happy, normal lives, Rabbi Hoffman said.

Muir Beach Tavern Is Hit By Vandals

Burglars entered the Muir Beach Tavern last weekend through a hole in the floor under a beer refrigerator, employees reported to the sheriff's office yesterday.

The visitors turned over tables and broke glasses and a window, deputies said.

Stolen TV Found Inside Stopped Car

An auto with a darkened rear light and no front license plate was halted today in San Rafael and found to be carrying a new color television set stolen earlier from a San Rafael appliance store, police said.

The driver of the car, Edward Guillory, 20, of San Francisco, was booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of burglary. Bail was set at $5,000.

Sgt. Phillip D. Green stopped the auto at about 3 a.m. as it was about to enter Highway 101 from Second Street. Police said Green noticed a wing window broken and found upon inspecting the engine that the ignition had been tampered with.

After arresting Guillory, when the suspect could produce no identification, Green found the television in the trunk and determined upon a check of local appliance stores that it had been stolen from the J and J Appliance Center at 1541 Fourth Street.

Also missing from the store were six tape recorders, a clock radio, record player and a second television. Police were attempting today to locate the items, valued at more than $1,000.

trand," the alias that Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison contends Shaw used during the plotting. Russo said Shaw was introduced to him at the Ferrie apartment as Clem Bertrand.

She also testified that she never heard Oswald mention either Ferrie or Russo.

The defense began its case after Judge Edward A. Haggerty Jr. of Criminal District Court denied a motion that he direct the jury to return a verdict of innocent.

Dymond moved for the directed acquittal immediately after the prosecution rested its case yesterday. Haggerty recessed court after the motion was filed Thursday and said he would study transcripts of all testimony by Russo, the state's star witness. Haggerty did not mention Russo's testimony in his decision.

Marijuana Case Counts Dropped

Charges against Michael John Holloman, 19, of Terra Linda, accused of possessing marijuana on Jan. 3, were dismissed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court.

Judge Alvin B. Goldstein said he would decide on Wednesday whether to hold for trial a codefendant in the case, Willard Gary Biesinger, 18, also of Terra Linda.

They were arrested in a car on Lucas Valley Road.

Hall, where the board of regents opened a two-day meeting.

"There aren't enough policemen in the world" to handle persistent campus demonstrations, he said in an informal address. "We're up against guerrilla warfare," he said in explaining the National Guard alert last night.

Reagan complained the university "hasn't matched us" in efforts to control dissident students. He said, "When you're engaged in guerrilla warfare, you eliminate them by firing the faculty involved and expelling the students."

Yesterday's disorder was the most violent outbreak at the campus since the Third World Liberation Front, a coalition of minority students, went on strike nearly a month ago. Many in the mob were nonstudents, offcampus radicals and Berkeley's hippie "street people."

A cannister of tear gas thrown by one of the 3,000 demonstrators touched off the barrage of police tear gas, which enveloped the campus. The screaming dissidents ran through the thick clouds, tossing back police cannisters, overturning two paddy wagons and smashing out three windows, and pelting the pursuing officers with rocks, bottles and cans.

A dozen students and one professor were treated for cuts and tear gas. Four highway patrolmen were injured by rocks, including division chief Tom Houchins.

Most of the arrested demonstrators were held on $3,000 bail. Among them was Tom Collins, editor of the campus newspaper, who was charged with inciting a riot and released on $100 bail.

Reagan also expressed sharp annoyance today with state college trustees who said they had not heard of enrollments of unqualified students at knifepoint at San Francisco State College.

"If their judgment is as lacking as their memory, I can understand the state of education in California today," he said as he went into a meeting of the university Regents at Berkeley.

Plan For Bridge Gains Support

The Sleepy Hollow Homes Association last night endorsed plans by the county planning department for a two-lane bridge on Butterfield Road, according to Association President Frank Berto.

Work on the bridge, to replace an old one, is scheduled to start in April, Berto said. It will take three months to construct and will require a temporary bridge west of the existing bridge for a detour.

Berto said county officials have put the preliminary cost of the bridge at $35,000.

Library Friends Set Fund Sale

Friends of the Larkspur Library have set their annual fund-raising sale at the library for May 3, reported Mrs. Raymond F. Reilly, board president.

The sale on the library ground will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., and feature arts, antiques, books and plants, she said.

The board has also voted Tuesday night to donate to the library some peg board for art exhibits, said Mrs. Reilly.

The group recently donated art and conservation books worth $200 to the library, she reported.

Giant Dogs Prey On Ranch Sheep

By ALAN JONES

Tuesday afternoon two giant dogs ran into the midst of a flock of sheep in Tennessee Valley and began killing. A great Dane seized one sheep by the neck, crushed its skull with one bite, then spun to seize another and kill it the same way, while a shaggy dog harried other sheep nearby.

By the time dairy rancher George Gianecchini and his sons noticed the attack, eight sheep had been ravaged, some with their faces eaten off but most simply killed by the crushing bites in an orgy of slaying.

Gianecchini ran for a rifle, shot at the dogs but missed, and they fled over the hill toward Sausalito or Marin City.

Since then, Gianecchini has been on a treadmill of officialdom trying to get something done about killer dogs.

Sheriff's deputies made a report, but referred him to the Marin County Humane Society.

The Humane Society said there is little or nothing it can do unless the dogs are caught on Gianecchini's property.

Now the rancher has turned to his San Rafael attorney, Herbert K. Walton, who said he will file a claim with the county for the value of the slain animals. If the dogs could be traced, Gianecchini could also file action against the owner for double the value of the lost sheep, and the dogs could be legally destroyed by the humane society.

"This is a real difficult situation," a humane society employee said. Marin Terrace School is fairly near, and many dogs follow children to school, then run loose during the day. The situation improved temporarily when the school cracked down on dogs, but it didn't last, The humane society said. There are dozens of dogs again roving loose in Tennessee Valley.

Legally, said the society, Gianecchini can shoot a dog attacking stock on his property, but can't go get the dog on its owner's property. Nor can the humane society pick up a dog on his say-so unless it is actually caught in the act.

Gianecchini said he saw the great dane run back to Marin City, and he said he believed he knows who the owner is. But there is no way to prove it, and the owners or the only known great dane in Marin City told the Independent-Journal their dog is kept chained and couldn't have killed the sheep.

No one has any idea who owns the shaggy dog that accompanied the great dane.

Lt. Ellis L. Seibert of the sheriff's office said there is no way of knowing what dog did the killing, since the chase led over the ridges. The dog could have come from Sausalito as Easily as Marin City, he said.

Gianecchini has had dog trouble before, as most dairy ranchers in Marin have on occasion. In 1964, he collected a claim from the county for dairy cattle killed by dogs.

It can be expensive all the same. Last year, Gianecchini said, he shot a dog chasing his stock and the owner sued. Gianecchini won the case, but spent $400 defending himself.

Walton said state law requires each county to maintain a livestock indemnity fund, financed out of dog license fees, to reimburse owners of stock killed by dogs. Despite the 1964 settlement, Marin County has no such fund.

Asst. County Counsel Thomas Hendricks said such a county fund would have to be imposed by state order. "Otherwise the county would be in the position of insuring ranchers against their losses, he said," he said.

Gianecchini and his sons can't patrol the entire ranch — there are too many chores for that. Often an attacking dog may never be seen, and his work may be undetected until the body of a sheep or cow is found somewhere on the ranch.

The rancher sees it as a problem the humane society should solve. If the society enforced licensing for all dogs it would help, he said. "Nine out of 10 dogs we shoot for killing stock aren't licensed . . . they're dogs nobody owns."

If the unlicensed dogs were impounded or destroyed, most of his losses could be curbed, Gianecchini feels. And since the county has a dog license requirement, it should be enforced, he said.

Meantime, the humane society is under pressure from most of Marin's 11 towns and cities, as well as unincorporated areas, for more protection against loose dogs. More money and men are forthcoming and will cut the dog problem in areas willing to pay for more patrols, but it seems unlikely that will help Gianecchini much.

Bail Bond Voting Reset By U.C. Davis Students

I-J Special Report

DAVIS — The student legislature of the University of California at Davis last night postponed action until Thursday on a controversial bill which would put the student body into the bail bond business.

The legislation was first reworded, however, to limit a bail bond fund to offenses committed by Davis students in Yolo, Sacramento and Solano counties.

The legislature will also consider lowering the amount of funds available to a student.

The bill proposes setting up a bail bond fund with student body money which could be loaned to a student who is arrested and unable to raise bail.

The original proposal provided for $1,000 to be available to any student. The money would come in form of a 60-day loan, interest-free.

The legislature was about evenly split on the first proposal, but the bill may gain added support now that the area of its use has been limited — especially since arrests at San Francisco State College would no longer be covered, a student body officer said today.

Airman Found Dead At Home

The body of a sergeant assigned to the 78th Fighter Wing at Hamilton Air Force Base, was found hanging today at his home at 677 Ignacio Boulevard, Raphael Village, Novato police reported.

S/Sgt. John F. Killins, 33, was found at 2:51 a.m. in his carport, police reported.

Killins and his wife, May, had been out until 1:45 a.m., she told police. She took their baby sitter home, and when she returned, her husband was asleep in bed.

She went to bed and awoke later to find her husband gone and the door open. She found his body hanging from a rafter in the carport, she told police, adding that he had been despondent.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Keaton's Chapel of Marin in Novato.

Irate Taxpayers Hit Ghetto Field Trips

The Irate Taxpayers of Marin sharply criticized the Sausalito School District last night for sending students on field trips to black ghettos in San Francisco and for considering paying for a summer trip by students to Mexico.

The trips were cited as examples of "schools boards not spending the money they have as well as they might," and of "spending for purposes that we don't believe are proper for educational funds," reported publicity chairman Winifred Frederick of Lagunitas.

The taxpayers group, with about 45 members present at its monthly meeting in the Marin County Courthouse in San Rafael, appointed a committee to decide what action the group will take in the future to combat school expenditures it opposes. The committee is to report its recommendation to the group at its next meeting at 8:30 p.m. on March 20 in the courthouse.

Mrs. Frederick discounted the possibility of legal action as one of the committee's recommendations. More likely, she said, would be a recommendation that the group's "action committees" arouse public opinion against expenditures the group feels are improper.

The group also agreed that "sensitivity training" would be an improper expenditure of school funds, she reported, after hearing a talk on the controversial subject by Mrs. Nan Hepp of Mill Valley.

'Oakland 7' Jury Hears Rally Tape

I-J Special Report

OAKLAND — A tape recording introduced by the prosecution as evidence against the Oakland Seven yesterday may have given the defense an unexpected boost by letting the jury hear more than the prosecution wanted.

Prosecutor Lowell Jensen introduced the tape, over routine objections by defense attorneys, to support charges that the seven engaged in a felony conspiracy by planning for others to commit misdemeanor acts of obstructing police and trespassing during a march on the Oakland Induction Center Oct. 17, 1967.

Jensen had hoped to play only certain portions of the tape, but the defense succeeded in having the whole recording played, including a speech by one of the seven, Michael J. Smith, formerly of Corte Madera, in which Smith advised protesters to avoid a confrontation with police.

The five-hour recording of a rally in Sproul Plaza also contained arguments against the Vietnam War and the draft that the defense will not be allowed to present in its case.

Smith, who was one of two defendants heard on the tape, repeatedly insisted that "we are not interested in having a confrontation with police."

Smith said at one point, "Some people thought we should throw streamers at the cops. Some people talked about dropping flowers on the cops. People talked about picket signs that will be good enough to come up against billy clubs." But then he again advised against provoking police.

Jensen has indicated he will end his case early next week.

Tomales High Names Advisers On Agriculture

Members of a vocational agriculture advisory committee for Tomales High School were announced today by Supt. Anthony Matulich.

The formation of the committee was approved by the school trustees Feb. 13.

The purpose and function of the committee is to aid the high school vocational agriculture department in keeping abreast of changes in agriculture in California, since agriculture today is a highly scientific and mechanized occupation with new machines, materials and methods are constantly coming into the field, Matulich said.

March 15 Ski Trip Set For Children

Gallinas Village Community Service District will sponsor a ski trip to Soda Springs on Highway 40 on March 15, district directors decided last night.

Chairman Walter E. Rudolph announced he will arrange for a charter bus to take about 35 children and several adults for the one-day trip. If there are too many applicants, another bus could be arranged. The bus will leave the Santa Venetia Presbyterian Church at 5 a.m. and return that night. Bus fare and other expenses will come to about $15 per child, said Rudolph.

Gallinas Village Community Service District Directors also:

tors said they will make a field tour of Pueblo Park and planter strips before Wednesday.

SENIOR CITIZENS — Decided to apply to the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission for aid in establishing a senior citizens program in Gallinas Village. Secretary Marguerite F. Clark said this is contingent on the district's purchase of the Presbyterian church property on Adrian Way for use as a recreation center.

MEETING — Set an adjourned meeting for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday to discuss spring cleaning and improvement of parks and planter strips. Direc-

Grand Jury Indicts Youths In Drug Raid

Two young men arrested Wednesday night in a narcotics raid on a Muir Beach home were indicted yesterday by the Marin County Grand Jury on charges of possessing marijuana for sale and possessing LSD.

Jeffrey James Morse, 22, and William Mansfield Graham, 19, of Sunset Way, Muir Beach, were ordered to appear in Marin Superior Court Monday for arraignment.

They were being held today in the Marin County Jail without bail.

Charges were filed in Municipal Court yesterday against one of the other three persons arrested at the time of the raid. William Edward Pola, 20, of Alameda, driver of a car which arrived at the house while agents were there, was charged with marijuana possession.

No charges were filed against Charles Bede Benedetto, 19, also of Alameda, a passenger in Pola's car. Another passenger, a 17-year-old boy, was cited to Juvenile Hall.

Ditch Lining Project Funded

A $15,000 ditch lining project is included in the $18,850 budget for 1969-70 approved last night by the San Rafael Meadows Flood Control Zone Advisory Board, headed by James Blum.

The estimated surplus this year is $14,350, which means $4,500 will be raised by taxes in 1969. Charles E. Murphy, flood control engineer in he county Department of Public Works, said the tax rate will remain the same as this year, 20 cents per $100 assessed vaulation.

A drainage ditch which runs between Mirada and El Prado avenues will be lined, either with redwood walls or concrete, said Murphy.

New Orleans Jazz Band Will Perform

The Easy Riders New Orleans Jazz Band will perform Monday at 7:30 p.m. in Ives Hall at Sonoma State College under the auspices of the Lectures and Concerts Division of the Associated Students.

The group consists of a trumpet, alto sax, trombone, drums, piano, banjo and string bass.

Tam Trustees Set Interviews

The Tamalpais High School District board will interview candidates for the seat vacated by trustee William B. Lewis at a closed session at 7 p.m. Monday before an open special session at 8 p.m. at the district office, Larkspur.

Seeking a board seat are Robert W. Corlett, San Anselmo attorney; Thomas E. Dugan of Mill Valley; William Bentley, accountant of Mill Valley; Richard W. Jahnke of San Anselmo and Brice Pace of Fairfax.

An appointee would have to run at the April 15 election since Lewis' term expires this spring.

Warrant Is Issued In Marijuana Case

A bench warrant was issued yesterday for Bruce Gustave Bonniver, 24, of Sausalito, who failed to show up in Marin Municipal Court for a preliminary hearing on a charge of possessing marijuana Dec. 14 in Sausalito.

Bail on the warrant was set at $500 by Judge Alvin B. Goldstein Jr.

Prisoners' Code Held A Moral Policy

CORONADO (UPI) — The U.S. Code of Conduct for prisoners of war was compared yesterday to the Bible's Ten Commandments—a moral statement, but not a law a man can be punished for breaking.

That was the view of Capt. William R. Newsome, the Navy's chief counsel for the court of inquiry into the capture of the USS Pueblo off North Korea Jan. 23, 1968.

"It is a set of principles by which servicemen should be guided," Newsome said. "I don't think it can be used as the basis of a regulation you can punish somebody for breaking."

Newsome's statement to newsmen appeared to mark a shift in the Navy's viewpoint—at least here where the Pueblo inquiry is being held.

Newsome said that as a moral statement rather than a statute the code may have been binding on the Pueblo's crew.

Newsome said that some provisions of the code, chiefly those which forbid aiding the enemy, have been written into military law and punishments are provided.

The Code of Conduct for prisoners of war was issued in 1955 by President Eisenhower after returning Korean War prisoners disturbed the nation with reports of "brainwashing" and collaboration with the enemy.

Six Pueblo officers have testified they broke the code by falsely confessing under torture that their ship had intruded into North Korean territorial waters.

The court of inquiry began a three-day recess today after hearing testimony from Pueblo enlisted men yesterday that they wanted the United States to retaliate for the vessel's capture even if it meant they would be killed.

Navy Is Expected To Withdraw New Jersey From Viet Waters

SAIGON (AP) — Military sources said today the world's only active battleship—the USS New Jersey—will depart in March after a six-month tour off the coasts of North and South Vietnam and may not return to the war.

But after six months in Long Beach for repairs, maintenance and retraining of her crew, the 56,000-ton battlewagon may not be needed in Vietnam, depending on the progress of the Paris peace talks, the sources said.

The New Jersey was brought out of mothballs in 1967 as a $50 million experiment to test the effectiveness of her 16-inch guns against targets in North Vietnam. The United States was then escalating its bombardment of the North, and the Navy said the 23-mile range of the New Jersey's guns would cover many of the targets then being hit by warplanes.

By the time the New Jersey arrived in Vietnam last Sept. 30, President Johnson had limited air and surface bombardment of North Vietnam to the country's narrow southern panhandle. The Pentagon said the battleship's big guns were still needed to hit well entrenched North Vietnamese artillery which was harassing the U.S. and South Vietnamese posts below the DMZ.

A month later Johnson halted all attacks on the North, and the enemy artillery attacks from above the DMZ stopped. Since then the battleship has made occasional attacks on North Vietnamese bunkers and antiaircraft guns in the DMZ which attacked U.S. reconnaissance planes.

In the ground war, meanwhile, the U.S. Command reported more fighting along the rugged Laotian frontier west of Hue and Da Nang and north of the A Shau Valley.

U.S. Marines backed by dive-bombers, stormed a North Vietnamese artillery base and bunker complex yesterday and reported killing 88 enemy soldiers and seizing two Soviet 122mm guns. Five Marines were reported killed and 25 were wounded.

Nixon Flies HHH Home In Jet Style

"President Nixon told me that after he was defeated in 1960, he had to fly back to California in a commercial plane," Humphrey recalled yesterday, "and he had to get to the airport in a taxi."

But, Humphrey said Nixon told him when he was ready to return to Minnesota he would not have to buy a tourist ticket, but would go "First Class."

And so he did.

A presidential 707 Air Force jet, similar to Air Force 1 with gold carpets and stewards, carried the former vice president-soon-to-be-professor, his wife and cartons of records and belongings back to Minneapolis.

One of the first things the Humphreys saw as they entered the plane's VIP department with its white linen-covered tables was a vase containing two dozen American beauty roses.

A hand-written card said, "With best wishes for the years ahead, from your friends, Pat and Dick."

All of the seats on the right side of the back half of the big jet, in what could be called the tourist compartment, were covered with cartons and boxes containing the things Humphrey was moving from Washington to Minnesota.

"Holy smoke," breathed Mrs. Humphrey when she saw it all.

"We may have to fly like this," said Humphrey with his arms extended like wings but the right arm dangling very low.

The tradition of issuing official inaugural medals to commemorate the President from identification badges used by members of inaugural committees. The badges gradually became larger and more decorative, evolving into commemorative inaugural medals that are treasured by collectors throughout the world.

REV. LEO HENKEL
Takes own advice

Priest Will Seek City's Mayor's Job

PERU, Ill. (AP) — Rev Leo L. Henkel for years urged his parishioners to become involved in community affairs. Now 72 and retired, he's taking his own advice and is running for mayor.

Father Henkel, who retired as pastor of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church in this north central Illinois community of 11,000 in 1963, considers himself "unemployed." He says:

"If I said I didn't believe a clergyman should talk about public matters, I would be going contrary to my whole life's practice."

The mayorality primary March 4 is nonpartisan, and the two top vote-getters will face each other April 15 in the runoff election. Three other candidates besides the priest are in the running.

Although Father Henkel regards himself as an independent in politics, he labels himself "a conservative at heart—closer to the Republican position than to the Great Society."

But he says, "There are good men on both sides. Too many people are hide-bound and vote a straight ticket."

Economic Straws Still Pointing Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Commerce Department says indicators were uniformly bullish in January, showing no signs of the long-awaited —and predicted—slackening of the economy.

"All of the broad economic measures now available were up over the preceding month," said the department, including employment, wages and salaries, industrial production, retail sales and housing starts.

"Wholesale prices advanced sharply according to advance reports," said the department's monthly summary of the business situation.

The report made no reference to last week's meeting in Paris of the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, at which U.S. officials were quoted as saying the long awaited slowdown was at last developing.

"In general, we are on the right course," Chairman Paul W. McCracken of the Council of Economic Advisers, highest ranking member of the U.S. delegation, told newsmen.

The meeting itself was closed to reporters, but foreign sources said the CEA chairman's remarks conveyed strongly the impression that the U.S. growth rate was beginning to yield to government rein tugging.

Marin School Budget Due Reviews Monday

Budgets for 1969-70 will be reviewed by three committees of the Marin County Board of Education in separate sessions Monday at the County Schools Office, 201 Tamal Vista Boulevard.

The Administrative Services Committee, meeting at 7:30 p.m., will discuss the county general fund budget, which represents the County Schools Office portion of county funds, reported Byron Mauzy, business services director.

Committee members will discuss the format of the budget, whose total amount is not determined until the salary costs are calculated at the county assessor's office, Mauzy said.

The Administrative Services Committee, the Special Education Committee, which meets at 7:30 p.m., and the Educational Services Committee, which meets at 8:30 p.m., will review the county school service fund budget, which is financed by state funds.

Committee members will review the budget sections covering direct services to small school districts, and coordination of programs, Mauzy said.

Probation In Marijuana Case

John Robert Thiele, 18, of 121 Grove Avenue, Corte Madera, yesterday was given a suspended prison sentence for selling marijuana to a Marin County Drug Abuse agent May 20, 1968.

Judge Harold J. Haley placed hime on two years probation.

Thiele pleaded no contest to the felony charge after a jury had been selected to hear his case.

Sanity Hearing For Drug Case

Judge Alvin B. Goldstein of Marin Municipal Court yesterday ordered a sanity hearing for a 24-year-old San Rafael man who faces several felony and misdemeanor drug charges.

James A. Sprague, of 14 Sentinel Court, was certified to Superior Court for a sanity hearing.

Sprague is charged with several counts of marijuana possession, assault with a deadly weapon and four misdemeanor charges of being under the influence of narcotics, including heroin.

He is in the County Jail in lieu of $1,875 bail.

Blake Urges Tube Link To Marin

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

San Francisco Supervisor William C. Blake proposed today that the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District run a subaqueous transit tube from Marin to San Francisco to carry commute trains.

Blake toured the Bay Area Rapid Transit District's facilities yesterday, including a descent into the partially completed tube linking San Francisco with Oakland. He emerged with a vision of such a tube running to Marin.

Financing, he held, should be no problem.

"The bridge district has $30 million of reserves sitting around in banks," pointed out Blake, who is one of the San Francisco Board of Supervisors' newly appointed bridge district directors. "That $30 million could be used to start the project. Bridge tolls could be pledged to finance the remainder.

Cost of such a tube, he said, has been estimated at $140 million.

"Why fool around with buses and ferries?" demanded Blake. "The need is for rapid transit."

He said that Peter Kewit and Sons expects to complete laying the San Francisco-Oakland tube within eight months, and would then have its engineers, workmen and equipment on the scene ready to start on a Marin tube.

Edmund C. Sajor, assistant general manager of BARTD, said it would be a fine idea for the bridge district to install the Marin tube. BARTD, he said, would be happy to have such a tube tied into its system. But there are a few "buts."

First, said Sajor, a formula would have to be worked out as to what share of BARTD's existing and under-construction facilities would be charged to Marin County—or to the bridge district.

Then agreement would have to be reached as to whether the counties now in BARTD should pay part of the cost of the Marin system—and if so, what part.

Then there would have to be an operating agreement. Since BARTD is to be a computerized operation, "we couldn't have some other separate operation conflicting with our schedules," he noted.

BARTD representatives have been working with the West Bay Transit District in San Mateo County for eight months on a formula of cost-sharing in case that county joined the district, Sajor noted. No formula has yet emerged.

Eight months from now, Blake would have Peter Kewit and Sons laying tube to Marin County.

COST CONSIDERATION

The $140 million quoted by Blake is close to the $149 million cost of a San Francisco-Marin tube included in estimates in the "Foley Report"—the state-commissioned report on a Marin-San Francisco crossing completed in 1967, and taking its name from E. R. Foley, chief engineer of the state Division of Bay Toll Crossings.

That, however, is considerably less than half the Foley Report's total for such a Marin-San Francisco system. Additional are subway and stations to connect into the BARTD system in San Francisco, $71 million; Marin County line and stations, $140 million, and rolling stock, $23 million. The total comes to $383 million.

HOW TO SHARE

Then there is the matter of what Sajor called "an equitable share" of BARTD to be borne by whoever builds that tube.

BARTD was funded by a $792 million bond issue, plus $180 million provided by the state to finance the San Francisco-Oakland tube. The $792 million is an obligation against taxpayers in the district — which they'd probably like shared by whatever other taxpayers got tied into it through a line from San Mateo County or a tube from Marin County.

And right now, according to Sajor, BARTD is $146 million in the red. It has been lobbying hard for state money to bail it out.

Cost of BARTD thus runs close to $1 billion dollars — without any further expansion into Marin or San Mateo counties.

Deputies Report Three Burglaries, Auto Looting

Three burglaries and a theft from a locked car were reported by the sheriff's office yesterday.

A dark brown "fall" wiglet and $60 in cash were stolen Wednesday from Maxines Coiffeurs in the Town and Country Shopping Center, Bel Air, sheriff's deputies said. The owner of the shop discovered the loss upon arriving at work in the morning.

Karyn S. Williams of 396 Pine Hill Road, Mill Valley, reported that while her car was parked in her carport Tuesday night someone broke into it and stole a stereo set and a radio tuner.

$300,000 Tourist Center Plans Aired

Plans for a $300,000 tourist center were presented to the Rohnert Park City Council in study session last night.

Developer Paul Golis told the council he intends to fully develop his property at the Commerce Boulevard-Rohnert Park Expressway intersection. Located on the southeast corner will be the tourist center which will include a large lobby for wine and cheese tasting, a restaurant, gift shop, travel agency, chamber of commerce office and a community hostess service.

Golis said Santa Rosa architect Lawrence Simons is preparing plans. Simons designed the new Rohnert Park Community and Recreation Center.

Also included in the plan is a motel and hotel which will be a two-story structure. Golis said land has been reserved to later enlarge the motel and to add additional stories to the hotel. He said he eventually plans to offer 300 units, but will begin with 60.

On the north side of the intersection, Golis plans to construct a $400,000 automobile diagnostic and repair service. Also included will be a retail store offering supplies and automobile accessories. Two service stations are also planning for the area.

The council gave tentative approval to Golis' plans pending further study on traffic access.

They also approved Golis' intentions to enlarge Cofega Avenue to two 12-foot lanes with an 8-foot landscaped center strip.

Savings-Loan Sales Talks Under Way

Discussions are under way for the sale of Marin County Savings and Loan Association, San Rafael, it was learned today.

In a letter addressed to stockholders of Marin County Financial Corp., parent company of the savings and loan association, president and board chairman Jordan L. Martinelli announced that Pacific Coast Holdings, Inc., San Francisco has proposed to acquire for cash all of the assets and properties of Marin County Savings for one and one-half times their book value.

Martinelli said no contract or agreement has been made and that if and when one is prepared it will be submitted to stockholders for their approval. It is the intention of Pacific Coast Holdings to retain the present executive and employee staff at Marin County Savings and Loan, he said.

Pacific Coast Holdings owns 98.4 per cent of the capital stock of San Mateo Mutual Savings and Loan Association, founded in 1896. The association is headquartered in San Mateo and also maintains a branch in Burlingame. The holding company also owns three other companies formed during the past year: Pacific Coast Holdings Insurance, Pacific Coast Holdings Mortgage and Pacific Coast Holdings Management.

He also serves as representative to the California State Academic Council, the executive committee of the Association of California State College Professors, the board of directors of the Sonoma State Foundation, secretary to the Academic Affairs Committee and chairman of the Distinguished Teacher Award Committee.

Pickett has been the college librarian since its beginning eight years ago. He was employed at San Francisco State College for seven years previously.

Auto Is Looted

A $379 machine used to test students' hearing was stolen during the past weekend from the car of Mrs. Margaret Callady, nurse for the Dixie School District, while the vehicle was parked in San Francisco, according to San Rafael police. Also taken from the car were $30 in sheets and pillow cases.

'New Orleans' Theme Selected For Marin Fair

"In Old New Orleans" will be the theme of the 1969 Marin Art and Garden Fair in Ross, opening July 2 for a five-day run, it was announced today.

George Murata of Corte Madera, who designed last year's fair, "Bridge to Kyoto," will also design this year's presentation.

"In Old New Orleans" will transmit the flavor of the 200-year-old French Quarter, with its quaint dwellings, ironbound doors, balconies and courtyards.

This was to have been the last fair at the Ross site, but the Marin County Board of Supervisors said recently the new site at the Marin Civic Center would not be ready until at least 1971.

"In Old New Orleans" will open at 6 p.m. July 2. Hours from July 3 through 6 will be 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Portions Of Family Film To Be Shown

Old Adobe School District trustees last night approved the use of a portion of the "Time of Your Life" films in the family life education program.

The board approved the showing of the KQED-TV film segments five through nine, and took under consideration the remaining six segments termed controversial. The first four class films had been approved earlier for showing.

Supt. Dean D. Magown presented a guide for teachers in presenting the film series. He said the only variation from current practice is his recommendation that sexual reproduction be taught on the sixth grade level.

The board accepted his report and teachers guide for further study.

Old Adobe School District trustees also:

EQUIPMENT — Opened bids on cafeteria equipment for La Tercera School. Apparent low bidder was Marco Supply Co. of Santa Rosa at $4,100.

Driver Escapes Fire Injuries

A 31-year-old hod carrier apparently escaped serious injury last night when his car overturned four times and caught fire on Olive Avenue, east of Novato.

The motorist, Jay Dean Trimble of 446 School Road, Novato, complained of pain but no injuries were visible, California Highway Patrol officers said. He declined medical aid.

The officers reported that Trimble was traveling east on Olive Avenue, about a quarter-mile east of Atherton Avenue, at 11 p.m. when the left front tire blew. The car flipped and was

Truman Hospitalized With Flu, Recovering

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Former President Harry S Truman was taken to a hospital late last night suffering from what eventually was diagnosed as "simple gastrointestinal flu caused by a virus."

A spokesman for Research Hospital today said that the 84-year-old former chief executive had spent a good night and probably would be released to return home in a few days.

John P. Dreves, hospital public relations director, told a news conference that Truman was stricken after retiring to bed in his home in suburban Independence last night and was admitted to the hospital at 11:40 p.m.

The former president fell asleep after being admitted and was awakened at 4 a.m. today for a routine check of his temperature, pulse, respiration and blood pressure.

Dreves said that Truman then fell asleep again and awoke at 6:30 a.m.

The hospital spokesman said Truman ate a small amount of gelatine and drank some hot tea for breakfast. He also got out of bed this morning and read a newspaper, Dreves said.

Truman's family physicians were quoted as saying the former president was improved today over his condition last night and was steadily regaining strength.

Mrs. Truman accompanied her husband to the hospital Thursday night, left early today and was back by 10 a.m.

Water Boiling May Soon End

Residents of Paradise Ranch Estates near Inverness may soon be able to quit boiling their drinking and cooking water, county environmental health officials said today.

Health officials said today they would inspect new chorinating equipment installed by the owners of the estates and if the equipment satisfies them, the boiling edict will be lifted. The inspection will be made Monday.

Residents have been boiling water since Feb. 3 when bacteria was detected in it. No illnesses have been reported as a result of the bacteria, identified as an organism which sometimes develops during heavy rains but is only occasionally dangerous to human health.

The owners of the Paradise Ranch Estates have advised that the chlorinating equipment needed to eliminate the bacteria but the health department must okay it before boiling is no longer required.

Indictments For Seven Over Dope

Seven persons arrested in a $350,000 drug raid in Tamalpais Valley on Jan. 17 were indicted yesterday by the Marin County Grand Jury.

The indictment removed the case from municipal court where a preliminary hearing had been scheduled for April 8. All were ordered to appear Monday in superior court for arraignment.

The district attorney's office said that it hoped that one of the defendants, Jeffrey Linn Forcier, 20, of Belmont, who is charged with possession of cocaine and possession of marijuana, will be tried in Superior Court along with the others.

Forcier's case had already been accepted by the Juvenile Court.

The other defendants are Richard Conrad Pace, 24, owner of the Resh Gallery in Tamalpais Valley, where most of the drugs were allegedly found; Richard Raymond Argento, 21, of San Rafael; Charles Noell Hess, 26, of Oakland; Richard Franklin Black, 27, of Sausalito; Frederick Martin Englehardt, 28, of San Francisco; and Linda Jean Shack, 21, of Mill Valley.

They face charges ranging from selling and transporting drugs to possessing marijuana and other drugs.

Princess Park Design Policy Is Discussed

Sausalito Recreation commissioners last night discussed design criteria for Princess Park with landscape architect Roland Mayes of Eckbo, Dean, Austin and Williams, San Francisco planners.

The park, adjacent to the Purity Market on Bridgeway, should have a feeling of openness, be oriented to the view, should have no lawns but instead be planted with shade trees and have raised planting areas, the commission said, according to chairman Eleanor Cruickshank. Traditional, not contemporary, and no fishing will be allowed.

The commission will hold a special meeting at 8 p.m. March 20, in city hall to review preliminary plans for the park. The preliminary plans are to be reviewed by the city council on April 1 .

The Sausalito Recreation Commission also:

BAYSIDE PARK — Discussed design criteria for Bayside Park, but came to no conclusions.

MEETING — Agreed to meet with the city's planning commission at 8 p.m. Thursday in city hall to discuss mutual planning problems.

TENNIS — Agreed to accept applications for an instructor for a six-week summer tennis program.

John D. Wright of 396 Pine Hill Road, Tamalpais Valley, said that the wing window to his car had been pried open and his stereo taken while the car was parked at his home.

The agreement was approved by the Rohnert Park City Council Monday night. Under the plan, Cotati will begin this summer to construct new sewer lines to connect with the more advanced Rohnert Park system.

Cotati's payments will be set on a pro-rated basis on the number of gallons processed.

The Cotati City Council also:

$300,000 Tourist Center Plans Aired

Plans for a $300,000 tourist center were presented to the Rohnert Park City Council in study session last night.

Developer Paul Golis told the council he intends to fully develop his property at the Commerce Boulevard-Rohnert Park Expressway intersection. Located on the southeast corner will be the tourist center which will include a large lobby for wine and cheese tasting, a restaurant, gift shop, travel agency, chamber of commerce office and a community hostess service.

Golis said Santa Rosa architect Lawrence Simons is preparing plans. Simons designed the new Rohnert Park Community and Recreation Center.

Also included in the plan is a motel and hotel which will be a two-story structure. Golis said land has been reserved to later enlarge the motel and to add additional stories to the hotel. He said he eventually plans to offer 300 units, but will begin with 60.

On the north side of the intersection, Golis plans to construct a $400,000 automobile diagnostic and repair service. Also included will be a retail store offering supplies and automobile accessories. Two service stations are also planning for the area.

The council gave tentative approval to Golis' plans pending further study on traffic access.

They also approved Golis' intentions to enlarge Cofega Avenue to two 12-foot lanes with an 8-foot landscaped center strip.

Savings-Loan Sales Talks Under Way

Discussions are under way for the sale of Marin County Savings and Loan Association, San Rafael, it was learned today.

In a letter addressed to stockholders of Marin County Financial Corp., parent company of the savings and loan association, president and board chairman Jordan L. Martinelli announced that Pacific Coast Holdings, Inc., San Francisco has proposed to acquire for cash all of the assets and properties of Marin County Savings for one and one-half times their book value.

Martinelli said no contract or agreement has been made and that if and when one is prepared it will be submitted to stockholders for their approval. It is the intention of Pacific Coast Holdings to retain the present executive and employee staff at Marin County Savings and Loan, he said.

Pacific Coast Holdings owns 98.4 per cent of the capital stock of San Mateo Mutual Savings and Loan Association, founded in 1896. The association is headquartered in San Mateo and also maintains a branch in Burlingame. The holding company also owns three other companies formed during the past year: Pacific Coast Holdings Insurance, Pacific Coast Holdings Mortgage and Pacific Coast Holdings Management.

'New Orleans' Theme Selected For Marin Fair

"In Old New Orleans" will be the theme of the 1969 Marin Art and Garden Fair in Ross, opening July 2 for a five-day run, it was announced today.

George Murata of Corte Madera, who designed last year's fair, "Bridge to Kyoto," will also design this year's presentation.

"In Old New Orleans" will transmit the flavor of the 200-year-old French Quarter, with its quaint dwellings, ironbound doors, balconies and courtyards.

This was to have been the last fair at the Ross site, but the Marin County Board of Supervisors said recently the new site at the Marin Civic Center would not be ready until at least 1971.

"In Old New Orleans" will open at 6 p.m. July 2. Hours from July 3 through 6 will be 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Portions Of Family Film To Be Shown

Old Adobe School District trustees last night approved the use of a portion of the "Time of Your Life" films in the family life education program.

The board approved the showing of the KQED-TV film segments five through nine, and took under consideration the remaining six segments termed controversial. The first four class films had been approved earlier for showing.

Supt. Dean D. Magown presented a guide for teachers in presenting the film series. He said the only variation from current practice is his recommendation that sexual reproduction be taught on the sixth grade level.

The board accepted his report and teachers guide for further study.

Judicial Actions Stay Two Executions At San Quentin

The scheduled executions of two inmates of San Quentin's Death Row were stayed yesterday, one by a federal judge and one by the California Supreme Court.

The death sentences of two others were reversed by the state court.

The court actions came at the same time as the execution of Walter Clayton Hines was set for March 26. Hines, 30, was convicted in Los Angeles County of a 1962 murder, and has had one previous stay of his execution.

U. S. District Court Judge Alfonso J. Zirpoli ordered the stay for convicted murderer Lawrence G. Modesto, 38, who was to go to the gas chamber on March 5. Zirpoli, in federal court in San Francisco, ordered the stay until the U. S. Supreme Court rules on various legal questions on capital punishment.

The Supreme Court is scheduled to hear arguments on March 3 in two cases which have constitutional issues that could affect Modesto's death sentence, his attorneys argued. The cases challenge the lack of guidelines for juries in imposing death sentences or imprisonment and the death sentence itself as cruel and unusual punishment.

The California Supreme Court rejected both issues in a ruling last November and Modesto's attorneys argued that he should have the benefit of the decision by the U. S. Supreme Court on the two Constitutional questions.

Modesto was convicted of killing two girls, aged 9 and 13, in Riverside County in 1961.

The state Supreme Court ordered a stay for convicted murderer Nathan Elmont Eli, 24, who was to die on March 19. The stay was ordered pending a final determination of a habeas corpus proceeding pending for him in the court.

Eli was convicted in San Diego County of the Feb. 20, 1965, killing of a woman whose home he entered as a vacuum cleaner salesman. On Death Row since June 25, 1965, he had two previous scheduled executions stayed.

The state Supreme Court yesterday also ordered new penalty trials for convicted murderers Earl Clarence Sears and Dovie Carl Mathis on the grounds that the juries in their trials were improperly selected.

The high court's ruling was based on last year's decision by the U. S. Supreme Court that banned automatic exclusion of jurors who express doubts about the death penalty.

Justice Stanley Mosk said in yesterday's opinion that prospective jurors were not given an opportunity to explain their attitudes about the death penalty. He said no distinction was made between those who would automatically vote against a death penalty and those who could, "notwithstanding their conscientious scruples, return a verdict of death and make their scruples subservient to their duties as jurors."

Sears was twice convicted and sentenced to die for killing his stepdaughter in Santa Clara County in 1963. Mathis was sentenced to die for bludgeoning a truckdriver to death with a rock during a San Jose robbery in 1963.

More than 97,000 persons are employed in producing crude oil and natural gas in Texas.

College's Nonteachers Seek Employee Chief

A proposal expected to result in hiring a personnel director solely for non teaching employees at College of Marin was approved last night by the board of trustees because there was no other choice.

The board received a petition signed by 59 of the 80 some classified employees asking that an election be set on adoption of the merit system (civil service).

State law provides trustees must set the election if they receive a petition signed by at least 15 per cent of the classified staff.

Despite the law, trustees hesitated — especially after they learned it would cost about $12,000 a year for a part-time personnel director, a secretary and office expenses

Gregory A. Dunn of the California School Employees Association said the new system would remove from trustees many duties, such as hiring, but the board would retain the authority to fix salaries.

Trustee Charles W. Gray wondered if there had been problems under the present system which would prompt classified employees to ask for the change.

Dunn refused to answer, but said the employees are concerned about their future and want something for themselves.

"You are before a board that is proverty stricken," said Gray.

"If we had a choice, it doesn't seem justifiable," commented Donald K. Felt, a trustee. He added he will give more thought to their pay at budget time.

Dunn reported the board could levy an override tax without voter approval to finance the program.

Trustees agreed the system might be more feasible in a few years when there are more employees, but since they had to set the election now, the vote was unanimous.

The Marin College District Trustees Also:

ATTENDANCE — Approved a policy limiting attendance of students from districts to a maximum of three students per district without charge. In the first semester this year, 262 Marin district students were attending other junior colleges while 408 students from other districts were at College of Marin.

OFFICES — Heard a report that 15 sites were under consideration for placing of portables and trailers for interim offices for faculty and administration while the new Harlan Center is under construction. Information for making a decision will be presented later.

FOOTBALL FIELD — Agreed to spend an extra $7,680 on the football field and track to provide for more adequate drainage.

SABBATICALS — Delayed for two weeks a decision on seven requests for sabbatical leaves. Six are permitted, but two of the applicants are asking only six months and are proposed to count as one.

MEETINGS— Agreed to meet at 8 p.m. next Thursday to review plans for a new science center; on a date to be decided, after April 15, on district organization; on a date to be announced to develop a procedure for selection of a permanent College of Marin president, and called for guidelines from staff; on a future date with trustees of high school districts to discuss common problems.

Board president Theodore C. Wellman and trustee Harry J. Moore were absent.

U.S. Feels Out Peking's Stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States plans to ask Communist China its plans about future talks in Warsaw and reaffirm American willingness to meet a Chinese representative there any time.

A carefully worded letter is being drafted here in response to an abrupt and irate Chinese letter, which Monday called off the scheduled 135th meeting between envoys of the two countries.

The Chinese contend the Central Intelligence Agency enticed Liao Ho-shu, the ranking Communist Chinese diplomat in The Hague, to defect to this country.

Two State Department experts on China affairs who were sent to Warsaw to prepare for the meeting have remained there, however. The meeting was to have been held yesterday.

Suspect Is Booked On Check Charges

A 41-year-old Marin City woman was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of writing a bad check amounting to $173 for clothing purchased at the R and M Style Shop at 1307 Fourth Street, San Rafael.

The woman, Alzepher Johnson of 35 Cole Drive, was released on her own recongizance to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

New Grading System Due For College

A revolutionary new grading system, not used by any other California community college, was unanimously adopted by Marin Junior College District trustees last night, despite a teacher's worry that it might make some instructors softer.

College officials called it grading on a "positive basis" with the student receiving credit only for work successfully completed. Formerly, credit was given for D work.

"I think the poor teacher may use the (old) grading system as a crutch," said Trustee Charles W. Gray. "This puts more responsibility on the teacher."

"It's not really more responsibility, it's more pressure," argued English teacher Edwin Erbentraut. He worried some teachers might give a D student a C under the new system, so as not to penalize the student.

Another protest came from Harry J. Pieper, director of the athletic department. Pieper angerly denounced a story in the College of Marin Times which said the athletic department had asked for special consideration for athletes.

He said the report was false. "We will never ask for special consideration for athletes," he said flatly. Pieper said his department opposed the change because "there is a place in life for winning and losing. There is still a place for D and F grades."

In an earlier discussion, Cal Riemcke, basketball coach, said the system would have an adverse effect on athletic eligibility because, under the old system, a D student was eligible.

Trustee Elizabeth M. Deedy, who said she is against any grades, asked how students felt about the new system.

Dean of Students Irwin P. Diamond said students queried favored the change, but added there had been no real sounding of student opinion.

Several students in the audience said they had found the change supported on campus, but a teacher wondered if perhaps students might prefer a D or F than "ending up waisting time."

Mrs. Deedy urged more complete surveys of student opinion on such issues.

Dunn refused to answer, but said the employees are concerned about their future and want something for themselves.

"You are before a board that is proverty stricken," said Gray.

"If we had a choice, it doesn't seem justifiable," commented Donald K. Felt, a trustee. He added he will give more thought to their pay at budget time.

Dunn reported the board could levy an override tax without voter approval to finance the program.

Trustees agreed the system might be more feasible in a few years when there are more employees, but since they had to set the election now, the vote was unanimous.

The Marin College District Trustees Also:

ATTENDANCE — Approved a policy limiting attendance of students from districts to a maximum of three students per district without charge. In the first semester this year, 262 Marin district students were attending other junior colleges while 408 students from other districts were at College of Marin.

OFFICES — Heard a report that 15 sites were under consideration for placing of portables and trailers for interim offices for faculty and administration while the new Harlan Center is under construction. Information for making a decision will be presented later.

FOOTBALL FIELD — Agreed to spend an extra $7,680 on the football field and track to provide for more adequate drainage.

SABBATICALS — Delayed for two weeks a decision on seven requests for sabbatical leaves. Six are permitted, but two of the applicants are asking only six months and are proposed to count as one.

MEETINGS— Agreed to meet at 8 p.m. next Thursday to review plans for a new science center; on a date to be decided, after April 15, on district organization; on a date to be announced to develop a procedure for selection of a permanent College of Marin president, and called for guidelines from staff; on a future date with trustees of high school districts to discuss common problems.

Board president Theodore C. Wellman and trustee Harry J. Moore were absent.

U.S. Feels Out Peking's Stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States plans to ask Communist China its plans about future talks in Warsaw and reaffirm American willingness to meet a Chinese representative there any time.

A carefully worded letter is being drafted here in response to an abrupt and irate Chinese letter, which Monday called off the scheduled 135th meeting between envoys of the two countries.

The Chinese contend the Central Intelligence Agency enticed Liao Ho-shu, the ranking Communist Chinese diplomat in The Hague, to defect to this country.

Two State Department experts on China affairs who were sent to Warsaw to prepare for the meeting have remained there, however. The meeting was to have been held yesterday.

Suspect Is Booked On Check Charges

A 41-year-old Marin City woman was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of writing a bad check amounting to $173 for clothing purchased at the R and M Style Shop at 1307 Fourth Street, San Rafael.

The woman, Alzepher Johnson of 35 Cole Drive, was released on her own recongizance to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

New Grading System Due For College

A revolutionary new grading system, not used by any other California community college, was unanimously adopted by Marin Junior College District trustees last night, despite a teacher's worry that it might make some instructors softer.

College officials called it grading on a "positive basis" with the student receiving credit only for work successfully completed. Formerly, credit was given for D work.

"I think the poor teacher may use the (old) grading system as a crutch," said Trustee Charles W. Gray. "This puts more responsibility on the teacher."

"It's not really more responsibility, it's more pressure," argued English teacher Edwin Erbentraut. He worried some teachers might give a D student a C under the new system, so as not to penalize the student.

Another protest came from Harry J. Pieper, director of the athletic department. Pieper angerly denounced a story in the College of Marin Times which said the athletic department had asked for special consideration for athletes.

He said the report was false. "We will never ask for special consideration for athletes," he said flatly. Pieper said his department opposed the change because "there is a place in life for winning and losing. There is still a place for D and F grades."

In an earlier discussion, Cal Riemcke, basketball coach, said the system would have an adverse effect on athletic eligibility because, under the old system, a D student was eligible.

Trustee Elizabeth M. Deedy, who said she is against any grades, asked how students felt about the new system.

Dean of Students Irwin P. Diamond said students queried favored the change, but added there had been no real sounding of student opinion.

Several students in the audience said they had found the change supported on campus, but a teacher wondered if perhaps students might prefer a D or F than "ending up waisting time."

Mrs. Deedy urged more complete surveys of student opinion on such issues.

Vacancies Now Open On Two Key Panels

Marin City residents interested in serving on either the Marin County Human Rights Commission or Redevelopment Agency should notify the Marin City Community Services District office at the Manzanita Center by Feb. 28.

Mrs. Tommie Scott has resigned from the human rights commission, and someone is needed to complete her term which ends May 18, 1970, Chairman Douglas J. Quiett reported.

Rev. Samuel L. Banks Jr. has resigned from the redevelopment agency. His term ends April 17, 1970.

The county administrator's office has asked the CSD board for its recommendations for filling the seats, Quiett noted. The board probably will have a special meeting before its next regularly scheduled meeting March 20 to make its recommendations, Quiett said.

Story Quits As Director Of The Manzanita Center

Marin City Community Services District directors last night accepted the resignation of Charles W. Story, director of the Manzanita Center at Marin City.

Story said he was leaving for a better paying job, but declined to identify it. He previously had mentioned a college post. He resigned effective the end of next week.

Board members individually had received Story's letter of resignation more than a week ago, but didn't officially accept it until last night.

Until the district hires a new director, staff members Margaret Beauchamp and Daniel Winter will take on additional duties.

Also to fill the gap left by Story's departure, Robert Washington, a San Francisco State College student, and two youths from the Sausalito Teachers Educational Program (STEP) will be part-time recreational worker.

Storer started work in August, 1967, before the center was constructed, and has been the center's only director.

The Marin City CSD Board Also:

GAMBLING — Received the problem of gambling outside the stores in the commercial area, and agreed to invite Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos to its next session March 20 to discuss measures to eliminate it Sheriff's Deputy William Dewes reported crime "dropped off" in the community last month, with the majority of offenses traffic violations.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE — Agreed to call for a joint meeting March 20 with the Marin City Council and Marin City Home Owners and Improvement Association to designate a local organization as an advisory committee to Marin County on its workable program for community improvements, a program the county needs to qualify for federal housing funds.

CENTER DEFECTS — Authorized a letter to the Marin County counsel's office requesting that the final 10 per cent of the Manzanita Center construction payment to Filippo Construction Co. of San Rafael. Story said there were two ceiling leaks, door problems, and a television antenna that didn't work and payment should be held up until these defects are corrected.

Director Orpha Elmina Barnes was absent.

Rohnert Park Awards Slated

The Rohnert Park Homeowners Association made plans last night to give awards to 250 homes that are "spruced up" this spring.

President William Ayers said a judging committee will be formed from local organizations and service clubs to select the homes that have made improvements. He said the judging will be done in April and awards given in May.

The winners will be given stickers to place in doors or windows to show their participation. The chamber of commerce is providing funds for the stickers.

The association will also sponsor a poster contest promoting the campaign and give awards to the winning junior and senior high school artists. The posters will be displayed at Rohnert Park businesses.

Belveron Gardens Landscape Studied

Belverson Association members last night heard tips on how to beautify the entrance to Belveron Gardens from James R. Gordon, state Division of Haighways senior landscape architect, Beverly Ramblas reported.

Gordon discussed planting, plant selection and the importance and cost of maintenance, Mrs. Ramblas said.

Fines Asked In Curbing Of Pollution

I-J Special Report

OAKLAND — Fines up to $100,000 a month against anyone who intentionally or negligently violates a cease and desist order issued by a regional water quality control board have been called for by the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board.

Cease and desist orders are pending against both the Novato Sanitary and the Bolinas Community Public Utility districts and an order is to be issued against the Novato district at the regional board's March 13 meeting. The order will require the district either to improve its treatment of sewage waste, or to relocate its discharge pipes away from recreational areas and into deeper water.

TO SET DEADLINE

The regional board's order will set a deadline for the Novato district to comply with the requirements, and the district would be subject to a fine if it intentionally or negligently failed to meet the deadline — if the proposed fine is enacted by the Legislature.

The order against the Bolinas district has been delayed to encourage it to develop a joint sewage facility with the Stinson Beach County Water District.

The regional board's executive director, Fred H. Dierker, said the board also propsoed that the fine jump 10 per cent for each additional month of a violation.

NO FINE CLAUSE

No fine is provided under current law, he said.

The fine would apply to pollution by any person, private company or political subdivision of the state, he said. Only the federal government would be exempt because the state cannot act against it, he said.

The regional board's proposal is to go before the State Waetr Resources Control Board for its recommendation to the Legislature.

Sweden Reassures Deserters Of Asylum

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — The Swedish government today assured U.S. deserters and other Vietnam War dissenters they can "safely remain in our country."

In a two-page statement, issued after today's weekly cabinet meeting, the social democratic government also announced that no deserter or draftdodger will be expelled from Sweden unless convicted of "serious crimes."

Low Grades Disqualify Student Body Leader

Both the president and vice president of the College of Marin student body were ousted from their posts yesterday, one because of a low grade point average, the other because he was carrying but six units of course work when elected.

Both say they will run to regain their offices in a March 6 election.

Student body parliamentarian Mike Beyries ruled in Executive Council meeting that President David Brown was disqualified because his grade point average of .80 doesn't meet the 2.0, or C, requirement.

Harry Gilbert, vice president, was disqualified because, when he ran for office last fall, he carried six and one-half units while 12 are required.

Said Gilbert: "As far as I'm concerned, the grading system is completely divorced from the academic environment and it isn't a measure of the knowledge that an individual gains. Therefore, such a system of establishing eligibility for a candidate is absurd."

Said Brown: "I don't feel the present grading system actually reflects how much a person retains." He labeled it "dilatory and absurd."

Brown, who defeated Chris Musser by 376 to 204 votes last December, went on to say that it takes a lot of time and "burning of the midnight oil" as a student body officer. "It's a fulltime job."

Gilbert, of San Anselmo, is already circulating a petition to get 75 signatures to put him on the March ballot. 'I'm carrying 12 units now," he explained. His grade point average is all right.

Brown, of San Rafael, indicated he plans to run, saying, "I'm not giving up." He would not say how he would get around the grade point average requirement.

Seven members of the 14-member Executive Council said that, in the future, all candidates for office will be carefully checked by an election screening committee. There is none now, but one was established at yesterday's meeting.

Peggy Gutherie, formerly secretary, has been named president pro-tem, while Charles Maltzahn was named interm vice president.

Maltzahn said that, after the disqualifications, the news was announced at a rally of the students in the Student Center. "Everyone said, 'let's let the band get playing.' I don't think the student body really cares."

Brown said, "I don't think the people care but they will care when they find the administration taking over everything they do. The Associated Students now run the bookstore and snack bar and we try to keep the prices as low as possible."

The Executive Council voted on an election code change to abolish grade point average qualifications but this, requiring a two-thirds vote, was defeated. The vote was three favoring, two against and one abstention.

Asked why, he said: "Because during the course of the meeting someone left to get a sandwich. I found myself waiting around to get someone for a vote."

The March 6 election had already been set to elect four class representatives, a spirit and athletics commissioner and a rallies and assemblies commissioner.

Canadians Plan Visit To Base

A team from the Canadian Armed Forces base in Winnipeg, Manitoba, will visit the Western Aerospace Rescue and Recovery Center at Hamilton Air Force Base Wednesday, Thursday and Friday to study the operations of the Hamilton center.

The Canadians will study the techniques, procedures and equipment used by the Air Force rescue units both in the center and at the 41st Aerospace Rescue and Recovery Squadron.

The Canadians will also study the night-rescue procedures of the United States.

Long Vacant Truax Post To Be Filled

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — The executive committee of the Association of Bay Area Governments voted last night to hire an assistant to its executive director — to replace one who is in prison for stealing $511,000 from the association.

The position has been vacant since February 1968, when the last assistant, Thomas N. Truax, was found to have looted ABAG's funds for more than two years.

The new assistant is to be paid $15,000 to $18,000 a year, reported vice president Jack D. Maltester, San Leandro city councilman. Truax was paid $9,948.

"By the way," said Maltester, "Truax's application would not be acceptable."

Since the Truax incident, however, the association's fiscal affairs have been taken over by Alameda County, and only about $1,200 a year actually reaches the ABAG office in the Hotel Claremont.

The new assistant is to be recruited by ABAG's new executive director J. Julien Baget, former Novato city manager.

The executive committee also voted to hire seven new employees, four planners, two clerks and a draftsman, and to hike the salaries of the three planners already on the staff. Planning director James H. Hickey's salary went from $19,969 a year to $21,000.

The salary hikes and the additional hirings were provided in the current budget, but could not be done until the federal government resumed its financing of the association's planning activity. The government cut off ABAG funds after the Truax incident, and only recently has resumed its planning grants to ABAG.

The executive committee of the Association of Bay Area Governments also:

BAY PLAN — Reviewed, but took no action on the Bay Conservation and Development Commission's master plan for the bay and its shoreline. Marin Supervisor John F. McInnis, commenting on BCDC's decision not to provide compensation to tideland owners who are not allowed to fill, said the owners would bear "a fantastic financial burden."

CHARGE — Charged Solano County $700 to process and approve its application for a $70,000 grant for a park near Vacaville. Solano is not a member of ABAG, a voluntary organization, but the committee decided to start charging nonmembers 1 per cent of the amount sought from the federal government — which requires that all grants be approved first by ABAG.

TAXES — Received report frob Baget that ABAG's property tax relief committee, which is to propose some form of a regional tax, will get final recommendations from the special committee's technical advisory group on March 19. The technical group is to draft its final recommendations March 7, he said.

CRIME — Received report from Badget that ABAG's regional criminal justice advisory board will present its report to the executive committee March 20. A regional plan will qualify cities and counties in the Bay Area for federal law enforcement grants.

Vacancies Now Open On Two Key Panels

Marin City residents interested in serving on either the Marin County Human Rights Commission or Redevelopment Agency should notify the Marin City Community Services District office at the Manzanita Center by Feb. 28.

Mrs. Tommie Scott has resigned from the human rights commission, and someone is needed to complete her term which ends May 18, 1970, Chairman Douglas J. Quiett reported.

Rev. Samuel L. Banks Jr. has resigned from the redevelopment agency. His term ends April 17, 1970.

The county administrator's office has asked the CSD board for its recommendations for filling the seats, Quiett noted. The board probably will have a special meeting before its next regularly scheduled meeting March 20 to make its recommendations, Quiett said.

Story Quits As Director Of The Manzanita Center

Story said he was leaving for a better paying job, but declined to identify it. He previously had mentioned a college post. He resigned effective the end of next week.

Board members individually had received Story's letter of resignation more than a week ago, but didn't officially accept it until last night.

Until the district hires a new director, staff members Margaret Beauchamp and Daniel Winter will take on additional duties.

Also to fill the gap left by Story's departure, Robert Washington, a San Francisco State College student, and two youths from the Sausalito Teachers Educational Program (STEP) will be part-time recreational worker.

Storer started work in August, 1967, before the center was constructed, and has been the center's only director.

The Marin City CSD Board Also:

GAMBLING — Received the problem of gambling outside the stores in the commercial area, and agreed to invite Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos to its next session March 20 to discuss measures to eliminate it Sheriff's Deputy William Dewes reported crime "dropped off" in the community last month, with the majority of offenses traffic violations.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE — Agreed to call for a joint meeting March 20 with the Marin City Council and Marin City Home Owners and Improvement Association to designate a local organization as an advisory committee to Marin County on its workable program for community improvements, a program the county needs to qualify for federal housing funds.

CENTER DEFECTS — Authorized a letter to the Marin County counsel's office requesting that the final 10 per cent of the Manzanita Center construction payment to Filippo Construction Co. of San Rafael. Story said there were two ceiling leaks, door problems, and a television antenna that didn't work and payment should be held up until these defects are corrected.

Director Orpha Elmina Barnes was absent.

Rohnert Park Awards Slated

The Rohnert Park Homeowners Association made plans last night to give awards to 250 homes that are "spruced up" this spring.

President William Ayers said a judging committee will be formed from local organizations and service clubs to select the homes that have made improvements. He said the judging will be done in April and awards given in May.

The winners will be given stickers to place in doors or windows to show their participation. The chamber of commerce is providing funds for the stickers.

The association will also sponsor a poster contest promoting the campaign and give awards to the winning junior and senior high school artists. The posters will be displayed at Rohnert Park businesses.

Belveron Gardens Landscape Studied

Belverson Association members last night heard tips on how to beautify the entrance to Belveron Gardens from James R. Gordon, state Division of Haighways senior landscape architect, Beverly Ramblas reported.

Gordon discussed planting, plant selection and the importance and cost of maintenance, Mrs. Ramblas said.

Fines Asked In Curbing Of Pollution

I-J Special Report

OAKLAND — Fines up to $100,000 a month against anyone who intentionally or negligently violates a cease and desist order issued by a regional water quality control board have been called for by the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board.

Cease and desist orders are pending against both the Novato Sanitary and the Bolinas Community Public Utility districts and an order is to be issued against the Novato district at the regional board's March 13 meeting. The order will require the district either to improve its treatment of sewage waste, or to relocate its discharge pipes away from recreational areas and into deeper water.

TO SET DEADLINE

The regional board's order will set a deadline for the Novato district to comply with the requirements, and the district would be subject to a fine if it intentionally or negligently failed to meet the deadline — if the proposed fine is enacted by the Legislature.

The order against the Bolinas district has been delayed to encourage it to develop a joint sewage facility with the Stinson Beach County Water District.

The regional board's executive director, Fred H. Dierker, said the board also propsoed that the fine jump 10 per cent for each additional month of a violation.

NO FINE CLAUSE

No fine is provided under current law, he said.

The fine would apply to pollution by any person, private company or political subdivision of the state, he said. Only the federal government would be exempt because the state cannot act against it, he said.

The regional board's proposal is to go before the State Waetr Resources Control Board for its recommendation to the Legislature.

Marin Dining And Wining

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Spring's Near, And Hastens Reopening Of Sonoma Dineries

Soon, though it may not appear imminent from the type of weather we have been experiencing, it will be spring in the hills and two of Sonoma County's seasonal restaurants will come out of their winter hibernation.

Reopening date is March 1 for both the Golden Bear Lodge at Kenwood in the Valley of the Moon, and Mark West Lodge, farther north on the Mark West Road from Santa Rosa to Calistoga.

Once more Golden Bear will feature its famed smorgasbord dinner, and if the price is the same as last year it will be $2.75. Other dinners are priced from $3.25 to $6.50 and include the smorgasbord. A very warm and comfortable place, made so by owners Art Dieterle and Gene Boulware. Closing day will be Thursday.

Mark West Lodge has so much early California history in its background you may be inclined to forget your main reason for going there — an excellent menu, mostly French. Co-owner and manager Rene Pavel is actually Czechoslovakian, but one of those Europeans whose knowledge is well rounded to include the haute cuisine of France. It's not often you find this type of dinery in such a setting.

ACTUALLY, SONOMA COUNTY offers a choice of the foods of several countries if you care to seek them out. In Santa Rosa, Black Forest Inn on Calistoga Road (this is not Mark West Road) will treat you to French, American and German dishes, with many of the latter in great demand here. It is open throughout the year, seven days a week.

For Italian food, there are many good places, as in Marin. Try any of the three best known in Occidental: Negri's Union Hotel or Fiori's. Frediana's between Sebastopol and Forestville is another. And in Sonoma take in the old Swiss Hotel, which traces its origin as far back as that of Mark West Lodge.

In Sonoma, too, Mexican and Spanish food is sumptuous at Gordon's La Casa Mexican Restaurent. The manager's name is Martinez, so you can expect an authentic carte and try out your Spanish accent.

In Petaluma, Sonoma Joe's has a special Spanish paella dinner that's reasonable. With an owner named Manuel Juan Montero you might expect this.

While there was no attempt made to cover all of the many Sonoma County restaurants and list them in our recent dining and wining guide, I do feel guilty about having omitted Au Relais, the French restaurant at 23570 Arnold Drive, Sonoma. It would have to be another restauranteur who called my attention to this oversight.

Au Relais is open daily except Mondays for lunch from noon to 2 p.m. and for dinners from 5 to 10 p.m. Sunday dinners are from noon to 9 p.m. French menu there and also is outstanding catering.

IT SEEMED TO ME last Friday night that the crop of Hawaiian performers at this year's Lin Fa Gardens anniversary party was younger, or are my gray hairs turning to white? Anyway they were cute youngsters and very talented. I understand Ethel Barrie brought them here from Alameda.

It's a show that's always worth taking in — remember it for next year. The food makes it a double attraction.

New organist at the Mai Tai Room console Friday and Saturday nights is Gary Schneider. He has been playing at a number of places in the Bay Area. Last I heard he was at the Eight Ball lounge in Cotati.

OUR BEST WISHES for an Gallis, father and son. Sal has recently undergone a major operation, and Frank has suffered a serious accident to his hand.

Their Galli restaurant in Ignacio is still being kept open.

TABERNA in San Rafael now has the Daryl Trio with Tony Masters as vocalist (of Channel 38 fame) on Friday and Saturday nights. Frank Meta continues at the piano during the week and is known for his memory for names and incorporating them into the lyrics of his songs.

Very soon this spot should again be opening on Sundays. And Jeanne Neill, Bob Czyz and Roland Ledtke are mulling the idea of reopening for daily lunches. A little encouragement and they may be persuaded.

FRANCHINI'S CHATEAU at Highway 101 and Lucas Valley Road will be closed all day tomorrow, Washington's Birthday. But you'll be able to swing in here Sunday morning for its customary family-style breakfasts, which are still going strong.

It's no secret why. It's in my mind that the Chateau, a ranchy sort of place, has always been particularly suitable for a leisurely Sunday breakfast routine.

IN THE PLANNING at Cafe Bon Vin, San Anselmo, is a new Thursday night program. This will be a general meeting of Fred Cherry's Jug of the Month Club, combined with "California Night" for wine tastings, chef's "hot pot" and cooking and tasting demonstrations.

Next Wednesday night's provincial dinner highlights coq au meersault from Burgundy. Remember, without advance reservations for this you haven't a chance, because there is limited seating.

A GOOD RESTAURANT with a menu of say six to a dozen entrees served day in and day out can be pretty well worked over in four or five family visits if ice water is the beverage. A cocktail or highball may sharpen your appetite, but it does nothing special for the food.

But if the cellar is filled with good wine, you can go on for years. Pick a dish that pleases. Order a Burgundy wine with it one time. Go back later and accompany the same dish with a Cabernet Sauvignon, or a Zinfandel. Then change dishes and do your exploring among the whites.

The differences in the net result may be subtle, but they strike a fresh note each meal. Some combinations stick in your mind and are worth repeating.

Californians have a head start on the rest of the country at enjoying wine. We drink a little more than twice the national average. Around the Bay Area I believe the multiple is even higher than that, because we are exposed to the products of so many nearby wineries.

Some restaurants carry a pretty fair variety of wines. Others will be inclined to do so if you make a point of asking for them.

NEW SOUNDS AT JOE'S

Tuesday through Saturday nights at San Rafael Joe's, theater organist Larry Vannucci (shown with an ever present cigarette in his mouth) coaxes an entirely new and extended range of sound effects from Baldwin's most recent instrument — the PR-200 professional organ.

Sailor Faces Court-Martial

I-J Special Report

TREASURE ISLAND — A Navy member of the so-called Marin City Nine is scheduled for court-martial March 3 on charges of desertion and willful disobedience.

The sailor, Paul D. Howard, 21, of Roy, Utah, was one of nine servicemen who chained themselves to clergymen in an antiwar protest in St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church in Marin City last summer.

Howard's court-martial is scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. in Building 178. Other members of the Marin City Nine have either been discharged from the service, imprisoned or are still awaiting court-martial.

Car Theft Case Warrant Issued

A bench warrant was issued yesterday by Judge Alvin B. Goldstein of Marin Superior Court for Robert Douglas Reeder, 23, of Albany, who failed to appear in court for a preliminary hearing on a car theft charge.

Bail on the warrant was fixed at $2,000.

WINE DISCOVERIES at CAFE BON VIN

THE GOOD LIFE IN SAN ANSELMO

"NOUVEAU" IS THE WORD for the dinner menu just introduced; it's all new. This repast, fifth in the series, will be known as "Le Gala Epicurien" ("Gala" was the word for the lavish feasts of the French Court).

A FLAMING ENTREE—"Petites Ballotines de Boeuf — will be offered for the first time. Try it at home: Prime sirloin steaks cut thin and rolled around a mixture of mushrooms, pork, veal, wine, herbs, and a few things the chef won't say — then braised in vermouth and flamed . . . voila!

LITTLE SWANS of pastry filled with chicken and flavored with anis is an original creation of our chef. He also adds a distinctive touch to cheese soup, paté, cauliflower, fresh mint salad, "Gateau Marie Antoinette" (luscious Rio Orso peaches marinated in marsala and draped over light sponge cake and almond cream. Worth the calories!)

FOUR COURSES . . . $4. Six courses . . . $6. And the whole ten-course Gala (Reservations only) . . . just $10. The smaller dinners are all selections from the Gala.

NAPOLEON'S STEAK—"Entrecote Delmonique" is also new. An extra cut is served in your choice of four classic French styles; and one "Americaine" — broiled with mushroom caps.

THE MILLER'S WIFE still leads the "Doctor's Cap" in bruncheon popularity; these royal brunches offer a choice of twelve recipes rarely found in America. The complete meal, served Sundays from 11:30 to 2:30, includes a substantial amount of J. Pierrot champagne, bottle fermented and brut — as it should be.

MEERSAULT MAKES the difference when we prepare a traditional dish from Burgundy for next Wednesday's Provincial Dinner. (Reservations required . . . $5.) Posting of wine discoveries starts at 6:30; dinner at 8.

JUG OF THE MONTH is a Napa Valley French Colombard at $2.95 a gallon. Refreshingly dry, without being harsh or acid, it is the best of this varietal we've encountered in California.

WINE THINGS GALORE! . . . Preserves, jellies, vinegars, sauces — all home made and available nowhere else. Plus decanters, proper glasses, and (soon) home winemaking supplies. (Come to brunch Sunday and you'll taste peach pineapple muscat jelly on buttered panettone.)

WINE IN KING . . . Food is Queen . . . at Cafe Bon Vin. Come dine with us at our Royal Palace in San Anselmo.

It is open throughout the year, seven days a week.

For Italian food, there are many good places, as in Marin. Try any of the three best known in Occidental: Negri's Union Hotel or Fiori's. Frediana's between Sebastopol and Forestville is another. And in Sonoma take in the old Swiss Hotel, which traces its origin as far back as that of Mark West Lodge.

In Sonoma, too, Mexican and Spanish food is sumptuous at Gordon's La Casa Mexican Restaurent. The manager's name is Martinez, so you can expect an authentic carte and try out your Spanish accent.

In Petaluma, Sonoma Joe's has a special Spanish paella dinner that's reasonable. With an owner named Manuel Juan Montero you might expect this.

While there was no attempt made to cover all of the many Sonoma County restaurants and list them in our recent dining and wining guide. I do feel guilty about having omitted Au Relais, the French restaurant at 23570 Arnold Drive, Sonoma. It would have to be another restauranteur who called my attention to this oversight.

Au Relais is open daily except Mondays for lunch from noon to 2 p.m. and for dinners from 5 to 10 p.m. Sunday dinners are from noon to 9 p.m. French menu there and also is outstanding catering.

IT SEEMED TO ME last Friday night that the crop of Hawaiian performers at this year's Lin Fa Gardens anniversary party was younger, or are my gray hairs turning to white? Anyway they were cute youngsters and very talented. I understand Ethel Barrie brought them here from Alameda.

It's a show that's always worth taking in — remember it for next year. The food makes it a double attraction.

New organist at the Mai Tai Room console Friday and Saturday nights is Gary Schneider. He has been playing at a number of places in the Bay Area. Last I heard he was at the Eight Ball lounge in Cotati.

OUR BEST WISHES for an Gallis, father and son. Sal has recently undergone a major operation, and Frank has suffered a serious accident to his hand.

Their Galli restaurant in Ignacio is still being kept open.

TABERNA in San Rafael now has the Daryl Trio with Tony Masters as vocalist (of Channel 38 fame) on Friday and Saturday nights. Frank Meta continues at the piano during the week and is known for his memory for names and incorporating them into the lyrics of his songs.

Very soon this spot should again be opening on Sundays, And Jeanne Neill, Bob Czyz and Roland Ledtke are mulling the idea of reopening for daily lunches. A little encouragement and they may be persuaded.

FRANCHINI'S CHATEAU at Highway 101 and Lucas Valley Road will be closed all day tomorrow, Washington's Birthday. But you'll be able to swing in here Sunday morning for its customary family-style breakfasts, which are still going strong.

It's no secret why. It's in my mind that the Chateau, a ranchy sort of place, has always been particularly suitable for a leisurely Sunday breakfast routine.

IN THE PLANNING at Cafe Bon Vin, San Anselmo, is a new Thursday night program. This will be a general meeting of Fred Cherry's Jug of the Month Club, combined with "California Night" for wine tastings, chef's "hot pot" and cooking and tasting demonstrations.

Next Wednesday night's provincial dinner highlights coq au meersault from Burgundy. Remember, without advance reservations for this you haven't a chance, because there is limited seating.

A GOOD RESTAURANT with a menu of say six to a dozen entrees served day in and day out can be pretty well worked over in four or five family visits if ice water is the beverage. A cocktail or highball may sharpen your appetite, but it does nothing special for the food.

But if the cellar is filled with good wine, you can go on for years. Pick a dish that pleases. Order a Burgundy wine with it one time. Go back later and accompany the same dish with a Cabernet Sauvignon, or a Zinfandel. Then change dishes and do your exploring among the whites.

The differences in the net result may be subtle, but they strike a fresh note each meal. Some combinations stick in your mind and are worth repeating.

Californians have a head start on the rest of the country at enjoying wine. We drink a little more than twice the national average. Around the Bay Area I believe the multiple is even higher than that, because we are exposed to the products of so many nearby wineries.

Some restaurants carry a pretty fair variety of wines. Others will be inclined to do so if you make a point of asking for them.

NEW SOUNDS AT JOE'S

Sailor Faces Court-Martial

I-J Special Report

TREASURE ISLAND — A Navy member of the so-called Marin City Nine is scheduled for court-martial March 3 on charges of desertion and willful disobedience.

The sailor, Paul D. Howard, 21, of Roy, Utah, was one of nine servicemen who chained themselves to clergymen in an antiwar protest in St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church in Marin City last summer.

Howard's court-martial is scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. in Building 178. Other members of the Marin City Nine have either been discharged from the service, imprisoned or are still awaiting court-martial.

Car Theft Case Warrant Issued

A bench warrant was issued yesterday by Judge Alvin B. Goldstein of Marin Superior Court for Robert Douglas Reeder, 23, of Albany, who failed to appear in court for a preliminary hearing on a car theft charge.

Bail on the warrant was fixed at $2,000.

WINE DISCOVERIES at CAFE BON VIN

THE GOOD LIFE IN SAN ANSELMO

"NOUVEAU" IS THE WORD for the dinner menu just introduced; it's all new. This repast, fifth in the series, will be known as "Le Gala Epicurien" ("Gala" was the word for the lavish feasts of the French Court).

A FLAMING ENTREE—"Petites Ballotines de Boeuf — will be offered for the first time. Try it at home: Prime sirloin steaks cut thin and rolled around a mixture of mushrooms, pork, veal, wine, herbs, and a few things the chef won't say — then braised in vermouth and flamed . . . voila!

LITTLE SWANS of pastry filled with chicken and flavored with anis is an original creation of our chef. He also adds a distinctive touch to cheese soup, paté, cauliflower, fresh mint salad, "Gateau Marie Antoinette" (luscious Rio Orso peaches marinated in marsala and draped over light sponge cake and almond cream. Worth the calories!)

FOUR COURSES . . . $4. Six courses . . . $6. And the whole ten-course Gala (Reservations only) . . . just $10. The smaller dinners are all selections from the Gala.

NAPOLEON'S STEAK—"Entrecote Delmonique" is also new. An extra cut is served in your choice of four classic French styles; and one "Americaine" — broiled with mushroom caps.

THE MILLER'S WIFE still leads the "Doctor's Cap" in bruncheon popularity; these royal brunches offer a choice of twelve recipes rarely found in America. The complete meal, served Sundays from 11:30 to 2:30, includes a substantial amount of J. Pierrot champagne, bottle fermented and brut — as it should be.

MEERSAULT MAKES the difference when we prepare a traditional dish from Burgundy for next Wednesday's Provincial Dinner. (Reservations required . . . $5.) Posting of wine discoveries starts at 6:30; dinner at 8.

JUG OF THE MONTH is a Napa Valley French Colombard at $2.95 a gallon. Refreshingly dry, without being harsh or acid, it is the best of this varietal we've encountered in California.

WINE THINGS GALORE! . . . Preserves, jellies, vinegars, sauces — all home made and available nowhere else. Plus decanters, proper glasses, and (soon) home winemaking supplies. (Come to brunch Sunday and you'll taste peach pineapple muscat jelly on buttered panettone.)

WINE IN KING . . . Food is Queen . . . at Cafe Bon Vin. Come dine with us at our Royal Palace in San Anselmo.

Bay Adviser Sees Big Highway Deficit

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

BERKELEY — A strong condemnation of any use of highway funds to finance public transit, made last month by the director of the Bay Area Transportation Study Commission, was fortified yesterday with a host of billion-dollar figures.

Richard M. Zettel — director of the $5.5 million, five-year study that is to end this spring — declared that $5.4 billion will be needed for new state highways in the Bay Area in the next 20 years, but that only about $3 billion will be available.

Citing this $2.4 billion deficit, he said that "even substantially increased taxes would provide no surplus of funds that could rationally be used for other purposes."

He made it clear that "other purposes" meant public transit, and argued that the percentage of daily travelers who could be lured to public transit was too small to warrant diverting highway funds.

The commission is to recommend to the 1969 Legislature, probably by April, that a regional government be formed in the Bay Area to plan transportation facilities should be financed, and Zettel's report is to go to the commission's study group on finance.

Zettel not only said highway funds were too precious to divert to public transit, but argued that even a "perfect" rail and bus system throughout the nine-county area could not account for more than 10 per cent of the daily trips, which totaled 13.5 million a day in 1965. Only about 5 per cent of the daily trips now are by public transit, he said.

Almost 80 per cent of the daily trips, he added, are for purposes other than getting to and from work.

Besides this "private" cost, he said, the state has spent $1.75 billion in the Bay Area in the past 20 years for rights-of-way and construction of freeways and major highways. In the same period, he added, counties and cities in the area spent $600 million for roads and streets. Also, $350 million was spent on the area's seven toll bridges.

The total, thus, was some $2.7 billion over 20 years.

Statewide, highway user taxes will yield more than $25 billion over the next 20 years, according to Zettel, but only $2 billion will actually go into highways.

Of the $25 billion, $6 billion will go to the Motor Vehicle Department and the Highway Patrol, $8 billion to cities and counties for roads and streets, and $9 billion for highway administration, engineering, maintenance and "stop-gap" improvements. "Estimated needs" for the 20 years, however, were figured by Zettel at $20 billion, or 10 times the amount expected to be available.

Roughly one fifth of state highway funds are spent in the Bay Area, he said.

Zettel rejected the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District as a possible source of revenue to meet highway needs elsewhere in the area, terming such a diversion "patently unfair." "Surely, no one with political sagacity" would suggest it, he said.

"For the immediate future it would appear that Marin County will be forced to rely upon conventional bus transportation to satisfy its transit needs," wrote Zettel. "A beginning can be made by acquiring and upgrading the service now provided by Greyhound, following the example of A-C Transit in the East Bay," he said.

This last statement indirectly endorsed a proposal by Arthur C. Jenkins, former engineer of the bridge district, that it take over Greyhound's commute bus operations between San Francisco and the North Bay counties, including Marin.

A modern bus system "might serve reasonably well for a period of years if properly designed and managed and adequately supported by taxes," said Zettel.

Jenkins' plan, however, would depend entirely on bridge district funds, and need no tax funds.

Public transit, Zettel suggested last month, could be financed from property, retail sales, payroll, income and gross revenue taxes.

Zettel, in other business, told commissioners he would have drafts of six of the final report's nine chapters ready to present to them at their March 13 meeting. They were to have been presented yesterday, but he said he had not had time to complete them.

Commissioners approved a contract with Zettel to pay him $18.75 an hour, for a maximum of $5,000, as a committee consultant through October. At the end of this month, he will return to teaching at the University of California.

The committee's deputy director, Dean E. Larson, was appointed acting director. His salary will remain at $18,000. Zettel was paid $30,000 a year as study director.

Read Labels, Beware Poisons

By DOROTHY NEWELL

Facts on food labeling and poison prevention were discussed by Una R. Wood, consumer specialist with the San Francisco district of the Food and Drug Administration of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, when she spoke Wednesday at the Novato Newcomers Club luncheon at Hamilton Air Force Base.

"Did you ever read a label?" Miss Wood asked her audience. She said that in 1966, the fair packaging and labeling act was passed to require more complete and prominent labeling information so that consumers could more easily make value comparisons among products. (The first food and drug act was passed in 1906 and the federal food, drug and cosmetic act was passed in 1938.)

EVERY FOOD, drug and cosmetic label must tell the truth, Miss Wood said. "If you can't believe it, why don't you report it?" she asked.

Consumers sometimes come across a food, drug or cosmetic that they think is mislabeled, unsanitary or otherwise harmful. If you report a legitimate grievance to the Food and Drug Administration you are doing a public service, Miss Wood said.

There are 35 people in the San Francisco district office, which includes the area from Kern County to the Oregon border, the states of Nevada and Hawaii, and Miss Wood said they do not have the time to check every label. This is where consumers can help if they question a product.

As an example she stated that a Denver woman had noticed that a cereal was labeled as preventing heart attacks. The woman contacted the FDA, which checked with the manufacturer and found the company's advertising firm had placed the misinformation on the label without the manufacturer's knowledge. The product was taken off the grocery shelves.

ALL FOODS MUST have certain information on the label, Miss Wood said. The identity of the food, net quantity of contents and name, address and zip code of the manufacturer, packer or distributor. She laughingly added that the zip code was added in the 1966 act.

Miss Wood stated that the "cents off" message on a product is an "easy way to pull the wool over your eyes." Congress felt, however, "That women like a bargain," and it is used mainly to introduce new products.

The FDA is responsible for all products that are transported across state lines. If a product is found unsafe, it is destroyed. During the five years that Miss Wood has been with the San Francisco district, they have had to destroy only one crop of spinach, which had too high an amount of a pesticide.

SHE ALSO discussed safety of artificial sweeteners. In a report in December, totally unrestricted use of the cyclamates was not warranted at the time, a committee of the National Academy of Sciences-National Research Council told the FDA. Five grams or less of cyclamate per day should

Designer Prefers Illusion Of Nudity

NEW YORK (AP) — "Fashion," said designer Earl Blackwell with a frown, "has got to stop intimidating the woman and embarrassing her. It can't keep bouncing her brains loose."

Blackwell, the California designer who's the devil's advocate of the fashion industry, is known for his criticism of kooky, far-out clothes—and of the women who wear them. He annually issues a list of "worst dressed women," a roster including several Hollywood celebrities.

In an interview Wednesday in his elegantly decorated New York showroom—"It's like my living room," he explained—the designer made it clear he doesn't think much of the latest fashion trends.

"The woman today," he said, "has been pushed and pulled until she can't settle down to anything. She's got to have 'the look' — whatever they (the designers) say 'the look' is. But we can't turn all women into one look."

Blackwell scorns the current vogue for putting bits and pieces of fashion together to make a costume.

"It's tacky," he said. "It looks like they put bits and pieces together from every garbage pail they could find. They should have gone shopping during the garbage strike here in New York."

He also gives low marks to the "see-through," preferring to design his clothes with an illusion of nudity. As an example, he designed a floating chiffon evening gown in bright red with sequined bra beneath. "You see nothing through," he said. "You just think you do."

Dorothy Carr Bride Of Izadi-Moghaddam

The bride is the daughter of Francis J. Carr of Sausalito and the late Dorothy Blauer Carr. She chose as her attendant Kathleen Baird of Berkeley.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Izadi-Moghaddam of Tehran, Iran. Best man was his brother, Bijan Izadi-Moghaddam, a student at California State Polytechnic College. Their sister, Izadoht Izadi-Moghaddam came from Iran for the wedding.

A reception followed at the Mark Thomas Inn in Monterey. After a wedding trip in Carmel the couple will live in Santa Cruz, where the bridegroom is studying toward the Ph.D degree in chemical engineering at the University of California at Santa Cruz.

The bride, who is a graduate of U.C. at Santa Cruz, is the sister of Mrs. John C. Stoner of Salt Lake City, Mrs. Jeffrey B. Bryant of San Jose and Mrs. J. Arthur Fritz Jr. of San Francisco. Her grandparents are Dr. and Mrs. Rudolph J. Blauer of Carmel.

'Her Honoress' Talks Of Mail

By GRACE HENDERSON

"It was an interesting weekend with all the rain," said Mrs. Edward W. Colthurst of Corte Madera in an interview recently. "We had so many telephone calls saying 'Please do something about the water'," she elaborated.

The former Ivy Moss of Burlingame became Mrs. Colhurst Oct. 4, 1944 in Tyler, Texas and refers to herself now as "Her Honneress". Mr. Colthurst was elected mayor of Corte Madera in 1960, skipped 1961 and was picked up again in 1962. He has been a member of the city council continuously since 1958. "It sometimes seems like more years than that," said his wife.

The mayor would like to quit in 1970, she told me, "But he is so interested." His Honor is also vice president of Mipro Corporation in San Francisco.

SEATED at her desk in the Marin Department of Public Health in San Rafael, Ivy Colthurst related her life as the mayor's wife and her life as an employee saying both are interesting. She accepted employment with the health department seven years ago after realizing she was spending enough time as a volunteer at Marin General Hospital to be holding steady work. She is proud of the help she is able to arrange through the Crippled Children Services section of the department.

As for knowing what action the city council takes on specific topics, "Her Honneress" stated she only knows "what she reads in the newspaper."

And what about the mayor's mail? I asked. "O-O-Oh," the response. She disclosed the man of the house had cleaned out unnecessary papers from their "stacking" place over the weekend. "It looks so nice. I was so pleased," she said. As Edward comes through the front door following a day at work or from a meeting, his folders of pending notes, etc. are slipped above the books on hall shelves. When they get so high nothing more will go in, he cleans them. "It will usually last about six months," she added.

THE COLTHURSTS have two children, Robin, 20, and Dennis, 17. Robin is a junior attending Fresno State College after two years at College of Marin. She is a skiing fan, which is her life, says her mother.

Dennis will be graduated from Redwood High School in June and is a ham radio operator. He would like to be a veterinarian some day, an outgrowth of interest acquired while spending hours at a pet hospital observing care of animals. He is the owner of a sheep dog and a parrot.

THE PARROT came home with him from Mexico where he went on an excursion with seven other boys and two men last summer. When Dennis returned he brought the young bird with him. To make it legal it was necessary for him to put the bird in quarantine for 40 days; the medicine to be given was mixed into mash for it to eat. This required cooking the "smelly" stuff every six days in the Colthurst kitchen but the results are worth all the effort, says his mother.

When the family moved to Corte Madera in 1948 they built their house which was the only one on Montecito Drive at the time. Now the town has built up all around them except that they remain the last home on a deadend street.

In an interview Wednesday in his elegantly decorated New York showroom—"It's like my living room," he explained—the designer made it clear he doesn't think much of the latest fashion trends.

"The woman today," he said, "has been pushed and pulled until she can't settle down to anything. She's got to have 'the look' — whatever they (the designers) say 'the look' is. But we can't turn all women into one look."

Blackwell scorns the current vogue for putting bits and pieces of fashion together to make a costume.

"It's tacky," he said. "It looks like they put bits and pieces together from every garbage pail they could find. They should have gone shopping during the garbage strike here in New York."

He also gives low marks to the "see-through," preferring to design his clothes with an illusion of nudity. As an example, he designed a floating chiffon evening gown in bright red with sequined bra beneath. "You see nothing through," he said. "You just think you do."

'Her Honoress' Talks Of Mail

By GRACE HENDERSON

"It was an interesting weekend with all the rain," said Mrs. Edward W. Colthurst of Corte Madera in an interview recently. "We had so many telephone calls saying 'Please do something about the water'," she elaborated.

The former Ivy Moss of Burlingame became Mrs. Colhurst Oct. 4, 1944 in Tyler, Texas and refers to herself now as "Her Honneress". Mr. Colthurst was elected mayor of Corte Madera in 1960, skipped 1961 and was picked up again in 1962. He has been a member of the city council continuously since 1958. "It sometimes seems like more years than that," said his wife.

The mayor would like to quit in 1970, she told me, "But he is so interested." His Honor is also vice president of Mipro Corporation in San Francisco.

SEATED at her desk in the Marin Department of Public Health in San Rafael, Ivy Colthurst related her life as the mayor's wife and her life as an employee saying both are interesting. She accepted employment with the health department seven years ago after realizing she was spending enough time as a volunteer at Marin General Hospital to be holding steady work. She is proud of the help she is able to arrange through the Crippled Children Services section of the department.

As for knowing what action the city council takes on specific topics, "Her Honneress" stated she only knows "what she reads in the newspaper."

And what about the mayor's mail? I asked. "O-O-Oh," the response. She disclosed the man of the house had cleaned out unnecessary papers from their "stacking" place over the weekend. "It looks so nice. I was so pleased," she said. As Edward comes through the front door following a day at work or from a meeting, his folders of pending notes, etc. are slipped above the books on hall shelves. When they get so high nothing more will go in, he cleans them. "It will usually last about six months," she added.

THE COLTHURSTS have two children, Robin, 20, and Dennis, 17. Robin is a junior attending Fresno State College after two years at College of Marin. She is a skiing fan, which is her life, says her mother.

Dennis will be graduated from Redwood High School in June and is a ham radio operator. He would like to be a veterinarian some day, an outgrowth of interest acquired while spending hours at a pet hospital observing care of animals. He is the owner of a sheep dog and a parrot.

THE PARROT came home with him from Mexico where he went on an excursion with seven other boys and two men last summer. When Dennis returned he brought the young bird with him. To make it legal it was necessary for him to put the bird in quarantine for 40 days; the medicine to be given was mixed into mash for it to eat. This required cooking the "smelly" stuff every six days in the Colthurst kitchen but the results are worth all the effort, says his mother.

When the family moved to Corte Madera in 1948 they built their house which was the only one on Montecito Drive at the time. Now the town has built up all around them except that they remain the last home on a deadend street.

Marijuana-Smoking Fighting Men Face Trouble On Return Home

DEAR HELEN:

"The jungle smells of rot and pot,

Overhead, the shooting's hot. . . ."

There's a guy in my hootch (that's Vietnamese for Marine housing unit) who has one ambition. He's going to write one thousand poems before he gets rotated or buried. We put 'em to music up in the front lines. Helps to pass the time between shells and ambushes. Above is how one of them starts.

Since I've been home on leave I've heard a lot of argument about "pot on the campus." I want to tell you people over here "smoking" will be a lot more widespread when all the servicemen come home, because more than half of them where the fighting is nastiest at least are heads. They don't get much beer on the front lines, and unhappily, other recreation is somewhat limited, so they turn to marijuana which is cheap (10 American for 300 "J's" — joints), available, and the brass looks the other way, maybe because they smoke, too.

A low estimate is that 65 per cent of some units blow "J's" regularly. Why not? The Cong live on the stuff, and it's easier to fight 'em when you're high too. If you need a big shot of courage, drink a certain brand of spot remover and blow pot. Maybe that's what Charlie does before a big offensive. You go wild. It takes ten guys to hold these "super-heads" down. You forget about being scared. I don't know what it does to your body, but personally I wouldn't recommend it.

Some of the guys say they'll quit marijuana when they come back to the States, but I bet a lot of them keep on, and that means trouble, because they'll get busted at home. A few are so psyched-out they probably can't quit.

By the time you print this, Helen, I'll be back in De Nang, and maybe I'll have had my head blown off in the big Tet Offensive Charlie pulls every year. Know why half of us may not survive this bloody surge, Helen: Because the Cong hop up on drugs for about a week beforehand, and then nothing can stop them— not even bullets.

If marijuana makes risking death a little easier, servicemen figure, "Why not:" but what happens when they bring the habit home with them? — HEADED BACK

DEAR HEADED BACK:

I wish I could anser that question. I checked your letter against the reports of several other 'Nam veterans. It appears frighteningly true.

Not only do servicemen return home with a taste for pot, but they're bringing back strains of venereal diseases which are resistant to treatment. Anyway you figure, it's a miserable, dirty, nasty, horrifying, and perhaps useless war! — H.

present no hazard to an adult. This amount would be three or four large bottles of artifically sweetened beverages a day for an adult. The intake for a 60 pound child would be limited to two bottles a day, the committee reported.

One of the reasons for this, Miss Wood said, is that if the child drank more, he would be filled with a lot of liquid and would not want to eat nutritional food.

In reference to poisons, Miss Wood said, "Put it (poison) under lock and key — keep it out of reach of children." She said also that there are a lot of look alikes in packaging. As an example she said that children who cannot read may mistake a can of furniture polish for a mouth wash.

There are four signal words on hazardous substances provided by the child protection act. One or more of these four signal words appear on the front of the lable — danger, warning, caution and poison, she stated.

"Read and heed," Miss Wood said, in reference to the labels. She added that everyone should observe national poison prevention week, March 16 to 22, with the slogan "Make Every Week Poison Prevention Week."

Painting Tip

When working with interior or exterior latex paints, wash the brush in clear water occasionally. The bath will prevent quick-drying latex paint from building up and hardening at the base of the bristles.

Swim Tryouts Scheduled For March

Mrs. David Sullivan of Greenbrae, president of the Marin Ballet-Aquacade, announces that swim tryouts for the Ballet-Aquacade's 24th annual pageant will be held March 1 and 8 from 1 to 3 p.m. at Sir Francis Drake High School in San Anselmo.

All girls in Marin in grades eight through high school are invited to tryout for the extravaganza. Judges will select swimmers on the basis of their ability to perform basic strokes, sculling and endurance. Swimmers are asked to bring a bathing suit, a cap with chin strap, and a towel to tryouts.

The Ballet-Aquacade, which is scheduled for June 7 and 8 at Peacock Gap Beach Club, has an annual participation of about 200 Marin youngsters. Swimmers are teen-agers and the corps de ballet includes children from five years of age. All ballet dancers are students of Mrs. Ralston Hodgson of Ross, who has been associated with the Ballet-Aquacade since its inception and is its director-choreographer.

For the sixth year the Marin Ballet-Aquacade will benefit the Marindale School for orthopedically handcapped children. In the past funds have been used to purchase such needed items as playground equipment, specially equipped vehicle for transportation of youngsters, tape recorders, listening stations for tape recorder, a ditto machine with special handles and attachments to permit operation by physically handicapped children.

Ballet-Aquacade tryouts will be conducted by Mmes. William Corrigan, San Anselmo; David Bordner, San Anselmo; and Jane Pike, Kentfield. Swim coordinator is Mrs. Thomas Patterson of San Rafael. Tryout judges are Mmes. Peter Brajkovich, Greenbrae; Kenneth Cuneo, San Rafael; Michael Erlin, San Anselmo; Rudolph Kupfer, San Rafael; M. W. Milot, Greenbrae; Michael Nagle, San Rafael; Raymond Perkins, San Rafael; and L. Jay Simon, Corte Madera. Mmes. Patterson and Pike are also trout judges, as well as Patty Brajkovich of Greenbrae.

Registration directors for tryouts will be Mmes. R. A. Bacci, San Rafael; Bordner, San Anselmo; Byron Box, Corte Madera; George Mangels, San Anselmo; William Niemann, San Anselmo; Samuel Serrano, Greenbrae; and the president of the group, Mrs. David Sullivan.

NO BLOND STUDENTS were permitted to eat at this lunch room table under a week-long edict at Cabin John Junior High School in nearby Montgomery County, Md. It is one of school's ways of observing Brotherhood Week and teaching its 800 students how prejudice develops and spreads. Blonds are discriminated against under the rules which force the light-haired students to use side doors, certain drinking fountains, stairways and restrooms. Dark-haired students took over the roles of guards to enforce the rules. (AP wirephoto)

Were Parents Abused Too?

MEXICO CITY (WMNS) — What kind of parent would fracture his child's bones, burn him, cut him?

Dr. Brandt F. Steele, chief of the psychiatric liaison division of the University of Colorado Medical Center, told an International Congress of Pediatrics that parents of "battered children" usually suffer from a "lifelong feeling of emptiness and disappointment and a conviction that the world will never be good to them."

When the world fails to meet their excessive demands for love and attention, these parents turn to the infant for comfort, and lash out at him ferociously for not performing satisfactorily. Frequently, the medical researcher said, these parents were themselves abused as children.

Dr. Steele opposes punishing the offending parents. While it may be necessary to remove the battered child from the home, he said, psychiatric treatment or social work for the adults offer the hope that the child may eventually return home and that other children in the family will escape harm.

Mayor's Wife Says Problems Of Corte Madera Include Water

Did Mrs. Colthurst have any idea she would someday become the wife of a mayor when she married? "Oh heavens, no!" she exclaimed. In fact, the pair met while employed in the Machinist Union office in San Francisco prior to Ed entering the military service. Having been around political activity in conjunction with work, the gray-haired energetic woman never thought she wanted her husband to be connected with politics. "But small towns are different," she said.

IVY'S SNAPPY personality came to light as she told of her bowling activities with the Marin County Employees Association which she has done the past five years. She had bowled for fun before becoming part of the team, she said. Before accepting fulltime employment she had played golf and "played at" bridge and took the children skiing which both adults also enjoyed.

No, she doesn't do much entertaining but probably would do more "if I didn't work," she respondd to a question. And asked if she would like her husband to seek a higher office, she was definite with her answer saying, "It's his time and it would be entirely up to him."

MR. COLTHURST'S present responsibilities include his mayorship, being a director of Control zone 9, director of Marin County Transit District, member of Corte Madera Volunteer Fire Department and a member of ABAG.

Ivy's interest lies primarily with the Crippled Children Servics which is a state and county tax-supported program for children needing specialist care and whose families are unable to pay for these services on a private basis.

Cultured Pearls Mix And Mingle

Cultured pearls in lovely pastels of blue, gray, rose and cream are meant to mix and mingle for spring jewelry accents.

Also watch for baroque pearls, their romantic shades and fanciful shapes arranged in new ways with gold and diamonds. These are featured in bracelets and pins. Other gold and pearl combinations are suggested for emphasis at the waistline, where all fashion eyes seem focused now.

Experiment Halted By Parents

POTOMAC, Md. (AP) — Parental complaints have ended Cabin John Junior High School's two-day experiment in segregation to the dismay of many of both the blond discrimination victims and their brunette adversaries.

The experiment, part of the school's observance of Brotherhood Week, was designed to show the students first-hand the effects of segregation. Participation was voluntary.

But principal Thomas Warren ended Wednesday the scheduled week-long demonstration, during which light-haired students were subjected to the indignities of segregation, after complaints from parents including an unidentified U.S. congressman.

One student said the experiment was just "beginning to mean something."

"These parents who complained," said Jill Benderly, a blonde, "are narrow-minded and intolerant if they couldn't see the benefits of this. They were showing off their own prejudices."

Another blonde, Sarah Smith, said of the protesting parents: "A lot of them just want us to be sheltered and never learn that there are such things."

Cloggier Heels

Look for cloggier heels on shoes to wear with city pantsuits. Beth Levine, who with her husband Herbert are innovators in shoe styles, says that because the new pants legs are wider, they call for a higher heel or a clog.

Parental Responsibility Should Be Taught Youngsters

NEW YORK (UPI) — We teach our children about proper nutrition, about care of teeth, cleanliness and need for exercise. But we neglect to educate them to their future responsibilities and roles as parents, human reproduction, mental health and adjustment, or problems of teen-age marriage.

In short, the nation's schools are failing miserably in one area vital for a person's entire lifetime — in sex education.

THE ISSUE HAS arisen before. But now in a remarkable candid look at sex education in the USA today, a prominent home economist calls for a "stop, look and listen" assessment and then action.

She is Dr. Eleanore Braun Luckey, professor and head of the department of Child Development and Family Relations at the University of Connecticut. She also is a consultant on family life education for the U. S. Children's Bureau.

STOP, SHE SAYS, to consider what we are educating for. Look at what is being done by the school in sex education. And listen to our youth — "their confusion, their questions."

Dr. Luckey makes her arguments for "presentation of the facts" in an article in the current journal of Home Economics, publication of the American Home Economics Association (AHEA).

DRAMA REVIEW

'Sisters' Is Another ACT Triumph

BY KARL BARRON

SAN FRANCISCO — Anton Chekhov, who raised the question of man's identity long before it was fashionable for writers to do so, would be proud of the production of his masterpiece "The Three Sisters," now in American Conservatory Theater's repertory at the Geary.

Masha Prozorov says, "We must know who we are and why we live." The who and why of both Chekhov and the dedicated members of ACT are certainly answered in part in this tenderly human probing of the questions.

The Prozorov sisters dream of escaping the small Army town in which they are trapped and returning to Moscow. Their brother Andrey marries Natasha, a peasant woman who gradually ousts them from control of their own home.

Through that home drift the members of the Army post, the only contact with life outside the village. Vershinin, a married colonel, becomes involved in an affair with Masha; several officers pursue Irina, the youngest sister, while the eldest, Olga, seeks happiness in teaching.

NO TRADEMARK

William Ball has directed the play without attempting to impose a trademark. Instead he has concentrated on solidiy of character, nostalgia, and complete involvement.

Paul Staheli's settings aid in the concept, being unobtrusively clever in the use of hanging ropes as walls and trees. Ann Roth's 1890s costumes are beautifully correct and John McLain's lighting, much of it a stage filled with candles, is perfect.

Topping the large cast is Michael Learned's Masha. From the moment she opens her mouth to utter a seemingly irrelevant piece of poetry and bring sudden tears to the viewer's eyes, she is alternately gay, violently angry, pensive, and always womanly in the finest sense of the word.

Others are equally good, however, with Paul Shenar furnishing a welcome surprise. This young man, who has been consistently unsatisfactory in romantic leads, dons a sparse red wig, and with a Germanic accent, is superb as Baron Tusenbach, the tragedy-marked lover of Irina.

FINE TRANSITION

As Irina, Kitty Winn is violently rebellious at the play's onset and works a fine transition to maturity at its end. Angela Paton is excellent as Olga, the other sister. Carol Mayo Jenkins is properly nasty as Natasha while Jay Doyle comes out from his customary makeup to play Andrey well at his normal age.

Ken Ruta makes Vershinin a pitiful character, yet keeps his dignity inviolate, which flew actors manage in the role. William Paterson as the drunken doctor and Harry Frazier as Masha's doltish husband contribute great work to round out the major cast, with John Schuck's Soloyony adding a menacing note.

"The Three Sisters" now joins the ACT repertory.

The federal government owns 36.4 per cent of the land in Colorado.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies currently being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from the California and National Parent-Teacher Association Magazines and the Film Report of the Film Estimate Board unless otherwise noted. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael Library.

FAMILY

"High, Wild And Free"—Filmed in northern British Columbia. Photographer Gordon Eastman gives us a tribute to some of the last unspoiled country left in the northern hemisphere. Excellent.

"Swiss Family Robinson" — Adventure story is a delight for all ages.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Bullitt" — Melodrama involves gangsters, police and an ambitious politician. Violence goes all out in blood and gore for its shock effect.

"Charley" — Poignant dramatization of a fictional case history of first human subject of a new type of brain surgery on a mentally retarded young man. Thought provoking, sensitive performances from the cast.

"Hawaii" — Deals with only one section of mammoth novel. Scenery and customs brighten the somber tale of religious fanaticism of an overzealous missionary when he imposes literal interpretation of Biblical precepts.

BORDERLINE
(Most sources say adults only)

"Night They Raided Minsky's" — Filmed in New York's lower East Side set in the 1920's film recreates the burlesque show with bawdy skits, double entendre and is garish and at times offensive.

ADULTS ONLY

"Boston Strangler" — Action centers around frustrating efforts of police to catch a sexual psychopath. Thirteen are strangled before he is caught.

"Faces" — Two middle-aged people find their marriage empty and seek satisfaction elsewhere. Dialogue is prententious and there is much profanity and sex.

"I'll Never Forget What's His Name" — Cynical satire about a young man who rebels against his tyrannical boss. Violence and explicit sex are most offensive.

"Secret Ceremony" — A sham mother-daughter relationship in this unrewarding melodrama about the perverse games sick people play. Like a freak show it leaves one with nothing but a disagreeable aftertaste.

"The Sergeant" — Psychological study of a sergeant, a tortured homosexual who plots to gain control of the camp by exposing the weaknesses of the men by harsh and inhuman training and by debasing and subverting them. Strong, mature drama.

"Shoot the Piano Player" — Sordid French film treats tragedy as satirical comedy. Experimental film by a fine director.

"Thomas Crown Affair" — Plotting and execution of big bank robbery is ingenious. Criminal and investigator become involved in torrid love affair. Crime pays well in this case. very modern treatment.

Per capita income in Arkansas doubled between 1950 and 1964.

Blind Africans Reach Summit Of Kilimanjaro

LONDON EXPRESS

NAIROBI, Kenya — Seven blind Africans yesterday conquered the snows of Kilimanjaro — Africa's highest mountain — which towers 19,340 feet above the wild game plains of Southern Kenya and Northern Tanzania.

Three days after the two Kenyans, two Tanzanians and three Ugandans set out from the Outward Bound Mountain School in the Southern Kenya village of Loitokitok, they reached the snow-capped summit.

As they stood in the crisp snow — all had encountered snow for the first time in their lives — a friendship aircraft fo East African Airways flew overhead and dipped its wings in salute to their unprecedented achievement.

The seven, who underwent a tough two-week preparation course here before tackling the ascent, sheltered their faces against the biting wind and subzero temperatures as guides described the scene to them.

DRAMA REVIEW

'Sisters' Is Another ACT Triumph

BY KARL BARRON

SAN FRANCISCO — Anton Chekhov, who raised the question of man's identity long before it was fashionable for writers to do so, would be proud of the production of his masterpiece "The Three Sisters," now in American Conservatory Theater's repertory at the Geary.

Masha Prozorov says, "We must know who we are and why we live." The who and why of both Chekhov and the dedicated members of ACT are certainly answered in part in this tenderly human probing of the questions.

The Prozorov sisters dream of eseaping the small Army town in which they are trapped and returning to Moscow. Their brother Andrey marries Natasha, a peasant woman who gradually ousts them from control of their own home.

Through that home drift the members of the Army post, the only contact with life outside the village. Vershinin, a married colonel, becomes involved in an affair with Masha; several officers pursue Irina, the youngest sister, while the eldest, Olga, seeks happiness in teaching.

NO TRADEMARK

William Ball has directed the play without attempting to impose a trademark. Instead he has concentrated on solidiy of character, nostalgia, and complete involvement.

Paul Staheli's settings aid in the concept, being unobtrusively clever in the use of hanging ropes as walls and trees. Ann Roth's 1890s costumes are beautifully correct and John McLain's lighting, much of it a stage filled with candles, is perfect.

Topping the large cast is Michael Learned's Masha. From the moment she opens her mouth to utter a seemingly irrelevant piece of poetry and bring sudden tears to the viewer's eyes, she is alternately gay, violently angry, pensive, and always womanly in the finest sense of the word.

Others are equally good, however, with Paul Shenar furnishing a welcome surprise. This young man, who has been consistently unsatisfactory in romantic leads, dons a sparse red wig, and with a Germanic accent, is superb as Baron Tusenbach, the tragedy-marked lover of Irina.

FINE TRANSITION

As Irina, Kitty Winn is violently rebellious at the play's onset and works a fine transition to maturity at its end. Angela Paton is excellent as Olga, the other sister. Carol Mayo Jenkins is properly nasty as Natasha while Jay Doyle comes out from his customary makeup to play Andrey well at his normal age.

Ken Ruta makes Vershinin a pitiful character, yet keeps his dignity inviolate, which flew actors manage in the role. William Paterson as the drunken doctor and Harry Frazier as Masha's doltish husband contribute great work to round out the major cast, with John Schuck's Soloyony adding a menacing note.

"The Three Sisters" now joins the ACT repertory.

The federal government owns 36.4 per cent of the land in Colorado.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies currently being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from the California and National Parent-Teacher Association Magazines and the Film Report of the Film Estimate Board unless otherwise noted. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael Library.

FAMILY

"High, Wild And Free"—Filmed in northern British Columbia. Photographer Gordon Eastman gives us a tribute to some of the last unspoiled country left in the northern hemisphere. Excellent.

"Swiss Family Robinson" — Adventure story is a delight for all ages.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Bullitt" — Melodrama involves gangsters, police and an ambitious politician. Violence goes all out in blood and gore for its shock effect.

"Charley" — Poignant dramatization of a fictional case history of first human subject of a new type of brain surgery on a mentally retarded young man. Thought provoking, sensitive performances from the cast.

"Hawaii" — Deals with only one section of mammoth novel. Scenery and customs brighten the somber tale of religious fanaticism of an overzealous missionary when he imposes literal interpretation of Biblical precepts.

BORDERLINE

(Most sources say adults only)

"Night They Raided Minsky's" — Filmed in New York's lower East Side set in the 1920's film recreates the burlesque show with bawdy skits, double entendre and is garish and at times offensive.

ADULTS ONLY

"Boston Strangler" — Action centers around frustrating efforts of police to catch a sexual psychopath. Thirteen are strangled before he is caught.

"Faces" — Two middle-aged people find their marriage empty and seek satisfaction elsewhere. Dialogue is prententious and there is much profanity and sex.

"I'll Never Forget What's His Name" — Cynical satire about a young man who rebels against his tyrannical boss. Violence and explicit sex are most offensive.

"Secret Ceremony" — A sham mother-daughter relationship in this unrewarding melodrama about the perverse games sick people play. Like a freak show it leaves one with nothing but a disagreeable aftertaste.

"The Sergeant" — Psychological study of a sergeant, a tortured homosexual who plots to gain control of the camp by exposing the weaknesses of the men by harsh and inhuman training and by debasing and subverting them. Strong, mature drama.

"Thomas Crown Affair" — Plotting and execution of big bank robbery is ingenious. Criminal and investigator become involved in torrid love affair. Crime pays well in this case. very modern treatment.

Per capita income in Arkansas doubled between 1950 and 1964.

Blind Africans Reach Summit Of Kilimanjaro

LONDON EXPRESS

NAIROBI, Kenya — Seven blind Africans yesterday conquered the snows of Kilimanjaro — Africa's highest mountain — which towers 19,340 feet above the wild game plains of Southern Kenya and Northern Tanzania.

Three days after the two Kenyans, two Tanzanians and three Ugandans set out from the Outward Bound Mountain School in the Southern Kenya village of Loitokitok, they reached the snow-capped summit.

As they stood in the crisp snow — all had encountered snow for the first time in their lives — a friendship aircraft fo East African Airways flew overhead and dipped its wings in salute to their unprecedented achievement.

The seven, who underwent a tough two-week preparation course here before tackling the ascent, sheltered their faces against the biting wind and subzero temperatures as guides described the scene to them.

Marin Poised To Start Food Stamps Use

About 580 Marin households on public assistance are expected to join the food stamp program, which will begin operating on April 1, administrative deputy Donald M. Sanford of the Department of Public Social Services announced today.

He said another 70 families who are not betting public aid are likely to join the program eventually, bringing the total to about 650. The program is already in operation in Sonoma County.

The aim of the program, sponsored by the Department of Agriculture, is to encourage the sale of United States farm surpluses and to improve the nutrition of low income families.

COST TO MARIN

Estimated annual cost in Marin is $48,500, with $18,700 from federal funds and $28,800 paid by the county. Families on aid and those close to the assistance level will qualify.

Those who qualify will be given cards authorizing them to purchase food stamps. A member of the family will take the authorization card to a bank and buy food stamps at a discount. For example, he might pay $28 for $44 worth of food stamps, or $100 for $132 worth of stamps. The amount of discount depends on the size of the family and its adjusted net income.

USED LIKE CASH

The coupons will be used like cash at any grocery store, to buy foods produced in the United States, plus coffee, tea, cocoa and bananas.

The Department of Public Social Services will begin next month to determine which of the families on aid want to participate. At the same time, applications will be taken from non-assistance families who want food stamps and qualify.

Bank of America, Wells Fargo Bank, and Crocker Citizens National Bank will probably handle the food stamp coupons.

A contract has been signed with Wells Fargo, but the other two are still under negotiation, said Sanford.

CANIS MAJOR

STARS ABOVE

Canis Major Boasts The Brightest Star

By SHERMAN WALKER

Canis Major (the Larger Dog) is a constellation of moderate size but it has the distinction of having the brightest star in the entire sky. This figure and another nearby called Canis Minor (the Smaller Dog) are supposed to belong to Orion, the Hunter. Both dogs keep an eye on Lepus, the Hare, who lies at the feet of Orion.

To find the dog, face southward at 9 p.m. and look at the region of the sky that is one-third of the distance up from the southern horizon to the overhead point.

The bright star Sirius, which also bears the imposing name of Alpha Canis Majoris, is the brightest in the entire sky and would be even more brilliant if it were a little higher above the horizon where it wouldn't be obscured by fog and haze.

For a long time astronomers were puzzled by the zig-zag path Sirius followed through the sky. It was decided that this was caused by a companion star but no one could see it, even in the largest telescopes. A famous astronomer and mathematician, F. W. Bessel, in 1834 even computed the orbit and mass the companion star should have.

Finally it was discovered in 1862 by Alvin Clark, a famous lens maker, who was testing a lens he had just completed.

This brought a lot of new problems because the companion star was so small that it would have to have a terribly high density to have such an effect on Sirius. A spoonful of its material would weigh tons.

Here the problem rests. Perhaps the future will bring an explanation.

A checkbook and pocket secretary from the car of Thomas Stahlbaum, 138 Cypress Avenue, Kentfield, parked in the Safeway parking lot Tuesday night.

A bicycle and bicycle equipment from the trunk of the car of Fred Merrill Rhodes, 108 Surry Lane, parked in his carport.

State Sees Kirby Cove Work Bids

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — A Humboldt County contractor submitted yesterday the lowest of nine bids, $9,127, to complete the first of a three-stage program to improve Kirby Cove at the new Marin Headlands State Park.

The bidder at the Department of Parks and Recreation district office was Jim O. Johnson of Garberville. Other low bids to construct a pedestrian ramp from a parking lot to the beach and to provide a fire and drinking water system were by Madsen Construction Co. of Napa, $9,781, and O'Riva and Cogan of Yuba City, $10,220.

The department had estimated the work at $8,000. Officials in Sacramento will review the bids, which ranged up to $18,642, before signing a contract, in about six weeks.

Bids for the next phase of work — paving the dirt road to the cove from Conselman Road and a parking lot above the beach — will be opened at the district office at 2 p.m. Thursday.

The third phase, by hired day labor, will include installation of toilets, picnic tables and cooking grills.

Slavery was legal in all 13 states of the newly formed Union in 1776.

Players To Deliver Plan Of Their Own

NEW YORK (AP) — Major league baseball players were set to deliver a new pension pitch to the club owners today while a federal mediator warmed up in the bullpen and Commissioner Bowie Kuhn fidgeted in the dugout.

The players' association, which rejected the owners' latest pension proposal by a 24-0 vote of club representatives, requested another bargaining session today for the purpose of submitting a counter offer.

Meanwhile, Kuhn, the game's new chief executive, expressed distress over the prolonged impasse and asked both sides to continue negotiations on a daily basis until a settlement is reached.

DELAY HURTS

"This delay in resolving the dispute is injurious to baseball in general and the players and the clubs in particular," said the Commissioner from Florida, where most of the established major leaguers are boycotting in advance spring training camps.

The owners proposed last weekend to add $200,000 to an original offer a $1 million increase in their pension contribution, bringing the total to $5.3 million. The players are asking for a $6.5 million package, to include a slice of television and broadcasting revenue.

After the player representatives turned down the offer Wednesday, John Gaherin, negotiator for the owners, suggested the offer be submitted for a vote of the entire association membership. But Marvin Miller, executive director of the association, said he didn't feel a time-consuming poll of all the players was justified, considering the player reps' unanimous rejection.

ANOTHER MEETING

Dick Moss, counsel for the association, released a statement yesterday asking for another meeting with the owners today. In view of the 24-0 rejection of the owners' last offer, the statement read, "it is our intention to make a new proposal for the owners' consideration in an attempt to reach a settlement of this dispute.

"Despite the tremendous amount of publicity which has been given to the signing of a few veteran players of the 402 players who last winter authorized use of their names in support of the policy of not signing and not reporting to training camp, 391 have not signed salary contracts and have not reported to spring training."

According to the statement, the owners have sent out a "propaganda document to all the players which purports to set forth a summary of how close they have come to their players' proposals, but which is in fact a misleading and deceptive presentation."

VICIOUS ATTACKS

In the last three days, the statement read, the players' representatives had been subjected to "vicious personal attacks" and cited statements that "are intended to increase friction in the vague hope of destroying the Players' Association."

"We are confident that an honorable settlement can still be reached quickly if, and only if, the owners want to achieve that goal," the statement added. "On the other hand, if they are more interested in testing the players than in resolving the dispute, the present crisis will continue."

Brown, regional director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, agreed to step in at the request of the players. But the government's intervention does not represent binding arbitration, sought by the players earlier in the week but turned down by the owners.

Teen Suyderhoud Goes Off On Dazzling World Junket

Hm? Oh, no, Bunkie, he won't ski around the world. Couldn't you just picture him trying to negotiate the Sahara Desert? He'll fly, of course, with stopovers at various exotic places for a bit of water skiing.

First stop for Master Mike, who departed Wednesday, is Hawaii where he'll spend a week tuning up for a stiff five-week schedule to follow, taking him to Sydney and Melbourne, Australia, thence to Capetown and Johannesburg, South Africa, on to London, England and finally back home at 222 Sequoia Drive, San Anselmo, which is just a hop, skip and splash from Papermill Creek.

While in South Africa, where he will help train that country's team for the world championships coming up this summer, Mike will stay at the home of noted transplanter Dr. Christiaan "Happy Valentine" Barnard whose water-skiing daughter, Deidre, stayed with the Suyderhouds while on a vacation trip here last year.

Making Up For Lost Time

Mike, a straight A chemistry major at Sonoma State College in Rohnert Park, will return home shortly after Easter and start hitting the books to make up for lost time.

His major 1969 championship schedule will include the Masters Tournament in July and defense of his world title at Denark Aug. 4-10.

Honolulu . . . Melbourne . . . Capetown . . . London . . . Denmark . . Papermill . . golly, that's quite an itinerary for a lad who will turn just 19 next month. Bon voyage, Master Michael.

SOCIAL SEQUEL — The twists 'n' twirls of the I-J society department have added a post script to my Wednesday column on how baseball star Bill Lee's marriage to Maria Helfrich should have been reported, to wit:

"P.S. You forgot to report that the bonus baby stepped up to the hitching plate wearing his traveling grays, a strawberry-on-the-knee and what color sox? Their home base is uncertain depending on which C league horsehide farm the heralded southpaw slinger bread-winner gets socked with."

Okay, girls, let's just say it was a case of glove at first sight that resulted in a life-long contract with the Wed Sox.

Stars Set For Rival Grid Fetes

GRID KIDS — Patrons of the Music Box and Wiltshire Towers nourishment emporiums in San Rafael can choose up sides for a rugged game of football during the next few days and draw a good crowd.

Sunday, during a special 1 p.m. showing of the film "49er Hilites of 1968," the Music Box has advertised the personal appearance of 49er heroes John Brodie and Kevin Hardy.

Then on Monday evening the Wiltshire Towers will have Oakland gridders Ben Davidson and Tom Keating as special guests at a dinner meeting of the Marin Chapter, Raiders Boosters Club. Kickoff for that affair will be 5:30, says Booster Rooster Shaun Wiltshire.

St. Vincent's Can't Miss Shots

"We just couldn't miss," said Coach Ed Major last night after his St. Vincent's High School Mustangs rang up a record 113-82 victory over California School for the Deaf of Berkeley in their Bay Counties League basketball game at the St. Vincent's gym.

Major said it was the highest total ever scored by a St. Vincent's team and was led by Mike Freitas who scored 30 points, Steve Johnson who contributed 21 and Charles Leoni and Gary Griffin with 19 each.

St. Vincent's now has a 5-6 won-lost record in league play.

St. Louis To Battle Happy Seals

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Oakland Seals, happy in Oakland and assured by the National Hockey League that they will not leave there, venture to the Cow Palace in San Francisco tonight to play the St. Louis Blues.

Whether or not the Seals will move has been up in the air for a year, but NHL President Clarence Campbell stated Thursday, "The Board of Governors adamantly declared there will be no move out of Oakland."

The Seals in their latest outing Wednesday night beat the Chicago Black Hawks 5-2 and the victory set a West Division record for victories over East Division teams.

Thirteen of the Seals' 22 victories have come over East Division teams but they have never beaten St. Louis, which leads the West Division and has a 23-point bulge over the second-place Seals.

Braves Hurlers Adding Cracks In Player Strike

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Three of the Atlanta Braves' top pitchers reported for duty today as cracks continued to develop in the players' strike over pension fund payments.

Signing contracts and starting workouts were Ron Reed, a member of the National League All-Star team as a rookie last year; Knuckleballer Phil Niekro and relief pitcher Claude Raymond.

They jointed regular Pat Jarvis and about a dozen rookies for the second day of work for pitchers and catchers.

The outfielders and infielders aren't scheduled to report until next Thursday, but outfielders Felipe Alou and Rico Carty have said they will join the club.

Banquet-Weary Trevino Fires 67 In Tucson Golf

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino swears himself off the banquet circuit and back to serious golf, yet he could be in much worse shape than he is today.

The stocky 29-year-old champion from El Paso, Tex., despite trips to New York and Los Angeles already this week, fired a five-under-par 67 in yesterday's first round of the $100,000 Tucson Open.

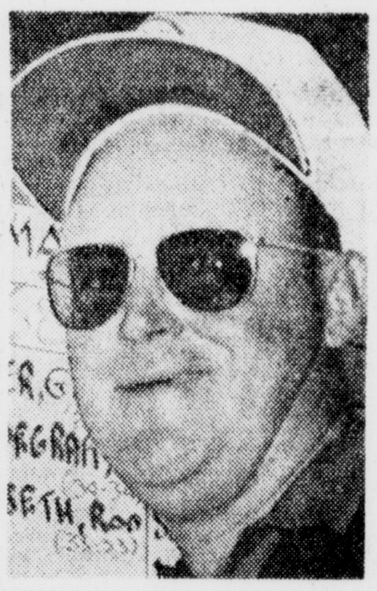
In Arizona's capital Sunday, the Texan shot a 64 to vault into a three-way tie for second place behind winner Gene Littler.

BEST START

Off to his best start in 10 years on the tour, Barber has won the rain-shortened Kaiser Open. In his first round here, he carded five birdies and an eagle without going over par on a hole.



MILLER BARBER
He Leads Tourney

The eagle came on an 18-foot putt at the par-5 15th after he hit the green with a No. 3 wood shot.

He sank birdie putts of 3, 5, 10, 12 and 18 feet.

The weather ranted from sunny cool in the morning to rainy cold in the afternoon.

Deadlocked at 68 were George Archer, Ron Cerrudo, Rod Funseth and Tucson amateur Ed Updegraff.

TIRED

Following today's second round, the cut reduced the field to the low 70 and tied for play on Saturday and Sunday.

Trevino finished early and declared, "I'm tired. I'm through with banquet tours. I'm going to play golf. No more banquets for Lee Trevino. I don't even like the food any more."

"I've had nine hours sleep in three days. I'm just happy to be walking."

Lee was in New York for a sports banquet on Monday night. Returning to Tucson on Tuesday, he played nine holes for a practice round and then competed in the pro-amateur on Wednesday.

On completing that round, he flew to Los Angeles for another program at which he was honored. He returned to Tucson at midnight and had to be on the tee at 8:56 a.m.

"Coming out of the shoot is tough," he declared. "On that first hole, I missed a 2½-foot putt so bad I had a three-footer coming back."

He went on to card six birdies including a 35-foot putt on the seventh and one of 30 on the 18th.

Douglass shot even par for his first nine before catching fire for a 31 on the back side including an eagle at the par-5 11th with an eight-foot putt and third birdies, two of them with 20 footers.

Ted Williams Signs Million-Dollar Pact

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Senators reached agreement today on an apparent million-dollar contract for Ted Williams as manager of baseball's biggest losers.

The Senators scheduled a news conference for 4 p.m., Pacific Coast Time, today to introduce Williams as manager and part-owner of the last-place American League team.

The club withheld any formal announcement of Williams' appointment, but inside sources reported the Hall of Fame hitter was preparing to fly north from Florida to attend the news conference.

The completion of the contract talks came after a week of intense negotiations that will make the rookie manager the richest paid pilot in baseball.

Williams, fabled for his feuds with writers and fans, is coming out of retirement eight years after winding up his long career with the Boston Red Sox with a lifetime average of .344, highest of any player alive today.

The Senators' coup brings to the nation's capital two of the most storied, stormy and successful men in sports—Williams and the volatile Vince Lombardi, who was hired away from Green Bay to become the Washington Redskins' football coach only two weeks ago.

Williams' acceptance came with barely enough time to take over the club before the start of spring training in Florida Monday.

The senators' plans to name Williams as manager were first reported a week ago by The Associated Press.

Williams, 50, had shunned at least three previous offers to manage major league teams before agreeing to take command of the sagging Senators.

Williams, who once said, "You couldn't pay me enough to manage," has had to admit at last that he was wrong.

The Senators' dynamic new owner, Robert Short, who pursued the lengendary slugger around the country until he could talk him into taking over the team, is paying a price that Williams called "the most fantastic offer" ever made to him.

Reportedly it gives Williams an option to buy an estimated 10 per cent of the club's stock at bargain rates and calls for a salary ranging up to $100,000 a year.

The contract is believed to run at least three years and possibly longer.

Williams has vowed no immediate miracles for the Senators—a promise that should be easy to keep.

Petaluma Ends Winning Season

Coach Bob Donahue's Petaluma High School Trojans concluded their North Bay League Section I basketball season on a victorious note last night, whipping the visiting Napa Indians, 73-52, behind the 10-point scoring of senior Larry Riis.

The Trojans finished the season with a 7-5 won-lost record in league and 16-7 overall.

Pete Daggett, Petaluma's sensational senior, scored 17 points to bring his 23-game season total output to 573 points. Other Trojans in double figures were junior Ross Goree with 12 and sophomore Dan Keller 11.

Easy Wins For Leaders

It was an odd night in Marin County Athletic League high school basketball action last night.

First of all, it was Thursday, an unusual time for the games, but Washington's birthday forced the switch, although Terra Linda will face Marin Catholic tonight.

But most of the oddness was on the court.

Redwood broke its usual pattern of great shooting but still won convincingly; Novato stuck to its script — Herrnberger, McNally and hope, while San Rafael played without Bruce Nave but won big.

Redwood licked Drake 78-36, San Rafael beat San Marin 71-49, and Novato downed Tamalpais 80-67, leaving Redwood still one game up on Novato, with the rematch between the two due a week from tonight.

Coach Dick Hart praised his club's fine play despite the fact that the team shot 37 per cent, good for some teams but subpar for Redwood, now rated 18th in the Bay Area. Jerry Piro and Roger Smith with 16 and 17 points led Redwood, while Fred Westcott's nine markers led Drake.

As usual, Tam had balanced scoring — four men in double figures — but Novato kept on by way of 28 points from Steve McNally and 21 from Ed Herrnberger. Mal Sibbernsen had 18 and Ron Small 15 for Tam.

Star guard Bruce Nave suited up but did not play against San Marin for San Rafael, but Roger Thomas' 17 and Ray Taylors' 11 points made up for his absence. Gary Howard, naturally, had 19 for San Marin.

Led by the shooting of Smith and Piro and the rebounding (14 of 'em) of 6-6 Pete Webb, Redwood spurted to a quick lead and improved it over the next three quarters.

It was close but no cigar for Tam after the first quarter as the Indians fell down 17-13 early, but were unable to come close enough.

A 26-12 first half and a 30-18 blitz by San Rafael in the third quarter finished off San Marin.

Warriors Get Hot In Stretch

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The San Francisco Warriors are getting hot just in time for the National Basketball Association playoffs, says Philadelphia 76ers Coach Jack Ramsey.

"Sure, the Warriors have a great chance to sweep the playoffs," Ramsey said after the Warriors dumped his team 134-117 Wednesday night. "Now that they've put it all together and having survived those early injuries, the Warriors could go all the way if the ball bounces right for them."

San Francisco took its seventh victory in nine games last night by beating the Rockets at San Diego 128-118.

The Rockets led 94-89 at the end of three periods but the Warriors outscored San Diego 21-4 in the first five minutes of the final period.

Mullins led the Warriors with 33 and Nate Thurmond scored 29. Don Kojis of the Rockets was high man the night with 36.

Teen Suyderhoud Goes Off On Dazzling World Junket

Hm? Oh, no, Bunkie, he won't ski around the world. Couldn't you just picture him trying to negotiate the Sahara Desert? He'll fly, of course, with stopovers at various exotic places for a bit of water skiing.

First stop for Master Mike, who departed Wednesday, is Hawaii where he'll spend a week tuning up for a stiff five-week schedule to follow, taking him to Sydney and Melbourne, Australia, thence to Capetown and Johannesburg, South Africa, on to London, England and finally back home at 222 Sequoia Drive, San Anselmo, which is just a hop, skip and splash from Papermill Creek.

While in South Africa, where he will help train that country's team for the world championships coming up this summer, Mike will stay at the home of noted transplanter Dr. Christiaan "Happy Valentine" Barnard whose water-skiing daughter, Deidre, stayed with the Suyderhouds while on a vacation trip here last year.

Making Up For Lost Time

Mike, a straight A chemistry major at Sonoma State College in Rohnert Park, will return home shortly after Easter and start hitting the books to make up for lost time.

His major 1969 championship schedule will include the Masters Tournament in July and defense of his world title at Denark Aug. 4-10.

Honolulu . . . Melbourne . . . Capetown . . . London . . . Denmark . . Papermill . . golly, that's quite an itinerary for a lad who will turn just 19 next month. Bon voyage, Master Michael.

SOCIAL SEQUEL — The twists 'n' twirls of the I-J society department have added a post script to my Wednesday column on how baseball star Bill Lee's marriage to Maria Helfrich should have been reported, to wit:

"P.S. You forgot to report that the bonus baby stepped up to the hitching plate wearing his traveling grays, a strawberry-on-the-knee and what color sox? Their home base is uncertain depending on which C league horsehide farm the heralded southpaw slinger bread-winner gets socked with."

Okay, girls, let's just say it was a case of glove at first sight that resulted in a life-long contract with the Wed Sox.

Stars Set For Rival Grid Fetes

GRID KIDS — Patrons of the Music Box and Wiltshire Towers nourishment emporiums in San Rafael can choose up sides for a rugged game of football during the next few days and draw a good crowd.

Sunday, during a special 1 p.m. showing of the film "49er Hilites of 1968," the Music Box has advertised the personal appearance of 49er heroes John Brodie and Kevin Hardy.

Then on Monday evening the Wiltshire Towers will have Oakland gridders Ben Davidson and Tom Keating as special guests at a dinner meeting of the Marin Chapter, Raiders Boosters Club. Kickoff for that affair will be 5:30, says Booster Rooster Shaun Wiltshire.

St. Vincent's Can't Miss Shots

"We just couldn't miss," said Coach Ed Major last night after his St. Vincent's High School Mustangs rang up a record 113-82 victory over California School for the Deaf of Berkeley in their Bay Counties League basketball game at the St. Vincent's gym.

Major said it was the highest total ever scored by a St. Vincent's team and was led by Mike Freitas who scored 30 points, Steve Johnson who contributed 21 and Charles Leoni and Gary Griffin with 19 each.

St. Vincent's now has a 5-6 won-lost record in league play.

St. Louis To Battle Happy Seals

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Oakland Seals, happy in Oakland and assured by the National Hockey League that they will not leave there, venture to the Cow Palace in San Francisco tonight to play the St. Louis Blues.

Whether or not the Seals will move has been up in the air for a year, but NHL President Clarence Campbell stated Thursday, "The Board of Governors adamantly declared there will be no move out of Oakland."

The Seals in their latest outing Wednesday night beat the Chicago Black Hawks 5-2 and the victory set a West Division record for victories over East Division teams.

Thirteen of the Seals' 22 victories have come over East Division teams but they have never beaten St. Louis, which leads the West Division and has a 23-point bulge over the second-place Seals.

Banquet-Weary Trevino Fires 67 In Tucson Golf

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino swears himself off the banquet circuit and back to serious golf, yet he could be in much worse shape than he is today.

The stocky 29-year-old champion from El Paso, Tex., despite trips to New York and Los Angeles already this week, fired a five-under-par 67 in yesterday's first round of the $100,000 Tucson Open.

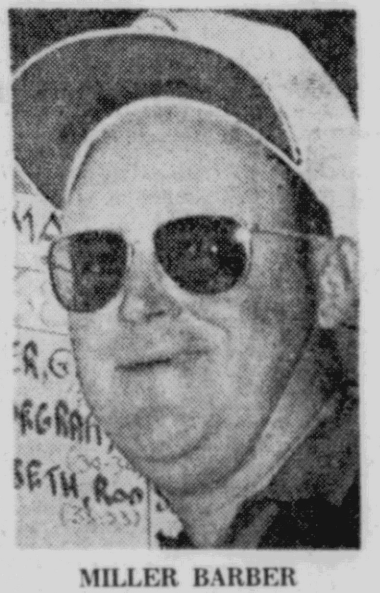
In Arizona's capital Sunday, the Texan shot a 64 to vault into a three-way tie for second place behind winner Gene Littler.



MILLER BARBER
He Leads Tourney

BEST START

Off to his best start in 10 years on the tour, Barber has won the rain-shortened Kaiser Open. In his first round here, he carded five birdies and an eagle without going over par on a hole.

The eagle came on an 18-foot putt at the par-5 15th after he hit the green with a No. 3 wood shot.

He sank birdie putts of 3, 5, 10, 12 and 18 feet.

The weather ranted from sunny cool in the morning to rainy cold in the afternoon.

Deadlocked at 68 were George Archer, Ron Cerrudo, Rod Funseth and Tucson amateur Ed Updegraff.

TIRED

Following today's second round, the cut reduced the field to the low 70 and tied for play on Saturday and Sunday.

Trevino finished early and declared, "I'm tired. I'm through with banquet tours. I'm going to play golf. No more banquets for Lee Trevino. I don't even like the food any more."

"I've had nine hours sleep in three days. I'm just happy to be walking."

Lee was in New York for a sports banquet on Monday night. Returning to Tucson on Tuesday, he played nine holes for a practice round and then competed in the pro-amateur on Wednesday.

On completing that round, he flew to Los Angeles for another program at which he was honored. He returned to Tucson at midnight and had to be on the tee at 8:56 a.m.

"Coming out of the shoot is tough," he declared. "On that first hole, I missed a 2½-foot putt so bad I had a three-footer coming back."

He went on to card six birdies including a 35-foot putt on the seventh and one of 30 on the 18th.

Douglass shot even par for his first nine before catching fire for a 31 on the back side including an eagle at the par-5 11th with an eight-foot putt and third birdies, two of them with 20 footers.

Ted Williams Signs Million-Dollar Pact

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Senators reached agreement today on an apparent million-dollar contract for Ted Williams as manager of baseball's biggest losers.

The Senators scheduled a news conference for 4 p.m., Pacific Coast Time, today to introduce Williams as manager and part-owner of the last-place American League team.

The club withheld any formal announcement of Williams' appointment, but inside sources reported the Hall of Fame hitter was preparing to fly north from Florida to attend the news conference.

The completion of the contract talks came after a week of intense negotiations that will make the rookie manager the richest paid pilot in baseball.

Williams, fabled for his feuds with writers and fans, is coming out of retirement eight years after winding up his long career with the Boston Red Sox with a lifetime average of .344, highest of any player alive today.

The Senators' coup brings to the nation's capital two of the most storied, stormy and successful men in sports—Williams and the volatile Vince Lombardi, who was hired away from Green Bay to become the Washington Redskins' football coach only two weeks ago.

Williams' acceptance came with barely enough time to take over the club before the start of spring training in Florida Monday.

The senators' plans to name Williams as manager were first reported a week ago by The Associated Press.

Williams, 50, had shunned at least three previous offers to manage major league teams before agreeing to take command of the sagging Senators.

Williams, who once said, "You couldn't pay me enough to manage," has had to admit at last that he was wrong.

The Senators' dynamic new owner, Robert Short, who pursued the lengendary slugger around the country until he could talk him into taking over the team, is paying a price that Williams called "the most fantastic offer" ever made to him.

Reportedly it gives Williams an option to buy an estimated 10 per cent of the club's stock at bargain rates and calls for a salary ranging up to $100,000 a year.

The contract is believed to run at least three years and possibly longer.

Williams has vowed no immediate miracles for the Senators—a promise that should be easy to keep.

Braves Hurlers Adding Cracks In Player Strike

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Three of the Atlanta Braves' top pitchers reported for duty today as cracks continued to develop in the players' strike over pension fund payments.

Signing contracts and starting workouts were Ron Reed, a member of the National League All-Star team as a rookie last year; Knuckleballer Phil Niekro and relief pitcher Claude Raymond.

They jointed regular Pat Jarvis and about a dozen rookies for the second day of work for pitchers and catchers.

The outfielders and infielders aren't scheduled to report until next Thursday, but outfielders Felipe Alou and Rico Carty have said they will join the club.

Warriors Get Hot In Stretch

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The San Francisco Warriors are getting hot just in time for the National Basketball Association playoffs, says Philadelphia 76ers Coach Jack Ramsey.

"Sure, the Warriors have a great chance to sweep the playoffs," Ramsey said after the Warriors dumped his team 134-117 Wednesday night. "Now that they've put it all together and having survived those early injuries, the Warriors could go all the way if the ball bounces right for them."

San Francisco took its seventh victory in nine games last night by beating the Rockets at San Diego 128-118.

The Rockets led 94-89 at the end of three periods but the Warriors outscored San Diego 21-4 in the first five minutes of the final period.

Mullins led the Warriors with 33 and Nate Thurmond scored 29. Don Kojis of the Rockets was high man the night with 36.

Finkel Ends Longest Basketball Holdout

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Henry Finkel, 7-foot center of the San Diego Rockets, signed his 1968-69 contract last night after becoming the longest National Basketball Association holdout of the season.

Finkel, who has played for the Rockets all season, finally came to terms with General Manager Pete Newell. Terms of the pact were not disclosed.

Petaluma Ends Winning Season

Coach Bob Donahue's Petaluma High School Trojans concluded their North Bay League Section I basketball season on a victorious note last night, whipping the visiting Napa Indians, 73-52, behind the 10-point scoring of senior Larry Riis.

The Trojans finished the season with a 7-5 won-lost record in league and 16-7 overall.

Pete Daggett, Petaluma's sensational senior, scored 17 points to bring his 23-game season total output to 573 points. Other Trojans in double figures were junior Ross Goree with 12 and sophomore Dan Keller 11.

Basketball Road Trip: One Of Life's Vacuums

NEW YORK—North Central Airlines flight No. 579 kicked and bucked and groaned its way out to flight line, and in Seat No. 17A, Elgin Baylor surveyed a map with distaste as if it were a missed layup.

"Thirty minutes from Chicago to Milwaukee and it ain't but 68 miles," he complained loudly to the gods.

Elgin turned his imperious gaze on Chamberlain. "It's 68 air miles. It's 90 miles by dogsled. But we're going to fly there. At least, I thnk we are, if they ever get the rubber bands around the props on this thing. Where did they get this airplane — in the Smithsonian? How many wings it got. You could walk to Milwaukee in 30 minutes. The squatters made it in 30 minutes 100 years ago."

HE WENT back to studying his map. "Hey!" he exclaimed, "you know there was a nonstop out of L.A. to Milwaukee? Who made up our schedule?" 'Beef' did," someone told him. "Beef" is the quondam coach and current general manager or the Los Angeles Lakers, Fred Schaus. "Beef" is the repository of almost as many complaints in absentia as he was when he was coaching. Basketball players think the Johnstown Flood was started by the front office, which is a very rich organization given over only to counting money and arranging harassing travel schedules.

"NO, 'SNIFFLES' did," corrected Elgin Baylor. "Sniffles" would be Rod Hundley, the only 6-foot 4-inch radio broadcaster this side of Howard Cosell, whom he does not otherwise resemble. Elgin woul have a nickname for the Angel Gabriel and, chances are it would not be complimentary. Elgin sees a flawed world.

Flight 579 finally hit the ground in Milwaukee right on schedule, taxiing up alongside one of the line's gleaming new jets. "Why didn't we take that?" someone asked. "That's just a prop," Elgin informed him. "It don't fly at all."

THE BASKETBALL road trip is one of life's great vacuums — long periods of crashing boredom, punctuated by headlong 90-foot dashes up and down a hardwood floor every 24 seconds.

The first thing done when a crew hits an airport is known as the "all-court scarf." "Scarf" is a verb in Lakerland. It means, sort of, "to eat." "Scarfing" is distinct from regular eating in the length of time devoted to digestion. For instance, a tuna fish sandwich calls for the gulp "scarf." It and a carton of milk will be lucky to last a full three-second rule. It's in and out of the key in a hurry. The Lakers can empty a sandwich counter without hardly pausing as they go by.

HOTELS COME in for a good deal of criticism. The motel in Milwaukee was modern and neat and only two or so stories high. "Is this the biggest building in Milwaukee?" was the innocent question. "Or do you have a whole lot of other skyscrapers?"

The hotel in New York, like much of New York, has seen grander days. "They're going to tear it down and put up a shack," one of the Lakers said. "The Queen of England stopped here," someone said. "And was Sir Francis Drake with her?" someone else wanted to know.

IN MILWAUKEE, a voice in the back marvels at the presence of elevators. "What they have elevators in this place for? You could step out of a second-story window." "They go sideways," someone explained to him.

The game in Milwaukee is a 48-minute athletic disgrace. The Lekers throw the ball aound like a hot diamond when the cops come. The coach looks at them as though they were something crawling off his breakfast plate.

THE RIDE to New York was as quiet as the Lakers ever get. Elgin had had enough of this by the time they were over Buffalo. He spotted Mel Counts, the 7-foot center.

"Melvin, did you go out with 'Frankenstein' the other night?" "Frankenstein" is the San Diego Rockets' 7-foot pivot man, Henry Finkel. Sometimes he comes out "Finkelstein" in Elgin's menagerie. Have they got the bolts out yet?" Elgin wonders. "Is he fully programmed yet?"

"WHO IS 'Frankenstein'?" Elgin is asked. "Finkel," he says happily. "It's too bad Boris Karloff died," says a voice in the back of the plane. "He could have played Finkel's life story." "Yeah," was a counter, 'I Was a Teen Age Monster in the Pivot for San Diego.'"

THE CONVERSATION turned to the New York Knickerbockers who are currently "scarfing" the lead. "What's a "Knickerbocker'?" someone wants to know. Elgin stirred, savoring the opportunity. Chamberlain leaped in: "Wait a minute!" he said. "Now you wouldn't be about to tell a lie, would you, Elg? It ain't in you to lie, is it?" Elgin gave him a look of injured innocence. Then he sat back and smiled wistfully. Once more, he had stirred up the tranquility.

Yarborough Favored In Daytona 500 Race

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—No matter how you slice it, chubby Cale Yarborough has got to be favored to win Sunday's $208,000 Daytona 500.

The Timmonsville, S.C., tobacco farmer-Ford jockey will be starting fifth in the lineup behind pole man Buddy Baker who is in a Dodge Charger. If Yarborough wins, it will be four big ones in a row over Daytona's high-banked track.

Yarborough won last year's 500 and the last two "Firecracker 400" July 4 races here. He finished second behind David Pearson, Spartanburg, S.C., in another Ford in one of a pair of 125-milers yesterday.

The two qualifying races were won by Pearson and Bobby Isaac, Catawba, N.C., in a Dodge Charger. And they didn't develop into the wild Ford-Dodge duel which Sunday's run is expected to provide.

Fords finished one-two-three-four-five in the first race, and the Dodges one-two-three in the second.

In the third row will be Yarborough and Paul Goldsmith, Munster, Ind. in a Dodge, followed by Donnie Allison, Hueytown, Ala., and Indy 500 champ Bobby Unser, Albuquerque, N.M., in Fords.

Tar Baseballers In First Tourney

Plagued thus far by rain and lack of a practice field, the 1969 College of Marin baseball team opens its pre-season schedule this afternoon in Hayward, meeting San Joaquin Delta Junior College in the Chabot College Tournament.

Last year, the Tars (who came in second to host Chabot in last year's tournament) led the Golden Valley Conference for most of the year before losing the title to traditional rival Santa Rosa JC. Marin and SRJC will both face tough competition in the Camino Norte Conference in the shape of DeAnza of Cupertino and West Valley of Campbell, according to coach Pete Limm.

Due to the recent rains and the fact that the baseball field is not usable, Limm's 28-man squad has stayed indoors much of the time, working on conditioning. With the COM field out for an indefinite period, Athletic Director Harry Pieper has arranged seven night games at San Rafael's Albert Field.

Limm plans to field two teams and see what he has in the two-day double-elimination tourney. Included among the veterans are last year's best hitters, John Sjoblom and Kevin Wilson, also a pitcher, Steve Lebeck, who sat out last year but played infield in 1966, Dan Obrantz and flinger Billy Poole. New players include Dave Obrantz, of San Rafael, brother of Dan and also an infielder, first baseman John Kowski of Redwood, Mike Ferretti, outfielder Gary Delepere of Tomales, Steve Trono of Terra Linda, Jeff Paquette, Gary Dinkel and Jim Scoville a Redwood infielder.

Unless they drop both games today, Marin will be playing two more tomorrow.

College-Style Oaks Whip Dallas Easily

OAKLAND (AP) — Alex Hannum has been trying to get his Oakland Oaks to play like college kids and they came up with two attributes of a good college team last night.

Using a fast break and getting a balanced scoring attack, the Oaks clipped Dallas 119-109 in an American Basketball Association contest before 3,547 at the Oakland Arena.

The Oaks who seek their fourth straight at the Arena Saturday night against Los Angeles, blazed to a 64-42 halftime lead but had to fight back in the last quarter after Dallas, hitting 43 points in the third period, edged ahead several times.

Russell Makes Moving Plea At BSU Meeting

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Bill Russell, player-coach of the Boston Celtics, returned to his alma mater yesterday to make an emotional plea for racial harmony in the United States.

"For this country to be what it can be, I would die," Russell told a Black Student Union meeting also attended by hundreds of white students.

The two-time All-America player and 11-time first or second string all-NBA performer said "it's a sad, sad thing for this country not to be what it can be. This is a great country—it can be greater."

"The only way we can get along is if we walk down the street together. If we don't, I'll hate you for being condescending and you'll hate me for being unappreciative."

Russell said that blacks are so frustrated by racists that it could "lead to a rage so great I would want to kill every one of them."

He said that if someone could find a way to make a profit out of better race relations, the problem would be solved "in a week at the most."

He said there is a "welfare mentality" in many Americans "which destroys a man's ambition."

"There are always people who will succeed despite the prevailing system and there are those who will fail despite the prevailing system. I'm concerned about those in the middle.

Russell has written harshly of USF in various books and magazines, but he told the rally he bore no animosity against the school although he did meet racial bias during his collegiate days.

At the meeting, a five-point demand, including the resignation of athletic director Pete Pelleta, that has been submitted to University of San Francisco officials was made public by the Black Students Union.

In addition to asking for Pelleta's resignation, the BSU demanded that the name of the Memorial Gym be changed to Bill Russell Gymnasium; the hiring of Negro coaches; and regular scholarships for Negro athletes.

The fifth was an announcement that the black athlete alumni would form its own association.

Aaron Waits Out Strike On Tennis

ATLANTA (AP) — Hank Aaron doesn't plan to play baseball as long as the players are on strike, but the Atlanta Braves' slugger definitely can't make a living out of his newest sport.

"Tennis is a little different," the 35-year-old baseball great said in an interview, after spraying balls all over the court.

"But I like it. And since I don't enjoy golf, I figure it's good way to help get into shape."

Aaron is packing an extra 10 pounds right now while he sweats out the dispute between the players and the owners over the pension fund.

"I'm anxious to start playing," Aaron said. "But I won't sign my contract until the dispute is settled. It's a matter of principle.

"When you play with a bunch of guys, you stay with them," said the Atlanta right fielder. "It's not a matter of money. They have made me a fine offer—the same as I got last year."

That puts Aaron at the $100,000 a year level for the third straight season.

"I'm not going to camp until this thing is settled," he added. "Bill Bartholomy (Atlanta owner) has been great, and I really like to play for him. But I just can't play until everything is worked out."

Aaron isn't scheduled to report until next Thursday, and he said he thinks the dispute will be settled by then.

"I don't think I'll have any trouble getting into shape," he said. "I weight 190 pounds, which is about 10 pounds too much. But I'll get it off."

Aaron likes to play at about 180 pounds, which is about 15 more than he weighed when he made his big league debut in 1954.

During his 15 major league campaigns, Aaron has slammed 510 home runs. He has a lifetime batting average of .314, although he slipped to .287 last year.

A right fielder most of his career, Aaron experimented at first base in 1968 but is scheduled to play the outfield this season.

Aaron started playing tennis just a few weeks ago and readily admits he still is a bush leaguer in that sport.

Wisconsin Trying To Get Elroy Hirsh

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The University of Wisconsin, troubled by sagging athletic department fortunes, gave former Badger star Elroy "Crazy Legs" Hirsch the red carpet treatment Thursday and left little doubt it wanted him to assume the post of athletic director.

Hirsch, assistant to the president of the Los Angeles Rams, was escorted on a tour of the Big Ten school by Milt Bruhn, former Wisconsin football coach and now acting athletic director.

The university has scheduled a news conference for Friday, presumably to announce Hirsch's selection.

Wisconsin's former athletic director, Ivan B. "Ivy" Williamson, who died after a fall in his home Wednesday night, was recently removed as athletic director following two winless football seasons and mounting athletic department debts.

Basketball Road Trip: One Of Life's Vacuums

NEW YORK—North Central Airlines flight No. 579 kicked and bucked and groaned its way out to flight line, and in Seat No. 17A, Elgin Baylor surveyed a map with distaste as if it were a missed layup.

"Thirty minutes from Chicago to Milwaukee and it ain't but 68 miles," he complained loudly to the gods.

Elgin turned his imperious gaze on Chamberlain. "It's 68 air miles. It's 90 miles by dogsled. But we're going to fly there. At least, I thnk we are, if they ever get the rubber bands around the props on this thing. Where did they get this airplane — in the Smithsonian? How many wings it got. You could walk to Milwaukee in 30 minutes. The squatters made it in 30 minutes 100 years ago."

HE WENT back to studying his map. "Hey!" he exclaimed, "you know there was a nonstop out of L.A. to Milwaukee? Who made up our schedule?" 'Beef' did," someone told him. "Beef" is the quondam coach and current general manager or the Los Angeles Lakers, Fred Schaus. "Beef" is the repository of almost as many complaints in absentia as he was when he was coaching. Basketball players think the Johnstown Flood was started by the front office, which is a very rich organization given over only to counting money and arranging harassing travel schedules.

"NO, 'SNIFFLES' did," corrected Elgin Baylor. "Sniffles" would be Rod Hundley, the only 6-foot 4-inch radio broadcaster this side of Howard Cosell, whom he does not otherwise resemble. Elgin woul have a nickname for the Angel Gabriel and, chances are it would not be complimentary. Elgin sees a flawed world.

Flight 579 finally hit the ground in Milwaukee right on schedule, taxiing up alongside one of the line's gleaming new jets. "Why didn't we take that?" someone asked. "That's just a prop," Elgin informed him. "It don't fly at all."

THE BASKETBALL road trip is one of life's great vacuums — long periods of crashing boredom, punctuated by headlong 90-foot dashes up and down a hardwood floor every 24 seconds.

The first thing done when a crew hits an airport is known as the "all-court scarf." "Scarf" is a verb in Lakerland. It means, sort of, "to eat." "Scarfing" is distinct from regular eating in the length of time devoted to digestion. For instance, a tuna fish sandwich calls for the gulp "scarf." It and a carton of milk will be lucky to last a full three-second rule. It's in and out of the key in a hurry. The Lakers can empty a sandwich counter without hardly pausing as they go by.

HOTELS COME in for a good deal of criticism. The motel in Milwaukee was modern and neat and only two or so stories high. "Is this the biggest building in Milwaukee?" was the innocent question. "Or do you have a whole lot of other skyscrapers?"

The hotel in New York, like much of New York, has seen grander days. "They're going to tear it down and put up a shack," one of the Lakers said. "The Queen of England stopped here," someone said. "And was Sir Francis Drake with her?" someone else wanted to know.

IN MILWAUKEE, a voice in the back marvels at the presence of elevators. "What they have elevators in this place for? You could step out of a second-story window." "They go sideways," someone explained to him.

The game in Milwaukee is a 48-minute athletic disgrace. The Lakers throw the ball aound like a hot diamond when the cops come. The coach looks at them as though they were something crawling off his breakfast plate.

THE RIDE to New York was as quiet as the Lakers ever get. Elgin had had enough of this by the time they were over Buffalo. He spotted Mel Counts, the 7-foot center.

"Melvin, did you go out with 'Frankenstein' the other night?" "Frankenstein" is the San Diego Rockets' 7-foot pivot man, Henry Finkel. Sometimes he comes out "Finkelstein" in Elgin's menagerie. Have they got the bolts out yet?" Elgin wonders. "Is he fully programmed yet?"

"WHO IS 'Frankenstein'?" Elgin is asked. "Finkel," he says happily. "It's too bad Boris Karloff died," says a voice in the back of the plane. "He could have played Finkel's life story." "Yeah," was a counter, 'I Was a Teen Age Monster in the Pivot for San Diego.'"

THE CONVERSATION turned to the New York Knickerbockers who are currently "scarfing" the lead. "'What's a "Knickerbocker'?" someone wants to know. Elgin stirred, savoring the opportunity. Chamberlain leaped in: "Wait a minute!" he said. "Now you wouldn't be about to tell a lie, would you, Elg? It ain't in you to lie, is it?" Elgin gave him a look of injured innocence. Then he sat back and smiled wistfully. Once more, he had stirred up the tranquility.

Yarborough Favored In Daytona 500 Race

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—No matter how you slice it, chubby Cale Yarborough has got to be favored to win Sunday's $208,000 Daytona 500.

The Timmonsville, S.C., tobacco farmer-Ford jockey will be starting fifth in the lineup behind pole man Buddy Baker who is in a Dodge Charger. If Yarborough wins, it will be four big ones in a row over Daytona's high-banked track.

Yarborough won last year's 500 and the last two "Firecracker 400" July 4 races here. He finished second behind David Pearson, Spartanburg, S.C., in another Ford in one of a pair of 125-milers yesterday.

The two qualifying races were won by Pearson and Bobby Isaac, Catawba, N.C., in a Dodge Charger. And they didn't develop into the wild Ford-Dodge duel which Sunday's run is expected to provide.

Fords finished one-two-three-four-five in the first race, and the Dodges one-two-three in the second.

In the third row will be Yarborough and Paul Goldsmith, Munster, Ind. in a Dodge, followed by Donnie Allison, Hueytown, Ala., and Indy 500 champ Bobby Unser, Albuquerque, N.M., in Fords.

Tar Baseballers In First Tourney

Plagued thus far by rain and lack of a practice field, the 1969 College of Marin baseball team opens its pre-season schedule this afternoon in Hayward, meeting San Joaquin Delta Junior College in the Chabot College Tournament.

Last year, the Tars (who came in second to host Chabot in last year's tournament) led the Golden Valley Conference for most of the year before losing the title to traditional rival Santa Rosa JC. Marin and SRJC will both face tough competition in the Camino Norte Conference in the shape of DeAnza of Cupertino and West Valley of Campbell, according to coach Pete Limm.

Due to the recent rains and the fact that the baseball field is not usable, Limm's 28-man squad has stayed indoors much of the time, working on conditioning. With the COM field out for an indefinite period, Athletic Director Harry Pieper has arranged seven night games at San Rafael's Albert Field.

Limm plans to field two teams and see what he has in the two-day double-elimination tourney. Included among the veterans are last year's best hitters, John Sjoblom and Kevin Wilson, also a pitcher, Steve Lebeck, who sat out last year but played infield in 1966, Dan Obrantz and flinger Billy Poole. New players include Dave Obrantz, of San Rafael, brother of Dan and also an infielder, first baseman John Kowski of Redwood, Mike Ferretti, outfielder Gary Delepere of Tomales, Steve Trono of Terra Linda, Jeff Paquette, Gary Dinkel and Jim Scoville a Redwood infielder.

Unless they drop both games today, Marin will be playing two more tomorrow.

College-Style Oaks Whip Dallas Easily

OAKLAND (AP) — Alex Hannum has been trying to get his Oakland Oaks to play like college kids and they came up with two attributes of a good college team last night.

Using a fast break and getting a balanced scoring attack, the Oaks clipped Dallas 119-109 in an American Basketball Association contest before 3,547 at the Oakland Arena.

The Oaks who seek their fourth straight at the Arena Saturday night against Los Angeles, blazed to a 64-42 halftime lead but had to fight back in the last quarter after Dallas, hitting 43 points in the third period, edged ahead several times.

Russell Makes Moving Plea At BSU Meeting

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Bill Russell, player-coach of the Boston Celtics, returned to his alma mater yesterday to make an emotional plea for racial harmony in the United States.

"For this country to be what it can be, I would die," Russell told a Black Student Union meeting also attended by hundreds of white students.

The two-time All-America player and 11-time first or second string all-NBA performer said "it's a sad, sad thing for this country not to be what it can be. This is a great country—it can be greater."

"The only way we can get along is if we walk down the street together. If we don't, I'll hate you for being condescending and you'll hate me for being unappreciative."

Russell said that blacks are so frustrated by racists that it could "lead to a rage so great I would want to kill every one of them."

He said that if someone could find a way to make a profit out of better race relations, the problem would be solved "in a week at the most."

He said there is a "welfare mentality" in many Americans "which destroys a man's ambition."

"There are always people who will succeed despite the prevailing system and there are those who will fail despite the prevailing system. I'm concerned about those in the middle.

Russell has written harshly of USF in various books and magazines, but he told the rally he bore no animosity against the school although he did meet racial bias during his collegiate days.

At the meeting, a five-point demand, including the resignation of athletic director Pete Pelleta, that has been submitted to University of San Francisco officials was made public by the Black Students Union.

In addition to asking for Pelleta's resignation, the BSU demanded that the name of the Memorial Gym be changed to Bill Russell Gymnasium; the hiring of Negro coaches; and regular scholarships for Negro athletes.

The fifth was an announcement that the black athlete alumni would form its own association.

Aaron Waits Out Strike On Tennis

ATLANTA (AP) — Hank Aaron doesn't plan to play baseball as long as the players are on strike, but the Atlanta Braves' slugger definitely can't make a living out of his newest sport.

Aaron has taken up tennis. As a tennis player, he's no Hank Aaron.

"When you play with a bunch of guys, you stay with them," said the Atlanta right fielder. "It's not a matter of money. They have made me a fine offer —the same as I got last year."

That puts Aaron at the $100,000 a year level for the third straight season.

"I'm not going to camp until this thing is settled," he added. "Bill Bartholomy (Atlanta owner) has been great, and I really like to play for him. But I just can't play until everything is worked out."

Aaron isn't scheduled to report until next Thursday, and he said he thinks the dispute will be settled by then.

"I don't think I'll have any trouble getting into shape," he said. "I weight 190 pounds, which is about 10 pounds too much. But I'll get it off."

Aaron likes to play at about 180 pounds, which is about 15 more than he weighed when he made his big league debut in 1954.

During his 15 major league campaigns, Aaron has slammed 510 home runs. He has a lifetime batting average of .314, although he slipped to .287 last year.

A right fielder most of his career, Aaron experimented at first base in 1968 but is scheduled to play the outfield this season.

Aaron started playing tennis just a few weeks ago and readily admits he still is a bush leaguer in that sport.

Wisconsin Trying To Get Elroy Hirsh

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The University of Wisconsin, troubled by sagging athletic department fortunes, gave former Badger star Elroy "Crazy Legs" Hirsch the red carpet treatment Thursday and left little doubt it wanted him to assume the post of athletic director.

Hirsch, assistant to the president of the Los Angeles Rams, was escorted on a tour of the Big Ten school by Milt Bruhn, former Wisconsin football coach and now acting athletic director.

The university has scheduled a news conference for Friday, presumably to announce Hirsch's selection.

Wisconsin's former athletic director, Ivan B. "Ivy" Williamson, who died after a fall in his home Wednesday night, was recently removed as athletic director following two winless football seasons and mounting athletic department debts.

Little Oil Damage To Fish, Wildlife

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Despite the magnitude of the oil spill of Santa Barbara, and the damage done to beaches, private boats and installations, fish and wildlife losses thus far have been surprisingly light.

Of course, the Department of Fish and Game's efforts to protect fish and wildlife will continue for many months, but thus far only water birds have been affected, mostly grebes and scoters.

Slightly over 1,000 contaminated fowl have been brought to the Department of Fish and Game's two treatment centers, according to DFG Director Ray Arnett. Biologists have been able to save about half of these.

"There have been no verified reports of fish and wildlife losses other than water birds," Arnett said. "Seals and sea lions on Ancapa and the other channel islands have shown no signs of distress; and whales and porpoises migrating through the area have done so with no discernable ill effects.

"One porpoise, found dead on Anacapa Island, was believed to have died from effects not associated with the oil spill," Arnett said.

The Department of Fish and Game's chief concern at present is over the marine environment on the beaches and shallow tidal pools, such as clams, mussels and abalone.

The Fish and Game Department's efforts to protect fish and wildlife and monitor losses off Santa Barbara have been extensive. As soon as news of the oil slick was received the DFG dispatched a special task force of 21 biologists, enforcement officers and other key personnel. Skin divers, aircraft and vessels have carried on continuous monitoring to determine the effects of the slick on all forms of marine life.

Two treatment centers were immediately established to care for any creatures effected by the spill.

These efforts are expected to continue until all danger is past.

TALENTED TOTEM — Top to bottom are twin brothers Ken and Kirt Donaldson and their Novato High School teammates Paul Robertson and Rob McCown who will compete in Northern California State high school wrestling championships at Stockton tomorrow. Also competing will be Tamalpais High School heavyweight Charles McBride.

WRESTLING

Twins Lead Marin Stars To Stockton

Fantastic high school wrestling careers will end tomorrow when twin brothers Ken and Kirt Donaldson of Novato head Marin County Athletic League delegation of wrestlers to the Northern California State meet at Stockton.

Also in the state meet are fellow Novato Hornets Rob McCown, Tom Zechlin and Paul Robertson and Tamalpais heavyweight Charles McBride.

Ken Donaldson won the 123-pound class title, in addition to capturing the trophy for fastest falls and outstanding wrestler trophy, at last Saturday's North Coast Section meet in Hayward.

His twin brother Kirt took the 111-pound championship and McCown won the 148-pound title. McBride was second in the heavyweight class, Robertson was third in the 136-pound division and Zechlin finished fourth in the 194-pound division.

HE'S PHENOMENAL

Ken Donaldson has compiled a phenomenal record in four years of wrestling.

He has won 119 of 123 matches over that span, has a string of 62 wins in a row and two unbeaten seasons. He'll be gunning for his second straight Northern California title after finishing third in his sophomore year. He has won three straight North Coast Section titles, four straight Marin County Athletic League titles and has never lost a league match. All of his losses came in tournament action, three of them as a freshman. He has won titles twice at each of the three different invitational high tournaments. This year, he is 25-0 with 19 falls.

But not to forget Kirt. He's only competed for three years, and has won 80 and lost 6 matches. He's never been beaten in dual meet competition and his only MCAL loss came in the league tournament of 1967 when he wound up facing his brother.

WHAT A RECORD

Kirt has won MCAL titles twice, has been third and first in the North Coast Section meet and second in the Northern California tussle. He also has won titles twice at these tournaments.

McCown is 26-0 this season with eight falls, was first in the four prep tournaments and first in North Coast Section meet. His three-year record reads 81 wins, 13 losses and two draws with 35 falls.

That's quite a trio. Their combined won-lost record for the season reads 76-0. Try and beat that!

Pistons Need Miraculous Valve Job

The Detroit Pistons will need a miraculous valve job to make the National Basketball Association playoffs, but they're firing on all cylinders as far as the Atlanta Hawks and Baltimore Bullets are concerned.

The Hawks completed a six-for-six season's sweep over the Pistons last night 97-87 and moved within 3½ games of front-running Los Angeles in the Western Division. Detroit has knocked off the pace-setting Lakers three of five but is 0-5 against Baltimore, which has a 4½-game bulge in the East.

LOWEST SCORE

In the ABA, Oakland trounced Dallas 119-109 and Minnesota downed New York 118-113.

Atlanta took a 51-40 halftime lead over Detroit, upped it to 74-59 after three periods and held the Pistons to their lowest home score of the season.

Lou Hudson paced the Hawks with 25 points, 16 of them in the middle two periods. Walt Bellamy and Happy Hariston had 17 apiece for the slumping Pistons.

John Barnhill, called up from the Eastern League just 12 games ago, keyed Baltimore's triumph by scoring 12 of his 18 points in the final period as the Bullets opened up a 13-point lead and then held off the Suns.

CAREER HIGH

Dick Van Arsdale of the losers hit a career high 44 points and Gail Goodrich added 28 while Earl Monroe and Ray Scott led the Bullets with 30 and 24.

Irish Aim For Second Try At UCLA In NCAA Meet

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two trips to New York in one season is enough for Notre Dame. Now the Irish want a second shot at UCLA, and the way they're going, they might get it.

The unranked Irish, headed toward one of their finest basketball seasons, rolled past a tough New York U. club 98-88 last night at Madison Square Garden for their sixth straight victory and an 18-5 record.

A week from Saturday Notre Dame returns to New York for a match against seventh-ranked St. John's and regardless of the outcome, the Irish are almost a certainty to get postseason bids to the NCAA tournament and the NIT in the Garden.

Given that choice, Coach Johnny Dee says the Irish will forsake another trip to the big city in hopes of getting another shot at UCLA.

"We want the chance to play the champions of conferences and we'd like another crack at Kentucky and UCLA," Dee said after his club wiped out NYU in the second half.

Notre Dame, an independent, lost to UCLA 88-75 in the second game of the season and fell to Kentucky 110-90 five games later, but the Irish are 13-2 since then and an optimistic bunch.

"Maybe on a certain night we could beat UCLA," center Bob Whitmore said. "There's always that chance."

Marquette, another team with a chance for the other NCAA bid that will go to a Midwest independent, raised its record to 19-4 with a 65-61 triumph at Denver. The Warriors, ranked 20th, were the only ranked team in action last night on a light college schedule.

Elsewhere, Houston blasted Lamar Tech 95-71, Drake gunned down Wichita State 120-94, Arizona upset New Mexico 77-75, Wake Forest edged North Carolina State 52-49, Arizona State defeated Wyoming 87-79 and in the opener of the Garden doubleheader, Temple crushed Manhattan 93-68.

Whitmore teamed with Austin Carr and Bob Arnzen to bury NYU as the trio combined for 69 points. After Carr, A Sophomore flash who missed 11 games with injuries, scored 15 of his 25 points to put Notre Dame ahead 47-41 at the half, Arnzen and Whitmore split 26 points in the final half as the Irish surged ahead 95-72. NYU scored 14 straight points to make the score respectable.

Marquette had problems with lowly Denver and was unable to take the lead until Joe Thomas hit a free throw with 4:40 left as Denver, 2-22, managed only three points in the final six minutes. Thomas finished with 17 points.

Drake, still nursing hopes in the Missouri Valley Conference, put on the shooting show of the night, hitting a stunning 67.1 per cent from the field, including 30 of 38 in the final half. Drake led 52-43 at the half.

Temple, another tournament hopeful, raised its record to 17-6 by running off the first 17 points against Manhattan, which went scoreless for the first 6½ minutes. Joe Cromer had 21 points for the Owls.

The Department of Fish and Game's chief concern at present is over the marine environment on the beaches and shallow tidal pools, such as clams, mussels and abalone.

The Fish and Game Department's efforts to protect fish and wildlife and monitor losses off Santa Barbara have been extensive. As soon as news of the oil slick was received the DFG dispatched a special task force of 21 biologists, enforcement officers and other key personnel. Skin divers, aircraft and vessels have carried on continuous monitoring to determine the effects of the slick on all forms of marine life.

Two treatment centers were immediately established to care for any creatures effected by the spill.

These efforts are expected to continue until all danger is past.

Irish Aim For Second Try At UCLA In NCAA Meet

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two trips to New York in one season is enough for Notre Dame. Now the Irish want a second shot at UCLA, and the way they're going, they might get it.

The unranked Irish, headed toward one of their finest basketball seasons, rolled past a tough New York U. club 98-88 last night at Madison Square Garden for their sixth straight victory and an 18-5 record.

A week from Saturday Notre Dame returns to New York for a match against seventh-ranked St. John's and regardless of the outcome, the Irish are almost a certainty to get postseason bids to the NCAA tournament and the NIT in the Garden.

Given that choice, Coach Johnny Dee says the Irish will forsake another trip to the big city in hopes of getting another shot at UCLA.

"We want the chance to play the champions of conferences and we'd like another crack at Kentucky and UCLA," Dee said after his club wiped out NYU in the second half.

Notre Dame, an independent, lost to UCLA 88-75 in the second game of the season and fell to Kentucky 110-90 five games later, but the Irish are 13-2 since then and an optimistic bunch.

"Maybe on a certain night we could beat UCLA," center Bob Whitmore said. "There's always that chance."

Marquette, another team with a chance for the other NCAA bid that will go to a Midwest independent, raised its record to 19-4 with a 65-61 triumph at Denver. The Warriors, ranked 20th, were the only ranked team in action last night on a light college schedule.

Elsewhere, Houston blasted Lamar Tech 95-71, Drake gunned down Wichita State 120-94, Arizona upset New Mexico 77-75, Wake Forest edged North Carolina State 52-49, Arizona State defeated Wyoming 87-79 and in the opener of the Garden doubleheader, Temple crushed Manhattan 93-68.

Whitmore teamed with Austin Carr and Bob Arnzen to bury NYU as the trio combined for 69 points. After Carr, A Sophomore flash who missed 11 games with injuries, scored 15 of his 25 points to put Notre Dame ahead 47-41 at the half, Arnzen and Whitmore split 26 points in the final half as the Irish surged ahead 95-72. NYU scored 14 straight points to make the score respectable.

Marquette had problems with lowly Denver and was unable to take the lead until Joe Thomas hit a free throw with 4:40 left as Denver, 2-22, managed only three points in the final six minutes. Thomas finished with 17 points.

Drake, still nursing hopes in the Missouri Valley Conference, put on the shooting show of the night, hitting a stunning 67.1 per cent from the field, including 30 of 38 in the final half. Drake led 52-43 at the half.

Willie McCarter scored 27 points for the Bulldogs.

Temple, another tournament hopeful, raised its record to 17-6 by running off the first 17 points against Manhattan, which went scoreless for the first 6½ minutes. Joe Cromer had 21 points for the Owls.

ALMANAC

Today is Friday, Feb. 21, the 52nd day of 1969 with 313 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Venus and Saturn.

In 1878 the New Haven, Conn., telephone company published the first directory of its kind, listing 50 subscribers.

In 1885 after 37 years of construction, the Washington Monument was dedicated.

In 1950 Hungary sentenced American businessman Robert Vogeler to 15 years in prison on charges of espionage. Vogeler served 17 months and was released in April of 1951.

In 1965 Black Muslim leader Malcolm X was fatally shot in New York City.

A thought for the day: Wendell Wilkie once said, "Our sovereignty is not something to be hardened but something to be used."

Antique Silver Spoons Missing

Two silver serving spoons both over 100 years old, were stolen from the purse of Mrs. Collette L. Bergeron Tuesday while she was shopping at J. C. Penney Co., Mrs. Bergeron reported to police.

Mrs. Bergeron, of 25 Diamond Head Passage, said she had shown the spoons to someone at the store at about 4:40 p.m., then returned them to her purse. Later, she told police, she found the spoons missing.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

An Enterprising Lead Brings About A Five-Heart Downfall

"The members of your cruise group are better trained than any we have played against before," leading Japanese experts told me after a special tournament held in Tokyo for the local players and my S. S. President Wilson bridge enthusiasts. Los Angeles expert Robert Wurdeman and Tokyo champion Akio Kurokawa won the tournament with ease even though they had met only minutes before beginning to play.

DAILY LESSONS

The excellent showing of the cruise passengers was due in part to daily lessons they got while the President Wilson was at sea. Today's hand shows one of the pointers they got on opening leads.

"After your partner jumps to four spades," I told them, showing them only the West hand and the bidding, "it is quite safe for you to lead the ace of spades. So safe, in fact, that South makes the contract. If you want to beat five hearts you must abandon safety and make an enterprising lead."

The enterprising lead is, of course, the singleton diamond. Recognizing the lead for what it is, South should attempt to camouflage the situation by winning a "finesse" with dummy's queen of diamonds.

MORE DECEPTION

South then gets to his hand with the ace of clubs to lead the jack of hearts. The idea is to lure West into playing his low trump in the hope that South is about to try a losing finesse against the queen of hearts.

West should not fall for this flimflammery. He steps up with the ace of trumps and leads a low spade. This enables East to win with the king of spades, a point West had in mind from the very beginning of his defense.

CAN DEFEAT

East returns a diamond, seeing the plot in spite of South's fake finesse at the first trick. West's ruff then defeats the contract.

They have also recommended the authorization of one million shares of $1 par value preferred stock. Santa Anita Consolidated owns the Los Angeles Turf Club, Hadley Auto Transport (a contract carrier for Ford Motor Co.) and has extensive real estate holdings in Southern California and a major stock interest in General Exploration Co. of California.

CROCKER-CITIZENS NATIONAL BANK directors have declared an increased dividend of 40 cents per share for the quarter ending March 31. Previously the annual dividend rate was $1.40 per share. The increase indicates an annual dividend rate of $.160 per share.

PACIFIC SOUTHWEST AIRLINES proposals to increase the capital stock and to approve a contemplated tender offer for stock of Western Airlines will be submitted to PSA shareholders at their annual meeting in April. This eliminates having a special meeting and provides additional time to process applications for regulatory approvals. The company reported earnings of $3,954,145 for the year ended Dec. 31, compared to $4,103,105 in 1967. Revenues in 1968 were $57 million, up from $48.8 million in 1967.

DI GIORGIO CORP. preliminary 1968 earnings amounted to just over $3 million, or $1.62 per common share. These earnings, among the highest in the corporation's history, compare with $2.48 million in 1967 or $1.30 per share. Operating earnings include the effect of provisions for federal income tax surcharge equivalent to 12 cents per common share in 1968.

SCOVILL MANUFACTURING CO. will acquire Dominion Electric Corp. of Mansfield, Ohio, for cash in excess of $4 million. The agreement is subject to approval by Dominion stockholders. Dominion will continue its manufacture of hair dryers, portable ovens and other electrical appliances as a wholly owned subsidiary under its present management.

KAISER STEEL CORP. directors have increased the regular quarterly dividend on the common stock from 25 cents to 37.5 cents per share, payable on March 31. The board also declared the quarterly dividend of 36.5 cents per share on the $1.46 preferred stock for the same date.

Bonds, Preferreds Can Increase Income

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I retire next year at 70 on $1,000 a month. Can you review my enclosed list of holdings and offer suggestions for investing an additional $30,000? We are not interested in building an estate but want income — W.C.

A. Eaton, Yale & Towne and Ramada Inns, low-yielding growth stocks, both show you a good profit which I would accept. Your remaining issues, representing high-grade income-producing utilities, industrials and rails, should be held.

Capital from the suggested sales should be divided among Consolidated Edison $5 preferred, Pacific Gas & Electric 6 per cent preferred and Union Electric $4.50 preferred. These three high-quality issues will yield over 6 per cent.

Your additional funds I would invest in any of the following AAA-rated bonds: Boston Edison 6⅞s of 1998, Commonwealth Edison 6⅞s 1998 and Southwestern Bell Telephone 6¾s 2008.

Q. I have 100 shares of Admiral costing $58 a share. Should I sell at a loss or hold for a better price? M.B.

A. Although the color-TV market appears to have a rosy future, investor interest in the group is lagging. Admiral not only shares the malaise of the group but suffers from its own ills — specifically, heavy losses in 1967, a deficit in the first half of 1968 and lackluster sales. A small profit is expected for 1968 but the market, expecting a drop in consumer spending this year, has largely ignored the improvement in Admiral's basic position. Because recovery will probably be slow, I would take the loss.

Q. How can a 54-year-old single woman lighter her tax burden when income represents salary and interest on $86,000 paid by savings and loan association? Switch savings into tax-deferred E bonds? — H.S.

A. Your tax problem — including my alternative switch suggestion — should be discussed with a tax specialist. You might fare better putting some savings into utilities from which dividends, partially tax-exempt, will yield more than E bond accruals. I suggest Atlantic City Electric, Pacific Power & Light, Potomac Electric and Puget Sound Power & Light. By retirement these could also show some capital gains.

Tourism Sets New Records In Bay City

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — San Francisco's visitor industry income reached the $243 million mark in 1968, topping all previous records. Richard L. Swig, president of the San Francisco Convention and Visitors Bureau, has announced.

Newly computed yearend stataistics reveal spending by out-of-city convention delegates and tourists climbed 3.9 per cent over the 1967 high of $245 million.

Convention and convention-related expenditures gave the local economy a $116 million boost last year, he said. San Francisco hosted 740 conclaves, 56 more than in 1967. These meetings attracted 527,528 out-of-town conventioneers, 12,652 (or 2.5 per cent) more than in 1967.

Visitor travel to San Francisco was up, too, by 5.2 per cent. A total of 2,222,163 non-convention visitors came to "everybody's favorite city" as compared to 2,113,250 the year before. Tourism spending here totaled $128 million. The 1967 figure was $122 million.

You can deduct up to $600 for the care of your child, or $900 for two or more children if it is necessary to enable you to work.

You can deduct this only if it is for the care of your child or stepchild under 13 years of age; or for the care of any other dependent for whom you are entitled to an exemption who is mentally or physically incapable of caring for himself.

The expense must be paid and it cannot be paid to an individual for whom you claim a dependency exemption.

You can only make this deduction provided the cost is for you to earn a living or to enable you to look for work.

CHILD CARE PAY

If you work only part of the day and pay for child care for all the day, you can deduct only the part that corresponds to the time you were working.

If the person you pay does work other than child care, such as house cleaning, the deduction is allowed only for the child care part.

The deduction is allowed to women and to widowers. Widowers include men who are divorced or legally separated and have not remarried. It is also allowed to husbands of incapacitated or institutionalized wives while the wife is disabled.

This deduction is allowed only if the wife is mentally or physically incapacitated or institutionalized for a period of 90 consecutive days unless the period is terminated by her death.

MARRIED STATUS

A married man or woman can deduct their child care expensee only if they file a joint return and together earn less than $6,000 per year.

If they earn over $6,000 per year, the deduction is reduced by the amount earned over the $6,000. This does not apply if the taxpayer's husband or wife is incapable of self-support because he or she is mentally or physically defective.

If you qualify, then get Form 2441 and complete it fully. Attach this Form 2441 to your tax return and claim the deduction on page 2, part IV, Miscellaneous Deductions.

Wall Street To Continue Shorter Day

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Stock Exchange board of governors yesterday voted to remain on its current four-hour, five-day trading schedule at least through March.

The big board, the American Stock Exchange, and the over-the-counter market have been operating on a 10 .a.m-2 p.m. EST trading schedule so far this year and had been on a four-day trading week from mid-June to the end of 1968. The purpose is to provide brokerage firms with sufficient time to cope with a backlog of paperwork resulting from heavy trading.

The big board's decision to continue the 2 p.m. closing — one and one-half hours earlier than normal — follows the recommendation of the special ad hoc committee of exchange and brokerage firm representatives that is keeping the paperwork problem under constant review. The committee made its recommendation to the exchanges on Tuesday.

It was expected that regional stock markets would follow the big board's decision ot keep to the early closing.

Declares Dividend

LOS ANGELES (BW) — Beneficial Standard Corp. has declared a cash dividend of 15 cents per share on the company's Common B stock, payable April 14 to stockholder of record at the close of business on March 14.

New Holding Firm Set By Southern Pacific

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — Directors of Southern Pacific Co. have approved a plan, for the formation of a holding company which could engage in non-transportation activities.

The plan as announced by President B. F. Biaggini yesterday provides for the existing Southern Pacific Co. to be merged into a new company called Southern Pacific Transportation Co., which will be a wholly owned subsidiary of a new holding company temporarily called S.P., Inc. Upon consummation of the plan S.P., Inc., will then assume the name Southern Pacific Co.

The entire plan will be submitted for stockholder approval at the annual meeting on May 14 and the proposed merger between Southern Pacific Co. and Southern Pacific Transportation Co. will be submitted soon for Interstate Commerce Commission approval, Biaggini said.

"Southern Pacific has sought for many years to diversify its services to the public," Biaggini commented. "In addition to its principal business of directly providing rail transportation service, it operates motor carriers and pipelines as well as other rail carriers.

Some Reasons Why School Bond Issues Fail

Well, back to the old drawing board!

That seems to be the story for the San Rafael Elementary School District after the second turndown within 16 months of a bond issue to build one new school and expand or improve present ones.

The $2,100,000 bond issue placed before voters of the district on Tuesday fared a bit better than did the $3,100,000 proposal of Oct. 24, 1967. It drew 60 per cent favorable votes, as compared with 53 per cent for the earlier proposal. But it fell well short of the two-thirds required.

As on the previous occasion, those who did not vote really decided the issue. The voter turnout was almost identical — 38 per cent of those registered this time, 37 per cent in October, 1967. The decision against bonding thus was made by a minority.

WHY DID SO MANY not vote? The obvious conclusion is that they do not care, one way or the other. It may be, however, that there is another reason. Many of them may not be convinced by the arguments for the need, yet do not wish to vote "against schools," so they adopt the path of least resistance by avoiding a commitment.

There are reasons why many people may feel unsure about the need for school bonds.

When the $3.1 million issue was placed before San Rafael Elementary School District voters in October, 1967, the citizen committee pushing it said defeat would mean one or more of three things: increased class sizes, double sessions, and/or reduction in bus transportation to cut costs. The committee also said that to delay building was sure to increase the price.

None of these things happened. And when the new bond issue was put before voters, it was a million dollars less than that turned down previously — although, like the preceding one, it included "something for everybody" with money earmarked for some work at each neighborhood school.

SUPT. JOHN F. PLANK suggested that campus unrest at colleges and high schools contributed to Tuesday's bond issue defeat. It may have done so. But parent resentment is not only over the nonsense on college campuses. Some of it is directed at the local schools.

One parent, in a letter to the editor which arrived too late for publication before the election, charged the schools have failed. "Graduates who cannot comprehend what they read, write legibly or make correct change are living proof of failure," she wrote.

She added that though Plank and Paul McMullin, chairman of the YES Committee, encouraged attending board meetings and speaking out, "all legitimate queries are put down" at such meetings. "Parents' and taxpayers' comments are invited, but if they do not agree with the board of education, the principal and the teachers they are either wrong or 'fallacious,' " she wrote.

This is a complaint that has been heard before. In fact, it is a rather common one in many school districts.

ANOTHER REASON why many feel doubtful about school bonds was given in a letter by H. C. Downer of Kentfield, published yesterday. Downer, a man with school building experience, wrote: "Obviously, at least from the picture shown, little thought was given to economy" in planning the Glenwood Middle School.

That is something the board of education and its staff (and architects) might bear in mind when they go back to the old drawing board — that, along with whether some of the things proposed to give "something to everybody" are necessary.

Maybe they can even cut the cost below $2.1 million.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Foran Committee Experiment May Bring Back Steam Car

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — It's easy to become a steam engine buff these days, with gasoline motors held the major cause of air pollution.

While many legislators recognize the slowly increasing dangers of air pollution, Assemblyman John Francis Foran, D-San Francisco, is a lawmaker who is doing what he can to put air back to as close to its normal, uncontaminated condition.

The San Francisco assemblyman's latest achievement in the experimental field is securing a $450,000 grant from the federal government to allow the Assembly to finance a steam bus demonstration project in his home city and Oakland.

UNDER FORAN'S immediate plan, four public transit buses would be tested, two in each of the cities, on normal commuter routes for a period of nine months.

He hopes this period of pregnancy may give birth to a brain-child which, if it does not completely revolutionize propulsion of commuter facilities, at least will improve public transportation to the point where fewer dangers exist for a moving public.

"Testimony received last year by the Assembly Transportation Committee indicated that steam engines are smaller, lighter, require less maintenance, and are virtually noiseless," he said.

"The most common complaints I hear against conventional buses are the foul smelling fumes they belch into the air, and their noisy operating levels.

"On the other hand, the steam powered bus is virtually odorless, noiseless and smog free."

FORAN IS chairman of the transportation committee. As a result of the committee's work last year, the California Highway Patrol soon will be test driving steam-powered cars on the highways. If these tests are successful, the results will constitute almost conclusive proof that steam could be adapted to the passenger car, with resultant descrease in air pollution.

The testing programs do not mean that all of a sudden the state or the nation will convert from gasoline to steam. It would take many years to achieve such a goal if it ever were achieved at all.

There are multi-billion dollar economic factors to consider and solve, but even automobile manufacturers are recognizing the handwriting on the wall, with General Motors aiding in the highway patrol experiment by furnishing chassis for the steam-powered test cars.

THE EXPERIMENT in steam is a reversion to an earlier method of transportation which only lately has gone out of style. The railroad steam engine, the Stanley and White steam autos exist today only as museum pieces. But it is conceivable that if necessity demands revival of the steam car, the revival will occur.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Nothing Wrong With W. Marin Air

According to recent scientific research on air pollution the news is that 8 per cent of such pollution in Marin County comes from back yard incinerators or back yard burning. These tests must have been taken in a back yard next to the bus terminal in San Rafael, and no doubt such research costs the taxpayer many dollars.

I drive throughout western Marin daily and cover approximately 60 miles, San Geronimo Valley, Hicks Valley, Nicasio and the outskirts of Novato and find the air very invigorating and extremely pleasant. An occasional whiff of smoke from a burning pile of leaves or discarded shrubs makes one feel that he is in the country and is enjoying good outdoor living.

An excellent system of controlled burning as prescribed by the county fire department during the winter and summer and well supervised should be enough.

There seems to be too much emphasis on the upper air and not sufficient effort to keep the ground we walk and play on in a healthful condition.

Some legislation should be enacted to curb the manufacture of throw-away bottles, cans and other food containers that comprise about 90 per cent of the litter that is ever present on the roadways and trails in our beautiful county. Abandoned automobiles on private property as well as on public roads is getting to be a hazard and health problem.

Mr. William H. Gnoss is to be commended for his stand on the air pollution matter brought before the board of supervisors recently.

To stop back yard burning is ridiculous in the areas of western Marin, and would be a cause for additional health hazards and a haven for breeding mice and rats. There is nothing wrong with the good fresh air in Western Marin.

Zucker Credited With Reforms

Until a few years ago, Marin's development patterns were haphazard. They left the county with an inheritance of serious problems including terrible roads, strip commercial, a good bit of sprawl, drainage disasters and development of known flood areas, lots with 25-foot frontage, etc.

Paul Zucker was appointed county planning director in January, 1966. Since then we have seen the coounty's subdivision and zoning ordinances brought up to date, and we now have the protection of effective enforcement. We have seen the beginnings of some really useful and valuable planning efforts that are giving us desirable development patterns, coupled with an attempt to correct some of the shambles inherited from the past. I have felt that a large share of the credit for improved planning and control of development belongs to Mr. Zucker.

Against this background, the statements of the 1968 Grand Jury criticizing Mr. Zucker just don't ring true. Some builders and developers are reported as highly critical of Mr. Zucker. Is it possible that these people are sore because they can't bend the ordinances, or get a special exception? Most of us "little guys" depend on having the ordinances enforced down the line for the benefit of the county, so we won't turn into another L.A., east Fresno, or Phoenix, Ariz. (been there lately?).

'Unfriendly' Speaks On Wolfback Ridge

This is in reply to the letter from H. G. Koch, Sausalito, on his Wolfback Ridge encounter. I'm a seven-year resident of the ridge and live next to the homesite for sale which he mentioned. As of now I do not know who the gun wielder is, if it's true, but am dying to find out. The object of this letter is to comment on some of his other statements.

First, the promontory above the Waldo Tunnel is state park property, formerly military, and it as well as miles of scenic land along the north side of the Golden Gate are available to him for his walks in the sun.

The overpass is a state structure and was provided because the law prevents the bisecting of city without providing access to both sides of the freeway.

There are at least five signs (those not stolen or smashed by trespassers) which state that the road, west of the overpass, is private property. . . . In spite of these, a neighbor of mine was threatened by a trespasser whom he saw on my property in my absence, several residents have been burglarized and one of them twice.

We "Unfriendlies" as he calls us must pave and maintain this road, and must remove the debris and dumpings of the trespassers who also become indignant when asked not to pick the wildflowers we prefer to leave undisturbed for mutual enjoyment. . . .

Helping to tighten our attitudes towards trespassers was the late Mr. Frouge's defunct Marincello. He attempted to annex the road as one access to his development. Lately the government has pockmarked the hills north of the road with test drillings for their proposed nuclear missile site which through some obscure reasoning they feel should be plunked in the middle of the highly populated Bay Area. . . .

Maybe for a lesson in tolerance we should all go have a picnic on Mr. Koch's driveway.

Airlines Should Keep Student Fares

About eight years ago, American Airlines thought up the idea of a half-fare stand-by rate for children from 12 to 21 years of age. This idea was well received by the public, the reason why other airlines copied it.

Because of this special rate, buses, trains, and other transportation services have lost much of their customers and they are complaining. This is why an examiner of Civil Aeronautics suggested that student fare be discontinued.

Not only the airlines would lose money because of the discontinuation, but the parents of students would have to pay double to get their sons and daughters home for Christmas and other holidays. . . .

Another reason for not discontinuing student fare is that because of this fare, students can fly all over the country, or the world for that matter, at half price and see things they might never be able to otherwise. . . .

THE DRUMMONDS

Major Parties Move Together As Their Old Ideologies Fade

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — What's the difference between today's Democratic and Republican parties?

Not much — less than ever.

Ideology is fading in American political life — metooism is no longer an epithet; it's fact. The issue is no longer who can do what but who can do it better. This can be good.

EVER SINCE the New Deal, when the depression left state and city governments nearly bankrupt and unable to care for the mounting millions of idle workers, the touchstone of difference between the parties has been whether to use big, centralized federal government to deal with social and economic problems.

The Democrats welcomed the flow of power to Washington and promoted it. The Republicans, for the most part, opposed it.

Now a reverse movement is evident within both parties and is bringing them remarkably close together on this key element in the philosophy and practice of American government.

Each is putting on the other's clothes and the elephant and the donkey are beginning to look alike and act alike.

HERE'S WHAT'S happening:

Traditional Democrats are rejecting the idea that Big Government can provide the best solution to everything, that the panacea is to pass a law and appropriate a billion dollars.

Traditional Republicans, led by President Nixon, are recognizing that there is much that the federal government must continue to do to meet today's problems and at points, as in education and job-training, there may be more.

Traditional Democrats are coming to see that private businessmen and private enterprise can and are eager to do much more to help solve community problems. Traditional Republicans are finding that there are many things private groups cannot do without federal aid.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield has said that the need today is not for Congress to pass a lot more legislation but to refine and put more order into what's already on the books.

THIS MOVEMENT away from ideology and toward problem-solving in whatever way works best is already having political effects within both parties. It is alienating some Republican conservatives because it is not diminishing the federal government. It is alienating some Democratic liberals who still think that more centralized government is the thing.

What is bringing this about at this time? Three things. The Republicans have an extremely activist President and a professional politican in the White House for the first time since Theodore Roosevelt. He is more pragmatic than ideolgical and he does not intend to neglect using a single workable means of easing the nation's crucial crises.

Many realistic-minded Democrats and Republicans realize that at major points, like the thicket of federal aid programs, Big Government has failed and something different must be tried.

There is political gold in this movement. The party which attunes itself first and best to the new era will mine the votes.

Weapon Costs Escalate Along With Arms Race

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — Heavy cost overruns, producing a jet escalation in weapon costs, are worrying Pentagon budget officers. All the services are involved. Many, if not most, of their weapons systems are affected.

House and Senate Armed Services Committee will start hearings on the annual defense procurement bills as soon as President Nixon recommends adjustments in the Johnson defense budget — probably in early March.

With the Anti-Ballistic Missile system under heavy congressional fire and the Pueblo seizure scheduled for intensive scrutiny in the House and Senate, some Pentagon officials are saying dryly that they could have done without a cost-overrun controversy this year.

SO FAR, published reports on cost escalations have dealt mostly with the giant C5A cargo plane. In a series of hearings, the House-Senate Economic Committee made a horrible example of C5A costs.

According to the committee's data, the $3.1 billion 1965 cost estimate for the first 120 of the Lockheed C5As has been run up to $5.1 billion. That $2 billion increase may be something of a record.

Comparable percentage increases are anticipated, however, for smaller contracts dealihg with less expensive weapons. Inflated production costs and additional performance requirements ordered by the services are said to contribute to overrunning initial estimates.

Weapons experts claim that the increased costs do not, in themselves, mean the taxpayer is getting a bad bargain .The experts know, however, that such cost increases will provoke loud congressional demands for improved procurement procedures.

The 1967 cost estimate for a nuclear powered aircraft carrier was $427 million, but the price had hit $537 million last summer. Nuclear attack submarines, priced at $71.6 million each two years ago, are now upward of $81.3 million, and the $135 million 1967 price for a guided missile Frigate has risen to $180 million.

THE ANTICIPATED furor over cost escalation and weapon price overruns has already altered the role of one of the most influential congressional investigating groups — the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee.

Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., is focusing the work of the subcommittee on weapons procurement to a much greater extent than in recent years.

Some Reasons Why School Bond Issues Fail

Well, back to the old drawing board!

That seems to be the story for the San Rafael Elementary School District after the second turndown within 16 months of a bond issue to build one new school and expand or improve present ones.

The $2,100,000 bond issue placed before voters of the district on Tuesday fared a bit better than did the $3,100,000 proposal of Oct. 24, 1967. It drew 60 per cent favorable votes, as compared with 53 per cent for the earlier proposal. But it fell well short of the two-thirds required.

As on the previous occasion, those who did not vote really decided the issue. The voter turnout was almost identical — 38 per cent of those registered this time, 37 per cent in October, 1967. The decision against bonding thus was made by a minority.

WHY DID SO MANY not vote? The obvious conclusion is that they do not care, one way or the other. It may be, however, that there is another reason. Many of them may not be convinced by the arguments for the need, yet do not wish to vote "against schools," so they adopt the path of least resistance by avoiding a commitment.

There are reasons why many people may feel unsure about the need for school bonds.

When the $3.1 million issue was placed before San Rafael Elementary School District voters in October, 1967, the citizen committee pushing it said defeat would mean one or more of three things: increased class sizes, double sessions, and/or reduction in bus transportation to cut costs. The committee also said that to delay building was sure to increase the price.

None of these things happened. And when the new bond issue was put before voters, it was a million dollars less than that turned down previously — although, like the preceding one, it included "something for everybody" with money earmarked for some work at each neighborhood school.

SUPT. JOHN F. PLANK suggested that campus unrest at colleges and high schools contributed to Tuesday's bond issue defeat. It may have done so. But parent resentment is not only over the nonsense on college campuses. Some of it is directed at the local schools.

One parent, in a letter to the editor which arrived too late for publication before the election, charged the schools have failed. "Graduates who cannot comprehend what they read, write legibly or make correct change are living proof of failure," she wrote.

She added that though Plank and Paul McMullin, chairman of the YES Committee, encouraged attending board meetings and speaking out, "all legitimate queries are put down" at such meetings. "Parents' and taxpayers' comments are invited, but if they do not agree with the board of education, the principal and the teachers they are either wrong or 'fallacious,'" she wrote.

This is a complaint that has been heard before. In fact, it is a rather common one in many school districts.

ANOTHER REASON why many feel doubtful about school bonds was given in a letter by H. C. Downer of Kentfield, published yesterday. Downer, a man with school building experience, wrote: "Obviously, at least from the picture shown, little thought was given to economy" in planning the Glenwood Middle School.

That is something the board of education and its staff (and architects) might bear in mind when they go back to the old drawing board — that, along with whether some of the things proposed to give "something to everybody" are necessary.

Maybe they can even cut the cost below $2.1 million.

Foran Committee Experiment May Bring Back Steam Car

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — It's easy to become a steam engine buff these days, with gasoline motors held the major cause of air pollution.

While many legislators recognize the slowly increasing dangers of air pollution, Assemblyman John Francis Foran, D-San Francisco, is a lawmaker who is doing what he can to put air back to as close to its normal, uncontaminated condition.

The San Francisco assemblyman's latest achievement in the experimental field is securing a $450,000 grant from the federal government to allow the Assembly to finance a steam bus demonstration project in his home city and Oakland.

UNDER FORAN'S immediate plan, four public transit buses would be tested, two in each of the cities, on normal commuter routes for a period of nine months.

He hopes this period of pregnancy may give birth to a brain-child which, if it does not completely revolutionize propulsion of commuter facilities, at least will improve public transportation to the point where fewer dangers exist for a moving public.

"Testimony received last year by the Assembly Transportation Committee indicated that steam engines are smaller, lighter, require less maintenance, and are virtually noiseless," he said.

"The most common complaints I hear against conventional buses are the foul smelling fumes they belch into the air, and their noisy operating levels.

"On the other hand, the steam powered bus is virtually odorless, noiseless and smog free."

High Tempers In School Debate Too Much Like 'Confrontation'

It's a safe bet that everyone attending Monday's Sausalito School District Board meeting had the same goal — good education for the children. That didn't keep the fur from flying over how to go about it.

It is inevitable that we will be emotional over things as close to us as the education of our children so voices and tempers are bound to rise in the debate.

But what really embitters and frustrates, it seems to me, is that each side is seeing the other as cardboard antichrists, not real people with good and bad points.

The administration and its backers appear unshakeably sure their opponents are so many right-wing racists bent on pressing their children into an iron mold of 19th Century behavior.

THERE MAY well be a handful of extremists in the ranks of both sides. But until both sides realize they are contending with real, thinking, fallible, emotional humans, the only fruit of their arguments will be more bitterness, and any progress will come only at enormous cost.

And the example to the children whom both sides want to educate is appalling. It is little use to lecture the young about protesting in a civilized manner when they see adults verbally at each other's throats.

Violence is only the physical outgrowth of contempt for the other's point of view, and that is the pervading sin of our times.

MONDAY'S MEETING, incidentally, was a two-cigar one for trustee David E. Freedheim, who lights a giant black cigar at the opening of each board meeting. Monday, he finished the first cigar during the early routine items, and was well into the second when the debate over field trips and black vocabulary began.

It must be better than nail-chewing. Freedheim was calmer than most members of the audience when the meeting ended.

THE CHILDREN of Tamalpais Valley have a good thing going for them since the community services district there started its recreation program in December.

Upward of a hundred children a day used the program during the holidays, and about 80 are dropping by now for the after-school program — judo classes, art, guitar and dance classes, crafts and sports. The program runs for two hours daily at Tamalpais Valley School, and for four hours on holidays.

"Before, the main recreation in Tam Valley for children was shoplifting at the Shoreline Market," Mrs. Betty Bishel said. (She's the wife of district trustee Gale E. Bishel.) The only other playground in the area is privately owned, she said.

The program is "tremendous," she said, for older residents as well as for children and their parents. The older people are no longer harassed by children "climbing over their fences or bothering their rose gardens."

The district hopes to expand the recreation program this summer. Pack trips into the lower Sierra, led by recreation director John Aspiris, have been tentatively scheduled.

To expand, the district may have to go to the voters for a tax increase; no one has any figures yet. Parents are sure to support the program, Mrs. Bischel said. "Now we want the older people to know about it."

Primary Pre-School Plans Open House

The Formative Years Teaching (FYT) Primary Pre-School will hold an eighth anniversary open house for parents, educators and the general public from 2 to 4 p.m. Tuesday at the school's new offices, 1046-50 Redwood Highway, Mill Valley.

A tour of new facilities and display of art and special FYT reading materials will highlight the open house, according to director Jaclyn Albright.

What Is Civic Center Costing? Taxpayers Finally Get Answer

Fusselman

Now we can all know the price you are paying for Brasilia and the estimated future costs that are in the planning.

Supervisor Bud Baar asked that the board request Auditor-Controller Mike Mitchell to prepare a financial report of the costs relative to the Civic Center. He has completed and presented it to the board.

The Administration Building cost, consisting of land acquisition, site development, main contract and sub contracts, furniture and fixtures, moving from the courthouse and some rented quarters plus the architect's fees, was $5,147,141.

The actual and estimated cost of the Hall of Justice, consisting of the building, furniture and fixtures, site development, soil testing and other miscellaneous items, plus architect's fees, is $11,778,717 (the moving costs will increase that to some extent).

THIS MAKES a total of just under $21 million ($20,979,258). Over the 40 year period the interest charge on the $7,750,000 bond issue, averaging 3.29125 per cent will be $3,242,751.25.

Now, there is and will continue to be a further, but unseen, cost of unproductive time caused by excessive interdepartmental mileage traveled by personnel, as well as the time cost incurred by the public for the distance to be traveled within the buildings.

In 1964 I asked an engineer I knew to work out for me the comparative heights of the Crown-Zellerbach Building in San Francisco and this administration building if it were placed on end. The answer was that this building would be 16 stories higher that the Crown-Zellerbach one, where they have the bank of elevators close to the entrance and with all departments just a few steps away on each floor.

YOU KNOW how often I have called attention to the cost of the grand manner of conducting county business at the board level out there — such as requiring the high-priced administrator to obtain certain information from a department, when the department head was present at the meeting and could have answered the question on the spot or could have been requested personally to report to the board direct at the next meeting. No, there had to be the elaborate exchange of memos with the personnel costs involved.

Well here is one from Herb Caen's column in the Chronicle that should tickle your ribs. "A secretary in the Wells Fargo Building at 44 Montgomery phoned her Xerox repairman for service and started to give the address when he cut in loftily: 'All I need is the machine's ID number.' She gave it, and he was heard to punch the digits into a machine. 'Uh-huh,' he announced with pride, 'the address is 44 Montgomery,."

Sound familiar?

Session Set On Training

A meeting to establish a training program for the hard core unemployed in Marin County will be held at 8 p.m. Monday in Room 206 of the Marin County Courthouse in San Rafael, sponsored by the Economic Opportunity Council.

Representatives of Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co., Pacific Gas and Electric Co. and the McGraw-Hill Book Co. will be on hand to gather information from the community on what kinds of training are needed.

Transportation will be provided from anywhere in Marin County, council officials said. Arrangements for transportation may be made with the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council, 1327 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael.

Chess Club Now Taking Members

New members are being accepted in the Marin Chess Club which meets at 8 p.m. each Tuesday in the London Arms, 81 Red Hill Avenue, San Anselmo, club president, Ralph Fifer reported.

Fifer said interested persons could come as guests at any meeting. He reported members are in all classifications from beginners to rated players.

Marines Study Antihijack Idea

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Clifford P. Hansen, R-Wyo., says the Marine Corps is studying the idea of putting its men on commercial airliners to prevent hijackings.

Hansen said he had received a letter from Maj. Gen. J. M. Platt, assistant chief of staff to the Marine Corps commandant, saying the Marines and other Defense Department offices were studying the possibility, but no final decision has been made.

Hansen had suggested the use of Marines, pointing out that they were used during the 1920s to guard the mail against train robberies.

Bail Fund Benefit Scheduled Tomorrow

A bail fund benefit party for striking students and teachers at San Francisco State College will be held by the Marin Strike Support Committee at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Othell Mallouf, 315 Rydal Avenue, Homestead Valley.

Guests, the sponsors said, will include Nathan Hare, chairman designate of the black studies department, Nesbit Crutchfield, a member of the central committee of the Black Students Union, and Allan Barnett and Juan Martinez, faculty members.

Figure Corrected

A bill introduced by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R - San Rafael, to eliminate inequities in the sales tax on certain foods, plants and movable homes would deprive the state of about $2 million a year exempting some goods, but pick up about the same amount by extending the sales tax to all hot food and sandwiches. A composing room error inflated the amount in yesterday's Independent-Journal to $62 million.

THIS MAKES a total of just under $21 million ($20,979,258). Over the 40 year period the interest charge on the $7,750,000 bond issue, averaging 3.29125 per cent will be $3,242,751.25.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Accidental Gas Poisoning Is More Common In Cold Months

VAN DELLEN

Accidental carbon monoxide poisoning is common during the winter season when doors and windows are closed and all types of heaters are in use. Natural gas has reduced the hazards but the problem is far from being solved.

Carbon monoxide (CO) is released into the air whenever too little oxygen prevents the carbon components in gas or other fuel from being consumed by the flame. This occurs when the burners are crusty or faulty or the gas units operate in a confined space that lacks air. Coal, coke, and charcoal stoves may generate enough CO to cause fatal asphyxiation.

FATALITIES HAVE occurred when intoxicated or when oldsters turn on a gas appliance but forget to light it. Other deaths have been traced to a pot or pan that boiled over, extinguishing the flame; the hose that brings gas to the stove may be disconnected or loosened; or the individual has fallen asleep with the gas stove burning and a draft blows out the pilot light.

In some instances, the gas was turned off by the utility company, then turned on again, and not lighted. Safety devices are present in modern gas furnaces to prevent these situations.

EXHAUST FUMES from gasoline motors contain approximately 7 per cent carbon monoxide. This makes the car a lethal weapon when it stands in a closed garage with the motor running.

Moreover, carbon monoxide from the exhaust may enter the inside of the car from a defective pipe. This is why it is unwise to drive any distance with the windows closed. Opening the side vent brings in air and also keeps the windows from steaming up on the inside.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

SPINAL CORD BREAKDOWN

S. O. writes: A close relative developed syringomyelia and we would like to know something about this disease.

REPLY

In this disorder, certain cells in the spinal cord degenerate. As a result, the individual becomes insensitive to pain and temperature but not to the touch and vibratory sense in certain areas of the body. The victim may be unaware of the lack of sensitivity until he burns or cuts himself. In addition, the muscles in the same region become weak. There is no satisfactory treatment.

SCARS OF STONE

D. E. writes: What is meant by calcified nodes?

REPLY

Circumscribed bits of tissue that have turned into stone. These represent a special type of healing process in which the inflamed area is replaced by calcium rather than scar tissue. In the lungs, for example, a calcified node is a sign of a healed tuberculous process that has turned to stone and never again will be troublesome.

HOW MANY X-RAYS

A reader writes: Is there a way of checking whether a person has had too much radiation from too many X-rays?

REPLY

The hair offers a clue to how much radiation the scalp has received. But I know of no practical way to determine the amount of radiation that has been received unless an accurate record is kept over a number of years.

HAND IS NUMB

You should see your doctor, because the symptom may indicate pressure on the nerve or a disorder of the central nervous system.

Mutiny Defense Wants Shooting Figure Quizzed

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The civilian attorney for Pvt. John Colip, 20, asked yesterday that the guard who shot another soldier in the Presidio's stockade be ordered to testify at Colip's mutiny trial.

Attorney Ron Sypnicki of Sacramento, made the request after being allowed for the first time to read the Army's Criminal Investigation Division report on the shooting which provoked the alleged mutiny by 27 stockade inmates.

Sypnicki also asked Lt. Col. Richard Snyder, the presiding judge at Colip's court-martial, to order five others who gave statements to testify when the trial resumes Monday. The trial is being held at Fort Irwin, a remote Army base in the Mojave Desert where it was moved because of high feeling about the mutiny charges in the Bay Area.

Snyder, who conducted yesterday's hearing at the Presidio without the 10-officer court which must decide Colip's case present, took Sypnicki's request under advisement.

Sypnicki said that the Army report showed that after the shooting, another guard said to the guard who shot Private Richard Bunch, "I wish I'd shot him, so I could get a transfer closer to home." The guard who shot Bunch, who was on the same work detail as Colip, has since been transferred to an undisclosed Army base, a normal practice in such cases.

The Army report included a statement from the guard who did the shooting but Snyder ordered the attorneys not to reveal his name to protect him from harassment.

Sypnicki told Snyder that defense attorneys will attempt to prove from the autopsy report on Bunch that the guard did not aim for the legs, as required by Army regulations.

Colip's military attorney, Capt. Emmit Yeary, said the defense will also contend that the sit-down strike which followed the shooting was not an attempt to override military authority, the legal definition of mutiny.

The trial began Wednesday with the swearing-in of the 10 officers at Fort Irwin who will determine both the verdict and the sentence, if any, in Colip's trial.

Among 23 soldiers still to be tried for mutiny is Pvt. Keith C. Mather of San Bruno, one of the Marin City Nine who staged an antiwar protest last summer at St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church. Mather and eight other servicemen chained themselves to clergymen during the demonstration.

Three men already have been convicted of mutiny and sentenced to 14, 15 and 16 years at hard labor.

Reports Asked On Extra-Hire Status In Marin

Marin County Personnel commissioners declared yesterday they want to make sure that the extra-hire system is not abused to keep employees from getting permanent status.

They asked the personnel director to submit quarterly reports extra-hire employees (those hired for seasonal or temporary work) who stay on for more than three months.

Chairman Bella Aaron said she became concerned when she heard of two extra-hire workers in the county fire department who worked a year to a year-and-a-half without getting tenure.

The Marin County Personnel Commission Also:

AGE LIMIT — Asked personnel analyst Charles H. Wimp to study the present maximum age limit of 35 for those seeking safety (firemen or sheriff's deputy) employment. A sheriff's matron, for example, may be as good or better at 42 than at 22, said Mrs. Aaron.

RULES — Continued a paragraph-by-paragraph revision to update and clarify old 1951 rules and regulations governing the personnel commission.

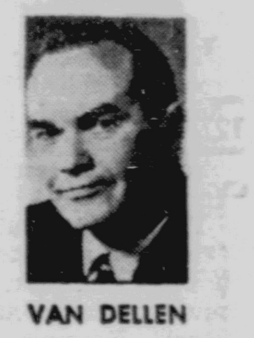
HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Accidental Gas Poisoning Is More Common In Cold Months



VAN DELLEN

Accidental carbon monoxide poisoning is common during the winter season when doors and windows are closed and all types of heaters are in use. Natural gas has reduced the hazards but the problem is far from being solved.

Carbon monoxide (CO) is released into the air whenever too little oxygen prevents the carbon components in gas or other fuel from being consumed by the flame. This occurs when the burners are crusty or faulty or the gas units operate in a confined space that lacks air. Coal, coke, and charcoal stoves may generate enough CO to cause fatal asphyxiation.

FATALITIES HAVE occurred when intoxicated or when oldsters turn on a gas appliance but forget to light it. Other deaths have been traced to a pot or pan that boiled over, extinguishing the flame; the hose that brings gas to the stove may be disconnected or loosened; or the individual has fallen asleep with the gas stove burning and a draft blows out the pilot light.

In some instances, the gas was turned off by the utility company, then turned on again, and not lighted. Safety devices are present in modern gas furnaces to prevent these situations.

EXHAUST FUMES from gasoline motors contain approximately 7 per cent carbon monoxide. This makes the car a lethal weapon when it stands in a closed garage with the motor running.

Moreover, carbon monoxide from the exhaust may enter the inside of the car from a defective pipe. This is why it is unwise to drive any distance with the windows closed. Opening the side vent brings in air and also keeps the windows from steaming up on the inside.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

SPINAL CORD BREAKDOWN

S. O. writes: A close relative developed syringomyelia and we would like to know something about this disease.

REPLY

In this disorder, certain cells in the spinal cord degenerate. As a result, the individual becomes insensitive to pain and temperature but not to the touch and vibratory sense in certain areas of the body. The victim may be unaware of the lack of sensitivity until he burns or cuts himself. In addition, the muscles in the same region become weak. There is no satisfactory treatment.

SCARS OF STONE

D. E. writes: What is meant by calcified nodes?

REPLY

Circumscribed bits of tissue that have turned into stone. These represent a special type of healing process in which the inflamed area is replaced by calcium rather than scar tissue. In the lungs, for example, a calcified node is a sign of a healed tuberculous process that has turned to stone and never again will be troublesome.

HOW MANY X-RAYS

A reader writes: Is there a way of checking whether a person has had too much radiation from too many X-rays?

REPLY

The hair offers a clue to how much radiation the scalp has received. But I know of no practical way to determine the amount of radiation that has been received unless an accurate record is kept over a number of years.

HAND IS NUMB

A reader writes: I am 58 years old and about one month ago my hand became numb, and still is numb. Should I consult a physician?

REPLY

You should see your doctor, because the symptom may indicate pressure on the nerve or a disorder of the central nervous system.

SAN FRANCISCO — The civilian attorney for Pvt. John Colip, 20, asked yesterday that the guard who shot another soldier in the Presidio's stockade be ordered to testify at Colip's mutiny trial.

Attorney Ron Sypnicki of Sacramento, made the request after being allowed for the first time to read the Army's Criminal Investigation Division report on the shooting which provoked the alleged mutiny by 27 stockade inmates.

Sypnicki also asked Lt. Col. Richard Snyder, the presiding judge at Colip's court-martial, to order five others who gave statements to testify when the trial resumes Monday. The trial is being held at Fort Irwin, a remote Army base in the Mojave Desert where it was moved because of high feeling about the mutiny charges in the Bay Area.

Snyder, who conducted yesterday's hearing at the Presidio without the 10-officer court which must decide Colip's case present, took Sypnicki's request under advisement.

Sypnicki said that the Army report showed that after the shooting, another guard said to the guard who shot Private Richard Bunch, "I wish I'd shot him, so I could get a transfer closer to home." The guard who shot Bunch, who was on the same work detail as Colip, has since been transferred to an undisclosed Army base, a normal practice in such cases.

The Army report included a statement from the guard who did the shooting but Snyder ordered the attorneys not to reveal his name to protect him from harassment.

Sypnicki told Snyder that defense attorneys will attempt to prove from the autopsy report on Bunch that the guard did not aim for the legs, as required by Army regulations.

Colip's military attorney, Capt. Emmit Yeary, said the defense will also contend that the sit-down strike which followed the shooting was not an attempt to override military authority, the legal definition of mutiny.

The trial began Wednesday with the swearing-in of the 10 officers at Fort Irwin who will determine both the verdict and the sentence, if any, in Colip's trial.

Among 23 soldiers still to be tried for mutiny is Pvt. Keith C. Mather of San Bruno, one of the Marin City Nine who staged an antiwar protest last summer at St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church. Mather and eight other servicemen chained themselves to clergymen during the demonstration.

Three men already have been convicted of mutiny and sentenced to 14, 15 and 16 years at hard labor.

Reports Asked On Extra-Hire Status In Marin

Marin County Personnel commissioners declared yesterday they want to make sure that the extra-hire system is not abused to keep employees from getting permanent status.

They asked the personnel director to submit quarterly reports extra-hire employees (those hired for seasonal or temporary work) who stay on for more than three months.

Chairman Bella Aaron said she became concerned when she heard of two extra-hire workers in the county fire department who worked a year to a year-and-a-half without getting tenure.

The Marin County Personnel Commission Also:

AGE LIMIT — Asked personnel analyst Charles H. Wimp to study the present maximum age limit of 35 for those seeking safety (firemen or sheriff's deputy) employment. A sheriff's matron, for example, may be as good or better at 42 than at 22, said Mrs. Aaron.

RULES — Continued a paragraph-by-paragraph revision to update and clarify old 1951 rules and regulations governing the personnel commission.

Flood Repair Gas Tax Bill To Senate; Unruh Hinting

SACRAMENTO (UPI)— Legislation providing cities and counties with $30 million in flood relief funds by increasing the gasoline tax 1 cent for three months reached the Senate floor today.

The upper house's Finance Committee approved the measure on a split voice vote yesterday over the objections of Gov. Ronald Reagan's administration.

Sen. Ralph C. Dills, D-Gardena, who proposed the gas tax boost, said the increase would raise about $25 million. He said Reagan could reduce the tax sooner than three months if he determined sufficient revenue for repair work had been raised.

But assistant state finance Director Roy M. Bell said the administration opposed the increase because the state could cover its $10 million share of repair costs without boosting the gas tax from 7 to 8 cents a gallon. He estimated total damage to local roads and streets from recent floods and mudslides was $18 million so far.

UNRUH HINTS

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Former Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh has taken another step closer to becoming a 1970 candidate for governor with a statement that he would like to be elected to the post.

Unruh, D - Inglewood, now Democratic leader of the Assembly, was asked in a television interview if he would like to be governor.

"I think California is a great state," he replied. "It affects the lives of one out of 10 Americans and is looked to by other states for leadership.

"On that basis, Yes, I would like to be governor if I thought this state could set an example."

SMOG HEARING

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Federal hearings will open in Los Angeles March 4 to decide if California is justified in having tougher auto smog control standards than other states.

The state is seeking a waiver from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare from a federal law setting maximum uniform standards for the entire country.

The stringent new standards, proposed for 1970 - 74 model autos, were adopted by the Legislature last year.

"Getting the waiver is critical to California enforcing the standards," said John A. Maga, executive officer of the State Air Resources Board.

State officials are optimistic since the man who will make the decision, Welfare Secretary Robert H. Finch, is a former California lieutenant governor.

U.C. QUIZZED

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The University of California is under orders from a legislative committee today to produce evidence it has been punishing violent student activists.

The demand to a university spokesman was made at a long hearing of the special Assembly subcommittee on educational environment last night — a session marked by some legislative criticism of educators.

Assemblyman John L. E. Collier, R-Los Angeles, suggested demonstrators be stopped by walling off University of California and state college campuses, with those entering required to pass through a "Checkpoint Charley."

Jay Michael, lobbyist for the University of California, rejected the suggestion, saying it would be "unreasonable" to check through the some 45,000 people who enter the University of California at Berkeley each day.

Chairman Victor C. Veysey, R-Brawley, of the Assembly Education Committee asked Michael for evidence that U.C. was punishing rulebreakers. He requested a report on what disciplinary action was taken against students arrested in thec urrent disturbances at the Berkeley campus.

The demand followed tough talk by Gov. Ronald Reagan earlier in the day. He said, "I do not feel the university has matched us with a determination" to put down unrest, student and faculty dissidents, he said, are waging "guerrilla warfare" and "the only thing that we can win in guerrilla warfare is . . . you eliminate them by firing the faculty members and expelling the students."

HIPPIE CURBS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation designed to eliminate migrating hippies from the welfare rolls is being prepared by Gov. Ronald Reagan's Administration.

Human Resources Secretary Spencer Williams and state Social Welfare Director John C. Montgomery told newsmen yesterday the legislation was prompted by hippies leaving the San Francisco Haight - Ashbury district and traveling to peaceful North Coast counties such as Mendocino.

The proposal would disqualify welfare applications or recipients if they refused "to accept an offer of transportation to return to their former community where they had employment," Williams said.

NO TAX STAND

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The board of governors of California Community Colleges yesterday decided to take no stand on any state legislation to continue school tax override elections.

The decision came as the state Senate passed and sent to the Assembly a measure by Sen. John G. Schmitz, R-Tustin, which would extend indefinitely the requirement that all tax override measures be submitted to the voters. Under present law the requirement lapses in 1971.

The board also voted to ask the legislature for an additional $35.5 million in aid to local districts.

California's 89 junior colleges now receive about $100 million in state aid based on average daily attendance, with $628 being alloted for each regular student and $510 for each adult student.

The board wants the figures raised to $727 and $560 respectively.

CAL-VET DEBATE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A special meeting of an Assembly committee was told yesterday that no Cal-Vet home and farm loan offices should be closed because loan applications are increasing.

The Reagan Administration has proposed closing Cal-Vet offices in Santa Rosa, Bakersfield, Inglewood, Modesto and Oakland effective March 1. It contends the nunber of applications are decreasing.

But Jack Osborne, senior loan appraiser in the Santa Rosa office, told the Government Administration Committee the staffs of the offices already were overworked. He urged the offices be kept open.

Assemblyman William Ketchum, R - Paso Robles, said the closures were based on findings of an administration - appointed task force which are no longer valid.

The committee took no action on a measure by Assemblyman Frank P. Belotti, R-Eureka, urging that the offices be kept open. But it agreed to meet again next week.

Miniature Delta Set In Sausalito

By ALAN JONES

Cross the new pebble-floored lobby, walk over the Golden Gate and past Carquinez Straits and Antioch, and there it is stretched out before you — the Delta County, a labyrinth of spaghetti-twisted waterways that make seaports of the hot valley towns of Sacramento and Stockton.

Spread out in the high-roofed Army Corps of Engineers building in Sausalito, linked to the 12-year-old San Francisco Bay model at the joining of the Sacramento and San Joaquin Rivers, is the 1-to-1,000 scale model of the Delta, still a few days short of completion but already operating in demonstrations for visiting officers and delegations.

The Army has unromantic workaday plans for the Delta model — studies of salt water intrusion, pollution and channel dredging — but that need not deter the Romantic minded, or the would-be Delta sailor who hesitates, except in imagination, to venture out for winter voyaging.

Like the Delta country itself, the model is umcompromising, flat, empty-looking. But where grass, hay and vegetable crops, highways and bridges, the model has large concrete blanks between the sloughs and rivers.

The engineers are concerned about water flow in the myriad channels, not about the landscape surrounding the waterways. The model, therefore, faithfully reporduces the channel contours of every rivulet all the way to Stockton, Tracy and Sacramento, but islands and shore landmarks are sketched in or denoted by signs to help the viewer orient himself.

The model is 95 per cent complete, but the Corps plans three months of tests to check the accuracy of its water flows against actual measures taken last year in the Delta. By mid-year the model should be ready for three major studies which are planned.

One will be a study of effects of the California Water Plan and its peripheral canal on the Delta. Delta residents fear the canal, tapping Feather River water and bypassing it around the Delta to an aqueduct bound for Southern California, will allow salt water to intrude, ruining crops and driving out freshwater wildlife and fish. The canal is being built into the model.

Another major study will be effects of the San Luis Drain project, in which agricultural waste water from the San Joaquin Valley is to be piped into the upper reaches of the Bay. Circulation of the drain water will be studied to see how far pollution from pesticides might carry through the Delta and the Bay.

A third study will be of proposed deepening of the ship channel past Pittsburg and Antioch into Stockton, and the Army wants to know how fast silting will take place.

Another study proposed is a parallel barrier system of levees to keep out salt water intrusion by leveeing the San Joaquin and Sacramento rivers' flows into Suisun Bay.

Perceptive residents of the area will look at the Bay-Delta model, which sprawls over more than an acre, and will notice that the Delta headwaters meander close to the head of San Francisco Bay near San Jose.

The engineers improved on nature. They skewed the model to fit into the building, bending Carquinez straights and altering the Stockton and Sacramento ship channels to fit everything in. The distortions don't affect the model's hydraulic workings, the Corps says, though they may offend a geographer.

The model is open to the public even during construction, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The engineers plan an open house for mid-March when the model, along with extensive remodeling of the building, will be completed. Remodeling includes new paving in the parking lot, improved ventilation, new restrooms, improvements on the conference room, a new facade and entryway, and a new paint job on the building front.

For the fainthearted, the non-sailing sailor and the romantic, a trip to the delta is nor further away than Sausalito.

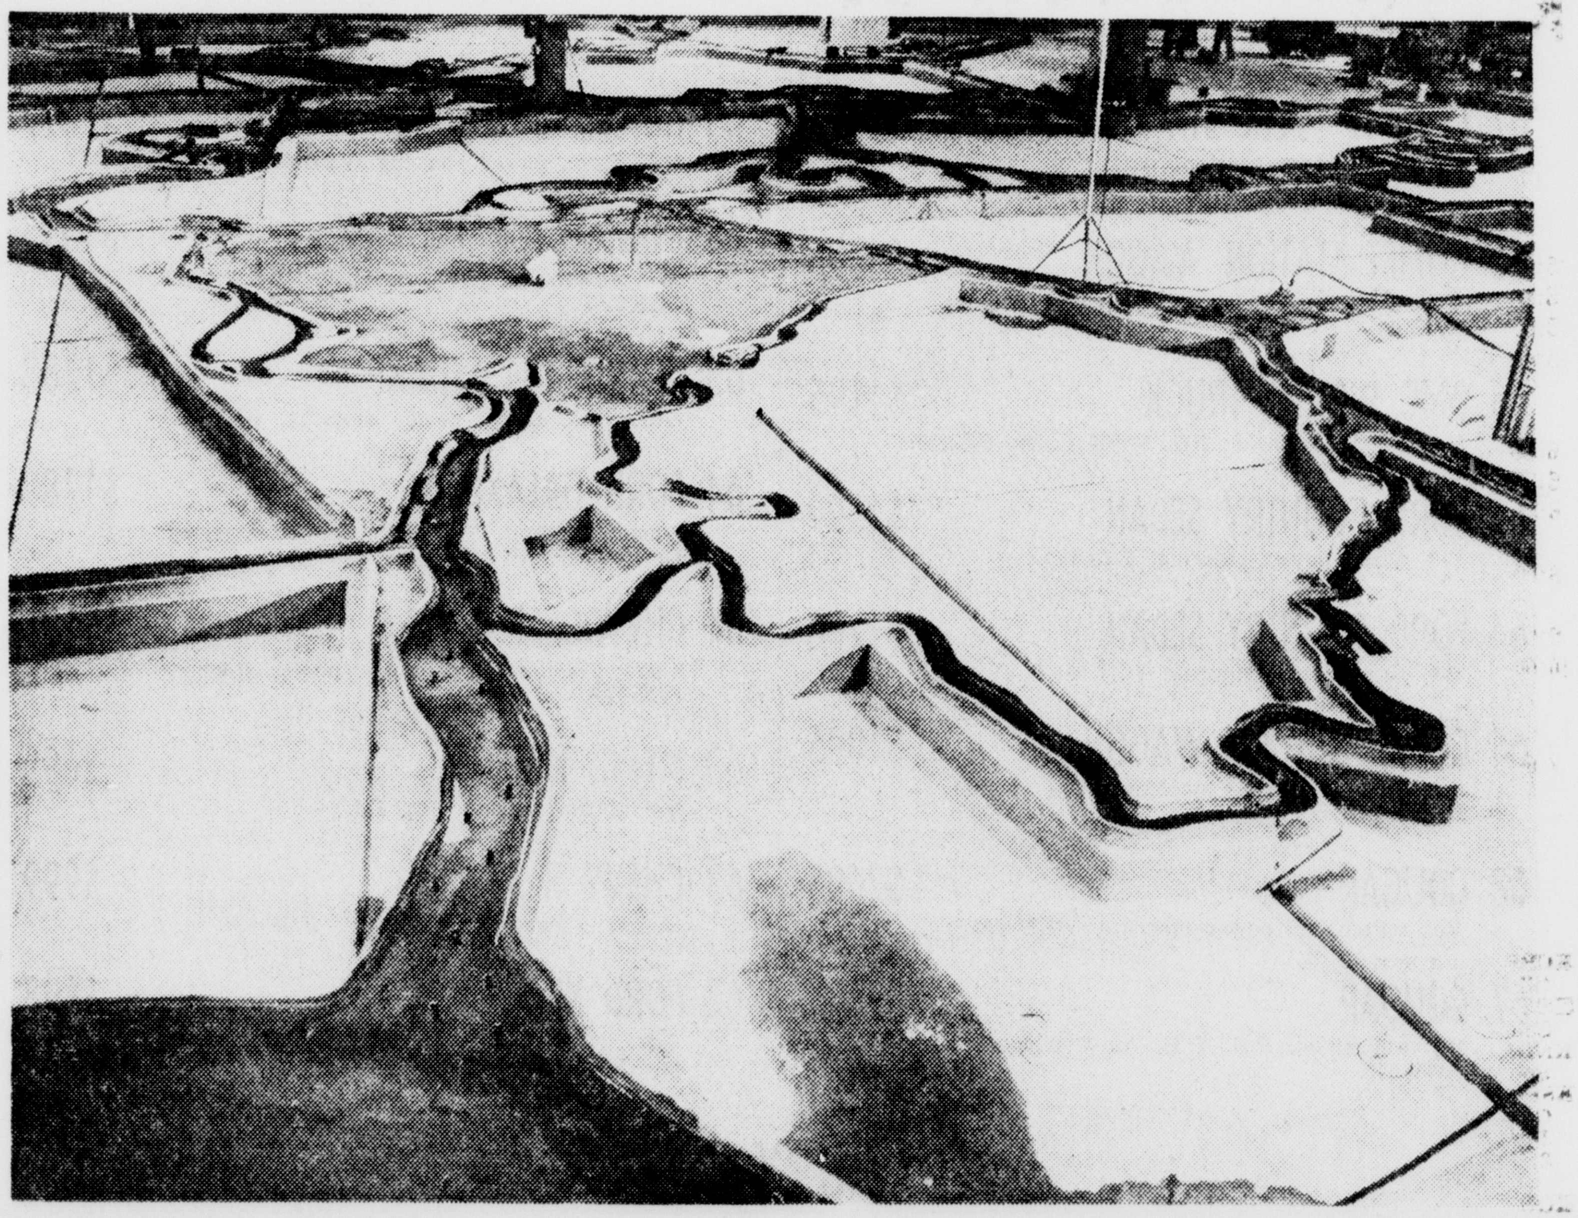
WATER FOR THE SOUTH — A significant part of the model is the Clifton Court Forebay, a water storage area in the California Water Plan. Feather River water will be brought to the forebay by canal, then drawn off by aqueduct for southern California use.



FALSE RIVER — The foreground inlet, known as False River, leads to the Franks tract, a long-flooded area in the delta. In the background are the meanders of sloughs and the San Joaquin River. Engineers will use the model to test plans to shorten the passage up the river by dredging a channel through False River and the Franks tract. (Independent-Journal photos by Bob Hax)

Nondinner Role For John Glenn

MEDFORD, Ore. (AP) — Former astronaut Col. John Glenn has agreed to be the nonspeaker at a nondinner which will not be held by the Junior Women's Club.

Glenn accepted the noninvitation when advised that the club had decided to sell tickets at $5 per nonplate and devote all proceeds to a fund for retarded children.

Miniature Delta Set In Sausalito

By ALAN JONES

Cross the new pebble-floored lobby, walk over the Golden Gate and past Carquinez Straits and Antioch, and there it is stretched out before you — the Delta County, a labyrinth of spaghetti-twisted waterways that make seaports of the hot valley towns of Sacramento and Stockton.

Spread out in the high-roofed Army Corps of Engineers building in Sausalito, linked to the 12-year-old San Francisco Bay model at the joining of the Sacramento and San Joaquin Rivers, is the 1-to-1,000 scale model of the Delta, still a few days short of completion but already operating in demonstrations for visiting officers and delegations.

The Army has unromantic workaday plans for the Delta model — studies of salt water intrusion, pollution and channel dredging — but that need not deter the Romantic minded, or the would-be Delta sailor who hesitates, except in imagination, to venture out for winter voyaging.

Like the Delta country itself, the model is umcompromising, flat, empty-looking. But where grass, hay and vegetable crops, highways and bridges, the model has large concrete blanks between the sloughs and rivers.

The engineers are concerned about water flow in the myriad channels, not about the landscape surrounding the waterways. The model, therefore, faithfully reporduces the channel contours of every rivulet all the way to Stockton, Tracy and Sacramento, but islands and shore landmarks are sketched in or denoted by signs to help the viewer orient himself.

The model is 95 per cent complete, but the Corps plans three months of tests to check the accuracy of its water flows against actual measures taken last year in the Delta. By mid-year the model should be ready for three major studies which are planned.

One will be a study of effects of the California Water Plan and its peripheral canal on the Delta. Delta residents fear the canal, tapping Feather River water and bypassing it around the Delta to an aqueduct bound for Southern California, will allow salt water to intrude, ruining crops and driving out freshwater wildlife and fish. The canal is being built into the model.

Another major study will be effects of the San Luis Drain project, in which agricultural waste water from the San Joaquin Valley is to be piped into the upper reaches of the Bay. Circulation of the drain water will be studied to see how far pollution from pesticides might carry through the Delta and the Bay.

A third study will be of proposed deepening of the ship channel past Pittsburg and Antioch into Stockton, and the Army wants to know how fast silting will take place.

Another study proposed is a parallel barrier system of levees to keep out salt water intrusion by leveeing the San Joaquin and Sacramento rivers' flows into Suisun Bay.

Perceptive residents of the area will look at the Bay-Delta model, which sprawls over more than an acre, and will notice that the Delta headwaters meander close to the head of San Francisco Bay near San Jose.

The engineers improved on nature. They skewed the model to fit into the building, bending Carquinez straights and altering the Stockton and Sacramento ship channels to fit everything in. The distortions don't affect the model's hydraulic workings, the Corps says, though they may offend a geographer.

The model is open to the public even during construction, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The engineers plan an open house for mid-March when the model, along with extensive remodeling of the building, will be completed. Remodeling includes new paving in the parking lot, improved ventilation, new restrooms, improvements on the conference room, a new facade and entryway, and a new paint job on the building front.

For the fainthearted, the non-sailing sailor and the romantic, a trip to the delta is nor further away than Sausalito.

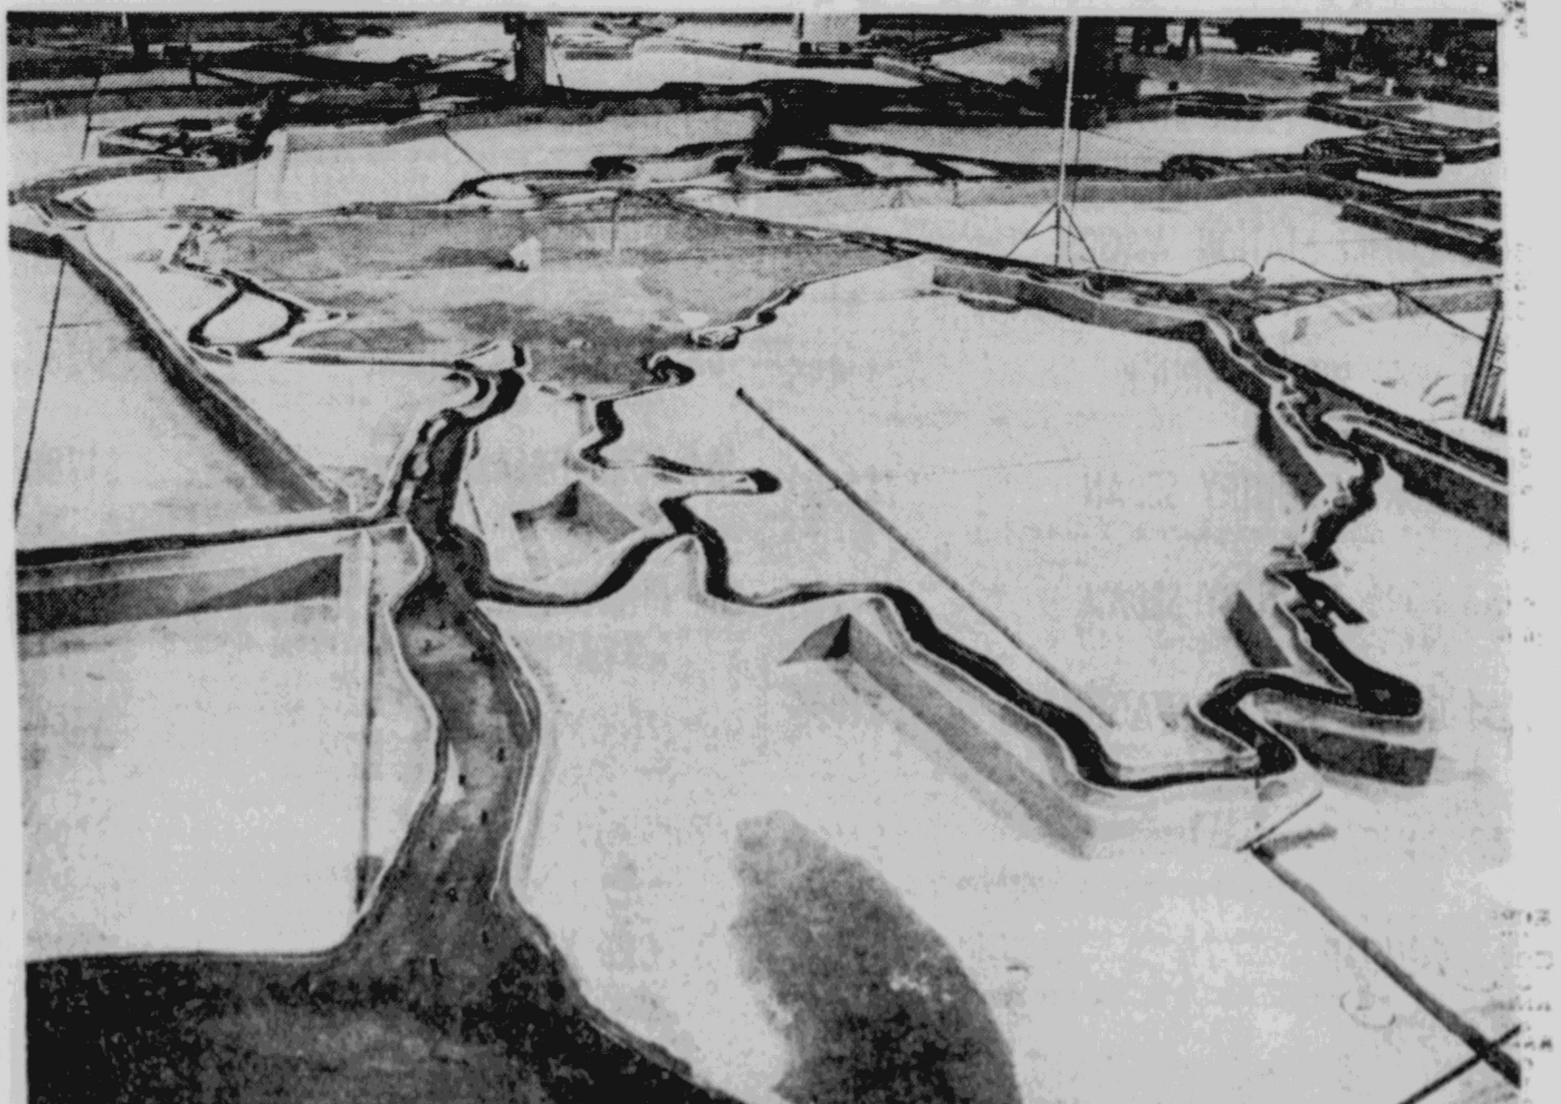
WATER FOR THE SOUTH — A significant part of the model is the Clifton Court Forebay, a water storage area in the California Water Plan. Feather River water will be brought to the forebay by canal, then drawn off by aqueduct for southern California use.



FALSE RIVER — The foreground inlet, known as False River, leads to the Franks tract, a long-flooded area in the delta. In the background are the meanders of sloughs and the San Joaquin River. Engineers will use the model to test plans to shorten the passage up the river by dredging a channel through False River and the Franks tract. (Independent-Journal photos by Bob Hax)

TELEVISION REVIEW

'Get Smart' Series To Change Over To CBS Starting In Fall

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—"Get Smart," the long-running comedy series that was canceled officially by NBC-TV this week, has been picked up by the competing CBS-TV network for next season.

Programming for the upcoming season is, at this point, still subject to switches—but unless plans are changed, "Get Smart" will simply continue as before, with viewers merely having to tune in on a different channel.

Assuming CBS-TV definitely keeps "Get Smart" on the air, it will not be the first time the network picked up a show from a competitor. As an example, some years ago it got the Fred MacMurray series, "My Three Sons," from ABC-TV, and it is still running very strong in the ratings.

The CBS-TV schedule that has been leaked out also reveals that the network is making a firm bid to establish the Doris Day series as the big hit it was expected to be, but has not yet become.

What CBS-TV currently planning to do is insert Miss Day's show in its potent Monday night lineup, between "Mayberry R.F.D." and the Carol Burnett series. Other series on CBS-TV on Monday night are "Gunsmoke" and the Lucille Ball program.

Miss Day's transfer to Monday nights would dislodge a very successful series, "Family Affair," which now is slotted for an early time period on Thursdays next season. It will be followed on Thursdays by the new one-hour Jim Nabors variety show. Nabors has quit his long-run "Gomer Pyle" situation comedy series as of this season.

"Gentle Ben," the children's show about a boy and his bear, is currently scheduled for cancellation by CBS-TV. But the Glen Campbell Variety Hour, which had its debut this midseason, has won renewal. It is produced by the same firm that puts on the Smothers Brothers series. The Smothers, according to the pencilled-in schedule, will be back on the network, too.

Over at NBC-TV, an announcement of next season's new shows says the previously-set Bill Cosby half-hour series will concern "a big city high school gym teacher and assistant coach who moonlights — principally as a private investigator—to make ends meet."

NBC-TV's upcoming Debbie Reynolds situation comedy, also previously set, will be about "an on-the-go surburban housewife with a family circle that includes her sportswriter husband, a domineering older sister, an easy-going brother-in-law and a chubby, myopic 10-year-old nephew."

Yet another new NBC-TV series, the hour-long "Bracken's World," is described by sources at the network as "something like 'Peyton Place' in a movie studio—but on a higher plane."

Second Oil Slick Posing New Santa Barbara Threat

SANTA BARBARA (AP) — A $560-million damage suit was filed against the oil firms which drilled a leaking offshore oil well while federal authorities reported a new slick from a second drilling platform.

Federal officials said yesterday the new slick was forming at a platform a half mile west of the one responsible for California's biggest oil disaster.

Union Oil Co. said the new slick was from an oil-smeared workboat which had come from the second platform. Drilling at both platforms was conducted by Union.

Union Oil said there was no leak at the second platform.

Paul De Falco, regional director of the Federal Air and Water Pollution Control Administration, said he and other federal officials would go to the area by boat to determine the source of the new slick.

The $560-million superior court suit was filed on behalf of the state, Los Angeles County and the cities of Santa Barbara and Carpinteria. Defendants in addition to Union Oil are Mobil Oil Co., Gulf Oil Co. and Texaco, Inc., Peter Hawden Drilling, Inc., and 500 John Does.

The suit says an estimated half-billion dollars' damage has been done to beaches, fish and wildlife, harbor facilities, maritime ecology and the tourist industry.

The slick covered 800 square miles earlier, fed originally by 21,000 gallons of crude oil a day. After the original leak was stopped, the current smaller leak about one-tenth the flow developed.

Union Oil said it had authorization from Secretary of Interior Walter Hickel to drill three more wells in an attempt to relieve gas pressure in efforts to halt the leak.

Meanwhile, it was announced in Washington that Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M., will preside at hearings Monday and Tuesday in Santa Barbara on pollution problems exemplified by the oil leak.

The assignment was announced by Chairman Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, of the Senate Public Works subcommittee on Air and Water Pollution.

Muskie, who made a personal inspection of the Santa Barbara oil slick, said Montoya's previous work on antipollution legislation as a subcommittee member makes him "uniquely qualified to represent me at this hearing."

The two-day hearing will be held in the Santa Barbara County Administration Building. Federal, state, and county officials, and representatives of Union Oil conservation groups and civic groups will testify.

'Get Smart' Series To Change Over To CBS Starting In Fall

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—"Get Smart," the long-running comedy series that was canceled officially by NBC-TV this week, has been picked up by the competing CBS-TV network for next season.

Programming for the upcoming season is, at this point, still subject to switches—but unless plans are changed, "Get Smart" will simply continue as before, with viewers merely having to tune in on a different channel.

Assuming CBS-TV definitely keeps "Get Smart" on the air, it will not be the first time the network picked up a show from a competitor. As an example, some years ago it got the Fred MacMurray series, "My Three Sons," from ABC-TV, and it is still running very strong in the ratings.

The CBS-TV schedule that has been leaked out also reveals that the network is making a firm bid to establish the Doris Day series as the big hit it was expected to be, but has not yet become.

What CBS-TV currently planning to do is insert Miss Day's show in its potent Monday night lineup, between "Mayberry R.F.D." and the Carol Burnett series. Other series on CBS-TV on Monday night are "Gunsmoke" and the Lucille Ball program.

Miss Day's transfer to Monday nights would dislodge a very successful series, "Family Affair," which now is slotted for an early time period on Thursdays next season. It will be followed on Thursdays by the new one-hour Jim Nabors variety show. Nabors has quit his long-run "Gomer Pyle" situation comedy series as of this season.

"Gentle Ben," the children's show about a boy and his bear, is currently scheduled for cancellation by CBS-TV. But the Glen Campbell Variety Hour, which had its debut this midseason, has won renewal. It is produced by the same firm that puts on the Smothers Brothers series. The Smothers, according to the pencilled-in schedule, will be back on the network, too.

Over at NBC-TV, an announcement of next season's new shows says the previously-set Bill Cosby half-hour series will concern "a big city high school gym teacher and assistant coach who moonlights — principally as a private investigator—to make ends meet."

NBC-TV's upcoming Debbie Reynolds situation comedy, also previously set, will be about "an on-the-go surburban housewife with a family circle that includes her sportswriter husband, a domineering older sister, an easy-going brother-in-law and a chubby, myopic 10-year-old nephew."

Yet another new NBC-TV series, the hour-long "Bracken's World," is described by sources at the network as "something like 'Peyton Place' in a movie studio—but on a higher plane."

Second Oil Slick Posing New Santa Barbara Threat

SANTA BARBARA (AP) — A $560-million damage suit was filed against the oil firms which drilled a leaking offshore oil well while federal authorities reported a new slick from a second drilling platform.

Federal officials said yesterday the new slick was forming at a platform a half mile west of the one responsible for California's biggest oil disaster.

Union Oil Co. said the new slick was from an oil-smeared workboat which had come from the second platform. Drilling at both platforms was conducted by Union.

Union Oil said there was no leak at the second platform.

Paul De Falco, regional director of the Federal Air and Water Pollution Control Administration, said he and other federal officials would go to the area by boat to determine the source of the new slick.

The $560-million superior court suit was filed on behalf of the state, Los Angeles County and the cities of Santa Barbara and Carpinteria. Defendants in addition to Union Oil are Mobil Oil Co., Gulf Oil Co. and Texaco, Inc., Peter Hawden Drilling, Inc., and 500 John Does.

The suit says an estimated half-billion dollars' damage has been done to beaches, fish and wildlife, harbor facilities, maritime ecology and the tourist industry.

The slick covered 800 square miles earlier, fed originally by 21,000 gallons of crude oil a day. After the original leak was stopped, the current smaller leak about one-tenth the flow developed.

Union Oil said it had authorization from Secretary of Interior Walter Hickel to drill three more wells in an attempt to relieve gas pressure in efforts to halt the leak.

Meanwhile, it was announced in Washington that Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M., will preside at hearings Monday and Tuesday in Santa Barbara on pollution problems exemplified by the oil leak.

The assignment was announced by Chairman Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, of the Senate Public Works subcommittee on Air and Water Pollution.

Muskie, who made a personal inspection of the Santa Barbara oil slick, said Montoya's previous work on antipollution legislation as a subcommittee member makes him "uniquely qualified to represent me at this hearing."

The two-day hearing will be held in the Santa Barbara County Administration Building. Federal, state, and county officials, and representatives of Union Oil conservation groups and civic groups will testify.

DOUBLE TRUMPETS—A highlight of the concert Sunday at San Domenico School will be a teacher-student performance on seldom heard baroque D trumpets. San Rafael High School freshman Bert Truax demonstrates for Sister M. Maurice, O. P., San Domenico principal, how one will sound if she is successful in following the instructions of his teacher, Joseph Alessi.

New Concert Series To Begin On Sunday

A new "orchestre da camera' free public concert series will open Sunday at 7:30 p.m. in the Alumnae Hall of the San Domenico School on the Sleepy Hollow campus.

Organized by the San Domenico Music Department, headed by Faith France and guest-conducted by Hugo Rinaldi, director of music for San Rafael schools, the orchestra is composed of faculty members and students at San Domenico and some Marin professional and non-professional musicians.

The concerts are being presented with the cooperation of Local 6 of the American Federation of Musicians, AFL-CIO, through a grant from the Recording Industries trust fund.

Featured soloists Sunday in Antonio Vivaldi's Concerto for Two Trumpets will be a teacher-pupil duo composed of Joseph Alessi and Bert Truax. They will use two seldom heard baroque D trumpets of Vivaldi's time.

Presently a teacher of trumpet and San Francisco City College faculty and Oakland Symphony member, Alessi played with the Metropolitan Orchestra 12 years and with the NBC Symphony seven years. His pupil Bert Truax, a San Rafael High School freshman, won many musical honors last year.

Second number to be performed will be the rarely heard "The Chinese Flute" by Ernst Toch with sporano Marian Marsh and flutist Terry Summa as soloists.

A member of the San Domenico faculty and San Francisco Opera Guild Talent Bank, Miss Marsh has sung with many orchestras. Summa is music chairman of the San Rafael High School and performs with the Oakland Symphony and Ray Duste Chamber Group.

Concluding the program will be Beethoven's Triple Concerto in C Major, Opus 56, featuring three members of San Domenico's quartet-in-residence: violinist Frances Shorr, cellist Jean Mitchell and pianist Faith France.

A second concert will take place on May 18 at the same time and place.

Seminar Set On Mental Health Law

A day-long seminar on the problems and uncertainties created by California's new mental health law will be held beginning at 10 a.m. March 8 at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo by the Marin Association for Mental Health.

The program is designed for mental health professionals, law enforcement officers, public officials, attorneys, physicians and social and health agency personnel.

Mental Patient Held In Killing

SANTA ROSA (AP) — Ralph Marquez, a patient on leave yesterday from Napa State Hospital, was arrested in the fatal shooting of a woman who operated a "halfway house" for former mental patients, Sonoma County sheriff's deputies said.

Marquez, 23, was booked in the slaying of Lena Lewis, 67, who was licensed by the state to operate a home of persons trying to readjust after discharge from mental institutions.

No apparent motive for the killing was given.

Holiday Sale To Offer Many Big Specials

By BARBARA PACKARD

And tomorrow's event is geared to family needs, including specials for the coming spring and summer seasons.

Also to be offered will be coupons from participating merchants for a special pet zoo to be held at the center, beginning Wednesday and continuing through March 9.

The zoo will include 70 animals, including lambs, baby goats, calves and even a llama.

THOUGH IT MAY be hard to believe, some merchants at the center have great faith that Spring is going to come and the rain will stop.

J. C. Penney Company's Corte Madera manager, Anthony Munoz, is so confident that the store is featuring lawn furniture for tomorrow's bargain day. So consider purchasing for summer days ahead, chaise lounges at $5.99 with matching chairs at $2.99, or padded lounges at $14.99 with replacement pads, $5.88.

Also at Penney's are womens' flair-legged pants of bonded acrylic in solid colors, sizes 6-16, for $3.99.

For the men — be they in the Cub Scout or big game category —Penney's recommends five-pound acrylic sleeping bags at $9.99.

PET ZOO—Leroy, the llama, will make an appearance at the Corte Madera Shopping Center for 12 days, beginning Wednesday. Leroy is part of a 70-animal zoo which will be open for inspection by youngsters visiting the center.

Located on the mall, this specialty store offers a colorful assortment of items ideal for gifts for all occasions for those young at heart.

Glassware and pottery, costume jewelry and sweet scented soaps, Snoopy shirts and barbecue aprons are just a few of the "favorite things" touched with bright, cheery hues.

THOSE COMING TO the Corte Madera Shopping Center to take advantage of the holiday specials will find a full service bank available for all financial transactions.

The atmosphere of quiet in the midst of activity, found in the Crocker-Citizens National Bank, has been set by its assistant vice president and manager, B. A. (Bev) Sill, who has been with the bank since 1956 when it was located in the Corte Madera post office building as First National Bank of San Rafael.

A secondary office was installed in the center in 1958, and Sill operated both offices until the current bank building was completed and opened in March of 1960.

DONALD GILLIS, manager of Montgomery Wards, has forthcoming paint-up, clean-up days in mind, since specials at Ward's tomorrow include one-coat acrylic latex house paint at $6.88 a gallon, and — to help apply that new look — 16 foot aluminum extension ladders at $16.88.

For the woman of the house interested in interior decoration, sofa and love seat combinations —many custom-quilted — are an excellent choice at $299, down $100.

THE EARLY BIRD will be the winner at Louis-George Fine Mens' Apparel. Louis Malvino and George Campanelli will be parting with Nehru jackets and suits, in assorted sizes and colors, for prices starting at $10.

Short-sleeved sports shirts are good buys at $1, as are long and short-sleeved acrylic turtleneck sweater shirts, yellow only, at $3 each.

Prisoner Assists Sheriff On Problem

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—An inmate of the St. Louis County jail bailed the county sheriff out of a language problem which began when Sheriff Fred M. Joseph received a divorce petition—written in Spanish—from the court at Juarez, Mexico to be served on a woman in suburban Glendale.

Joseph, unable to read Spanish, scanned the prisoner list until he found a Mexican-sounding name: Florencio Diaz. Diaz, held on a burglary charge, agreed to translate the document so the summons could be served.

Tree Cutting Costly

BRADFORD, England (UPI) —A timber firm and a construction company were fined 275 pounds in magistrate's court for cutting down an oak tree without city permission. The prosecution charged the companies chopped down the tree while it was still "in the prime of life."

They Took Sign Too Literally

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — A car carrying four occupants and reportedly travelling between 90 and 100 miles per hour crashed into a humburger place on the north side of town.

It went through the stools and counter of a customer service area, through a large cooler and a six-inch inside wall, across the kitchen and out the north wall.

English Utility Suffers Red Face

BLACKFORDBY, England (UPI) — Mrs. Margaret Hill didn't like it when smoke started pouring from her electric clock. And a neighbor was alarmed when thick clouds of smoke came from his stereo. Others reported bulbs which went "pop" in the night, and steam pouring from the central heating.

The Electricity Board solved the mystery. "It appears everyone's been getting a double charge of electricity in their lines because of a cable fault," a spokesman said.

Concorde Jet—A Giant Gamble

If the venture comes off, Britain and France will have built a supersonic airliner unrivaled in the western world, with all the accompanying prestige and export earnings.

If the venture fails, the two governments will have to write off $744 million spent so far on a project whose eventual cost may be nearer $2.4 billion.

Fingers will be crossed when Concorde makes its first test flight, set for mid-February or thereafter, one year behind schedule and some weeks behind the TU144, the remarkably similar Soviet competitor which stole the title of the world's first supersonic airliner by flying Dec. 30.

The Concorde's trial must prove not only that the great delta-winged plane can fly safely but can do what the designers intended: carry 132 passengers on a non-stop flight of 4,000 miles, twice as high and twice as fast as today's jets. That's London to New York in three-and-a-half hours.

With Concorde's maiden flight one year behind schedule, the delay in getting the plane into airline service is even greater. The original estimate was for 1970. British technology minister Anthony Wedgwood Benn told Parliament the manufacturers now hoped Concorde would be taking fare-paying passengers in 1973.

The latest announced delay on the maiden flight was due to overheating of the disc brakes on taxi runs, but the manufacturer said the trouble has been solved.

There remain persistent rumors about weight problems, a difficulty which many new aircraft encounter when design modifications make them heavier than planned at a cost of seat space or speed or range.

A British Aircraft Corp. (BAC) spokesman gave an angry denial when one newspaper suggested Concorde might be incapable of flying non-stop from Paris to New York without a refueling stop at Shannon in Ireland.

"It is quite untrue," he said. "Concorde will be able to do it non-stop, carrying a full payload of 128 passengers."

His statement does, however, show a loss of four seats on long-range flights, Concorde's passenger capacity had been given as 132-144 passengers.

Concorde's history is not a harmonious one, bedeviled as the project has been by the vagaries of Anglo-French relations, by threats of cancellation, by the sheer physical problems of producing a plane in two countries at once so that neither has a greater share.

The ever-rising cost of developing Concorde has provided critics with a ready weapon.

When the original agreement was signed in 1962, the bill was estimated at 160 million pounds ($448 million before devaluation). Double this already has been spent and the bill is still rising steeply.

Balanced against the cost is the Anglo-French desire to steal a march on the Americans, whose own Boeing supersonic transport has gone back to the drawing board.

Various journalists have called at various times for the abandonment of Concorde as not worth the money. Recently 55 prominent academics, writers, members of Parliament and other public figures in Britain urged cancellation on the grounds Concorde figured low in the list of world priorities headed by poverty.

SUD Aviation and the BAC, the builders, can rightly retort to attacks on the practicality of supersonic flight that many Concorde critics base their facts on inexpert assumptions. The builders argue that the importance of soniic booms has been overemphasized since the Concorde need not break the sound barrier over land. The sales forecast is for up to 250 Concordes by 1975 at a price above 8 million pounds ($19.2 million) each.

BAC general sales manager E. H. Burgess said, " The fact is that of the world's long-haul seat-miles, some 73 per cent are on routes which lie entirely over the sea and 17 per cent more easily can be so directed by small alternations of track. The great transocean routes, which are at the heart of the SST matter, are unaffected by boom problems.

"On the specter of a ban on Concorde at major airports noise has already been measured and is no worse over-all than from present jets. In some aspects it is even better."

National Guard Troops Poise Off U.C. Campus

Reagan Attends Regents

COMBINED AP & UPI

BERKELEY — National Guard units, alerted by Gov. Ronald Reagan, moved into neighboring Oakland in full battle gear this morning to stand by for use if needed at the University of California.

Reagan alerted the National Guard last night after police and 2,000 demonstrators had clashed on the Berkeley campus in a fog of tear gas.

REAGAN ANGRY

Meanwhile, going into a Regents meeting near the strife-racked U.C. campus, Reagan today lashed out angrily at critics who blame police for the disorders on campus.

"I am sick and tired of the argument whether attempts to enforce law and order create more trouble," the Governor said.

He said he blamed the university administration for allowing dissident student rallies and for failure to expel militant demonstrators.

Asked if he intended to seek the ouster of Roger W. Heyns as Berkeley chancellor, Reagan said, "Not at all. I don't know where that started. I know of no one on the Board of Regents even thinking of it."

13 INJURED

When yesterday's battle ended, 26 demonstrators and 13 law officers were injured and 15 persons were under arrest.

"All forces including the National Guard have been alerted," Reagan said last night. Asked if he were willing to risk a confrontation with militant students by attending today's university Board of Regents meeting adjacent to the campus, Reagan replied: "You bet your sweet life."

Yesterday's demonstrators, shouting "We want Reagan . . . get 'em . . . Kill 'em," smashed windows with rocks and screamed obscenities at University

ACCIDENT INTERRUPTS POWER

Electric power to the entire Sleepy Hollow area was knocked out today when this car, driven by Michelle Bledsoe, 16, 161 Deer Hollow Road, Sleepy Hollow, sheared off a utility pole carrying a 12,000-volt power line. The Pacific Gas and Electric Co. hoped to have power restored by 1 p.m., but San Anselmo police said the southbound lane of Butterfield Road would be closed the rest of the day. Miss Bledsoe was treated for forehead cuts. The accident occurred shortly before 10 a.m. in front of 251 Butterfield Road, San Anselmo.

Assassin's Widow Takes Shaw Stand

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Lee Harvey Oswald's widow, summoned today as a defense witness at Clay Shaw's conspiracy trial, contradicted prosecution testimony that her late husband was a bearded beatnik who shared an apartment with an eccentric homosexual.

Mrs. Marina Oswald Porter, a slender Russian-born blonde who has remarried and lives in Richardson, Tex., was called as the first witness for the defense after the judge threw out a motion by Shaw's attorneys for a directed verdict of innocent.

Mrs. Porter said the only night Oswald spent away from home when they lived in New Orleans was one night in jail.

Shaw, 55, a retired New Orleans businessman, is charged with conspiring with Oswald, David W. Ferrie and others to assassinate President John F. Kennedy, who was slain in Dallas, Tex., Nov. 22, 1963.

The key state witness, Perry Raymond Russo, testified that he knew Oswald as Leon Oswald who shared an apartment with Ferrie, described as an eccentric homosexual by several witnesses. Russo said he overheard the plotting during a party at Ferrie's apartment in September 1963.

"Do you know what a beatnik or a hippie looks like?" asked defense attorney F. Irvin Dymond.

"Yes," replied Mrs. Porter.

"Did you ever see Le Harvey Oswald looking like a beatnik?"

"No, sir."

Mrs. Porter testified she had never heard Oswald mention a Clay Shaw or a "Clem Ber-

Rabbi Sees Israeli Status During Trip

By JOANNE GRANT

"There is no danger of any immediate explosion" in the Middle East, believes Marin Rabbi Morton Hoffman who returned Wednesday from a six-day 20,000 mile fact-finding trip to Israel. (See Mideast story, page 3.)

"No one anticipates that there will be a war" in the next few years, Rabbi Hoffman said in an interview yesterday at Congregation Rodef Sholom in Santa Venetia.

However, he qualified the reassuring statements, pointing out Israel would defend itself is seriously attacked. And, he admitted, peace is not expected soon either, perhaps not until a new generation of Arab leaders.

Meanwhile, the policy of Israel, especially the Israeli Army, is "to live and let live" as long as possible, said Rabbi Hoffman after his fourth and fastest trip to Israel.

Rabbi Hoffman maintained the border incidents are created by the Arabs, chiefly as scare tactics to keep the impression that it is a powder keg — especially now that President Nixon is planning to visit Europe.

The border incidents are also due to Arab frustration at their inability to infiltrate Israel along the borders since Israel equipped itself with electronic fences which detect possible intruders by radar, said Rabbi Hoffman.

Despite the border incidents

Five-Way Transplant Patients Responding

NEW YORK (AP) — Five persons who received organ transplants from a single donor were reported doing very well today while a sixth transplant from the same donor was scheduled for later in the day. (See another transplant story, page 2.)

The five persons received the heart, liver, both kidneys and a cornea. The sixth person is to receive the second cornea removed from a 57-year-old man who died of a brain tumor.

The series of operations, which included the first in which a heart was removed at one hospital and carried to another for implantation, began at Memorial and New York hospitals Wednesday night.

The man who provided the organs had been in a coma for a month and two brothers had given permission for the transplants.

The heart was removed in a half-hour operation at Memorial Hospital and placed in a saline solution in a stainless steel bucket. Two young surgeons took the heart to New York Hospital through a block-long tunnel.

A 36-year-old man got the heart in a 53-minute operation.

The donor's two kidney's were removed and transplanted into a 19-year-old boy and a 38-year-old woman at New York Hospital..

Back at Memorial, doctors removed the donor's liver and transplanted it into a 27 - year-old bride of six months, Lynne Varney, who had a 14-pound cancerous tumor removed from her liver in an earlier operation.

Last night the cornea of the same donor was transplanted into a 64-year-old man. The other cornea was to be given today to a 50-year-old man.

New York Hospital's surgery chief, Dr. C. Walton Lillehei, said the organs of one donor can give life to 17 people, in addition to nonvital organs like the cornea.

Teachers Eye Plan To End State Strike

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Striking teachers at San Francisco State College spent yesterday discussing a proposed compromise settlement of the dispute which has kept the campus in turmoil for months.

A decision on whether to accept the compromise and end the strike may be announced by tomorrow by spokesmen for the local American Federation of Teachers group.

In another development yesterday, Superior Court Judge William A. O'Brien refused to modify an order he made Monday placing about $500,000 in student funds in receivership.

The Associated Students organization charged the fund freeze was an attempt to "intimidate, silence or quash" worthwhile programs.

Stanford Hit By Rampage

STANFORD (UPI) — A band of black students went on a wild rampage at the Stanford book store yesterday, pulling, hundreds of books off shelves and pushing over art displays.

The students apparently were angered by the failure of Stanford President Kenneth Pitzer to attend a meeting with Black Student Union leaders. Dr. Pitzer was returning to his office to meet with them when the incident occurred.

A bookstore employee said the two dozen students "swept in like a hurricane" and then quickly disappeared. Damage was estimated at $1,000. There were no arrests and no injuries.

Earlier, 400 BSU members and supporters held a noon rally and then marched to the president's office and from there to the faculty club where Dr. Pitzer was having lunch.

Johnny Scott, BSU leader, said "we want a black culture house here. We want a drama group which we will support. We want a black vice president. We want all of this because it's right."

95 To Seek 55 School Board Seats

Ninety-eight candidates have filed for 55 seats on 17 school district school boards in Marin, the Marin Junior College District Board and the Marin County Board of Education.

There will be races in all districts expect Union and Nicasio in the April trustee elections.

One of the late developments yesterday was the creation of a race for the Trustee Area 1 Novato area seat on the county board. Gary F. Huff of the Air Force filed to challenge incumbent James A. Swenson, who was appointed to the board to succeed Edith Kanoff, who resigned.

A late flurry of candidates boosted the field to nine in Novato Unified District making it the most crowded race in the county. The final rush also swelled the field to eight competing

RFK Teen Volunteer Describes His Wound

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An 18-year-old volunteer in Robert F. Kennedy's presidential primary campaign said today that the night the senator was shot "I felt something kick me."

He looked down, said Irwin Neal Stroll, and "that's when I noticed I had blue pants on and I saw red."

Stroll was one of five persons wounded last June 5 when Kennedy was mortally wounded by gunfire. He has filed suit for more than $1 million against Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, on trial charged with murdering Kennedy.

Today's session of the trial was delayed for 30 minutes by a conference in the judge's chambers. It was believed attorneys were discussing a black notebook in which Sirhan reportedly inscribed a deadline for Kennedy's death.

Defense attorneys said they would object strenuously to their introduction on grounds they were seized illegally from the Sirhan home.

Mayor Samuel Yorty of Los Angeles made the first reference to the 9-by-12 inch books soon after Kennedy died.

Sirhan, he said, wrote of "the necessity of assassinating Sen. Kennedy before June 5, 1968."

The death date was met. Kennedy was shot early that day in a pantry of the Ambassador Hotel just after winning the California Democratic presidential primary.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Autopsy Pending For Mrs. Uris

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — Dist. Atty. Martin G. Dumont said a decision would be made today on whether to autopsy the body of Mrs. Marjorie Uris, found shot to death near the mountain home she shared with her husband, novelist Leon Uris.

Mrs. Uris

Dumont said, "It appears to be a suicide."

Uris, author of the best-selling "Exodus" and "Topaz" talked briefly with authorities called in after the finding of the body by a passerby yesterday, then went into seclusion.

Dumont said Sheriff Carroll Whitmire of Pitkin County told him Mrs. Uris, 26, died of a bullet fired into her mouth from a pistol, owned by Uris, which was found lying near her. Pitkin said two other shots had been triggered off, one into the ground and one into her purse.

The couple was married in Hollywood last Sept. 8 after a romance which began with a meeting in this ski resort town in the Colorado high country.

German Convention

HANNOVER, West Germany (UPI)—The National Democratic Party, accused of being neo-Nazi, will hold its national convention in several Bavarian towns this weekend, spokesmen said yesterday. They said the party had rented meeting halls in the towns after it was barred from one in Bamberg.

Israeli Image

JERUSALEM (UPI) — A prominent member of Israel's parliament blamed Foreign Minister Agga Eban last night for what he termed Israel's warlike image abroad. Rightwing member Arieh Ben Eliezer also said Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan "does a lot of lamage . . . because the world at least takes him seriously."

Ginger Lauded

LONDON (AP) — American actress Ginger Rogers received a tremendous ovation from a sellout crowd of 2,800 at the Royal Theater in the British opening of the musical "Mame" last night.

"I am very proud and you are superb," the 57-year-old former movie star told the audience in a curtain speech.

Nixon Calls For Reform Of Elections

WASHINGTON (AP) — President nixon has called for limited electoral reform, but has stopped short of endorsing the direct popular vote system that has wide backing in Congress.

Observing that the present electoral vote system "is deeply rooted in American history," Nixon cautioned Congress against trying to abolish it.

Instead, he said in a message to Congress yesterday, electoral reform should aim at dividing each state's electoral vote "in a manner that may more closely approximate the popular vote than does the present system."

CONSERVATIVES' PLAN

Nixon thus threw his support to some form of proportional distribution of the electoral vote, a reform generally backed by conservatives as an alternative to the one-man, one-vote approach of the direct popular election favored by many congressmen.

Sen. Hugh Scott, R-PA., said Nixon's message would give impetus to "long-awaited congressional action" to bring about reform of the electoral college system.

Nixon said in the past he has favored dividing the electoral vote among the presidential candidates in the same proportion as they divide a state's electoral vote, but that he is not endorsing any specific plan now.

One suggested plan, which Nixon did not rule out, calls for awarding one electoral vote for each congressional district carried by a candidate, with two votes going to the statewide popular winner.

WOULD HAVE WON

Under either of these plans Nixon would have defeated John F. Kennedy in 1960, although under the proportional plan he would have fallen seven votes short of the 270 electoral voted needed for a majority.

In his message to Congress Nixon proposed dealing with such a problem by providing that a winning candidate need get only 40 per cent of the electoral vote to become president.

If no candidate gets 40 per cent, he said, there should be a nationwide popular run-off election between the two top candidates.

First Heart Transplant In S. California

TORRANCE (AP) — The first patient to undergo a heart transplant operation in Southern California fought for life today with the heart of a young woman gunshot victim.

A hospital spokesman said Richard Charles Newell, 58-year-old Oxnard grocer, was "alert, talking and well oriented" and had been able to sleep.

His condition was critical.

The donor was Shirley Ann Highhouse, 23, a Torrance housewife. She was taken to the hospital late Wednesday afternoon with a bullet wound in her head which sheriff's deputies said was self-inflicted.

She was pronounced dead at 11 p.m. Wednesday by the Los Angeles County coroner. The heart was kept beating by a respirator and the transplant operation began at 9 a.m. yesterday and lasted all day, spokesmen said at Harbor General Hospital.

The team of 10 physicians headed by Dr. Richard Cleveland, chief of cardiac surgery at Harbor General Hospital, and included Dr. J. Michael Criley, who held a news conference on Newell's condition.

Newell's was the world's 118th heart transplant and the 61st in the United States.

Moscow Adds To Growing Berlin Crisis

BERLIN (AP) — The Soviet Union intensified the war of nerves over West Berlin today, announcing the Warsaw Pact forces would stage maneuvers in East Germany early in March.

The date and the exact location of the war games were not given in the official announcement by Tass, the Soviet news agency.

Tass said the maneuvers would be held "in the central and western regions of the German Democratic Republic." This indicated an area of operations between West Berlin and the West German border, 110 miles west of the city.

The maneuvers will be supervised by Marshal Ivan Yakubovsky, commander in chief of the Warsaw Pact forces, and will "perfect the joint action of troops in different types of combat operations," Tass said.

Heavy Soviet tank and troop movements into East Germany were reported by travelers arriving in Prague yesterday.

U.S. Hints Common Peace Table Ground

PARIS (AP) — The adversaries in the Vietnam peace talks may be on the extreme edge of the common ground which U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge declares is necessary for a start toward a settlement.

That is the cautious impression U.S. and South Vietnamese negotiators formed after yesterday's weekly meeting.

1. The North Vietnamese have shifted the focus of their publicly expressed interest onto a terrain chosen by Lodge. Instead of emphasizing that the United States and the Saigon government must accept the political demands of North Vietnam and the Viet Cong, Hanoi envoy Xuan Thuy moved to the forefront his insistence that the United States unconditionally withdraw its troops from South Vietnam. Thus North Vietnam is now treating a military question as the No. 1 issue on an unfixed agenda.

Although Thuy declared that the U.S. withdrawal must be made without conditions, observers saw the possibility of a parallel with the negotiations for a halt in the U.S. bombing of North Vietnam. Hanoi then insisted publicly that the bombing halt must be unconditional but later made secret concessions.

A similar compromise to provide mutual troop withdrawals also is considered possible.

From the beginning of the four-party talks, Lodge has urged that measures of military de-escalation be the first order of business.

2. Lodge tried hard to reassure the other side that the United States shares their expressed view that a final settlement ought to conform to the spirit of the 1954 Geneva agreements on Vietnam.

Taking Thuy's words at the previous session as his own, Lodge affirmed: "We support the principles of sovereignty, independence, unity and territorial integrity" of Vietnam.

3. The final encouraging sign was a matter of atmosphere.

At their news conferences after the session, the spokesmen for North Vietnam and the NLF appeared less strident and acrimonious than they had after previous meetings. There was less name calling and no desk thumping at all.

Russ Thought Trying Space Bomb System

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense officials say they think the Soviet Union has decided to deploy an orbital bomb system in space.

They indicate that accumulating evidence, presumably gathered from Soviet tests monitored by the United States, points toward the Kremlin's intention to mount the program, call a Fractional Orbital Bombardment System.

This conclusion comes only a month after Cark M. Clifford, in his final report as secretary of defense, said the United States was uncertain about Soviet use of the FOBS.

An FOBS would be boosted into a low orbit, generally about 100 miles above Earth, and would be fired by remote control at ground targets before completing its first circuit.

Officials refuse to discuss intelligence, but it is known that the Russians have conducted at least 13 FOBS tests. The first seven reported flopped, but the next six were said to have worked.

WAVE SKIMMER — Hovercraft ferry service is to start Sunday between Vancouver and Nanaimo, B.C. This $420,000 vehicle can carry 35 passengers across the water in a 45-minute trip that takes 1 hour 50 minutes by conventional ferryboat. (AP Wirephoto)

Senate In Deeper ABM System Split

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee has wound up hearings on the nuclear nonproliferation treaty with all signs pointing to approval of that pet administration project but mounting trouble for another.

Discussion of the treaty to curb the spread of nuclear weapons was all but forgotten yesterday as critics used committee hearings as a forum to oppose the Sentinel antiballistic missile (ABM) system.

They were unsuccessful, however, in trying to get Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird to guarantee the Sentinel program will not be resumed without an all-out effort to obtain agreement with the Soviet Union that neither side will build such defenses.

Laird, although testifying in favor of the treaty, told the committee "I personally favor going forward with such a system."

In spite of the critics, charges that resumption of the Sentinel program would violate provisions of the treaty, the committee ended its hearing yesterday with all indications pointing toward its approval of the pact sometime next week.

The committee already has approved it once, reporting it to the floor last session when it was never brought to a vote.

As did Secretary of State William P. Rogers two days earlier, Laird said he did not believe the treaty's article calling for good-faith negotiations on nuclear disarmament was a bar to missile defense deployment.

During his testimony on the treaty, Laird noted at several points that Congress had approved the Sentinel program under the Johnson administration as a defense against Red China.

But it is now widely viewed in Congress as the possible beginning of a thick system, costing up to $60 billion, that would be deployed against Soviet missiles.

FAST, NOISY TRIP

Canadians To Ride Hovercraft Ferries

VANCOUVER, B.C. (UPI)— The first scheduled Hovercraft service in Canada will begin here Sunday with regular runs of the air-cushioned craft from Vancouver to Nanaimo on Vancouver Island.

(SFO Helicopters, Inc., tested similar craft on San Francisco Bay under a federal grant in 1966, but the vehicles were not put into commercial service on a continuing basis.)

Pacific Hovercraft Ltd. will inaugurate the twice-daily runs carrying passengers 40 miles across the Strait of Georgia.

For $7, a passenger will make the trip in under an hour, less than half the time it takes the 1,000 - passenger B.C. ferry, which charges the same rate.

"Initially we will operate a service to Nanaimo two times a day and return," said Byng Heeney, executive vice president of the privately - owned company.

"At the moment we only have one SRN-6, a 35-passenger craft," he explained. "We have two more models coming in about six weeks. The first is expected here in March and the other in April."

At this time, he said, Pacific Hovercraft will begin operating six return trips to both Nanaimo and Victoria, the provincial capital.

Neither of these hovercraft, which glide on a cushion of air can carry cars, but Heeney said his firm is considering use of models capable of carrying 300 passengers and 30 automobiles.

Heeney said Pacific Hovercraft had considered buying other forms of ferry transportation before deciding on the SRN-6.

"We looked at hydrofoils and all sorts of things, but the hovercraft was the obvious choice because it was the safest," he said.

"The waters in lower southwestern British Columbia are just full of logs and loose timber. We chose these amphibious machines so that if we don't see a log floating in the water we can go right over it."

Powered by a 900-horsepower Bristol Siddeley gas turbine, the 10-ton, 48-foot SRN-6 is capable of speeds exceeding 60 miles per hour, regardless of whether it is traveling on land, snow or water.

The hovercraft is by no means a quiet form of transportation and when it skims over land or water on a four-foot cushion of air it reminds one of a plane attempting to take off.

The interior is similar to that of any city transit bus with two rows of seats lining each side. At the rear of the craft it is necessary to raise your voice to be able to be heard over the noise of the engine. In the front section, the vibration is tremendous and vocal communication difficult.

One serious problem facing the pioneer hovercraft service is the shortage of pilots. Presently there are less than 100 hovercraft pilots around the world, and there is only one certified instructor in North America.

He is Per Kjeldstadli, a rugged Norwegian who is chief pilot and instructor for Pacific Hovercraft.

To date, Kjeldstadli has trained about 20 per cent of the world's hovercraft pilots, all of them in Canada.

Terrorist Bomb Kills Two, Hurts 14 Israeli

JERUSALEM (AP) — An explosion ripped through Jerusalem's largest supermarket today as crowds of Jews were stocking up for the start of the Sabbath at sundown. Two young Jewish men were killed, the government radio said, and at least 12 persons were injured.

Most of the wounded were believed to be women. One was an Australian major in Israel with the United Nations.

The building, across the street from the King David Hotel, was a shambles of broken glass and damaged goods. All its windows were blown out.

The charge was in a small box that was planted at the cake and candy counter. A time fuse set it off. Police said a second charge was found and disarmed in the store.

Police said a smaller bomb was discovered near the British Consulate half a mile away. It was detonated in a field.

As in earlier bombings, Israeli police set up roadblocks today between the Jewish and Arab quarters of Jerusalem to prevent retaliatory attacks on the Arabs.

There was a steady exodus as Arabs who work in west Jerusalem for the Israelis, hurried back to the safety of their homes.

Meanwhile, Baghdad Radio announced that Iraq had executed the noncommissioned army officer who headed the Israeli spy ring from which seven members were executed yesterday.

No developments were reported today in connection with the Arab guerrilla attack on the Israeli airliner in Switzerland Tuesday. Israel awaited the outcome of an appeal for international action to halt Arab terrorist attacks on commercial planes.

The Arab world still expected an Israeli reprisal, and Al Ahram, the semiofficial Cairo newspaper, predicted it would be aimed at Egypt.

On the diplomatic front, Al Ahram reported Egypt has informed the United States that American proposals on how to approach the Big Four talks on the Middle East "would not be conducive" to reaching a peace settlement.

Al Ahram called for a Big Four declaration "rejecting the principle of occupation of territories by force, demanding an Israeli withdrawal and affirming the necessity for implementation of the November resolution" of the U.N. Security Council.

Gallery Shows LBJ's Portrait

The bust, slightly larger than life size, will go on display in the presidential section of the gallery today. It is by Jimilu Mason of Alexandria, Va.

The portrait, which Johnson called "the ugliest thing I ever saw," was given to the gallery by the artist, Peter Hurd of New Mexico. It will be placed on exhibition at a later time, the gallery said.

We think we put out better ones.

We think you should be the judge, though.

So we're having a Value Showdown. We're inviting America into our showrooms for a more-than-casual look at our cars. To prod and to probe and to find out once and for all who gives you more car for your money.

For instance, we're offering automatic transmissions, big V8 engines, and power disc brakes for less money than a year ago.

We give you Full Coil suspension, acrylic lacquer finish, lockable steering wheel, ignition and transmission lever, flush-and-dry rocker panels and Body by Fisher.

But what does our competition give you?

What are they offering?

We could tell you.

But coming from us it would probably sound like a put-down.

And we don't believe in putting people down.

Just first.

See for yourself. At your Chevrolet dealer's.

Chevrolet Value Showdown.

Far be it from us to take anything away from our competition. Except maybe you.

Rabbi Sees Israeli Status During Trip

and the possibility of war, tension is not high in Israel, as Rabbi Hoffman had expected.

And, he found the people confident. Not an arrogant kind of confidence, he added hastily, but "the kind of confidence of a guy looking reality in the face" and accepting it.

Rabbi Hoffman, who speaks fluent Hebrew, said he gained his insight by talking with "the man on the street," not just the officials who could speak English.

Some of the Israelis with whom he spoke lived near the Jordanian River, the border, on a kibbutz which has been supplied with protective concrete bunkers in case of border attacks.

One of the shelters, said Rabbi Hoffman, sleeps 180 adults and was built at a cost of $14 million.

Another is designed especially for infants and the children sleep there every night, regardless of attacks.

He noted across the border, Jordanians have moved inland and become refugees. Their towns have become ghost towns, inhabited only by the terrorists, he said.

While the welfare of her people is of immense concern to Israel, he said, "Every tax dollar that Israel gets has to go for defense." Taxes are heavy, as much as half of a salary.

The defense budget this year is $900 million and the figure does not include the 50 U.S. F4 Phantom jets the Johnson administration agreed to sell to Israel, Rabbi Hoffman said.

Meanwhile, other critical needs such as hospitals, schools and homes for the aged must wait, either for outside funds or the day Israel can afford them.

Rabbi Hoffman said a major purpose of the visit, by 150 rabbis from all over the U.S., was to determine social needs and to plan for Israel's survival. Hoffman was selected to make the tour because he is president of the Northern California Board of Rabbis.

The top priority, he said, is immigration. "There are still millions of Jews living under oppression who need a haven. It's the whole reason Israel is."

Israel expects 35,000 to 45,000 immigrants this year, from Eastern Europe and North Africa. He did not name specific countries, fearing it would bring Arab pressure and "jeopardize some family reunions."

Oppression in most of these countries has increased since the Israeli victory in June 1967, he said.

The new arrivals move immediately to an absorption center to begin a six-month intensive study of Hebrew and a skill. They receive food and shelter at the centers, Rabbi Hoffman said.

He reporte it costs about $5,000 per immigrant for the six months and if, say 40,000 come in this year, the total cost would be $200 million. Last year, 30,000 persons immigrated and the Jewish community outside Israel provided $170 million.

Following the training, the new residents enter the labor market — Israel has full employment — and become self sufficient, contributing members of the economy.

Rabbi Hoffman lashed out at the attacks on Israeli airlines, such as the one in Zurich last week, noting the planes are vital to continuing the immigration program.

He defended Israel's retalitory attack on Lebanese planes and said there has not been a single border incident with Lebanon since then.

Meanwhile, incidents continue on other fronts and Israel remains alert for more serious attacks, but most Israelites continue living happy, normal lives, Rabbi Hoffman said.

Muir Beach Tavern Is Hit By Vandals

Burglars entered the Muir Beach Tavern last weekend through a hole in the floor under a beer refrigerator, employees reported to the sheriff's office yesterday.

The visitors turned over tables and broke glasses and a window, deputies said.

Stolen TV Found Inside Stopped Car

An auto with a darkened rear light and no front license plate was halted today in San Rafael and found to be carrying a new color television set stolen earlier from a San Rafael appliance store, police said.

The driver of the car, Edward Guillory, 20, of San Francisco, was booked into Marin County Jail on suspicion of burglary. Bail was set at $5,000.

Sgt. Phillip D. Green stopped the auto at about 3 a.m. as it was about to enter Highway 101 from Second Street. Police said Green noticed a wing window broken and found upon inspecting the engine that the ignition had been tampered with.

After arresting Guillory, when the suspect could produce no identification, Green found the television in the trunk and determined upon a check of local appliance stores that it had been stolen from the J and J Appliance Center at 1541 Fourth Street.

Also missing from the store were six tape recorders, a clock radio, record player and a second television. Police were attempting today to locate the items, valued at more than $1,000.

trand," the alias that Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison contends Shaw used during the plotting. Russo said Shaw was introduced to him at the Ferrie apartment as Clem Bertrand.

She also testified that she never heard Oswald mention either Ferrie or Russo.

The defense began its case after Judge Edward A. Haggerty Jr. of Criminal District Court denied a motion that he direct the jury to return a verdict of innocent.

Dymond moved for the directed acquittal immediately after the prosecution rested its case yesterday. Haggerty recessed court after the motion was filed Thursday and said he would study transcripts of all testimony by Russo, the state's star witness. Haggerty did not mention Russo's testimony in his decision.

Marijuana Case Counts Dropped

Charges against Michael John Holloman, 19, of Terra Linda, accused of possessing marijuana on Jan. 3, were dismissed yesterday in Marin Municipal Court.

Judge Alvin B. Goldstein said he would decide on Wednesday whether to hold for trial a codefendant in the case, Willard Gary Biesinger, 18, also of Terra Linda.

They were arrested in a car on Lucas Valley Road.

Only three retail stores and all chain supermarkets will close for the holiday. Parking meters will not be enforced.

Hall, where the board of regents opened a two-day meeting.

"There aren't enough policemen in the world" to handle persistent campus demonstrations, he said in an informal address. "We're up against guerrilla warfare," he said in explaining the National Guard alert last night.

Reagan complained the university "hasn't matched us" in efforts to control dissident students. He said, "When you're engaged in guerrilla warfare, you eliminate them by firing the faculty involved and expelling the students."

Yesterday's disorder was the most violent outbreak at the campus since the Third World Liberation Front, a coalition of minority students, went on strike nearly a month ago. Many in the mob were nonstudents, offcampus radicals and Berkeley's hippie "street people."

A cannister of tear gas thrown by one of the 3,000 demonstrators touched off the barrage of police tear gas, which enveloped the campus. The screaming dissidents ran through the thick clouds, tossing back police cannisters, overturning two paddy wagons and smashing out three windows, and pelting the pursuing officers with rocks, bottles and cans.

A dozen students and one professor were treated for cuts and tear gas. Four highway patrolmen were injured by rocks, including division chief Tom Houchins.

Most of the arrested demonstrators were held on $3,000 bail. Among them was Tom Collins, editor of the campus newspaper, who was charged with inciting a riot and released on $100 bail.

Reagan also expressed sharp annoyance today with state college trustees who said they had not heard of enrollments of unqualified students at knifepoint at San Francisco State College.

"If their judgment is as lacking as their memory, I can understand the state of education in California today," he said as he went into a meeting of the university Regents at Berkeley.

Plan For Bridge Gains Support

The Sleepy Hollow Homes Association last night endorsed plans by the county planning department for a two-lane bridge on Butterfield Road, according to Association President Frank Berto.

Work on the bridge, to replace an old one, is scheduled to start in April, Berto said. It will take three months to construct and will require a temporary bridge west of the existing bridge for a detour.

Berto said county officials have put the preliminary cost of the bridge at $35,000.

Contributions for the sale are being collected at the library.

The board has also voted Tuesday night to donate to the library some peg board for art exhibits, said Mrs. Reilly.

The group recently donated art and conservation books worth $200 to the library, she reported.

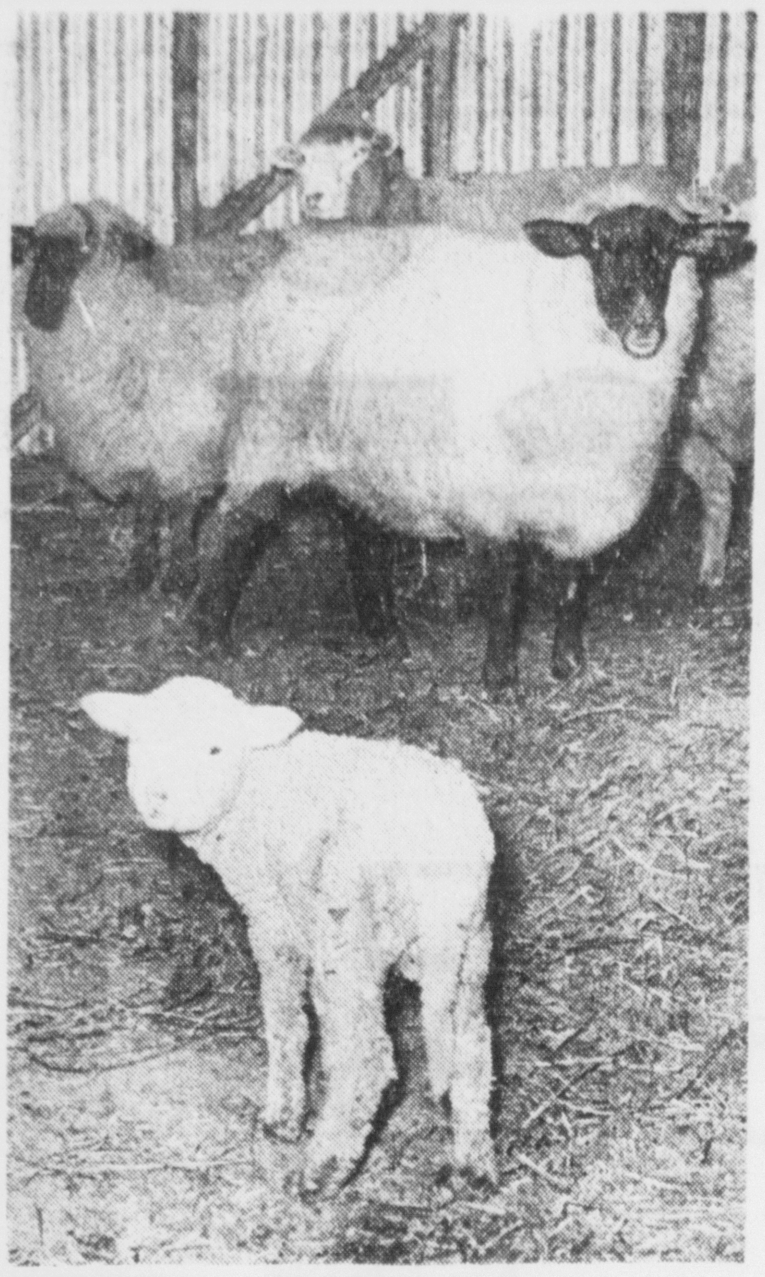
Giant Dogs Prey On Ranch Sheep

By ALAN JONES



UNTOUCHABLE — This lamb stands forlorn, its mother dead and other ewes unwilling to feed or care for it.

FOSTER CARE — Larry Giannecchini, 18, bottle feeds the lamb, since surviving ewes will attend only their own offspring.

Tuesday afternoon two giant dogs ran into the midst of a flock of sheep in Tennessee Valley and began killing. A great Dane seized one sheep by the neck, crushed its skull with one bite, then spun to seize another and kill it the same way, while a shaggy dog harried other sheep nearby.

By the time dairy rancher George Gianecchini and his sons noticed the attack, eight sheep had been ravaged, some with their faces eaten off but most simply killed by the crushing bites in an orgy of slaying.

Gianecchini ran for a rifle, shot at the dogs but missed, and they fled over the hill toward Sausalito or Marin City.

Since then, Gianecchini has been on a treadmill of officialdom trying to get something done about killer dogs.

Sheriff's deputies made a report, but referred him to the Marin County Humane Society.

The Humane Society said there is little or nothing it can do unless the dogs are caught on Gianecchini's property.

Now the rancher has turned to his San Rafael attorney, Herbert K. Walton, who said he will file a claim with the county for the value of the slain animals. If the dogs could be traced, Gianecchini could also file action against the owner for double the value of the lost sheep, and the dogs could be legally destroyed by the humane society.

"This is a real difficult situation," a humane society employee said. Marin Terrace School is fairly near, and many dogs follow children to school, then run loose during the day. The situation improved temporarily when the school cracked down on dogs, but it didn't last, The humane society said. There are dozens of dogs again roving loose in Tennessee Valley.

Legally, said the society, Gianecchini can shoot a dog attacking stock on his property, but can't go get the dog on its owner's property. Nor can the humane society pick up a dog on his say-so unless it is actually caught in the act.

Gianecchini said he saw the great dane run back to Marin City, and he said he believed he knows who the owner is. But there is no way to prove it, and the owners or the only known great dane in Marin City told the Independent-Journal their dog is kept chained and couldn't have killed the sheep.

No one has any idea who owns the shaggy dog that accompanied the great dane.

Lt. Ellis L. Seibert of the sheriff's office said there is no way of knowing what dog did the killing, since the chase led over the ridges. The dog could have come from Sausalito as Easily as Marin City, he said.

Gianecchini has had dog trouble before, as most dairy ranchers in Marin have on occasion. In 1964, he collected a claim from the county for dairy cattle killed by dogs.

It can be expensive all the same. Last year, Gianecchini said, he shot a dog chasing his stock and the owner sued. Gianecchini won the case, but spent $400 defending himself.

Walton said state law requires each county to maintain a livestock indemnity fund, financed out of dog license fees, to reimburse owners of stock killed by dogs. Despite the 1964 settlement, Marin County has no such fund.

Asst. County Counsel Thomas Hendricks said such a county fund would have to be imposed by state order. "Otherwise the county would be in the position of insuring ranchers against their losses, he said," he said.

Gianecchini and his sons can't patrol the entire ranch — there are too many chores for that. Often an attacking dog may never be seen, and his work may be undetected until the body of a sheep or cow is found somewhere on the ranch.

The rancher sees it as a problem the humane society should solve. If the society enforced licensing for all dogs it would help, he said. "Nine out of 10 dogs we shoot for killing stock aren't licensed . . . they're dogs nobody owns."

If the unlicensed dogs were impounded or destroyed, most of his losses could be curbed, Gianecchini feels. And since the county has a dog license requirement, it should be enforced, he said.

Meantime, the humane society is under pressure from most of Marin's 11 towns and cities, as well as unincorporated areas, for more protection against loose dogs. More money and men are forthcoming and will cut the dog problem in areas willing to pay for more patrols, but it seems unlikely that will help Gianecchini much.

Airman Found Dead At Home

The body of a sergeant assigned to the 78th Fighter Wing at Hamilton Air Force Base, was found hanging today at his home at 677 Ignacio Boulevard, Raphael Village, Novato police reported.

Killins and his wife, May, had been out until 1:45 a.m., she told police. She took their baby sitter home, and when she returned, her husband was asleep in bed.

She went to bed and awoke later to find her husband gone and the door open. She found his body hanging from a rafter in the carport, she told police, adding that he had been despondent.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Keaton's Chapel of Marin in Novato.

Bail Bond Voting Reset By U.C. Davis Students

I-J Special Report

DAVIS — The student legislature of the University of California at Davis last night postponed action until Thursday on a controversial bill which would put the student body into the bail bond business.

The legislation was first reworded, however, to limit a bail bond fund to offenses committed by Davis students in Yolo, Sacramento and Solano counties.

The legislature will also consider lowering the amount of funds available to a student.

The bill proposes setting up a bail bond fund with student body money which could be loaned to a student who is arrested and unable to raise bail.

The original proposal provided for $1,000 to be available to any student. The money would come in form of a 60-day loan, interest-free.

The legislature was about evenly split on the first proposal, but the bill may gain added support now that the area of its use has been limited — especially since arrests at San Francisco State College would no longer be covered, a student body officer said today.

Irate Taxpayers Hit Ghetto Field Trips

The Irate Taxpayers of Marin sharply criticized the Sausalito School District last night for sending students on field trips to black ghettos in San Francisco and for considering paying for a summer trip by students to Mexico.

The trips were cited as examples of "schools boards not spending the money they have as well as they might," and of "spending for purposes that we don't believe are proper for educational funds," reported publicity chairman Winifred Frederick of Lagunitas.

The taxpayers group, with about 45 members present at its monthly meeting in the Marin County Courthouse in San Rafael, appointed a committee to decide what action the group will take in the future to combat school expenditures it opposes. The committee is to report its recommendation to the group at its next meeting at 8:30 p.m. on March 20 in the courthouse.

Mrs. Frederick discounted the possibility of legal action as one of the committee's recommendations. More likely, she said, would be a recommendation that the group's "action committees" arouse public opinion against expenditures the group feels are improper.

The group also agreed that "sensitivity training" would be an improper expenditure of school funds, she reported, after hearing a talk on the controversial subject by Mrs. Nan Hepp of Mill Valley.

'Oakland 7' Jury Hears Rally Tape

I-J Special Report

OAKLAND — A tape recording introduced by the prosecution as evidence against the Oakland Seven yesterday may have given the defense an unexpected boost by letting the jury hear more than the prosecution wanted.

Prosecutor Lowell Jensen introduced the tape, over routine objections by defense attorneys, to support charges that the seven engaged in a felony conspiracy by planning for others to commit misdemeanor acts of obstructing police and trespassing during a march on the Oakland Induction Center Oct. 17, 1967.

Jensen had hoped to play only certain portions of the tape, but the defense succeeded in having the whole recording played, including a speech by one of the seven, Michael J. Smith, formerly of Corte Madera, in which Smith advised protesters to avoid a confrontation with police.

The five-hour recording of a rally in Sproul Plaza also contained arguments against the Vietnam War and the draft that the defense will not be allowed to present in its case.

Smith, who was one of two defendants heard on the tape, repeatedly insisted that "we are not interested in having a confrontation with police."

Smith said at one point, "Some people thought we should throw streamers at the cops. Some people talked about dropping flowers on the cops. People talked about picket signs that will be good enough to come up against billy clubs." But then he again advised against provoking police.

Jensen has indicated he will end his case early next week.

March 15 Ski Trip Set For Children

Gallinas Village Community Service District will sponsor a ski trip to Soda Springs on Highway 40 on March 15, district directors decided last night.

Chairman Walter E. Rudolph announced he will arrange for a charter bus to take about 35 children and several adults for the one-day trip. If there are too many applicants, another bus could be arranged. The bus will leave the Santa Venetia Presbyterian Church at 5 a.m. and return that night. Bus fare and other expenses will come to about $15 per child, said Rudolph.

Gallinas Village Community Service District Directors also:

SENIOR CITIZENS — Decided to apply to the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission for aid in establishing a senior citizens program in Gallinas Village. Secretary Marguerite F. Clark said this is contingent on the district's purchase of the Presbyterian church property on Adrian Way for use as a recreation center.

MEETING — Set an adjourned meeting for 7:30 p.m. Wednesday to discuss spring cleaning and improvement of parks and planter strips. Directors said they will make a field tour of Pueblo Park and planter strips before Wednesday.

Tomales High Names Advisers On Agriculture

Members of a vocational agriculture advisory committee for Tomales High School were announced today by Supt. Anthony Matulich.

The formation of the committee was approved by the school trustees Feb. 13.

The purpose and function of the committee is to aid the high school vocational agriculture department in keeping abreast of changes in agriculture in California, since agriculture today is a highly scientific and mechanized occupation with new machines, materials and methods are constantly coming into the field, Matulich said.

Grand Jury Indicts Youths In Drug Raid

Two young men arrested Wednesday night in a narcotics raid on a Muir Beach home were indicted yesterday by the Marin County Grand Jury on charges of possessing marijuana for sale and possessing LSD.

Jeffrey James Morse, 22, and William Mansfield Graham, 19, of Sunset Way, Muir Beach, were ordered to appear in Marin Superior Court Monday for arraignment.

They were being held today in the Marin County Jail without bail.

Charges were filed in Municipal Court yesterday against one of the other three persons arrested at the time of the raid. William Edward Pola, 20, of Alameda, driver of a car which arrived at the house while agents were there, was charged with marijuana possession.

No charges were filed against Charles Bede Benedetto, 19, also of Alameda, a passenger in Pola's car. Another passenger, a 17-year-old boy, was cited to Juvenile Hall.

Ditch Lining Project Funded

A $15,000 ditch lining project is included in the $18,850 budget for 1969-70 approved last night by the San Rafael Meadows Flood Control Zone Advisory Board, headed by James Blum.

The estimated surplus this year is $14,350, which means $4,500 will be raised by taxes in 1969. Charles E. Murphy, flood control engineer in he county Department of Public Works, said the tax rate will remain the same as this year, 20 cents per $100 assessed vaulation.

A drainage ditch which runs between Mirada and El Prado avenues will be lined, either with redwood walls or concrete, said Murphy.

New Orleans Jazz Band Will Perform

The Easy Riders New Orleans Jazz Band will perform Monday at 7:30 p.m. in Ives Hall at Sonoma State College under the auspices of the Lectures and Concerts Division of the Associated Students.

The group consists of a trumpet, alto sax, trombone, drums, piano, banjo and string bass.

Tam Trustees Set Interviews

The Tamalpais High School District board will interview candidates for the seat vacated by trustee William B. Lewis at a closed session at 7 p.m. Monday before an open special session at 8 p.m. at the district office, Larkspur.

Seeking a board seat are Robert W. Corlett, San Anselmo attorney; Thomas E. Dugan of Mill Valley; William Bentley, accountant of Mill Valley; Richard W. Jahnke of San Anselmo and Brice Pace of Fairfax.

An appointee would have to run at the April 15 election since Lewis' term expires this spring.

Warrant Is Issued In Marijuana Case

A bench warrant was issued yesterday for Bruce Gustave Bonniver, 24, of Sausalito, who failed to show up in Marin Municipal Court for a preliminary hearing on a charge of possessing marijuana Dec. 14 in Sausalito.

Bail on the warrant was set at $500 by Judge Alvin B. Goldstein Jr.

Prisoners' Code Held A Moral Policy

CORONADO (UPI) — The U.S. Code of Conduct for prisoners of war was compared yesterday to the Bible's Ten Commandments—a moral statement, but not a law a man can be punished for breaking.

That was the view of Capt. William R. Newsome, the Navy's chief counsel for the court of inquiry into the capture of the USS Pueblo off North Korea Jan. 23, 1968.

"It is a set of principles by which servicemen should be guided," Newsome said. "I don't think it can be used as the basis of a regulation you can punish somebody for breaking."

Newsome's statement to newsmen appeared to mark a shift in the Navy's viewpoint—at least here where the Pueblo inquiry is being held.

Newsome said that as a moral statement rather than a statute the code may have been binding on the Pueblo's crew.

Newsome said that some provisions of the code, chiefly those which forbid aiding the enemy, have been written into military law and punishments are provided.

The Code of Conduct for prisoners of war was issued in 1955 by President Eisenhower after returning Korean War prisoners disturbed the nation with reports of "brainwashing" and collaboration with the enemy.

Six Pueblo officers have testified they broke the code by falsely confessing under torture that their ship had intruded into North Korean territorial waters.

The court of inquiry began a three-day recess today after hearing testimony from Pueblo enlisted men yesterday that they wanted the United States to retaliate for the vessel's capture even if it meant they would be killed.

Navy Is Expected To Withdraw New Jersey From Viet Waters

SAIGON (AP) — Military sources said today the world's only active battleship—the USS New Jersey—will depart in March after a six-month tour off the coasts of North and South Vietnam and may not return to the war.

But after six months in Long Beach for repairs, maintenance and retraining of her crew, the 56,000-ton battlewagon may not be needed in Vietnam, depending on the progress of the Paris peace talks, the sources said.

The New Jersey was brought out of mothballs in 1967 as a $50 million experiment to test the effectiveness of her 16-inch guns against targets in North Vietnam. The United States was then escalating its bombardment of the North, and the Navy said the 23-mile range of the New Jersey's guns would cover many of the targets then being hit by warplanes.

By the time the New Jersey arrived in Vietnam last Sept. 30, President Johnson had limited air and surface bombardment of North Vietnam to the country's narrow southern panhandle. The Pentagon said the battleship's big guns were still needed to hit well entrenched North Vietnamese artillery which was harassing the U.S. and South Vietnamese posts below the DMZ.

A month later Johnson halted all attacks on the North, and the enemy artillery attacks from above the DMZ stopped. Since then the battleship has made occasional attacks on North Vietnamese bunkers and antiaircraft guns in the DMZ which attacked U.S. reconnaissance planes.

In the ground war, meanwhile, the U.S. Command reported more fighting along the rugged Laotian frontier west of Hue and Da Nang and north of the A Shau Valley.

U.S. Marines backed by dive-bombers, stormed a North Vietnamese artillery base and bunker complex yesterday and reported killing 88 enemy soldiers and seizing two Soviet 122mm guns. Five Marines were reported killed and 25 were wounded.

Nixon Flies HHH Home In Jet Style

"President Nixon told me that after he was defeated in 1960, he had to fly back to California in a commercial plane," Humphrey recalled yesterday, "and he had to get to the airport in a taxi."

But, Humphrey said Nixon told him when he was ready to return to Minnesota he would not have to buy a tourist ticket, but would go "First Class."

And so he did.

A presidential 707 Air Force jet, similar to Air Force 1 with gold carpets and stewards, carried the former vice president-soon-to-be-professor, his wife and cartons of records and belongings back to Minneapolis.

One of the first things the Humphreys saw as they entered the plane's VIP department with its white linen-covered tables was a vase containing two dozen American beauty roses.

A hand-written card said, "With best wishes for the years ahead, from your friends, Pat and Dick."

All of the seats on the right side of the back half of the big jet, in what could be called the tourist compartment, were covered with cartons and boxes containing the things Humphrey was moving from Washington to Minnesota.

"Holy smoke," breathed Mrs. Humphrey when she saw it all.

"We may have to fly like this," said Humphrey with his arms extended like wings but the right arm dangling very low.

The tradition of issuing official inaugural medals to commemorate the President from identification badges used by members of inaugural committees. The badges gradually became larger and more decorative, evolving into commemorative inaugural medals that are treasured by collectors throughout the world.

Priest Will Seek City's Mayor's Job

PERU, Ill. (AP) — Rev Leo L. Henkel for years urged his parishioners to become involved in community affairs. Now 72 and retired, he's taking his own advice and is running for mayor.

Father Henkel, who retired as pastor of St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church in this north central Illinois community of 11,000 in 1963, considers himself "unemployed." He says:

"If I said I didn't believe a clergyman should talk about public matters, I would be going contrary to my whole life's practice."

The mayorality primary March 4 is nonpartisan, and the two top vote-getters will face each other April 15 in the runoff election. Three other candidates besides the priest are in the running.

Although Father Henkel regards himself as an independent in politics, he labels himself "a conservative at heart—closer to the Republican position than to the Great Society."

But he says, "There are good men on both sides. Too many people are hide-bound and vote a straight ticket."

Economic Straws Still Pointing Up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Commerce Department says indicators were uniformly bullish in January, showing no signs of the long-awaited —and predicted—slackening of the economy.

"All of the broad economic measures now available were up over the preceding month," said the department, including employment, wages and salaries, industrial production, retail sales and housing starts.

"Wholesale prices advanced sharply according to advance reports," said the department's monthly summary of the business situation.

The report made no reference to last week's meeting in Paris of the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, at which U.S. officials were quoted as saying the long awaited slowdown was at last developing.

"In general, we are on the right course," Chairman Paul W. McCracken of the Council of Economic Advisers, highest ranking member of the U.S. delegation, told newsmen.

The meeting itself was closed to reporters, but foreign sources said the CEA chairman's remarks conveyed strongly the impression that the U.S. growth rate was beginning to yield to government rein tugging.

Marin School Budget Due Reviews Monday

Budgets for 1969-70 will be reviewed by three committees of the Marin County Board of Education in separate sessions Monday at the County Schools Office, 201 Tamal Vista Boulevard.

The Administrative Services Committee, meeting at 7:30 p.m., will discuss the county general fund budget, which represents the County Schools Office portion of county funds, reported Byron Mauzy, business services director.

Committee members will discuss the format of the budget, whose total amount is not determined until the salary costs are calculated at the county assessor's office, Mauzy said.

The Administrative Services Committee, the Special Education Committee, which meets at 7:30 p.m., and the Educational Services Committee, which meets at 8:30 p.m., will review the county school service fund budget, which is financed by state funds.

Committee members will review the budget sections covering direct services to small school districts, and coordination of programs, Mauzy said.

Probation In Marijuana Case

John Robert Thiele, 18, of 121 Grove Avenue, Corte Madera, yesterday was given a suspended prison sentence for selling marijuana to a Marin County Drug Abuse agent May 20, 1968.

Judge Harold J. Haley placed hime on two years probation.

Thiele pleaded no contest to the felony charge after a jury had been selected to hear his case.

Sanity Hearing For Drug Case

Judge Alvin B. Goldstein of Marin Municipal Court yesterday ordered a sanity hearing for a 24-year-old San Rafael man who faces several felony and misdemeanor drug charges.

James A. Sprague, of 14 Sentinel Court, was certified to Superior Court for a sanity hearing.

Sprague is charged with several counts of marijuana possession, assault with a deadly weapon and four misdemeanor charges of being under the influence of narcotics, including heroin.

He is in the County Jail in lieu of $1,875 bail.

Blake Urges Tube Link To Marin

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

San Francisco Supervisor William C. Blake proposed today that the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District run a subaqueous transit tube from Marin to San Francisco to carry commute trains.

Blake toured the Bay Area Rapid Transit District's facilities yesterday, including a descent into the partially completed tube linking San Francisco with Oakland. He emerged with a vision of such a tube running to Marin.

Financing, he held, should be no problem.

"The bridge district has $30 million of reserves sitting around in banks," pointed out Blake, who is one of the San Francisco Board of Supervisors' newly appointed bridge district directors. "That $30 million could be used to start the project. Bridge tolls could be pledged to finance the remainder.

Cost of such a tube, he said, has been estimated at $140 million.

He said that Peter Kewit and Sons expects to complete laying the San Francisco-Oakland tube within eight months, and would then have its engineers, workmen and equipment on the scene ready to start on a Marin tube.

Edmund C. Sajor, assistant general manager of BARTD, said it would be a fine idea for the bridge district to install the Marin tube. BARTD, he said, would be happy to have such a tube tied into its system. But there are a few "buts."

First, said Sajor, a formula would have to be worked out as to what share of BARTD's existing and under-construction facilities would be charged to Marin County—or to the bridge district.

Then agreement would have to be reached as to whether the counties now in BARTD should pay part of the cost of the Marin system—and if so, what part.

Then there would have to be an operating agreement. Since BARTD is to be a computerized operation, "we couldn't have some other separate operation conflicting with our schedules," he noted.

BARTD representatives have been working with the West Bay Transit District in San Mateo County for eight months on a formula of cost-sharing in case that county joined the district, Sajor noted. No formula has yet emerged.

Eight months from now, Blake would have Peter Kewit and Sons laying tube to Marin County.

COST CONSIDERATION

The $140 million quoted by Blake is close to the $149 million cost of a San Francisco-Marin tube included in estimates in the "Foley Report"—the state-commissioned report on a Marin-San Francisco crossing completed in 1967, and taking its name from E. R. Foley, chief engineer of the state Division of Bay Toll Crossings.

That, however, is considerably less than half the Foley Report's total for such a Marin-San Francisco system. Additional are subway and stations to connect into the BARTD system in San Francisco, $71 million; Marin County line and stations, $140 million, and rolling stock, $23 million. The total comes to $383 million.

HOW TO SHARE

Then there is the matter of what Sajor called "an equitable share" of BARTD to be borne by whoever builds that tube.

BARTD was funded by a $792 million bond issue, plus $180 million provided by the state to finance the San Francisco-Oakland tube. The $792 million is an obligation against taxpayers in the district — which they'd probably like shared by whatever other taxpayers got tied into it through a line from San Mateo County or a tube from Marin County.

And right now, according to Sajor, BARTD is $146 million in the red. It has been lobbying hard for state money to bail it out.

Cost of BARTD thus runs close to $1 billion dollars — without any further expansion into Marin or San Mateo counties.

Deputies Report Three Burglaries, Auto Looting

Three burglaries and a theft from a locked car were reported by the sheriff's office yesterday.

A dark brown "fall" wiglet and $60 in cash were stolen Wednesday from Maxines Coiffeurs in the Town and Country Shopping Center, Bel Air, sheriff's deputies said. The owner of the shop discovered the loss upon arriving at work in the morning.

Karyn S. Williams of 396 Pine Hill Road, Mill Valley, reported that while her car was parked in her carport Tuesday night someone broke into it and stole a stereo set and a radio tuner.

$300,000 Tourist Center Plans Aired

Plans for a $300,000 tourist center were presented to the Rohnert Park City Council in study session last night.

Developer Paul Golis told the council he intends to fully develop his property at the Commerce Boulevard-Rohnert Park Expressway intersection. Located on the southeast corner will be the tourist center which will include a large lobby for wine and cheese tasting, a restaurant, gift shop, travel agency, chamber of commerce office and a community hostess service.

Golis said Santa Rosa architect Lawrence Simons is preparing plans. Simons designed the new Rohnert Park Community and Recreation Center.

Also included in the plan is a motel and hotel which will be a two-story structure. Golis said land has been reserved to later enlarge the motel and to add additional stories to the hotel. He said he eventually plans to offer 300 units, but will begin with 60.

On the north side of the intersection, Golis plans to construct a $400,000 automobile diagnostic and repair service. Also included will be a retail store offering supplies and automobile accessories. Two service stations are also planning for the area.

The council gave tentative approval to Golis' plans pending further study on traffic access.

They also approved Golis' intentions to enlarge Cofega Avenue to two 12-foot lanes with an 8-foot landscaped center strip.

Savings-Loan Sales Talks Under Way

Discussions are under way for the sale of Marin County Savings and Loan Association, San Rafael, it was learned today.

In a letter addressed to stockholders of Marin County Financial Corp., parent company of the savings and loan association, president and board chairman Jordan L. Martinelli announced that Pacific Coast Holdings, Inc., San Francisco has proposed to acquire for cash all of the assets and properties of Marin County Savings for one and one-half times their book value.

Martinelli said no contract or agreement has been made and that if and when one is prepared it will be submitted to stockholders for their approval. It is the intention of Pacific Coast Holdings to retain the present executive and employee staff at Marin County Savings and Loan, he said.

Pacific Coast Holdings owns 98.4 per cent of the capital stock of San Mateo Mutual Savings and Loan Association, founded in 1896. The association is headquartered in San Mateo and also maintains a branch in Burlingame. The holding company also owns three other companies formed during the past year: Pacific Coast Holdings Insurance, Pacific Coast Holdings Mortgage and Pacific Coast Holdings Management.

Librarian New Senate Leader

A. S. Pickett, Sonoma State College librarian has been elected chairman of the Academic Senate, succeeding Dr. Joseph Brumbaugh, biology professor.

Pickett is also president of the local chapter of the American Association of University Professors and past president of the local chapter of the California State Employees Association.

He also serves as representative to the California State Academic Council, the executive committee of the Association of California State College Professors, the board of directors of the Sonoma State Foundation, secretary to the Academic Affairs Committee and chairman of the Distinguished Teacher Award Committee.

Pickett has been the college librarian since its beginning eight years ago. He was employed at San Francisco State College for seven years previously.

Auto Is Looted

A $379 machine used to test students' hearing was stolen during the past weekend from the car of Mrs. Margaret Callady, nurse for the Dixie School District, while the vehicle was parked in San Francisco, according to San Rafael police. Also taken from the car were $30 in sheets and pillow cases.

'New Orleans' Theme Selected For Marin Fair

"In Old New Orleans" will be the theme of the 1969 Marin Art and Garden Fair in Ross, opening July 2 for a five-day run, it was announced today.

George Murata of Corte Madera, who designed last year's fair, "Bridge to Kyoto," will also design this year's presentation.

This was to have been the last fair at the Ross site, but the Marin County Board of Supervisors said recently the new site at the Marin Civic Center would not be ready until at least 1971.

"In Old New Orleans" will open at 6 p.m. July 2. Hours from July 3 through 6 will be 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Portions Of Family Film To Be Shown

Old Adobe School District trustees last night approved the use of a portion of the "Time of Your Life" films in the family life education program.

The board approved the showing of the KQED-TV film segments five through nine, and took under consideration the remaining six segments termed controversial. The first four class films had been approved earlier for showing.

Supt. Dean D. Magown presented a guide for teachers in presenting the film series. He said the only variation from current practice is his recommendation that sexual reproduction be taught on the sixth grade level.

The board accepted his report and teachers guide for further study.

Old Adobe School District trustees also:

EQUIPMENT — Opened bids on cafeteria equipment for La Tercera School. Apparent low bidder was Marco Supply Co. of Santa Rosa at $4,100.

FURNITURE — Rejected bids on desks and chairs opened at the Feb. 6 meeting because of irregularities. They ordered the furniture rebid for opening at the March 6 meeting.

NURSING — Approved an agreement with the Sonoma County Board of Education to provide nursing service to the district for two-and-one-half days a week at an annual cost of $5,566.

SUMMER — Gave approval to tentative plans being prepared by Magowan for summer classes.

BILL — Directed a letter be sent to state legislators noting the board's disapproval of Assembly Bill 272 which sets up a no-limit tax system for school districts in 1971.

Driver Escapes Fire Injuries

A 31-year-old hod carrier apparently escaped serious injury last night when his car overturned four times and caught fire on Olive Avenue, east of Novato.

The motorist, Jay Dean Trimble of 446 School Road, Novato, complained of pain but no injuries were visible, California Highway Patrol officers said. He declined medical aid.

The officers reported that Trimble was traveling east on Olive Avenue, about a quarter-mile east of Atherton Avenue, at 11 p.m. when the left front tire blew. The car flipped and was

Truman Hospitalized With Flu, Recovering

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Former President Harry S Truman was taken to a hospital late last night suffering from what eventually was diagnosed as "simple gastrointestinal flu caused by a virus."

A spokesman for Research Hospital today said that the 84-year-old former chief executive had spent a good night and probably would be released to return home in a few days.

John P. Dreves, hospital public relations director, told a news conference that Truman was stricken after retiring to bed in his home in suburban Independence last night and was admitted to the hospital at 11:40 p.m.

The former president fell asleep after being admitted and was awakened at 4 a.m. today for a routine check of his temperature, pulse, respiration and blood pressure.

Dreves said that Truman then fell asleep again and awoke at 6:30 a.m.

"He is on a liquid diet, which is routine for his diagnosis pending continued improvement," Greves added.

The hospital spokesman said Truman ate a small amount of gelatine and drank some hot tea for breakfast. He also got out of bed this morning and read a newspaper, Dreves said.

Truman's family physicians were quoted as saying the former president was improved today over his condition last night and was steadily regaining strength.

Mrs. Truman accompanied her husband to the hospital Thursday night, left early today and was back by 10 a.m.

Water Boiling May Soon End

Residents of Paradise Ranch Estates near Inverness may soon be able to quit boiling their drinking and cooking water, county environmental health officials said today.

Health officials said today they would inspect new chorinating equipment installed by the owners of the estates and if the equipment satisfies them, the boiling edict will be lifted. The inspection will be made Monday.

Residents have been boiling water since Feb. 3 when bacteria was detected in it. No illnesses have been reported as a result of the bacteria, identified as an organism which sometimes develops during heavy rains but is only occasionally dangerous to human health.

The owners of the Paradise Ranch Estates have advised that the chlorinating equipment needed to eliminate the bacteria but the health department must okay it before boiling is no longer required.

Indictments For Seven Over Dope

Seven persons arrested in a $350,000 drug raid in Tamalpais Valley on Jan. 17 were indicted yesterday by the Marin County Grand Jury.

The indictment removed the case from municipal court where a preliminary hearing had been scheduled for April 8. All were ordered to appear Monday in superior court for arraignment.

The district attorney's office said that it hoped that one of the defendants, Jeffrey Linn Forcier, 20, of Belmont, who is charged with possession of cocaine and possession of marijuana, will be tried in Superior Court along with the others.

Forcier's case had already been accepted by the Juvenile Court.

The other defendants are Richard Conrad Pace, 24, owner of the Resh Gallery in Tamalpais Valley, where most of the drugs were allegedly found; Richard Raymond Argento, 21, of San Rafael; Charles Noell Hess, 26, of Oakland; Richard Franklin Black, 27, of Sausalito; Frederick Martin Englehardt, 28, of San Francisco; and Linda Jean Shack, 21, of Mill Valley.

They face charges ranging from selling and transporting drugs to possessing marijuana and other drugs.

Princess Park Design Policy Is Discussed

Sausalito Recreation commissioners last night discussed design criteria for Princess Park with landscape architect Roland Mayes of Eckbo, Dean, Austin and Williams, San Francisco planners.

The park, adjacent to the Purity Market on Bridgeway, should have a feeling of openness, be oriented to the view, should have no lawns but instead be planted with shade trees and have raised planting areas, the commission said, according to chairman Eleanor Cruickshank. Traditional, not contemporary, and no fishing will be allowed.

The commission will hold a special meeting at 8 p.m. March 20, in city hall to review preliminary plans for the park. The preliminary plans are to be reviewed by the city council on April 1 .

The Sausalito Recreation Commission also:

BAYSIDE PARK — Discussed design criteria for Bayside Park, but came to no conclusions.

MEETING — Agreed to meet with the city's planning commission at 8 p.m. Thursday in city hall to discuss mutual planning problems.

TENNIS — Agreed to accept applications for an instructor for a six-week summer tennis program.

Cars Looted Of Stereo Sets

Thefts of two stereo sets from cars were reported to the sheriff's department Wednesday, deputies said today.

Steve Rippon of 2065 Mill Road, Novato, reported a set was taken from his car while it was parked at College of Marin Wednesday evening.

John D. Wright of 396 Pine Hill Road, Tamalpais Valley, said that the wing window to his car had been pried open and his stereo taken while the car was parked at his home.

Sophomore Class Leader Elected

John Broderick, son of Henry Broderick of Tiburon, has been elected president of the sophomore class of Redwood High School after a series of three runoff elections.

Some of Broderick's first duties will be preparation of a new constitution and the selling of taffy as a fund raising project.

The Sophomore Class will sponsor a dance on March 22 at the student center as a benefit for the starving children of Biafra.

Cohen Re-Elected Chairman Of ACLU

Irving R. Cohen, Mill Valley cabinetmaker and film critic, has been re-elected chairman of the Marin chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union.

Other newly elected officers are Theodore C. Lachelt, San Rafael attorney, vice president; Paul C. Rosenthal, Mill Valley attorney, Secretary-Treasurer; Walter Kassoway, speech instructor at the College of Marin, membership director.

Cotati To Sign Pact To Supply Sewage Service

The Cotati City Council last night authorized Mayor Morris J. Houser to sign an agreement with Rohnert Park to supply sewage treatment services.

The agreement was approved by the Rohnert Park City Council Monday night. Under the plan, Cotati will begin this summer to construct new sewer lines to connect with the more advanced Rohnert Park system.

Cotati's payments will be set on a pro-rated basis on the number of gallons processed.

The Cotati City Council also:

CARS — Signed an agreement with the state General Services Division to purchase two used police cars at a cost of $4,888. They will be 1969 Dodges used by the California Highway Patrol.

SUBDIVISIONS — Introduced an ordinance amending the subdivision ordinance to allow the council to set fees for subdivision applications by resolution.

LEASE — A signed lease to rent the city-owned Cotati Scout Hut to the Lions Club for a token sum of $1 per year.

CLAIM — Rejected claim against the city filed by Mrs. Elizabeth J. Krohn, who is asking $22,416 for compensation for an injury she suffered in a fall at 8240 Old Redwood Highway.

SOUTHLAND HOMES IN DANGER

Judicial Actions Stay Two Executions At San Quentin

The scheduled executions of two inmates of San Quentin's Death Row were stayed yesterday, one by a federal judge and one by the California Supreme Court.

The death sentences of two others were reversed by the state court.

The court actions came at the same time as the execution of Walter Clayton Hines was set for March 26. Hines, 30, was convicted in Los Angeles County of a 1962 murder, and has had one previous stay of his execution.

U. S. District Court Judge Alfonso J. Zirpoli ordered the stay for convicted murderer Lawrence G. Modesto, 38, who was to go to the gas chamber on March 5. Zirpoli, in federal court in San Francisco, ordered the stay until the U. S. Supreme Court rules on various legal questions on capital punishment.

The Supreme Court is scheduled to hear arguments on March 3 in two cases which have constitutional issues that could affect Modesto's death sentence, his attorneys argued. The cases challenge the lack of guidelines for juries in imposing death sentences or imprisonment and the death sentence itself as cruel and unusual punishment.

The California Supreme Court rejected both issues in a ruling last November and Modesto's attorneys argued that he should have the benefit of the decision by the U. S. Supreme Court on the two Constitutional questions.

Modesto was convicted of killing two girls, aged 9 and 13, in Riverside County in 1961.

The state Supreme Court ordered a stay for convicted murderer Nathan Elmont Eli, 24, who was to die on March 19. The stay was ordered pending a final determination of a habeas corpus proceeding pending for him in the court.

Eli was convicted in San Diego County of the Feb. 20, 1965, killing of a woman whose home he entered as a vacuum cleaner salesman. On Death Row since June 25, 1965, he had two previous scheduled executions stayed.

The state Supreme Court yesterday also ordered new penalty trials for convicted murderers Earl Clarence Sears and Dovie Carl Mathis on the grounds that the juries in their trials were improperly selected.

The high court's ruling was based on last year's decision by the U. S. Supreme Court that banned automatic exclusion of jurors who express doubts about the death penalty.

Justice Stanley Mosk said in yesterday's opinion that prospective jurors were not given an opportunity to explain their attitudes about the death penalty. He said no distinction was made between those who would automatically vote against a death penalty and those who could, "notwithstanding their conscientious scruples, return a verdict of death and make their scruples subservient to their duties as jurors."

Sears was twice convicted and sentenced to die for killing his stepdaughter in Santa Clara County in 1963. Mathis was sentenced to die for bludgeoning a truckdriver to death with a rock during a San Jose robbery in 1963.

More than 97,000 persons are employed in producing crude oil and natural gas in Texas.

College's Nonteachers Seek Employee Chief

A proposal expected to result in hiring a personnel director solely for non teaching employees at College of Marin was approved last night by the board of trustees because there was no other choice.

The board received a petition signed by 59 of the 80 some classified employees asking that an election be set on adoption of the merit system (civil service).

State law provides trustees must set the election if they receive a petition signed by at least 15 per cent of the classified staff.

Despite the law, trustees hesitated — especially after they learned it would cost about $12,000 a year for a part-time personnel director, a secretary and office expenses

Gregory A. Dunn of the California School Employees Association said the new system would remove from trustees many duties, such as hiring, but the board would retain the authority to fix salaries.

Trustee Charles W. Gray wondered if there had been problems under the present system which would prompt classified employees to ask for the change.

Dunn refused to answer, but said the employees are concerned about their future and want something for themselves.

"You are before a board that is proverty stricken," said Gray.

"If we had a choice, it doesn't seem justifiable," commented Donald K. Felt, a trustee. He added he will give more thought to their pay at budget time.

Dunn reported the board could levy an override tax without voter approval to finance the program.

Trustees agreed the system might be more feasible in a few years when there are more employees, but since they had to set the election now, the vote was unanimous.

The Marin College District Trustees Also:

ATTENDANCE — Approved a policy limiting attendance of students from districts to a maximum of three students per district without charge. In the first semester this year, 262 Marin district students were attending other junior colleges while 408 students from other districts were at College of Marin.

OFFICES — Heard a report that 15 sites were under consideration for placing of portables and trailers for interim offices for faculty and administration while the new Harlan Center is under construction. Information for making a decision will be presented later.

FOOTBALL FIELD — Agreed to spend an extra $7,680 on the football field and track to provide for more adequate drainage.

SABBATICALS — Delayed for two weeks a decision on seven requests for sabbatical leaves. Six are permitted, but two of the applicants are asking only six months and are proposed to count as one.

MEETINGS— Agreed to meet at 8 p.m. next Thursday to review plans for a new science center; on a date to be decided, after April 15, on district organization; on a date to be announced to develop a procedure for selection of a permanent College of Marin president, and called for guidelines from staff; on a future date with trustees of high school districts to discuss common problems.

Board president Theodore C. Wellman and trustee Harry J. Moore were absent.

U.S. Feels Out Peking's Stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States plans to ask Communist China its plans about future talks in Warsaw and reaffirm American willingness to meet a Chinese representative there any time.

A carefully worded letter is being drafted here in response to an abrupt and irate Chinese letter, which Monday called off the scheduled 135th meeting between envoys of the two countries.

The Chinese contend the Central Intelligence Agency enticed Liao Ho-shu, the ranking Communist Chinese diplomat in The Hague, to defect to this country.

Two State Department experts on China affairs who were sent to Warsaw to prepare for the meeting have remained there, however. The meeting was to have been held yesterday.

Suspect Is Booked On Check Charges

A 41-year-old Marin City woman was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of writing a bad check amounting to $173 for clothing purchased at the R and M Style Shop at 1307 Fourth Street, San Rafael.

The woman, Alzepher Johnson of 35 Cole Drive, was released on her own recongizance to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

New Grading System Due For College

A revolutionary new grading system, not used by any other California community college, was unanimously adopted by Marin Junior College District trustees last night, despite a teacher's worry that it might make some instructors softer.

College officials called it grading on a "positive basis" with the student receiving credit only for work successfully completed. Formerly, credit was given for D work.

"I think the poor teacher may use the (old) grading system as a crutch," said Trustee Charles W. Gray. "This puts more responsibility on the teacher."

"It's not really more responsibility, it's more pressure," argued English teacher Edwin Erbentraut. He worried some teachers might give a D student a C under the new system, so as not to penalize the student.

Another protest came from Harry J. Pieper, director of the athletic department. Pieper angerly denounced a story in the College of Marin Times which said the athletic department had asked for special consideration for athletes.

He said the report was false. "We will never ask for special consideration for athletes," he said flatly. Pieper said his department opposed the change because "there is a place in life for winning and losing. There is still a place for D and F grades."

In an earlier discussion, Cal Riemcke, basketball coach, said the system would have an adverse effect on athletic eligibility because, under the old system, a D student was eligible.

Trustee Elizabeth M. Deedy, who said she is against any grades, asked how students felt about the new system.

Dean of Students Irwin P. Diamond said students queried favored the change, but added there had been no real sounding of student opinion.

Several students in the audience said they had found the change supported on campus, but a teacher wondered if perhaps students might prefer a D or F than "ending up waisting time."

Mrs. Deedy urged more complete surveys of student opinion on such issues.

Vacancies Now Open On Two Key Panels

Marin City residents interested in serving on either the Marin County Human Rights Commission or Redevelopment Agency should notify the Marin City Community Services District office at the Manzanita Center by Feb. 28.

Mrs. Tommie Scott has resigned from the human rights commission, and someone is needed to complete her term which ends May 18, 1970, Chairman Douglas J. Quiett reported.

Rev. Samuel L. Banks Jr. has resigned from the redevelopment agency. His term ends April 17, 1970.

The county administrator's office has asked the CSD board for its recommendations for filling the seats, Quiett noted. The board probably will have a special meeting before its next regularly scheduled meeting March 20 to make its recommendations, Quiett said.

Story Quits As Director Of The Manzanita Center

Story said he was leaving for a better paying job, but declined to identify it. He previously had mentioned a college post. He resigned effective the end of next week.

Board members individually had received Story's letter of resignation more than a week ago, but didn't officially accept it until last night.

Until the district hires a new director, staff members Margaret Beauchamp and Daniel Winter will take on additional duties.

Also to fill the gap left by Story's departure, Robert Washington, a San Francisco State College student, and two youths from the Sausalito Teachers Educational Program (STEP) will be part-time recreational worker.

Storer started work in August, 1967, before the center was constructed, and has been the center's only director.

The Marin City CSD Board Also:

GAMBLING — Received the problem of gambling outside the stores in the commercial area, and agreed to invite Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos to its next session March 20 to discuss measures to eliminate it Sheriff's Deputy William Dewes reported crime "dropped off" in the community last month, with the majority of offenses traffic violations.

the majority of offenses traffic violations.

ADVISORY COMMITTEE — Agreed to call for a joint meeting March 20 with the Marin City Council and Marin City Home Owners and Improvement Association to designate a local organization as an advisory committee to Marin County on its workable program for community improvements, a program the county needs to qualify for federal housing funds.

CENTER DEFECTS — Authorized a letter to the Marin County counsel's office requesting that the final 10 per cent of the Manzanita Center construction payment to Filippo Construction Co. of San Rafael. Story said there were two ceiling leaks, door problems, and a television antenna that didn't work and payment should be held up until these defects are corrected.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned until 7:30 p.m., March 20 at the Manzanita Center.

Director Orpha Elmina Barnes was absent.

Rohnert Park Awards Slated

The Rohnert Park Homeowners Association made plans last night to give awards to 250 homes that are "spruced up" this spring.

President William Ayers said a judging committee will be formed from local organizations and service clubs to select the homes that have made improvements. He said the judging will be done in April and awards given in May.

The winners will be given stickers to place in doors or windows to show their participation. The chamber of commerce is providing funds for the stickers.

The association will also sponsor a poster contest promoting the campaign and give awards to the winning junior and senior high school artists. The posters will be displayed at Rohnert Park businesses.

Belveron Gardens Landscape Studied

Belverson Association members last night heard tips on how to beautify the entrance to Belveron Gardens from James R. Gordon, state Division of Haighways senior landscape architect, Beverly Ramblas reported.

Gordon discussed planting, plant selection and the importance and cost of maintenance, Mrs. Ramblas said.

Fines Asked In Curbing Of Pollution

I-J Special Report

OAKLAND — Fines up to $100,000 a month against anyone who intentionally or negligently violates a cease and desist order issued by a regional water quality control board have been called for by the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board.

Cease and desist orders are pending against both the Novato Sanitary and the Bolinas Community Public Utility districts and an order is to be issued against the Novato district at the regional board's March 13 meeting. The order will require the district either to improve its treatment of sewage waste, or to relocate its discharge pipes away from recreational areas and into deeper water.

TO SET DEADLINE

The regional board's order will set a deadline for the Novato district to comply with the requirements, and the district would be subject to a fine if it intentionally or negligently failed to meet the deadline — if the proposed fine is enacted by the Legislature.

The order against the Bolinas district has been delayed to encourage it to develop a joint sewage facility with the Stinson Beach County Water District.

The regional board's executive director, Fred H. Dierker, said the board also propsoed that the fine jump 10 per cent for each additional month of a violation.

NO FINE CLAUSE

No fine is provided under current law, he said.

The fine would apply to pollution by any person, private company or political subdivision of the state, he said. Only the federal government would be exempt because the state cannot act against it, he said.

The regional board's proposal is to go before the State Waetr Resources Control Board for its recommendation to the Legislature.

Sweden Reassures Deserters Of Asylum

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — The Swedish government today assured U.S. deserters and other Vietnam War dissenters they can "safely remain in our country."

In a two-page statement, issued after today's weekly cabinet meeting, the social democratic government also announced that no deserter or draftdodger will be expelled from Sweden unless convicted of "serious crimes."

Low Grades Disqualify Student Body Leader

Both the president and vice president of the College of Marin student body were ousted from their posts yesterday, one because of a low grade point average, the other because he was carrying but six units of course work when elected.

Both say they will run to regain their offices in a March 6 election.

Student body parliamentarian Mike Beyries ruled in Executive Council meeting that President David Brown was disqualified because his grade point average of .80 doesn't meet the 2.0, or C, requirement.

Harry Gilbert, vice president, was disqualified because, when he ran for office last fall, he carried six and one-half units while 12 are required.

Said Gilbert: "As far as I'm concerned, the grading system is completely divorced from the academic environment and it isn't a measure of the knowledge that an individual gains. Therefore, such a system of establishing eligibility for a candidate is absurd."

Said Brown: "I don't feel the present grading system actually reflects how much a person retains." He labeled it "dilatory and absurd."

Brown, who defeated Chris Musser by 376 to 204 votes last December, went on to say that it takes a lot of time and "burning of the midnight oil" as a student body officer. "It's a fulltime job."

Gilbert, of San Anselmo, is already circulating a petition to get 75 signatures to put him on the March ballot. 'I'm carrying 12 units now," he explained. His grade point average is all right.

Brown, of San Rafael, indicated he plans to run, saying, "I'm not giving up." He would not say how he would get around the grade point average requirement.

Seven members of the 14-member Executive Council said that, in the future, all candidates for office will be carefully checked by an election screening committee. There is none now, but one was established at yesterday's meeting.

Peggy Gutherie, formerly secretary, has been named president pro-tem, while Charles Maltzahn was named interm vice president.

Maltzahn said that, after the disqualifications, the news was announced at a rally of the students in the Student Center. "Everyone said, 'let's let the band get playing.' I don't think the student body really cares."

Brown said, "I don't think the people care but they will care when they find the administration taking over everything they do. The Associated Students now run the bookstore and snack bar and we try to keep the prices as low as possible."

The Executive Council voted on an election code change to abolish grade point average qualifications but this, requiring a two-thirds vote, was defeated. The vote was three favoring, two against and one abstention.

Asked why, he said: "Because during the course of the meeting someone left to get a sandwich. I found myself waiting around to get someone for a vote."

The March 6 election had already been set to elect four class representatives, a spirit and athletics commissioner and a rallies and assemblies commissioner.

Canadians Plan Visit To Base

A team from the Canadian Armed Forces base at Winnipeg, Manitoba, will visit the Western Aerospace Rescue and Recovery Center at Hamilton Air Force Base Wednesday, Thursday and Friday to study the operations of the Hamilton center.

The Canadians will study the techniques, procedures and equipment used by the Air Force rescue units both in the center and at the 41st Aerospace Rescue and Recovery Squadron.

The Canadians will also study the night-rescue procedures of the United States.

Long Vacant Truax Post To Be Filled

I-J Special Report

BERKELEY — The executive committee of the Association of Bay Area Governments voted last night to hire an assistant to its executive director — to replace one who is in prison for stealing $511,000 from the association.

The position has been vacant since February 1968, when the last assistant, Thomas N. Truax, was found to have looted ABAG's funds for more than two years.

The new assistant is to be paid $15,000 to $18,000 a year, reported vice president Jack D. Maltester, San Leandro city councilman. Truax was paid $9,948.

"By the way," said Maltester, "Truax's application would not be acceptable."

Since the Truax incident, however, the association's fiscal affairs have been taken over by Alameda County, and only about $1,200 a year actually reaches the ABAG office in the Hotel Claremont.

The new assistant is to be recruited by ABAG's new executive director J. Julien Baget, former Novato city manager.

The executive committee also voted to hire seven new employees, four planners, two clerks and a draftsman, and to hike the salaries of the three planners already on the staff. Planning director James H. Hickey's salary went from $19,969 a year to $21,000.

The salary hikes and the additional hirings were provided in the current budget, but could not be done until the federal government resumed its financing of the association's planning activity. The government cut off ABAG funds after the Truax incident, and only recently has resumed its planning grants to ABAG.

The executive committee of the Association of Bay Area Governments also:

BAY PLAN — Reviewed, but took no action on the Bay Conservation and Development Commission's master plan for the bay and its shoreline. Marin Supervisor John F. McInnis, commenting on BCDC's decision not to provide compensation to tideland owners who are not allowed to fill, said the owners would bear "a fantastic financial burden."

CHARGE — Charged Solano County $700 to process and approve its application for a $70,000 grant for a park near Vacaville. Solano is not a member of ABAG, a voluntary organization, but the committee decided to start charging nonmembers 1 per cent of the amount sought from the federal government — which requires that all grants be approved first by ABAG.

TAXES — Received report frob Baget that ABAG's property tax relief committee, which is to propose some form of a regional tax, will get final recommendations from the special committee's technical advisory group on March 19. The technical group is to draft its final recommendations March 7, he said.

CRIME — Received report from Badget that ABAG's regional criminal justice advisory board will present its report to the executive committee March 20. A regional plan will qualify cities and counties in the Bay Area for federal law enforcement grants.

Record Player Taken

DINING OUT AND INNS

Spring's Near, And Hastens Reopening Of Sonoma Dineries

Soon, though it may not appear imminent from the type of weather we have been experiencing, it will be spring in the hills and two of Sonoma County's seasonal restaurants will come out of their winter hibernation.

Reopening date is March 1 for both the Golden Bear Lodge at Kenwood in the Valley of the Moon, and Mark West Lodge, farther north on the Mark West Road from Santa Rosa to Calistoga.

Once more Golden Bear will feature its famed smorgasbord dinner, and if the price is the same as last year it will be $2.75. Other dinners are priced from $3.25 to $6.50 and include the smorgasbord. A very warm and comfortable place, made so by owners Art Dieterle and Gene Boulware. Closing day will be Thursday.

Mark West Lodge has so much early California history in its background you may be inclined to forget your main reason for going there — an excellent menu, mostly French. Co-owner and manager Rene Pavel is actually Czechoslovakian, but one of those Europeans whose knowledge is well rounded to include the haute cuisine of France. It's not often you find this type of dinery in such a setting.

ACTUALLY, SONOMA COUNTY offers a choice of the foods of several countries if you care to seek them out. In Santa Rosa, Black Forest Inn on Calistoga Road (this is not Mark West Road) will treat you to French, American and German dishes, with many of the latter in great demand here. It is open throughout the year, seven days a week.

For Italian food, there are many good places, as in Marin. Try any of the three best known in Occidental: Negri's Union Hotel or Fiori's. Frediana's between Sebastopol and Forestville is another. And in Sonoma take in the old Swiss Hotel, which traces its origin as far back as that of Mark West Lodge.

In Sonoma, too, Mexican and Spanish food is sumptuous at Gordon's La Casa Mexican Restaurent. The manager's name is Martinez, so you can expect an authentic carte and try out your Spanish accent.

In Petaluma, Sonoma Joe's has a special Spanish paella dinner that's reasonable. With an owner named Manuel Juan Montero you might expect this.

While there was no attempt made to cover all of the many Sonoma County restaurants and list them in our recent dining and wining guide, I do feel guilty about having omitted Au Relais, the French restaurant at 23570 Arnold Drive, Sonoma. It would have to be another restauranteur who called my attention to this oversight.

Au Relais is open daily except Mondays for lunch from noon to 2 p.m. and for dinners from 5 to 10 p.m. Sunday dinners are from noon to 9 p.m. French menu there and also is outstanding catering.

IT SEEMED TO ME last Friday night that the crop of Hawaiian performers at this year's Lin Fa Gardens anniversary party was younger, or are my gray hairs turning to white? Anyway they were cute youngsters and very talented. I understand Ethel Barrie brought them here from Alameda.

It's a show that's always worth taking in — remember it for next year. The food makes it a double attraction.

New organist at the Mai Tai Room console Friday and Saturday nights is Gary Schneider. He has been playing at a number of places in the Bay Area. Last I heard he was at the Eight Ball lounge in Cotati.

OUR BEST WISHES for an

Gallis, father and son. Sal has recently undergone a major operation, and Frank has suffered a serious accident to his hand.

Their Galli restaurant in Ignacio is still being kept open.

TABERNA in San Rafael now has the Daryl Trio with Tony Masters as vocalist (of Channel 38 fame) on Friday and Saturday nights. Frank Meta continues at the piano during the week and is known for his memory for names and incorporating them into the lyrics of his songs.

Very soon this spot should again be opening on Sundays. And Jeanne Neill, Bob Czyz and Roland Ledtke are mulling the idea of reopening for daily lunches. A little encouragement and they may be persuaded.

FRANCHINI'S CHATEAU at Highway 101 and Lucas Valley Road will be closed all day tomorrow, Washington's Birthday. But you'll be able to swing in here Sunday morning for its customary family-style breakfasts, which are still going strong.

It's no secret why. It's in my mind that the Chateau, a ranchy sort of place, has always been particularly suitable for a leisurely Sunday breakfast routine.

IN THE PLANNING at Cafe Bon Vin, San Anselmo, is a new Thursday night program. This will be a general meeting of Fred Cherry's Jug of the Month Club, combined with "California Night" for wine tastings, chef's "hot pot" and cooking and tasting demonstrations.

Next Wednesday night's provincial dinner highlights coq au meersault from Burgundy. Remember, without advance reservations for this you haven't a chance, because there is limited seating.

A GOOD RESTAURANT with a menu of say six to a dozen entrees served day in and day out can be pretty well worked over in four or five family visits if ice water is the beverage. A cocktail or highball may sharpen your appetite, but it does nothing special for the food.

But if the cellar is filled with good wine, you can go on for years. Pick a dish that pleases. Order a Burgundy wine with it one time. Go back later and accompany the same dish with a Cabernet Sauvignon, or a Zinfandel. Then change dishes and do your exploring among the whites.

The differences in the net result may be subtle, but they strike a fresh note each meal. Some combinations stick in your mind and are worth repeating.

Californians have a head start on the rest of the country at enjoying wine. We drink a little more than twice the national average. Around the Bay Area I believe the multiple is even higher than that, because we are exposed to the products of so many nearby wineries.

Some restaurants carry a pretty fair variety of wines. Others will be inclined to do so if you make a point of asking for them.

NEW SOUNDS AT JOE'S

Tuesday through Saturday nights at San Rafael Joe's, theater organist Larry Vannucci (shown with an ever present cigarette in his mouth) coaxes an entirely new and extended range of sound effects from Baldwin's most recent instrument — the PR-200 professional organ.

Sailor Faces Court-Martial

I-J Special Report

TREASURE ISLAND — A Navy member of the so-called Marin City Nine is scheduled for court-martial March 3 on charges of desertion and willful disobedience.

The sailor, Paul D. Howard, 21, of Roy, Utah, was one of nine servicemen who chained themselves to clergymen in an antiwar protest in St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church in Marin City last summer.

Howard's court-martial is scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. in Building 178. Other members of the Marin City Nine have either been discharged from the service, imprisoned or are still awaiting court-martial.

Car Theft Case Warrant Issued

A bench warrant was issued yesterday by Judge Alvin B. Goldstein of Marin Superior Court for Robert Douglas Reeder, 23, of Albany, who failed to appear in court for a preliminary hearing on a car theft charge.

Bail on the warrant was fixed at $2,000.

Reeder was arrested Jan. 14 in Sausalito, allegedly driving a stolen rental car.

WINE DISCOVERIES at CAFE BON VIN

THE GOOD LIFE IN SAN ANSELMO

"NOUVEAU" IS THE WORD for the dinner menu just introduced; it's all new. This repast, fifth in the series, will be known as "Le Gala Epicurien" ("Gala" was the word for the lavish feasts of the French Court).

A FLAMING ENTREE—"Petites Ballotines de Boeuf — will be offered for the first time. Try it at home: Prime sirloin steaks cut thin and rolled around a mixture of mushrooms, pork, veal, wine, herbs, and a few things the chef won't say — then braised in vermouth and flamed . . . voila!

LITTLE SWANS of pastry filled with chicken and flavored with anis is an original creation of our chef. He also adds a distinctive touch to cheese soup, pate, cauliflower, fresh mint salad, "Gateau Marie Antoinette" (luscious Rio Orso peaches marinated in marsala and draped over light sponge cake and almond cream. Worth the calories!)

FOUR COURSES . . . $4. Six courses . . . $6. And the whole ten-course Gala (Reservations only) . . . just $10. The smaller dinners are all selections from the Gala.

NAPOLEON'S STEAK—"Entrecote Delmonique" is also new. An extra cut is served in your choice of four classic French styles; and one "Americaine" — broiled with mushroom caps.

THE MILLER'S WIFE still leads the "Doctor's Cap" in bruncheon popularity; these royal brunches offer a choice of twelve recipes rarely found in America. The complete meal, served Sundays from 11:30 to 2:30, includes a substantial amount of J. Pierrot champagne, bottle fermented and brut — as it should be.

MEERSAULT MAKES the difference when we prepare a traditional dish from Burgundy for next Wednesday's Provincial Dinner. (Reservations required . . . $5.) Posting of wine discoveries starts at 6:30; dinner at 8.

JUG OF THE MONTH is a Napa Valley French Colombard at $2.95 a gallon. Refreshingly dry, without being harsh or acid, it is the best of this varietal we've encountered in California.

WINE THINGS GALORE! . . . Preserves, jellies, vinegars, sauces — all home made and available nowhere else. Plus decanters, proper glasses, and (soon) home winemaking supplies. (Come to brunch Sunday and you'll taste peach pineapple muscat jelly on buttered panettone.)

WINE IN KING . . . Food is Queen . . . at Cafe Bon Vin. Come dine with us at our Royal Palace in San Anselmo.

AGAINST TRANSIT DRAIN

Bay Adviser Sees Big Highway Deficit

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

BERKELEY — A strong condemnation of any use of highway funds to finance public transit, made last month by the director of the Bay Area Transportation Study Commission, was fortified yesterday with a host of billion-dollar figures.

Richard M. Zettel — director of the $5.5 million, five-year study that is to end this spring — declared that $5.4 billion will be needed for new state highways in the Bay Area in the next 20 years, but that only about $3 billion will be available.

Citing this $2.4 billion deficit, he said that "even substantially increased taxes would provide no surplus of funds that could rationally be used for other purposes."

He made it clear that "other purposes" meant public transit, and argued that the percentage of daily travelers who could be lured to public transit was too small to warrant diverting highway funds.

The commission is to recommend to the 1969 Legislature, probably by April, that a regional government be formed in the Bay Area to plan transportation facilities should be financed, and Zettel's report is to go to the commission's study group on finance.

Zettel not only said highway funds were too precious to divert to public transit, but argued that even a "perfect" rail and bus system throughout the nine-county area could not account for more than 10 per cent of the daily trips, which totaled 13.5 million a day in 1965. Only about 5 per cent of the daily trips now are by public transit, he said.

Almost 80 per cent of the daily trips, he added, are for purposes other than getting to and from work.

Besides this "private" cost, he said, the state has spent $1.75 billion in the Bay Area in the past 20 years for rights-of-way and construction of freeways and major highways. In the same period, he added, counties and cities in the area spent $600 million for roads and streets. Also, $350 million was spent on the area's seven toll bridges.

The total, thus, was some $2.7 billion over 20 years.

Statewide, highway user taxes will yield more than $25 billion over the next 20 years, according to Zettel, but only $2 billion will actually go into highways.

Of the $25 billion, $6 billion will go to the Motor Vehicle Department and the Highway Patrol, $8 billion to cities and counties for roads and streets, and $9 billion for highway administration, engineering, maintenance and "stop-gap" improvements. "Estimated needs" for the 20 years, however, were figured by Zettel at $20 billion, or 10 times the amount expected to be available.

Roughly one fifth of state highway funds are spent in the Bay Area, he said.

Zettel rejected the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District as a possible source of revenue to meet highway needs elsewhere in the area, terming such a diversion "patently unfair." "Surely, no one with political sagacity" would suggest it, he said.

"For the immediate future it would appear that Marin County will be forced to rely upon conventional bus transportation to satisfy its transit needs," wrote Zettel. "A beginning can be made by acquiring and upgrading the service now provided by Greyhound, following the example of A-C Transit in the East Bay," he said.

This last statement indirectly endorsed a proposal by Arthur C. Jenkins, former engineer of the bridge district, that it take over Greyhound's commute bus operations between San Francisco and the North Bay counties, including Marin.

A modern bus system "might serve reasonably well for a period of years if properly designed and managed and adequately supported by taxes," said Zettel.

Jenkins' plan, however, would depend entirely on bridge district funds, and need no tax funds.

Public transit, Zettel suggested last month, could be financed from property, retail sales, payroll, income and gross revenue taxes.

Zettel, in other business, told commissioners he would have drafts of six of the final report's nine chapters ready to present to them at their March 13 meeting. They were to have been presented yesterday, but he said he had not had time to complete them.

Commissioners approved a contract with Zettel to pay him $18.75 an hour, for a maximum of $5,000, as a committee consultant through October. At the end of this month, he will return to teaching at the University of California.

The committee's deputy director, Dean E. Larson, was appointed acting director. His salary will remain at $18,000. Zettel was paid $30,000 a year as study director.

Watercolorist To Show Techniques

Ken Potter, Corte Madera watercolor artist, will present a program on watercolor techniques at 8 p.m. next Friday at the Terra Linda Recreation Center.

The program, sponsored by the Terra Linda Art Association, will include slides and a painting demonstration.

'READ AND HEED' was the caution given by Una R. Wood when she discussed facts on food labeling and poison prevention Wednesday at the Novato Newcomers Club luncheon meeting at Hamilton Air Force Base. CONSUMER WARNED

Read Labels, Beware Poisons

By DOROTHY NEWELL

Facts on food labeling and poison prevention were discussed by Una R. Wood, consumer specialist with the San Francisco district of the Food and Drug Administration of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, when she spoke Wednesday at the Novato Newcomers Club luncheon at Hamilton Air Force Base.

"Did you ever read a label?" Miss Wood asked her audience. She said that in 1966, the fair packaging and labeling act was passed to require more complete and prominent labeling information so that consumers could more easily make value comparisons among products. (The first food and drug act was passed in 1906 and the federal food, drug and cosmetic act was passed in 1938.)

EVERY FOOD, drug and cosmetic label must tell the truth, Miss Wood said. "If you can't believe it, why don't you report it?" she asked.

Consumers sometimes come across a food, drug or cosmetic that they think is mislabeled, unsanitary or otherwise harmful. If you report a legitimate grievance to the Food and Drug Administration you are doing a public service, Miss Wood said.

There are 35 people in the San Francisco district office, which includes the area from Kern County to the Oregon border, the states of Nevada and Hawaii, and Miss Wood said they do not have the time to check every label. This is where consumers can help if they question a product.

As an example she stated that a Denver woman had noticed that a cereal was labeled as preventing heart attacks. The woman contacted the FDA, which checked with the manufacturer and found the company's advertising firm had placed the misinformation on the label without the manufacturer's knowledge. The product was taken off the grocery shelves.

ALL FOODS MUST have certain information on the label, Miss Wood said. The identity of the food, net quantity of contents and name, address and zip code of the manufacturer, packer or distributor. She laughingly added that the zip code was added in the 1966 act.

Miss Wood stated that the "cents off" message on a product is an "easy way to pull the wool over your eyes." Congress felt, however, "That women like a bargain," and it is used mainly to introduce new products.

The FDA is responsible for all products that are transported across state lines. If a product is found unsafe, it is destroyed. During the five years that Miss Wood has been with the San Francisco district, they have had to destroy only one crop of spinach, which had too high an amount of a pesticide.

SHE ALSO discussed safety of artificial sweeteners. In a report in December, totally unrestricted use of the cyclamates was not warranted at the time, a committee of the National Academy of Sciences-National Research Council told the FDA. Five grams or less of cyclamate per day should

Marin Women

Designer Prefers Illusion Of Nudity

NEW YORK (AP) — "Fashion," said designer Earl Blackwell with a frown, "has got to stop intimidating the woman and embarrassing her. It can't keep bouncing her brains loose."

Blackwell, the California designer who's the devil's advocate of the fashion industry, is known for his criticism of kooky, far-out clothes—and of the women who wear them. He annually issues a list of "worst dressed women," a roster including several Hollywood celebrities.

In an interview Wednesday in his elegantly decorated New York showroom—"It's like my living room," he explained—the designer made it clear he doesn't think much of the latest fashion trends.

"The woman today," he said, "has been pushed and pulled until she can't settle down to anything. She's got to have 'the look' — whatever they (the designers) say 'the look' is. But we can't turn all women into one look."

Blackwell scorns the current vogue for putting bits and pieces of fashion together to make a costume.

"It's tacky," he said. "It looks like they put bits and pieces together from every garbage pail they could find. They should have gone shopping during the garbage strike here in New York."

He also gives low marks to the "see-through," preferring to design his clothes with an illusion of nudity. As an example, he designed a floating chiffon evening gown in bright red with sequined bra beneath. "You see nothing through," he said. "You just think you do."

Dorothy Carr Bride Of Izadi-Moghaddam

The bride is the daughter of Francis J. Carr of Sausalito and the late Dorothy Blauer Carr. She chose as her attendant Kathleen Baird of Berkeley.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Izadi-Moghaddam of Tehran, Iran. Best man was his brother, Bijan Izadi-Moghaddam, a student at California State Polytechnic College. Their sister, Izadoht Izadi-Moghaddam came from Iran for the wedding.

A reception followed at the Mark Thomas Inn in Monterey. After a wedding trip in Carmel the couple will live in Santa Cruz, where the bridegroom is studying toward the Ph.D degree in chemical engineering at the University of California at Santa Cruz.

The bride, who is a graduate of U.C. at Santa Cruz, is the sister of Mrs. John C. Stoner of Salt Lake City, Mrs. Jeffrey B. Bryant of San Jose and Mrs. J. Arthur Fritz Jr. of San Francisco. Her grandparents are Dr. and Mrs. Rudolph J. Blauer of Carmel.

'Her Honoress' Talks Of Mail

By GRACE HENDERSON

MRS. EDWARD COLTHURST, wife of Corte Madera's mayor, adjusts the audograph machine in her office at the Marin County Department of Health where she is associated with the Crippled Children Services section. Mrs. Colthurst is enthusiastic about help given children whose parents cannot afford specialist care and who are in need of such help. (Independent-Journal photo by Jim Kean)

"It was an interesting weekend with all the rain," said Mrs. Edward W. Colthurst of Corte Madera in an interview recently. "We had so many telephone calls saying 'Please do something about the water'," she elaborated.

The former Ivy Moss of Burlingame became Mrs. Colhurst Oct. 4, 1944 in Tyler, Texas and refers to herself now as "Her Honneress". Mr. Colthurst was elected mayor of Corte Madera in 1960, skipped 1961 and was picked up again in 1962. He has been a member of the city council continuously since 1958. "It sometimes seems like more years than that," said his wife.

The mayor would like to quit in 1970, she told me, "But he is so interested." His Honor is also vice president of Mipro Corporation in San Francisco.

SEATED at her desk in the Marin Department of Public Health in San Rafael, Ivy Colthurst related her life as the mayor's wife and her life as an employee saying both are interesting. She accepted employment with the health department seven years ago after realizing she was spending enough time as a volunteer at Marin General Hospital to be holding steady work. She is proud of the help she is able to arrange through the Crippled Children Services section of the department.

As for knowing what action the city council takes on specific topics, "Her Honneress" stated she only knows "what she reads in the newspaper."

And what about the mayor's mail? I asked. "O-O-Oh," the response. She disclosed the man of the house had cleaned out unnecessary papers from their "stacking" place over the weekend. "It looks so nice. I was so pleased," she said. As Edward comes through the front door following a day at work or from a meeting, his folders of pending notes, etc. are slipped above the books on hall shelves. When they get so high nothing more will go in, he cleans them. "It will usually last about six months," she added.

THE COLTHURSTS have two children, Robin, 20, and Dennis, 17. Robin is a junior attending Fresno State College after two years at College of Marin. She is a skiing fan, which is her life, says her mother.

Dennis will be graduated from Redwood High School in June and is a ham radio operator. He would like to be a veterinarian some day, an outgrowth of interest acquired while spending hours at a pet hospital observing care of animals. He is the owner of a sheep dog and a parrot.

THE PARROT came home with him from Mexico where he went on an excursion with seven other boys and two men last summer. When Dennis returned he brought the young bird with him. To make it legal it was necessary for him to put the bird in quarantine for 40 days; the medicine to be given was mixed into mash for it to eat. This required cooking the "smelly" stuff every six days in the Colthurst kitchen but the results are worth all the effort, says his mother.

When the family moved to Corte Madera in 1948 they built their house which was the only one on Montecito Drive at the time. Now the town has built up all around them except that they remain the last home on a deadend street.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Marijuana-Smoking Fighting Men Face Trouble On Return Home

DEAR HELEN:

"The jungle smells of rot and pot,

Overhead, the shooting's hot. . . ."

There's a guy in my hootch (that's Vietnamese for Marine housing unit) who has one ambition. He's going to write one thousand poems before he gets rotated or buried. We put 'em to music up in the front lines. Helps to pass the time between shells and ambushes. Above is how one of them starts.

Since I've been home on leave I've heard a lot of argument about "pot on the campus." I want to tell you people over here "smoking" will be a lot more widespread when all the servicemen come home, because more than half of them where the fighting is nastiest at least are heads. They don't get much beer on the front lines, and unhappily, other recreation is somewhat limited, so they turn to marijuana which is cheap (10 American for 300 "J's" — joints), available, and the brass looks the other way, maybe because they smoke, too.

A low estimate is that 65 per cent of some units blow "J's" regularly. Why not? The Cong live on the stuff, and it's easier to fight 'em when you're high too. If you need a big shot of courage, drink a certain brand of spot remover and blow pot. Maybe that's what Charlie does before a big offensive. You go wild. It takes ten guys to hold these "super-heads" down. You forget about being scared. I don't know what it does to your body, but personally I wouldn't recommend it.

Some of the guys say they'll quit marijuana when they come back to the States, but I bet a lot of them keep on, and that means trouble, because they'll get busted at home. A few are so psyched-out they probably can't quit.

By the time you print this, Helen, I'll be back in De Nang, and maybe I'll have had my head blown off in the big Tet Offensive Charlie pulls every year. Know why half of us may not survive this bloody surge, Helen: Because the Cong hop up on drugs for about a week beforehand, and then nothing can stop them— not even bullets.

If marijuana makes risking death a little easier, servicemen figure, "Why not:" but what happens when they bring the habit home with them? — HEADED BACK

DEAR HEADED BACK:

I wish I could anser that question. I checked your letter against the reports of several other 'Nam veterans. It appears frighteningly true.

Not only do servicemen return home with a taste for pot, but they're bringing back strains of venereal diseases which are resistant to treatment. Anyway you figure, it's a miserable, dirty, nasty, horrifying, and perhaps useless war! — H.

present no hazard to an adult. This amount would be three or four large bottles of artifically sweetened beverages a day for an adult. The intake for a 60 pound child would be limited to two bottles a day, the committee reported.

One of the reasons for this, Miss Wood said, is that if the child drank more, he would be filled with a lot of liquid and would not want to eat nutritional food.

In reference to poisons, Miss Wood said, "Put it (poison) under lock and key — keep it out of reach of children." She said also that there are a lot of look alikes in packaging. As an example she said that children who cannot read may mistake a can of furniture polish for a mouth wash.

There are four signal words on hazardous substances provided by the child protection act. One or more of these four signal words appear on the front of the lable — danger, warning, caution and poison, she stated.

"Read and heed," Miss Wood said, in reference to the labels. She added that everyone should observe national poison prevention week, March 16 to 22, with the slogan "Make Every Week Poison Prevention Week."

Painting Tip

When working with interior or exterior latex paints, wash the brush in clear water occasionally. The bath will prevent quick-drying latex paint from building up and hardening at the base of the bristles.

Swim Tryouts Scheduled For March

Mrs. David Sullivan of Greenbrae, president of the Marin Ballet-Aquacade, announces that swim tryouts for the Ballet-Aquacade's 24th annual pageant will be held March 1 and 8 from 1 to 3 p.m. at Sir Francis Drake High School in San Anselmo.

All girls in Marin in grades eight through high school are invited to tryout for the extravaganza. Judges will select swimmers on the basis of their ability to perform basic strokes, sculling and endurance. Swimmers are asked to bring a bathing suit, a cap with chin strap, and a towel to tryouts.

The Ballet-Aquacade, which is scheduled for June 7 and 8 at Peacock Gap Beach Club, has an annual participation of about 200 Marin youngsters. Swimmers are teen-agers and the corps de ballet includes children from five years of age. All ballet dancers are students of Mrs. Ralston Hodgson of Ross, who has been associated with the Ballet-Aquacade since its inception and is its director-choreographer.

For the sixth year the Marin Ballet-Aquacade will benefit the Marindale School for orthopedically handcapped children. In the past funds have been used to purchase such needed items as playground equipment, specially equipped vehicle for transportation of youngsters, tape recorders, listening stations for tape recorder, a ditto machine with special handles and attachments to permit operation by physically handicapped children.

Ballet-Aquacade tryouts will be conducted by Mmes. William Corrigan, San Anselmo; David Bordner, San Anselmo; and Jane Pike, Kentfield. Swim coordinator is Mrs. Thomas Patterson of San Rafael. Tryout judges are Mmes. Peter Brajkovich, Greenbrae; Kenneth Cuneo, San Rafael; Michael Erlin, San Anselmo; Rudolph Kupfer, San Rafael; M. W. Milot, Greenbrae; Michael Nagle, San Rafael; Raymond Perkins, San Rafael; and L. Jay Simon, Corte Madera. Mmes. Patterson and Pike are also trout judges, as well as Patty Brajkovich of Greenbrae.

Registration directors for tryouts will be Mmes. R. A. Bacci, San Rafael; Bordner, San Anselmo; Byron Box, Corte Madera; George Mangels, San Anselmo; William Niemann, San Anselmo; Samuel Serrano, Greenbrae; and the president of the group, Mrs. David Sullivan.

NO BLOND STUDENTS were permitted to eat at this lunch room table under a week-long edict at Cabin John Junior High School in nearby Montgomery County, Md. It is one of school's ways of observing Brotherhood Week and teaching its 800 students how prejudice develops and spreads. Blonds are discriminated against under the rules which force the light-haired students to use side doors, certain drinking fountains, stairways and restrooms. Dark-haired students took over the roles of guards to enforce the rules. (AP wirephoto)

Were Parents Abused Too?

MEXICO CITY (WMNS) — What kind of parent would fracture his child's bones, burn him, cut him?

Dr. Brandt F. Steele, chief of the psychiatric liaison division of the University of Colorado Medical Center, told an International Congress of Pediatrics that parents of "battered children" usually suffer from a "lifelong feeling of emptiness and disappointment and a conviction that the world will never be good to them."

When the world fails to meet their excessive demands for love and attention, these parents turn to the infant for comfort, and lash out at him ferociously for not performing satisfactorily. Frequently, the medical researcher said, these parents were themselves abused as children.

Dr. Steele opposes punishing the offending parents. While it may be necessary to remove the battered child from the home, he said, psychiatric treatment or social work for the adults offer the hope that the child may eventually return home and that other children in the family will escape harm.

Mayor's Wife Says Problems Of Corte Madera Include Water

Did Mrs. Colthurst have any idea she would someday become the wife of a mayor when she married? "Oh heavens, no!" she exclaimed. In fact, the pair met while employed in the Machinist Union office in San Francisco prior to Ed entering the military service. Having been around political activity in conjunction with work, the gray-haired energetic woman never thought she wanted her husband to be connected with politics. "But small towns are different," she said.

IVY'S SNAPPY personality came to light as she told of her bowling activities with the Marin County Employees Association which she has done the past five years. She had bowled for fun before becoming part of the team, she said. Before accepting fulltime employment she had played golf and "played at" bridge and took the children skiing which both adults also enjoyed.

No, she doesn't do much entertaining but probably would do more "if I didn't work," she respondd to a question. And asked if she would like her husband to seek a higher office, she was definite with her answer saying, "It's his time and it would be entirely up to him."

MR. COLTHURST'S present responsibilities include his mayorship, being a director of Control zone 9, director of Marin County Transit District, member of Corte Madera Volunteer Fire Department and a member of ABAG.

Ivy's interest lies primarily with the Crippled Children Servics which is a state and county tax-supported program for children needing specialist care and whose families are unable to pay for these services on a private basis.

Cultured Pearls Mix And Mingle

Cultured pearls in lovely pastels of blue, gray, rose and cream are meant to mix and mingle for spring jewelry accents.

Also watch for baroque pearls, their romantic shades and fanciful shapes arranged in new ways with gold and diamonds. These are featured in bracelets and pins. Other gold and pearl combinations are suggested for emphasis at the waistline, where all fashion eyes seem focused now.

Experiment Halted By Parents

POTOMAC, Md. (AP) — Parental complaints have ended Cabin John Junior High School's two-day experiment in segregation to the dismay of many of both the blond discrimination victims and their brunette adversaries.

The experiment, part of the school's observance of Brotherhood Week, was designed to show the students first-hand the effects of segregation. Participation was voluntary.

But principal Thomas Warren ended Wednesday the scheduled week-long demonstration, during which light-haired students were subjected to the indignities of segregation, after complaints from parents including an unidentified U.S. congressman.

One student said the experiment was just "beginning to mean something."

"These parents who complained," said Jill Benderly, a blonde, "are narrow-minded and intolerant if they couldn't see the benefits of this. They were showing off their own prejudices."

Another blonde, Sarah Smith, said of the protesting parents: "A lot of them just want us to be sheltered and never learn that there are such things."

Cloggier Heels

Look for cloggier heels on shoes to wear with city pantsuits. Beth Levine, who with her husband Herbert are innovators in shoe styles, says that because the new pants legs are wider, they call for a higher heel or a clog.

Parental Responsibility Should Be Taught Youngsters

NEW YORK (UPI) — We teach our children about proper nutrition, about care of teeth, cleanliness and need for exercise. But we neglect to educate them to their future responsibilities and roles as parents, human reproduction, mental health and adjustment, or problems of teen-age marriage.

In short, the nation's schools are failing miserably in one area vital for a person's entire lifetime — in sex education.

THE ISSUE HAS arisen before. But now in a remarkable candid look at sex education in the USA today, a prominent home economist calls for a "stop, look and listen" assessment and then action.

She is Dr. Eleanore Braun Luckey, professor and head of the department of Child Development and Family Relations at the University of Connecticut. She also is a consultant on family life education for the U. S. Children's Bureau.

STOP, SHE SAYS, to consider what we are educating for. Look at what is being done by the school in sex education. And listen to our youth — "their confusion, their questions."

Dr. Luckey makes her arguments for "presentation of the facts" in an article in the current journal of Home Economics, publication of the American Home Economics Association (AHEA).

Mrs. Robert Berry Is President Of Sunny Hills Junior Auxiliary

MRS. ROBERT BERRY

Mrs. Robert H. Berry of Kentfield is the new president of the Sunny Hills Junior Auxiliary. A member of the auxiliary for four years, she served as chairman of its first annual horse show held earlier this month.

Proceeds from the horse show were nearly two thousand dollars which, with other funds the organization raises throughout the year, will be used to implement programs at the Sunny Hills Home in San Anselmo. The next fund raising event planned is a fashion show luncheon at Peacock Gap on March 26.

Joane Berry has a bachelor of science degree in bacteriology and chemistry from the University of Alabama and a medical technology degree from Charity Hospital in New Orleans, La. She and her husband, a certified public accountant, have three children: Roxane Jeanne, 10, Roderick Robert, 9, and Ross Trimble, 7 years old.

During the 15 years Mrs. Berry has lived in Marin she has been active in many organizations. She is an honorary member and past president of Pixie Parents and past chairman of its advisory board, member and past president of Northgate, member and past president of Chi Omega Alumnae, parliamentarian and past president of A. E. Kent School Parent-Teacher Association, current president of Ross Valley Council P-TA, vice president of the Kent Woodlands Guild of Sunny Hills and a member of the Woodland Sponsors.

Mrs. Berry says she does not have much time for self interests.

"I do a lot of hiking in the Marin hills with my family and enjoy cooking and trying to duplicate gourmet dishes," she says. "Working with my Camp Fire group and any other activities involving young people are what I enjoy most."

Other elected officers of the auxiliary are Mmes. William Hagler, vice president; Walter Way, treasurer; James Crittenden, recording secretary; and Donald Kelleher, corresponding secretary.

The permanent committee chairmen are Mmes. Douglas Conner, placement; John F. Allen III, children's activities; David Dooley, ways and means; Richard Dakin, publicity; Thomas Reed, Bargain Box; Verle Sorgan, Charity Ball; Dwight Merriman Jr., membership entertainment; John Robinson, membership; Raymond Perkins, Grape Festival; Neil Fulton, horse show; Robert Morrison, driving; and George Fernbacher, member-at-large.

Baked Ham

When you are placing a baked ham on a platter, make sure that the shank will be on the carver's right.

Mrs. Lang Is President

Choral singing with the Marin Baroque Chamber Ensemble is a favorite leisure activity of Mrs. Hallett Lang of Belvedere, new president of Belvedere Guild 4 of Sunny Hills.

Mrs. Lang enjoys swimming and bicycling and "any activity with the family." The Langs belong to the Tiburon Peninsula Club.

She and her husband, a business consultant, have two children, Christopher, 15, and Hilary, 12. The family has lived in Marin four years.

Rosemary Lang is a graduate of Milton Academy at Milton, Mass., and attended the Connecticut College for Women.

Guild 4 specializes in chutney, vinegars and fancy breads for the Grape Festival. Guild members invite their friends who are interested in cooking to become members.

Moisture Damage

Too much moisture can shorten the life of your painted walls. Prevent moisture damage in crucial areas such as kitchens, bathrooms, and laundry rooms. Ventilating fans or special louvers will dry out moisture that would otherwise invade the walls.

DRAMA REVIEW

'Sisters' Is Another ACT Triumph

BY KARL BARRON

SAN FRANCISCO — Anton Chekhov, who raised the question of man's identity long before it was fashionable for writers to do so, would be proud of the production of his masterpiece "The Three Sisters," now in American Conservatory Theater's repertory at the Geary.

Masha Prozorov says, "We must know who we are and why we live." The who and why of both Chekhov and the dedicated members of ACT are certainly answered in part in this tenderly human probing of the questions.

The Prozorov sisters dream of escaping the small Army town in which they are trapped and returning to Moscow. Their brother Andrey marries Natasha, a peasant woman who gradually ousts them from control of their own home.

Through that home drift the members of the Army post, the only contact with life outside the village. Vershinin, a married colonel, becomes involved in an affair with Masha; several officers pursue Irina, the youngest sister, while the eldest, Olga, seeks happiness in teaching.

NO TRADEMARK

William Ball has directed the play without attempting to impose a trademark. Instead he has concentrated on solidiy of character, nostalgia, and complete involvement.

Paul Staheli's settings aid in the concept, being unobtrusively clever in the use of hanging ropes as walls and trees. Ann Roth's 1890s costumes are beautifully correct and John McLain's lighting, much of it a stage filled with candles, is perfect.

Topping the large cast is Michael Learned's Masha. From the moment she opens her mouth to utter a seemingly irrelevant piece of poetry and bring sudden tears to the viewer's eyes, she is alternately gay, violently angry, pensive, and always womanly in the finest sense of the word.

Others are equally good, however, with Paul Shenar furnishing a welcome surprise. This young man, who has been consistently unsatisfactory in romantic leads, dons a sparse red wig, and with a Germanic accent, is superb as Baron Tusenbach, the tragedy-marked lover of Irina.

FINE TRANSITION

As Irina, Kitty Winn is violently rebellious at the play's onset and works a fine transition to maturity at its end. Angela Paton is excellent as Olga, the other sister. Carol Mayo Jenkins is properly nasty as Natasha while Jay Doyle comes out from his customary makeup to play Andrey well at his normal age.

Ken Ruta makes Vershinin a pitiful character, yet keeps his dignity inviolate, which flew actors manage in the role. William Paterson as the drunken doctor and Harry Frazier as Masha's doltish husband contribute great work to round out the major cast, with John Schuck's Soloyony adding a menacing note.

"The Three Sisters" now joins the ACT repertory.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies currently being shown in Marin County. The council's findings are from the California and National Parent-Teacher Association Magazines and the Film Report of the Film Estimate Board unless otherwise noted. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael Library.

FAMILY

"High, Wild And Free"—Filmed in northern British Columbia. Photographer Gordon Eastman gives us a tribute to some of the last unspoiled country left in the northern hemisphere. Excellent.

"Swiss Family Robinson" — Adventure story is a delight for all ages.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Bullitt" — Melodrama involves gangsters, police and an ambitious politician. Violence goes all out in blood and gore for its shock effect.

"Charley" — Poignant dramatization of a fictional case history of first human subject of a new type of brain surgery on a mentally retarded young man. Thought provoking, sensitive performances from the cast.

"Hawaii" — Deals with only one section of mammoth novel. Scenery and customs brighten the somber tale of religious fanaticism of an overzealous missionary when he imposes literal interpretation of Biblical precepts.

"Sorcerers" — Doctor's experiment with hypnosis turns into a nightmare. Excellence of acting makes film a horrifying experience.

BORDERLINE
(Most sources say adults only)

"Night They Raided Minsky's" — Filmed in New York's lower East Side set in the 1920's film recreates the burlesque show with bawdy skits, double entendre and is garish and at times offensive.

ADULTS ONLY

"Boston Strangler" — Action centers around frustrating efforts of police to catch a sexual psychopath. Thirteen are strangled before he is caught.

"Faces" — Two middle-aged people find their marriage empty and seek satisfaction elsewhere. Dialogue is prententious and there is much profanity and sex.

"I'll Never Forget What's His Name" — Cynical satire about a young man who rebels against his tyrannical boss. Violence and explicit sex are most offensive.

"Secret Ceremony" — A sham mother-daughter relationship in this unrewarding melodrama about the perverse games sick people play. Like a freak show it leaves one with nothing but a disagreeable aftertaste.

"The Sergeant" — Psychological study of a sergeant, a tortured homosexual who plots to gain control of the camp by exposing the weaknesses of the men by harsh and inhuman training and by debasing and subverting them. Strong, mature drama.

"Shoot the Piano Player" — Sordid French film treats tragedy as satirical comedy. Experimental film by a fine director.

"Thomas Crown Affair" — Plotting and execution of big bank robbery is ingenious. Criminal and investigator become involved in torrid love affair. Crime pays well in this case. very modern treatment.

Per capita income in Arkansas doubled between 1950 and 1964.

Blind Africans Reach Summit Of Kilimanjaro

LONDON EXPRESS

NAIROBI, Kenya — Seven blind Africans yesterday conquered the snows of Kilimanjaro — Africa's highest mountain — which towers 19,340 feet above the wild game plains of Southern Kenya and Northern Tanzania.

Three days after the two Kenyans, two Tanzanians and three Ugandans set out from the Outward Bound Mountain School in the Southern Kenya village of Loitokitok, they reached the snow-capped summit.

As they stood in the crisp snow — all had encountered snow for the first time in their lives — a friendship aircraft fo East African Airways flew overhead and dipped its wings in salute to their unprecedented achievement.

The seven, who underwent a tough two-week preparation course here before tackling the ascent, sheltered their faces against the biting wind and subzero temperatures as guides described the scene to them.

The phosphate industry in Florida exports nearly one-third of its annual production.

Marin Poised To Start Food Stamps Use

About 580 Marin households on public assistance are expected to join the food stamp program, which will begin operating on April 1, administrative deputy Donald M. Sanford of the Department of Public Social Services announced today.

He said another 70 families who are not betting public aid are likely to join the program eventually, bringing the total to about 650. The program is already in operation in Sonoma County.

The aim of the program, sponsored by the Department of Agriculture, is to encourage the sale of United States farm surpluses and to improve the nutrition of low income families.

COST TO MARIN

Estimated annual cost in Marin is $48,500, with $18,700 from federal funds and $28,800 paid by the county. Families on aid and those close to the assistance level will qualify.

Those who qualify will be given cards authorizing them to purchase food stamps. A member of the family will take the authorization card to a bank and buy food stamps at a discount. For example, he might pay $28 for $44 worth of food stamps, or $100 for $132 worth of stamps. The amount of discount depends on the size of the family and its adjusted net income.

USED LIKE CASH

The coupons will be used like cash at any grocery store, to buy foods produced in the United States, plus coffee, tea, cocoa and bananas.

The Department of Public Social Services will begin next month to determine which of the families on aid want to participate. At the same time, applications will be taken from non-assistance families who want food stamps and qualify.

Bank of America, Wells Fargo Bank, and Crocker Citizens National Bank will probably handle the food stamp coupons.

A contract has been signed with Wells Fargo, but the other two are still under negotiation, said Sanford.

STARS ABOVE

Canis Major Boasts The Brightest Star

By SHERMAN WALKER

Canis Major (the Larger Dog) is a constellation of moderate size but it has the distinction of having the brightest star in the entire sky. This figure and another nearby called Canis Minor (the Smaller Dog) are supposed to belong to Orion, the Hunter. Both dogs keep an eye on Lepus, the Hare, who lies at the feet of Orion.

To find the dog, face southward at 9 p.m. and look at the region of the sky that is one-third of the distance up from the southern horizon to the overhead point.

The bright star Sirius, which also bears the imposing name of Alpha Canis Majoris, is the brightest in the entire sky and would be even more brilliant if it were a little higher above the horizon where it wouldn't be obscured by fog and haze.

For a long time astronomers were puzzled by the zig-zag path Sirius followed through the sky. It was decided that this was caused by a companion star but no one could see it, even in the largest telescopes. A famous astronomer and mathematician, F. W. Bessel, in 1834 even computed the orbit and mass the companion star should have.

Finally it was discovered in 1862 by Alvin Clark, a famous lens maker, who was testing a lens he had just completed.

This brought a lot of new problems because the companion star was so small that it would have to have a terribly high density to have such an effect on Sirius. A spoonful of its material would weigh tons.

Here the problem rests. Perhaps the future will bring an explanation.

San Rafael Cars Hit By Looters

Reported stolen were:

A purse containing numerous credit cards and other items from the car of Shirley Marie Harris, 124 Blossom Court, an election worker whose car was parked Tuesday night in the Laurel Dell School parking lot.

A checkbook and pocket secretary from the car of Thomas Stahlbaum, 138 Cypress Avenue, Kentfield, parked in the Safeway parking lot Tuesday night.

A bicycle and bicycle equipment from the trunk of the car of Fred Merrill Rhodes, 108 Surry Lane, parked in his carport.

State Sees Kirby Cove Work Bids

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — A Humboldt County contractor submitted yesterday the lowest of nine bids, $9,127, to complete the first of a three-stage program to improve Kirby Cove at the new Marin Headlands State Park.

The bidder at the Department of Parks and Recreation district office was Jim O. Johnson of Garberville. Other low bids to construct a pedestrian ramp from a parking lot to the beach and to provide a fire and drinking water system were by Madsen Construction Co. of Napa, $9,781, and O'Riva and Cogan of Yuba City, $10,220.

The department had estimated the work at $8,000. Officials in Sacramento will review the bids, which ranged up to $18,642, before signing a contract, in about six weeks.

Bids for the next phase of work — paving the dirt road to the cove from Conselman Road and a parking lot above the beach — will be opened at the district office at 2 p.m. Thursday.

The third phase, by hired day labor, will include installation of toilets, picnic tables and cooking grills.

Players To Deliver Plan Of Their Own

NEW YORK (AP) — Major league baseball players were set to deliver a new pension pitch to the club owners today while a federal mediator warmed up in the bullpen and Commissioner Bowie Kuhn fidgeted in the dugout.

The players' association, which rejected the owners' latest pension proposal by a 24-0 vote of club representatives, requested another bargaining session today for the purpose of submitting a counter offer.

Meanwhile, Kuhn, the game's new chief executive, expressed distress over the prolonged impasse and asked both sides to continue negotiations on a daily basis until a settlement is reached.

DELAY HURTS

"This delay in resolving the dispute is injurious to baseball in general and the players and the clubs in particular," said the Commissioner from Florida, where most of the established major leaguers are boycotting in advance spring training camps.

The owners proposed last weekend to add $200,000 to an original offer a $1 million increase in their pension contribution, bringing the total to $5.3 million. The players are asking for a $6.5 million package, to include a slice of television and broadcasting revenue.

After the player representatives turned down the offer Wednesday, John Gaherin, negotiator for the owners, suggested the offer be submitted for a vote of the entire association membership. But Marvin Miller, executive director of the association, said he didn't feel a time-consuming poll of all the players was justified, considering the player reps' unanimous rejection.

ANOTHER MEETING

Dick Moss, counsel for the association, released a statement yesterday asking for another meeting with the owners today. In view of the 24-0 rejection of the owners' last offer, the statement read, "it is our intention to make a new proposal for the owners' consideration in an attempt to reach a settlement of this dispute.

"Despite the tremendous amount of publicity which has been given to the signing of a few veteran players of the 402 players who last winter authorized use of their names in support of the policy of not signing and not reporting to training camp, 391 have not signed salary contracts and have not reported to spring training."

According to the statement, the owners have sent out a "propaganda document to all the players which purports to set forth a summary of how close they have come to their players' proposals, but which is in fact a misleading and deceptive presentation."

VICIOUS ATTACKS

In the last three days, the statement read, the players' representatives had been subjected to "vicious personal attacks" and cited statements that "are intended to increase friction in the vague hope of destroying the Players' Association."

"We are confident that an honorable settlement can still be reached quickly if, and only if, the owners want to achieve that goal," the statement added. "On the other hand, if they are more interested in testing the players than in resolving the dispute, the present crisis will continue."

Brown, regional director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, agreed to step in at the request of the players. But the government's intervention does not represent binding arbitration, sought by the players earlier in the week but turned down by the owners.

JIM GILMARTIN

Teen Suyderhoud Goes Off On Dazzling World Junket

Hm? Oh, no, Bunkie, he won't ski around the world. Couldn't you just picture him trying to negotiate the Sahara Desert? He'll fly, of course, with stopovers at various exotic places for a bit of water skiing.

First stop for Master Mike, who departed Wednesday, is Hawaii where he'll spend a week tuning up for a stiff five-week schedule to follow, taking him to Sydney and Melbourne, Australia, thence to Capetown and Johannesburg, South Africa, on to London, England and finally back home at 222 Sequoia Drive, San Anselmo, which is just a hop, skip and splash from Papermill Creek.

While in South Africa, where he will help train that country's team for the world championships coming up this summer, Mike will stay at the home of noted transplanter Dr. Christiaan "Happy Valentine" Barnard whose water-skiing daughter, Deidre, stayed with the Suyderhouds while on a vacation trip here last year.

Making Up For Lost Time

Mike, a straight A chemistry major at Sonoma State College in Rohnert Park, will return home shortly after Easter and start hitting the books to make up for lost time.

His major 1969 championship schedule will include the Masters Tournament in July and defense of his world title at Denark Aug. 4-10.

Honolulu . . . Melbourne . . . Capetown . . . London . . . Denmark . . Papermill . . golly, that's quite an itinerary for a lad who will turn just 19 next month. Bon voyage, Master Michael.

SOCIAL SEQUEL — The twists 'n' twirls of the I-J society department have added a post script to my Wednesday column on how baseball star Bill Lee's marriage to Maria Helfrich should have been reported, to wit:

"P.S. You forgot to report that the bonus baby stepped up to the hitching plate wearing his traveling grays, a strawberry-on-the-knee and what color sox? Their home base is uncertain depending on which C league horsehide farm the heralded southpaw slinger bread-winner gets socked with."

Okay, girls, let's just say it was a case of glove at first sight that resulted in a life-long contract with the Wed Sox.

Stars Set For Rival Grid Fetes

GRID KIDS — Patrons of the Music Box and Wiltshire Towers nourishment emporiums in San Rafael can choose up sides for a rugged game of football during the next few days and draw a good crowd.

Sunday, during a special 1 p.m. showing of the film "49er Hilites of 1968," the Music Box has advertised the personal appearance of 49er heroes John Brodie and Kevin Hardy.

Then on Monday evening the Wiltshire Towers will have Oakland gridders Ben Davidson and Tom Keating as special guests at a dinner meeting of the Marin Chapter, Raiders Boosters Club. Kickoff for that affair will be 5:30, says Booster Rooster Shaun Wiltshire.

St. Vincent's Can't Miss Shots

"We just couldn't miss," said Coach Ed Major last night after his St. Vincent's High School Mustangs rang up a record 113-82 victory over California School for the Deaf of Berkeley in their Bay Counties League basketball game at the St. Vincent's gym.

Major said it was the highest total ever scored by a St. Vincent's team and was led by Mike Freitas who scored 30 points, Steve Johnson who contributed 21 and Charles Leoni and Gary Griffin with 19 each.

St. Vincent's now has a 5-6 won-lost record in league play.

St. Louis To Battle Happy Seals

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Oakland Seals, happy in Oakland and assured by the National Hockey League that they will not leave there, venture to the Cow Palace in San Francisco tonight to play the St. Louis Blues.

Whether or not the Seals will move has been up in the air for a year, but NHL President Clarence Campbell stated Thursday, "The Board of Governors adamantly declared there will be no move out of Oakland."

The Seals in their latest outing Wednesday night beat the Chicago Black Hawks 5-2 and the victory set a West Division record for victories over East Division teams.

Thirteen of the Seals' 22 victories have come over East Division teams but they have never beaten St. Louis, which leads the West Division and has a 23-point bulge over the second-place Seals.

Braves Hurlers Adding Cracks In Player Strike

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Three of the Atlanta Braves' top pitchers reported for duty today as cracks continued to develop in the players' strike over pension fund payments.

Signing contracts and starting workouts were Ron Reed, a member of the National League All-Star team as a rookie last year; Knuckleballer Phil Niekro and relief pitcher Claude Raymond.

They jointed regular Pat Jarvis and about a dozen rookies for the second day of work for pitchers and catchers.

The outfielders and infielders aren't scheduled to report until next Thursday, but outfielders Felipe Alou and Rico Carty have said they will join the club.

Banquet-Weary Trevino Fires 67 In Tucson Golf

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino swears himself off the banquet circuit and back to serious golf, yet he could be in much worse shape than he is today.

The stocky 29-year-old champion from El Paso, Tex., despite trips to New York and Los Angeles already this week, fired a five-under-par 67 in yesterday's first round of the $100,000 Tucson Open.

Barber, the 37-year-old golf course owner from Sherman Tex., fired a 32-33—65 over the 7,305-yard, par 36-36 Tucson National Golf Club course to take up where he left off in Phoenix.

In Arizona's capital Sunday, the Texan shot a 64 to vault into a three-way tie for second place behind winner Gene Littler.

MILLER BARBER
He Leads Tourney

BEST START

Off to his best start in 10 years on the tour, Barber has won the rain-shortened Kaiser Open. In his first round here, he carded five birdies and an eagle without going over par on a hole.

The eagle came on an 18-foot putt at the par-5 15th after he hit the green with a No. 3 wood shot.

He sank birdie putts of 3, 5, 10, 12 and 18 feet.

The weather ranted from sunny cool in the morning to rainy cold in the afternoon.

Deadlocked at 68 were George Archer, Ron Cerrudo, Rod Funseth and Tucson amateur Ed Updegraff.

TIRED

Following today's second round, the cut reduced the field to the low 70 and tied for play on Saturday and Sunday.

Trevino finished early and declared, "I'm tired. I'm through with banquet tours. I'm going to play golf. No more banquets for Lee Trevino. I don't even like the food any more."

"I've had nine hours sleep in three days. I'm just happy to be walking."

Lee was in New York for a sports banquet on Monday night. Returning to Tucson on Tuesday, he played nine holes for a practice round and then competed in the pro-amateur on Wednesday.

On completing that round, he flew to Los Angeles for another program at which he was honored. He returned to Tucson at midnight and had to be on the tee at 8:56 a.m.

"Coming out of the shoot is tough," he declared. "On that first hole, I missed a 2½-foot putt so bad I had a three-footer coming back."

He went on to card six birdies including a 35-foot putt on the seventh and one of 30 on the 18th.

Douglass shot even par for his first nine before catching fire for a 31 on the back side including an eagle at the par-5 11th with an eight-foot putt and third birdies, two of them with 20 footers.

Ted Williams Signs Million-Dollar Pact

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Senators reached agreement today on an apparent million-dollar contract for Ted Williams as manager of baseball's biggest losers.

The Senators scheduled a news conference for 4 p.m., Pacific Coast Time, today to introduce Williams as manager and part-owner of the last-place American League team.

The club withheld any formal announcement of Williams' appointment, but inside sources reported the Hall of Fame hitter was preparing to fly north from Florida to attend the news conference.

The completion of the contract talks came after a week of intense negotiations that will make the rookie manager the richest paid pilot in baseball.

Williams, fabled for his feuds with writers and fans, is coming out of retirement eight years after winding up his long career with the Boston Red Sox with a lifetime average of .344, highest of any player alive today.

The Senators' coup brings to the nation's capital two of the most storied, stormy and successful men in sports—Williams and the volatile Vince Lombardi, who was hired away from Green Bay to become the Washington Redskins' football coach only two weeks ago.

Williams' acceptance came with barely enough time to take over the club before the start of spring training in Florida Monday.

The senators' plans to name Williams as manager were first reported a week ago by The Associated Press.

Williams, 50, had shunned at least three previous offers to manage major league teams before agreeing to take command of the sagging Senators.

Williams, who once said, "You couldn't pay me enough to manage," has had to admit at last that he was wrong.

The Senators' dynamic new owner, Robert Short, who pursued the lengendary slugger around the country until he could talk him into taking over the team, is paying a price that Williams called "the most fantastic offer" ever made to him.

Reportedly it gives Williams an option to buy an estimated 10 per cent of the club's stock at bargain rates and calls for a salary ranging up to $100,000 a year.

The contract is believed to run at least three years and possibly longer.

Williams has vowed no immediate miracles for the Senators—a promise that should be easy to keep.

Petaluma Ends Winning Season

Coach Bob Donahue's Petaluma High School Trojans concluded their North Bay League Section I basketball season on a victorious note last night, whipping the visiting Napa Indians, 73-52, behind the 10-point scoring of senior Larry Riis.

The Trojans finished the season with a 7-5 won-lost record in league and 16-7 overall.

Pete Daggett, Petaluma's sensational senior, scored 17 points to bring his 23-game season total output to 573 points. Other Trojans in double figures were junior Ross Goree with 12 and sophomore Dan Keller 11.

MCAL ROUNDUP

Easy Wins For Leaders

It was an odd night in Marin County Athletic League high school basketball action last night.

First of all, it was Thursday, an unusual time for the games, but Washington's birthday forced the switch, although Terra Linda will face Marin Catholic tonight.

But most of the oddness was on the court.

Redwood broke its usual pattern of great shooting but still won convincingly; Novato stuck to its script — Herrnberger, McNally and hope, while San Rafael played without Bruce Nave but won big.

Redwood licked Drake 78-36, San Rafael beat San Marin 71-49, and Novato downed Tamalpais 80-67, leaving Redwood still one game up on Novato, with the rematch between the two due a week from tonight.

Coach Dick Hart praised his club's fine play despite the fact that the team shot 37 per cent, good for some teams but subpar for Redwood, now rated 18th in the Bay Area. Jerry Piro and Roger Smith with 16 and 17 points led Redwood, while Fred Westcott's nine markers led Drake.

As usual, Tam had balanced scoring — four men in double figures — but Novato kept on by way of 28 points from Steve McNally and 21 from Ed Herrnberger. Mal Sibbernsen had 18 and Ron Small 15 for Tam.

Star guard Bruce Nave suited up but did not play against San Marin for San Rafael, but Roger Thomas' 17 and Ray Taylors' 11 points made up for his absence. Gary Howard, naturally, had 19 for San Marin.

Led by the shooting of Smith and Piro and the rebounding (14 of 'em) of 6-6 Pete Webb, Redwood spurted to a quick lead and improved it over the next three quarters.

It was close but no cigar for Tam after the first quarter as the Indians fell down 17-13 early, but were unable to come close enough.

A 26-12 first half and a 30-18 blitz by San Rafael in the third quarter finished off San Marin.

Warriors Get Hot In Stretch

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The San Francisco Warriors are getting hot just in time for the National Basketball Association playoffs, says Philadelphia 76ers Coach Jack Ramsey.

"Sure, the Warriors have a great chance to sweep the playoffs," Ramsey said after the Warriors dumped his team 134-117 Wednesday night. "Now that they've put it all together and having survived those early injuries, the Warriors could go all the way if the ball bounces right for them."

San Francisco took its seventh victory in nine games last night by beating the Rockets at San Diego 128-118.

The Rockets led 94-89 at the end of three periods but the Warriors outscored San Diego 21-4 in the first five minutes of the final period.

Mullins led the Warriors with 33 and Nate Thurmond scored 29. Don Kojis of the Rockets was high man the night with 36.

Basketball Road Trip: One Of Life's Vacuums

NEW YORK—North Central Airlines flight No. 579 kicked and bucked and groaned its way out to flight line, and in Seat No. 17A, Elgin Baylor surveyed a map with distaste as if it were a missed layup.

"Thirty minutes from Chicago to Milwaukee and it ain't but 68 miles," he complained loudly to the gods.

Elgin turned his imperious gaze on Chamberlain. "It's 68 air miles. It's 90 miles by dogsled. But we're going to fly there. At least, I thnk we are, if they ever get the rubber bands around the props on this thing. Where did they get this airplane — in the Smithsonian? How many wings it got. You could walk to Milwaukee in 30 minutes. The squatters made it in 30 minutes 100 years ago."

HE WENT back to studying his map. "Hey!" he exclaimed, "you know there was a nonstop out of L.A. to Milwaukee? Who made up our schedule?" 'Beef' did," someone told him. "Beef" is the quondam coach and current general manager or the Los Angeles Lakers, Fred Schaus. "Beef" is the repository of almost as many complaints in absentia as he was when he was coaching. Basketball players think the Johnstown Flood was started by the front office, which is a very rich organization given over only to counting money and arranging harassing travel schedules.

"NO, 'SNIFFLES' did," corrected Elgin Baylor. "Sniffles" would be Rod Hundley, the only 6-foot 4-inch radio broadcaster this side of Howard Cosell, whom he does not otherwise resemble. Elgin woul have a nickname for the Angel Gabriel and, chances are it would not be complimentary. Elgin sees a flawed world.

Flight 579 finally hit the ground in Milwaukee right on schedule, taxiing up alongside one of the line's gleaming new jets. "Why didn't we take that?" someone asked. "That's just a prop," Elgin informed him. "It don't fly at all."

THE BASKETBALL road trip is one of life's great vacuums — long periods of crashing boredom, punctuated by headlong 90-foot dashes up and down a hardwood floor every 24 seconds.

The first thing done when a crew hits an airport is known as the "all-court scarf." "Scarf" is a verb in Lakerland. It means, sort of, "to eat." "Scarfing" is distinct from regular eating in the length of time devoted to digestion. For instance, a tuna fish sandwich calls for the gulp "scarf." It and a carton of milk will be lucky to last a full three-second rule. It's in and out of the key in a hurry. The Lakers can empty a sandwich counter without hardly pausing as they go by.

HOTELS COME in for a good deal of criticism. The motel in Milwaukee was modern and neat and only two or so stories high. "Is this the biggest building in Milwaukee?" was the innocent question. "Or do you have a whole lot of other skyscrapers?"

The hotel in New York, like much of New York, has seen grander days. "They're going to tear it down and put up a shack," one of the Lakers said. "The Queen of England stopped here," someone said. "And was Sir Francis Drake with her?" someone else wanted to know.

IN MILWAUKEE, a voice in the back marvels at the presence of elevators. "What they have elevators in this place for? You could step out of a second-story window." "They go sideways," someone explained to him.

The game in Milwaukee is a 48-minute athletic disgrace. The Lekers throw the ball aound like a hot diamond when the cops come. The coach looks at them as though they were something crawling off his breakfast plate.

THE RIDE to New York was as quiet as the Lakers ever get. Elgin had had enough of this by the time they were over Buffalo. He spotted Mel Counts, the 7-foot center.

"Melvin, did you go out with 'Frankenstein' the other night?" "Frankenstein" is the San Diego Rockets' 7-foot pivot man, Henry Finkel. Sometimes he comes out "Finkelstein" in Elgin's menagerie. Have they got the bolts out yet?" Elgin wonders. "Is he fully programmed yet?"

"WHO IS 'Frankenstein'?" Elgin is asked. "Finkel," he says happily. "It's too bad Boris Karloff died," says a voice in the back of the plane. "He could have played Finkel's life story." "Yeah," was a counter, 'I Was a Teen Age Monster in the Pivot for San Diego.'"

THE CONVERSATION turned to the New York Knickerbockers who are currently "scarfing" the lead. "What's a "Knickerbocker'?" someone wants to know. Elgin stirred, savoring the opportunity. Chamberlain leaped in: "Wait a minute!" he said. "Now you wouldn't be about to tell a lie, would you, Elg? It ain't in you to lie, is it?" Elgin gave him a look of injured innocence. Then he sat back and smiled wistfully. Once more, he had stirred up the tranquility.

Yarborough Favored In Daytona 500 Race

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—No matter how you slice it, chubby Cale Yarborough has got to be favored to win Sunday's $208,000 Daytona 500.

The Timmonsville, S.C., tobacco farmer-Ford jockey will be starting fifth in the lineup behind pole man Buddy Baker who is in a Dodge Charger. If Yarborough wins, it will be four big ones in a row over Daytona's high-banked track.

Yarborough won last year's 500 and the last two "Firecracker 400" July 4 races here. He finished second behind David Pearson, Spartanburg, S.C., in another Ford in one of a pair of 125-milers yesterday.

The two qualifying races were won by Pearson and Bobby Isaac, Catawba, N.C., in a Dodge Charger. And they didn't develop into the wild Ford-Dodge duel which Sunday's run is expected to provide.

Fords finished one-two-three-four-five in the first race, and the Dodges one-two-three in the second.

In the third row will be Yarborough and Paul Goldsmith, Munster, Ind. in a Dodge, followed by Donnie Allison, Hueytown, Ala., and Indy 500 champ Bobby Unser, Albuquerque, N.M., in Fords.

Tar Baseballers In First Tourney

Plagued thus far by rain and lack of a practice field, the 1969 College of Marin baseball team opens its pre-season schedule this afternoon in Hayward, meeting San Joaquin Delta Junior College in the Chabot College Tournament.

Last year, the Tars (who came in second to host Chabot in last year's tournament) led the Golden Valley Conference for most of the year before losing the title to traditional rival Santa Rosa JC. Marin and SRJC will both face tough competition in the Camino Norte Conference in the shape of DeAnza of Cupertino and West Valley of Campbell, according to coach Pete Limm.

Due to the recent rains and the fact that the baseball field is not usable, Limm's 28-man squad has stayed indoors much of the time, working on conditioning. With the COM field out for an indefinite period, Athletic Director Harry Pieper has arranged seven night games at San Rafael's Albert Field.

Limm plans to field two teams and see what he has in the two-day double-elimination tourney. Included among the veterans are last year's best hitters, John Sjoblom and Kevin Wilson, also a pitcher, Steve Lebeck, who sat out last year but played infield in 1966, Dan Obrantz and flinger Billy Poole. New players include Dave Obrantz, of San Rafael, brother of Dan and also an infielder, first baseman John Kowski of Redwood, Mike Ferretti, outfielder Gary Delepere of Tomales, Steve Trono of Terra Linda, Jeff Paquette, Gary Dinkel and Jim Scoville a Redwood infielder.

Unless they drop both games today, Marin will be playing two more tomorrow.

College-Style Oaks Whip Dallas Easily

OAKLAND (AP) — Alex Hannum has been trying to get his Oakland Oaks to play like college kids and they came up with two attributes of a good college team last night.

Using a fast break and getting a balanced scoring attack, the Oaks clipped Dallas 119-109 in an American Basketball Association contest before 3,547 at the Oakland Arena.

The Oaks who seek their fourth straight at the Arena Saturday night against Los Angeles, blazed to a 64-42 halftime lead but had to fight back in the last quarter after Dallas, hitting 43 points in the third period, edged ahead several times.

The Oaks had six players in double figures.with Moe scoring 24, Jim Eakins 23, Henry Logan 20 and Warren Armstrong 19.

Russell Makes Moving Plea At BSU Meeting

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Bill Russell, player-coach of the Boston Celtics, returned to his alma mater yesterday to make an emotional plea for racial harmony in the United States.

"For this country to be what it can be, I would die," Russell told a Black Student Union meeting also attended by hundreds of white students.

The two-time All-America player and 11-time first or second string all-NBA performer said "it's a sad, sad thing for this country not to be what it can be. This is a great country—it can be greater."

"The only way we can get along is if we walk down the street together. If we don't, I'll hate you for being condescending and you'll hate me for being unappreciative."

Russell said that blacks are so frustrated by racists that it could "lead to a rage so great I would want to kill every one of them."

He said that if someone could find a way to make a profit out of better race relations, the problem would be solved "in a week at the most."

He said there is a "welfare mentality" in many Americans "which destroys a man's ambition."

"There are always people who will succeed despite the prevailing system and there are those who will fail despite the prevailing system. I'm concerned about those in the middle.

Russell has written harshly of USF in various books and magazines, but he told the rally he bore no animosity against the school although he did meet racial bias during his collegiate days.

At the meeting, a five-point demand, including the resignation of athletic director Pete Pelleta, that has been submitted to University of San Francisco officials was made public by the Black Students Union.

In addition to asking for Pelleta's resignation, the BSU demanded that the name of the Memorial Gym be changed to Bill Russell Gymnasium; the hiring of Negro coaches; and regular scholarships for Negro athletes.

The fifth was an announcement that the black athlete alumni would form its own association.

Aaron Waits Out Strike On Tennis

ATLANTA (AP) — Hank Aaron doesn't plan to play baseball as long as the players are on strike, but the Atlanta Braves' slugger definitely can't make a living out of his newest sport.

"Tennis is a little different," the 35-year-old baseball great said in an interview, after spraying balls all over the court.

"But I like it. And since I don't enjoy golf, I figure it's good way to help get into shape."

Aaron is packing an extra 10 pounds right now while he sweats out the dispute between the players and the owners over the pension fund.

"I'm anxious to start playing," Aaron said. "But I won't sign my contract until the dispute is settled. It's a matter of principle.

"When you play with a bunch of guys, you stay with them," said the Atlanta right fielder. "It's not a matter of money. They have made me a fine offer—the same as I got last year."

That puts Aaron at the $100,000 a year level for the third straight season.

"I'm not going to camp until this thing is settled," he added. "Bill Bartholomy (Atlanta owner) has been great, and I really like to play for him. But I just can't play until everything is worked out."

Aaron isn't scheduled to report until next Thursday, and he said he thinks the dispute will be settled by then.

"I don't think I'll have any trouble getting into shape," he said. "I weight 190 pounds, which is about 10 pounds too much. But I'll get it off."

Aaron likes to play at about 180 pounds, which is about 15 more than he weighed when he made his big league debut in 1954.

During his 15 major league campaigns, Aaron has slammed 510 home runs. He has a lifetime batting average of .314, although he slipped to .287 last year.

A right fielder most of his career, Aaron experimented at first base in 1968 but is scheduled to play the outfield this season.

Aaron started playing tennis just a few weeks ago and readily admits he still is a bush leaguer in that sport.

Wisconsin Trying To Get Elroy Hirsh

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The University of Wisconsin, troubled by sagging athletic department fortunes, gave former Badger star Elroy "Crazy Legs" Hirsch the red carpet treatment Thursday and left little doubt it wanted him to assume the post of athletic director.

Hirsch, assistant to the president of the Los Angeles Rams, was escorted on a tour of the Big Ten school by Milt Bruhn, former Wisconsin football coach and now acting athletic director.

The university has scheduled a news conference for Friday, presumably to announce Hirsch's selection.

Wisconsin's former athletic director, Ivan B. "Ivy" Williamson, who died after a fall in his home Wednesday night, was recently removed as athletic director following two winless football seasons and mounting athletic department debts.

TALENTED TOTEM — Top to bottom are twin brothers Ken and Kirt Donaldson and their Novato High School teammates Paul Robertson and Rob McCown who will compete in Northern California State high school wrestling championships at Stockton tomorrow. Also competing will be Tamalpais High School heavyweight Charles McBride.

WRESTLING

Twins Lead Marin Stars To Stockton

Fantastic high school wrestling careers will end tomorrow when twin brothers Ken and Kirt Donaldson of Novato head Marin County Athletic League delegation of wrestlers to the Northern California State meet at Stockton.

Also in the state meet are fellow Novato Hornets Rob McCown, Tom Zechlin and Paul Robertson and Tamalpais heavyweight Charles McBride.

Ken Donaldson won the 123-pound class title, in addition to capturing the trophy for fastest falls and outstanding wrestler trophy, at last Saturday's North Coast Section meet in Hayward.

His twin brother Kirt took the 111-pound championship and McCown won the 148-pound title. McBride was second in the heavyweight class, Robertson was third in the 136-pound division and Zechlin finished fourth in the 194-pound division.

HE'S PHENOMENAL

Ken Donaldson has compiled a phenomenal record in four years of wrestling.

He has won 119 of 123 matches over that span, has a string of 62 wins in a row and two unbeaten seasons. He'll be gunning for his second straight Northern California title after finishing third in his sophomore year. He has won three straight North Coast Section titles, four straight Marin County Athletic League titles and has never lost a league match. All of his losses came in tournament action, three of them as a freshman. He has won titles twice at each of the three different invitational high tournaments. This year, he is 25-0 with 19 falls.

But not to forget Kirt. He's only competed for three years, and has won 80 and lost 6 matches. He's never been beaten in dual meet competition and his only MCAL loss came in the league tournament of 1967 when he wound up facing his brother.

WHAT A RECORD

Kirt has won MCAL titles twice, has been third and first in the North Coast Section meet and second in the Northern California tussle. He also has won titles twice at these tournaments.

McCown is 26-0 this season with eight falls, was first in the four prep tournaments and first in North Coast Section meet. His three-year record reads 81 wins, 13 losses and two draws with 35 falls.

That's quite a trio. Their combined won-lost record for the season reads 76-0. Try and beat that!

Pistons Need Miraculous Valve Job

The Detroit Pistons will need a miraculous valve job to make the National Basketball Association playoffs, but they're firing on all cylinders as far as the Atlanta Hawks and Baltimore Bullets are concerned.

The Hawks completed a six-for-six season's sweep over the Pistons last night 97-87 and moved within 3½ games of front-running Los Angeles in the Western Division. Detroit has knocked off the pace-setting Lakers three of five but is 0-5 against Baltimore, which has a 4½-game bulge in the East.

LOWEST SCORE

In the ABA, Oakland trounced Dallas 119-109 and Minnesota downed New York 118-113.

Atlanta took a 51-40 halftime lead over Detroit, upped it to 74-59 after three periods and held the Pistons to their lowest home score of the season.

Lou Hudson paced the Hawks with 25 points, 16 of them in the middle two periods. Walt Bellamy and Happy Hariston had 17 apiece for the slumping Pistons.

John Barnhill, called up from the Eastern League just 12 games ago, keyed Baltimore's triumph by scoring 12 of his 18 points in the final period as the Bullets opened up a 13-point lead and then held off the Suns.

CAREER HIGH

Dick Van Arsdale of the losers hit a career high 44 points and Gail Goodrich added 28 while Earl Monroe and Ray Scott led the Bullets with 30 and 24.

Little Oil Damage To Fish, Wildlife

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Despite the magnitude of the oil spill of Santa Barbara, and the damage done to beaches, private boats and installations, fish and wildlife losses thus far have been surprisingly light.

Of course, the Department of Fish and Game's efforts to protect fish and wildlife will continue for many months, but thus far only water birds have been affected, mostly grebes and scoters.

Slightly over 1,000 contaminated fowl have been brought to the Department of Fish and Game's two treatment centers, according to DFG Director Ray Arnett. Biologists have been able to save about half of these.

"There have been no verified reports of fish and wildlife losses other than water birds," Arnett said. "Seals and sea lions on Ancapa and the other channel islands have shown no signs of distress; and whales and porpoises migrating through the area have done so with no discernable ill effects.

"One porpoise, found dead on Anacapa Island, was believed to have died from effects not associated with the oil spill," Arnett said.

The Department of Fish and Game's chief concern at present is over the marine environment on the beaches and shallow tidal pools, such as clams, mussels and abalone.

The Fish and Game Department's efforts to protect fish and wildlife and monitor losses off Santa Barbara have been extensive. As soon as news of the oil slick was received the DFG dispatched a special task force of 21 biologists, enforcement officers and other key personnel. Skin divers, aircraft and vessels have carried on continuous monitoring to determine the effects of the slick on all forms of marine life.

Two treatment centers were immediately established to care for any creatures effected by the spill.

These efforts are expected to continue until all danger is past.

Irish Aim For Second Try At UCLA In NCAA Meet

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two trips to New York in one season is enough for Notre Dame. Now the Irish want a second shot at UCLA, and the way they're going, they might get it.

The unranked Irish, headed toward one of their finest basketball seasons, rolled past a tough New York U. club 98-88 last night at Madison Square Garden for their sixth straight victory and an 18-5 record.

A week from Saturday Notre Dame returns to New York for a match against seventh-ranked St. John's and regardless of the outcome, the Irish are almost a certainty to get postseason bids to the NCAA tournament and the NIT in the Garden.

Given that choice, Coach Johnny Dee says the Irish will forsake another trip to the big city in hopes of getting another shot at UCLA.

"We want the chance to play the champions of conferences and we'd like another crack at Kentucky and UCLA," Dee said after his club wiped out NYU in the second half.

Notre Dame, an independent, lost to UCLA 88-75 in the second game of the season and fell to Kentucky 110-90 five games later, but the Irish are 13-2 since then and an optimistic bunch.

"Maybe on a certain night we could beat UCLA," center Bob Whitmore said. "There's always that chance."

Marquette, another team with a chance for the other NCAA bid that will go to a Midwest independent, raised its record to 19-4 with a 65-61 triumph at Denver. The Warriors, ranked 20th, were the only ranked team in action last night on a light college schedule.

Elsewhere, Houston blasted Lamar Tech 95-71, Drake gunned down Wichita State 120-94, Arizona upset New Mexico 77-75, Wake Forest edged North Carolina State 52-49, Arizona State defeated Wyoming 87-79 and in the opener of the Garden doubleheader, Temple crushed Manhattan 93-68.

Whitmore teamed with Austin Carr and Bob Arnzen to bury NYU as the trio combined for 69 points. After Carr, A Sophomore flash who missed 11 games with injuries, scored 15 of his 25 points to put Notre Dame ahead 47-41 at the half, Arnzen and Whitmore split 26 points in the final half as the Irish surged ahead 95-72. NYU scored 14 straight points to make the score respectable.

Marquette had problems with lowly Denver and was unable to take the lead until Joe Thomas hit a free throw with 4:40 left as Denver, 2-22, managed only three points in the final six minutes. Thomas finished with 17 points.

Drake, still nursing hopes in the Missouri Valley Conference, put on the shooting show of the night, hitting a stunning 67.1 per cent from the field, including 30 of 38 in the final half. Drake led 52-43 at the half.

Willie McCarter scored 27 points for the Bulldogs.

Temple, another tournament hopeful, raised its record to 17-6 by running off the first 17 points against Manhattan, which went scoreless for the first 6½ minutes. Joe Cromer had 21 points for the Owls.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

An Enterprising Lead Brings About A Five-Heart Downfall

"The members of your cruise group are better trained than any we have played against before," leading Japanese experts told me after a special tournament held in Tokyo for the local players and my S. S. President Wilson bridge enthusiasts. Los Angeles expert Robert Wurdeman and Tokyo champion Akio Kurokawa won the tournament with ease even though they had met only minutes before beginning to play.

DAILY LESSONS

The excellent showing of the cruise passengers was due in part to daily lessons they got while the President Wilson was at sea. Today's hand shows one of the pointers they got on opening leads.

"After your partner jumps to four spades," I told them, showing them only the West hand and the bidding, "it is quite safe for you to lead the ace of spades. So safe, in fact, that South makes the contract. If you want to beat five hearts you must abandon safety and make an enterprising lead."

The enterprising lead is, of course, the singleton diamond. Recognizing the lead for what it is, South should attempt to camouflage the situation by winning a "finesse" with dummy's queen of diamonds.

MORE DECEPTION

South then gets to his hand with the ace of clubs to lead the jack of hearts. The idea is to lure West into playing his low trump in the hope that South is about to try a losing finesse against the queen of hearts.

West should not fall for this flimflammery. He steps up with the ace of trumps and leads a low spade. This enables East to win with the king of spades, a point West had in mind from the very beginning of his defense.

CAN DEFEAT

East returns a diamond, seeing the plot in spite of South's fake finesse at the first trick. West's ruff then defeats the contract.

ANSWER: Bid one heart.

You have 13 points in high cards and two points for the singleton, more than enough for an opening bid.

HILLSIDE APARTMENT CONSTRUCTION

One, two and three-bedroom apartment leases are already being taken by Paul Sade, developer of this complex of 104 units on Smith Ranch Road, north of San Rafael. Apartments will offer such refinements as carpeted kitchens, bars, televisions and two parking spaces for each unit. Highway 101 and Lucas Valley underpass is shown at bottom of picture. THE WEEK IN BUSINESS

Stock Splits Approved, Proposed

A management proposal to split H. J. Heinz Co. common stock two-for-one has been approved by the shareholders.

Company articles will be amended to increase the authorized common shares from 8,500,000 to 20 million. Stock certificates for the additional shares will be mailed to shareholders on or about March 11. Shares now outstanding will not be exchanged.

Three million authorized common shares will be made available for acquisitions and other business purposes, though no immediate use is said to be anticipated.

BANK OF AMERICA shareholders have approved the creation of BankAmerica Corp., a one-bank holding company. Stock in Bank of America will be converted on a share for share basis into the common stock of the new holding company. BankAmerica Corp. is said to have no current intention to diversify into business unrelated to the financial industry.

HIBERNIA BANK directors have approved a two-for-one stock split, subject to approval by stockholders at a meeting in April. Also approved is an increase in the authorized shares of common stock to one million shares, though the bank is said to have no present plans to issue additional shares. Directors also declared a 10 per cent stock dividedn to be paid following the effective date of the stock split.

SANTA ANITA CONSOLIDATED, INC. directors have voted a three-for-one stock split and proposes to increase authorized common stock from 600,000 to three million shares. They have also recommended the authorization of one million shares of $1 par value preferred stock. Santa Anita Consolidated owns the Los Angeles Turf Club, Hadley Auto Transport (a contract carrier for Ford Motor Co.) and has extensive real estate holdings in Southern California and a major stock interest in General Exploration Co. of California.

CROCKER-CITIZENS NATIONAL BANK directors have declared an increased dividend of 40 cents per share for the quarter ending March 31. Previously the annual dividend rate was $1.40 per share. The increase indicates an annual dividend rate of $.160 per share.

PACIFIC SOUTHWEST AIRLINES proposals to increase the capital stock and to approve a contemplated tender offer for stock of Western Airlines will be submitted to PSA shareholders at their annual meeting in April. This eliminates having a special meeting and provides additional time to process applications for regulatory approvals. The company reported earnings of $3,954,145 for the year ended Dec. 31, compared to $4,103,105 in 1967. Revenues in 1968 were $57 million, up from $48.8 million in 1967.

DI GIORGIO CORP. preliminary 1968 earnings amounted to just over $3 million, or $1.62 per common share. These earnings, among the highest in the corporation's history, compare with $2.48 million in 1967 or $1.30 per share. Operating earnings include the effect of provisions for federal income tax surcharge equivalent to 12 cents per common share in 1968.

SCOVILL MANUFACTURING CO. will acquire Dominion Electric Corp. of Mansfield, Ohio, for cash in excess of $4 million. The agreement is subject to approval by Dominion stockholders. Dominion will continue its manufacture of hair dryers, portable ovens and other electrical appliances as a wholly owned subsidiary under its present management.

KAISER STEEL CORP. directors have increased the regular quarterly dividend on the common stock from 25 cents to 37.5 cents per share, payable on March 31. The board also declared the quarterly dividend of 36.5 cents per share on the $1.46 preferred stock for the same date.

STOCK MARKET SHUT

Wall Street and all other exchanges are closed today for the Washington's Birthday holiday. Tomorrow's Independent-Journal will carry the usual weekly recapitulation of stock ranges and other data.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Bonds, Preferreds Can Increase Income

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I retire next year at 70 on $1,000 a month. Can you review my enclosed list of holdings and offer suggestions for investing an additional $30,000? We are not interested in building an estate but want income — W.C.

A. Eaton, Yale & Towne and Ramada Inns, low-yielding growth stocks, both show you a good profit which I would accept. Your remaining issues, representing high-grade income-producing utilities, industrials and rails, should be held.

Capital from the suggested sales should be divided among Consolidated Edison $5 preferred, Pacific Gas & Electric 6 per cent preferred and Union Electric $4.50 preferred. These three high-quality issues will yield over 6 per cent.

Your additional funds I would invest in any of the following AAA-rated bonds: Boston Edison 6⅞s of 1998, Commonwealth Edison 6⅞s 1998 and Southwestern Bell Telephone 6¾s 2008.

Q. I have 100 shares of Admiral costing $58 a share. Should I sell at a loss or hold for a better price? M.B.

A. Although the color-TV market appears to have a rosy future, investor interest in the group is lagging. Admiral not only shares the malaise of the group but suffers from its own ills — specifically, heavy losses in 1967, a deficit in the first half of 1968 and lackluster sales. A small profit is expected for 1968 but the market, expecting a drop in consumer spending this year, has largely ignored the improvement in Admiral's basic position. Because recovery will probably be slow, I would take the loss.

Q. How can a 54-year-old single woman lighter her tax burden when income represents salary and interest on $86,000 paid by savings and loan association? Switch savings into tax-deferred E bonds? — H.S.

A. Your tax problem — including my alternative switch suggestion — should be discussed with a tax specialist. You might fare better putting some savings into utilities from which dividends, partially tax-exempt, will yield more than E bond accruals. I suggest Atlantic City Electric, Pacific Power & Light, Potómac Electric and Puget Sound Power & Light. By retirement these could also show some capital gains.

Tourism Sets New Records In Bay City

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — San Francisco's visitor industry income reached the $243 million mark in 1968, topping all previous records. Richard L. Swig, president of the San Francisco Convention and Visitors Bureau, has announced.

Newly computed yearend stataistics reveal spending by out-of-city convention delegates and tourists climbed 3.9 per cent over the 1967 high of $245 million.

Convention and convention-related expenditures gave the local economy a $116 million boost last year, he said. San Francisco hosted 740 conclaves, 56 more than in 1967. These meetings attracted 527,528 out-of-town conventioneers, 12,652 (or 2.5 per cent) more than in 1967.

Visitor travel to San Francisco was up, too, by 5.2 per cent. A total of 2,222,163 non-convention visitors came to "everybody's favorite city" as compared to 2,113,250 the year before. Tourism spending here totaled $128 million. The 1967 figure was $122 million.

Pacific Southwest Airlines Net Off

SAN DIEGO (BW) — Pacific Southwest Airlines has reported earnings for the year ended Dec. 31 of $3,954,145 on total revenues of $57,167,767, compared to $4,103,105 on total revenues of $48,824,936 in 1967.

Earnings per share in 1968 amounted to $1.33 (which included 33 cents per share gain on aircraft sales) compared to $1.43 for the prior year.

Debits, Deposits Show Increases

Marin County bank debits and deposits for January were both up from last year figures.

The Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco reported unadjusted debits of $217,973,000, compared with $192,440,000 a year ago. Unadjusted deposits increased to $101,020,000 from $87,092,000 in January 1968.

No seasonally adjusted debits, deposits or turnover ratios are yet reported for Marin County.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER JAMES WIKEL, CPA

Wikel

You can deduct up to $600 for the care of your child, or $900 for two or more children if it is necessary to enable you to work.

You can deduct this only if it is for the care of your child or stepchild under 13 years of age; or for the care of any other dependent for whom you are entitled to an exemption who is mentally or physically incapable of caring for himself.

The expense must be paid and it cannot be paid to an individual for whom you claim a dependency exemption.

You can only make this deduction provided the cost is for you to earn a living or to enable you to look for work.

CHILD CARE PAY

If you work only part of the day and pay for child care for all the day, you can deduct only the part that corresponds to the time you were working.

If the person you pay does work other than child care, such as house cleaning, the deduction is allowed only for the child care part.

The deduction is allowed to women and to widowers. Widowers include men who are divorced or legally separated and have not remarried. It is also allowed to husbands of incapacitated or institutionalized wives while the wife is disabled.

This deduction is allowed only if the wife is mentally or physically incapacitated or institutionalized for a period of 90 consecutive days unless the period is terminated by her death.

MARRIED STATUS

A married man or woman can deduct their child care expensee only if they file a joint return and together earn less than $6,000 per year.

If they earn over $6,000 per year, the deduction is reduced by the amount earned over the $6,000. This does not apply if the taxpayer's husband or wife is incapable of self-support because he or she is mentally or physically defective.

If you qualify, then get Form 2441 and complete it fully. Attach this Form 2441 to your tax return and claim the deduction on page 2, part IV, Miscellaneous Deductions.

Wall Street To Continue Shorter Day

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Stock Exchange board of governors yesterday voted to remain on its current four-hour, five-day trading schedule at least through March.

The big board, the American Stock Exchange, and the over-the-counter market have been operating on a 10 .a.m-2 p.m. EST trading schedule so far this year and had been on a four-day trading week from mid-June to the end of 1968. The purpose is to provide brokerage firms with sufficient time to cope with a backlog of paperwork resulting from heavy trading.

The big board's decision to continue the 2 p.m. closing — one and one-half hours earlier than normal — follows the recommendation of the special ad hoc committee of exchange and brokerage firm representatives that is keeping the paperwork problem under constant review. The committee made its recommendation to the exchanges on Tuesday.

It was expected that regional stock markets would follow the big board's decision ot keep to the early closing.

New Holding Firm Set By Southern Pacific

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — Directors of Southern Pacific Co. have approved a plan, for the formation of a holding company which could engage in non-transportation activities.

The plan as announced by President B. F. Biaggini yesterday provides for the existing Southern Pacific Co. to be merged into a new company called Southern Pacific Transportation Co., which will be a wholly owned subsidiary of a new holding company temporarily called S.P., Inc. Upon consummation of the plan S.P., Inc., will then assume the name Southern Pacific Co.

The entire plan will be submitted for stockholder approval at the annual meeting on May 14 and the proposed merger between Southern Pacific Co. and Southern Pacific Transportation Co. will be submitted soon for Interstate Commerce Commission approval, Biaggini said.

"Southern Pacific has sought for many years to diversify its services to the public," Biaggini commented. "In addition to its principal business of directly providing rail transportation service, it operates motor carriers and pipelines as well as other rail carriers.

Drug Chain Gains

OAKLAND (BW) — Longs Drug Stores, Inc., retail drug chain operating 43 stores in California and Hawaii, has announced a 27 per cent increase in sales for its fiscal year ended Jan. 31. Unaudited sales for the year were $121,696,000 against sales of $95,695,000 for a year earlier.

Some Reasons Why School Bond Issues Fail

Well, back to the old drawing board!

That seems to be the story for the San Rafael Elementary School District after the second turndown within 16 months of a bond issue to build one new school and expand or improve present ones.

The $2,100,000 bond issue placed before voters of the district on Tuesday fared a bit better than did the $3,100,000 proposal of Oct. 24, 1967. It drew 60 per cent favorable votes, as compared with 53 per cent for the earlier proposal. But it fell well short of the two-thirds required.

As on the previous occasion, those who did not vote really decided the issue. The voter turnout was almost identical — 38 per cent of those registered this time, 37 per cent in October, 1967. The decision against bonding thus was made by a minority.

WHY DID SO MANY not vote? The obvious conclusion is that they do not care, one way or the other. It may be, however, that there is another reason. Many of them may not be convinced by the arguments for the need, yet do not wish to vote "against schools," so they adopt the path of least resistance by avoiding a commitment.

There are reasons why many people may feel unsure about the need for school bonds.

When the $3.1 million issue was placed before San Rafael Elementary School District voters in October, 1967, the citizen committee pushing it said defeat would mean one or more of three things: increased class sizes, double sessions, and/or reduction in bus transportation to cut costs. The committee also said that to delay building was sure to increase the price.

None of these things happened. And when the new bond issue was put before voters, it was a million dollars less than that turned down previously — although, like the preceding one, it included "something for everybody" with money earmarked for some work at each neighborhood school.

SUPT. JOHN F. PLANK suggested that campus unrest at colleges and high schools contributed to Tuesday's bond issue defeat. It may have done so. But parent resentment is not only over the nonsense on college campuses. Some of it is directed at the local schools.

One parent, in a letter to the editor which arrived too late for publication before the election, charged the schools have failed. "Graduates who cannot comprehend what they read, write legibly or make correct change are living proof of failure," she wrote.

She added that though Plank and Paul McMullin, chairman of the YES Committee, encouraged attending board meetings and speaking out, "all legitimate queries are put down" at such meetings. "Parents' and taxpayers' comments are invited, but if they do not agree with the board of education, the principal and the teachers they are either wrong or 'fallacious,'" she wrote.

This is a complaint that has been heard before. In fact, it is a rather common one in many school districts.

ANOTHER REASON why many feel doubtful about school bonds was given in a letter by H. C. Downer of Kentfield, published yesterday. Downer, a man with school building experience, wrote: "Obviously, at least from the picture shown, little thought was given to economy" in planning the Glenwood Middle School.

That is something the board of education and its staff (and architects) might bear in mind when they go back to the old drawing board — that, along with whether some of the things proposed to give "something to everybody" are necessary.

Maybe they can even cut the cost below $2.1 million.

Foran Committee Experiment May Bring Back Steam Car

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — It's easy to become a steam engine buff these days, with gasoline motors held the major cause of air pollution.

While many legislators recognize the slowly increasing dangers of air pollution, Assemblyman John Francis Foran, D-San Francisco, is a lawmaker who is doing what he can to put air back to as close to its normal, uncontaminated condition.

The San Francisco assemblyman's latest achievement in the experimental field is securing a $450,000 grant from the federal government to allow the Assembly to finance a steam bus demonstration project in his home city and Oakland.

UNDER FORAN'S immediate plan, four public transit buses would be tested, two in each of the cities, on normal commuter routes for a period of nine months.

He hopes this period of pregnancy may give birth to a brain-child which, if it does not completely revolutionize propulsion of commuter facilities, at least will improve public transportation to the point where fewer dangers exist for a moving public.

"Testimony received last year by the Assembly Transportation Committee indicated that steam engines are smaller, lighter, require less maintenance, and are virtually noiseless," he said.

"The most common complaints I hear against conventional buses are the foul smelling fumes they belch into the air, and their noisy operating levels.

"On the other hand, the steam powered bus is virtually odorless, noiseless and smog free."

FORAN IS chairman of the transportation committee. As a result of the committee's work last year, the California Highway Patrol soon will be test driving steam-powered cars on the highways. If these tests are successful, the results will constitute almost conclusive proof that steam could be adapted to the passenger car, with resultant descrease in air pollution.

The testing programs do not mean that all of a sudden the state or the nation will convert from gasoline to steam. It would take many years to achieve such a goal if it ever were achieved at all.

There are multi-billion dollar economic factors to consider and solve, but even automobile manufacturers are recognizing the handwriting on the wall, with General Motors aiding in the highway patrol experiment by furnishing chassis for the steam-powered test cars.

THE EXPERIMENT in steam is a reversion to an earlier method of transportation which only lately has gone out of style. The railroad steam engine, the Stanley and White steam autos exist today only as museum pieces. But it is conceivable that if necessity demands revival of the steam car, the revival will occur.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Feb. 21, 1959

A Homestead Valley housewife gathered signatures throughout Marin asking that there be a study made of unification of all school districts in the county.

20 YEARS AGO

Feb. 21, 1949

The Russian army was warned to maintain permanent combat readiness because the United States was planning to unleash a new war.

The state employment service office in Marin reported unemployment in the county about the same as in the rest of the Bay Area, one out of 11 out of work.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Nothing Wrong With W. Marin Air

According to recent scientific research on air pollution the news is that 8 per cent of such pollution in Marin County comes from back yard incinerators or back yard burning. These tests must have been taken in a back yard next to the bus terminal in San Rafael, and no doubt such research costs the taxpayer many dollars.

I drive throughout western Marin daily and cover approximately 60 miles, San Geronimo Valley, Hicks Valley, Nicasio and the outskirts of Novato and find the air very invigorating and extremely pleasant. An occasional whiff of smoke from a burning pile of leaves or discarded shrubs makes one feel that he is in the country and is enjoying good outdoor living.

An excellent system of controlled burning as prescribed by the county fire department during the winter and summer and well supervised should be enough.

There seems to be too much emphasis on the upper air and not sufficient effort to keep the ground we walk and play on in a healthful condition.

Some legislation should be enacted to curb the manufacture of throw-away bottles, cans and other food containers that comprise about 90 per cent of the litter that is ever present on the roadways and trails in our beautiful county. Abandoned automobiles on private property as well as on public roads is getting to be a hazard and health problem.

Mr. William H. Gnoss is to be commended for his stand on the air pollution matter brought before the board of supervisors recently.

To stop back yard burning is ridiculous in the areas of western Marin, and would be a cause for additional health hazards and a haven for breeding mice and rats. There is nothing wrong with the good fresh air in Western Marin.

Zucker Credited With Reforms

Until a few years ago, Marin's development patterns were haphazard. They left the county with an inheritance of serious problems including terrible roads, strip commercial, a good bit of sprawl, drainage disasters and development of known flood areas, lots with 25-foot frontage, etc.

Paul Zucker was appointed county planning director in January, 1966. Since then we have seen the coounty's subdivision and zoning ordinances brought up to date, and we now have the protection of effective enforcement. We have seen the beginnings of some really useful and valuable planning efforts that are giving us desirable development patterns, coupled with an attempt to correct some of the shambles inherited from the past. I have felt that a large share of the credit for improved planning and control of development belongs to Mr. Zucker.

Against this background, the statements of the 1968 Grand Jury criticizing Mr. Zucker just don't ring true. Some builders and developers are reported as highly critical of Mr. Zucker. Is it possible that these people are sore because they can't bend the ordinances, or get a special exception? Most of us "little guys" depend on having the ordinances enforced down the line for the benefit of the county, so we won't turn into another L.A., east Fresno, or Phoenix, Ariz. (been there lately?).

Councilmen Should Go To Smogville

The San Rafael City Council would profit from a trip to Los Angeles to learn that smog is not marvelous for Marin. The people of San Rafael would profit if four of the councilmen stayed there.

Marin needs more John Miskimens in public office.

'Unfriendly' Speaks On Wolfback Ridge

This is in reply to the letter from H. G. Koch, Sausalito, on his Wolfback Ridge encounter. I'm a seven-year resident of the ridge and live next to the homesite for sale which he mentioned. As of now I do not know who the gun wielder is, if it's true, but am dying to find out. The object of this letter is to comment on some of his other statements.

First, the promontory above the Waldo Tunnel is state park property, formerly military, and it as well as miles of scenic land along the north side of the Golden Gate are available to him for his walks in the sun.

The overpass is a state structure and was provided because the law prevents the bisecting of city without providing access to both sides of the freeway.

There are at least five signs (those not stolen or smashed by trespassers) which state that the road, west of the overpass, is private property. . . . In spite of these, a neighbor of mine was threatened by a trespasser whom he saw on my property in my absence, several residents have been burglarized and one of them twice.

We "Unfriendlies" as he calls us must pave and maintain this road, and must remove the debris and dumpings of the trespassers who also become indignant when asked not to pick the wildflowers we prefer to leave undisturbed for mutual enjoyment. . . .

Helping to tighten our attitudes towards trespassers was the late Mr. Frouge's defunct Marincello. He attempted to annex the road as one access to his development. Lately the government has pockmarked the hills north of the road with test drillings for their proposed nuclear missile site which through some obscure reasoning they feel should be plunked in the middle of the highly populated Bay Area. . . .

Maybe for a lesson in tolerance we should all go have a picnic on Mr. Koch's driveway.

Airlines Should Keep Student Fares

About eight years ago, American Airlines thought up the idea of a half-fare stand-by rate for children from 12 to 21 years of age. This idea was well received by the public, the reason why other airlines copied it.

Because of this special rate, buses, trains, and other transportation services have lost much of their customers and they are complaining. This is why an examiner of Civil Aeronautics suggested that student fare be discontinued.

Not only the airlines would lose money because of the discontinuation, but the parents of students would have to pay double to get their sons and daughters home for Christmas and other holidays. . . .

Another reason for not discontinuing student fare is that because of this fare, students can fly all over the country, or the world for that matter, at half price and see things they might never be able to otherwise. . . .

Major Parties Move Together As Their Old Ideologies Fade

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — What's the difference between today's Democratic and Republican parties?

Not much — less than ever.

Ideology is fading in American political life — metooism is no longer an epithet; it's fact. The issue is no longer who can do what but who can do it better. This can be good.

EVER SINCE the New Deal, when the depression left state and city governments nearly bankrupt and unable to care for the mounting millions of idle workers, the touchstone of difference between the parties has been whether to use big, centralized federal government to deal with social and economic problems.

The Democrats welcomed the flow of power to Washington and promoted it. The Republicans, for the most part, opposed it.

Now a reverse movement is evident within both parties and is bringing them remarkably close together on this key element in the philosophy and practice of American government.

Each is putting on the other's clothes and the elephant and the donkey are beginning to look alike and act alike.

HERE'S WHAT'S happening:

Traditional Democrats are rejecting the idea that Big Government can provide the best solution to everything, that the panacea is to pass a law and appropriate a billion dollars.

Traditional Republicans, led by President Nixon, are recognizing that there is much that the federal government must continue to do to meet today's problems and at points, as in education and job-training, there may be more.

Traditional Democrats are coming to see that private businessmen and private enterprise can and are eager to do much more to help solve community problems. Traditional Republicans are finding that there are many things private groups cannot do without federal aid.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield has said that the need today is not for Congress to pass a lot more legislation but to refine and put more order into what's already on the books.

THIS MOVEMENT away from ideology and toward problem-solving in whatever way works best is already having political effects within both parties. It is alienating some Republican conservatives because it is not diminishing the federal government. It is alienating some Democratic liberals who still think that more centralized government is the thing.

What is bringing this about at this time? Three things. The Republicans have an extremely activist President and a professional politican in the White House for the first time since Theodore Roosevelt. He is more pragmatic than ideolgical and he does not intend to neglect using a single workable means of easing the nation's crucial crises.

Many realistic-minded Democrats and Republicans realize that at major points, like the thicket of federal aid programs, Big Government has failed and something different must be tried.

There is political gold in this movement. The party which attunes itself first and best to the new era will mine the votes.

Weapon Costs Escalate Along With Arms Race

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — Heavy cost overruns, producing a jet escalation in weapon costs, are worrying Pentagon budget officers. All the services are involved. Many, if not most, of their weapons systems are affected.

House and Senate Armed Services Committee will start hearings on the annual defense procurement bills as soon as President Nixon recommends adjustments in the Johnson defense budget — probably in early March.

With the Anti-Ballistic Missile system under heavy congressional fire and the Pueblo seizure scheduled for intensive scrutiny in the House and Senate, some Pentagon officials are saying dryly that they could have done without a cost-overrun controversy this year.

SO FAR, published reports on cost escalations have dealt mostly with the giant C5A cargo plane. In a series of hearings, the House-Senate Economic Committee made a horrible example of C5A costs.

According to the committee's data, the $3.1 billion 1965 cost estimate for the first 120 of the Lockheed C5As has been run up to $5.1 billion. That $2 billion increase may be something of a record.

Comparable percentage increases are anticipated, however, for smaller contracts dealihg with less expensive weapons. Inflated production costs and additional performance requirements ordered by the services are said to contribute to overrunning initial estimates.

Weapons experts claim that the increased costs do not, in themselves, mean the taxpayer is getting a bad bargain .The experts know, however, that such cost increases will provoke loud congressional demands for improved procurement procedures.

The 1967 cost estimate for a nuclear powered aircraft carrier was $427 million, but the price had hit $537 million last summer. Nuclear attack submarines, priced at $71.6 million each two years ago, are now upward of $81.3 million, and the $135 million 1967 price for a guided missile Frigate has risen to $180 million.

THE ANTICIPATED furor over cost escalation and weapon price overruns has already altered the role of one of the most influential congressional investigating groups — the Senate Preparedness Subcommittee.

Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., is focusing the work of the subcommittee on weapons procurement to a much greater extent than in recent years.

TRY AND STOP ME

By BENNETT CERF

A TOP HOLLYWOOD set decorator named Harry Rief suffered a distinct shock in the line of duty recently. He and his crew spent a whole afternoon and evening dressing an outdoor market set with wagon loads of fresh lettuce, celery, cabbage, and the like, and then went home well satisfied with their labors. When they came back the next morning they discovered that the entire set had been eaten by rabbits!

High Tempers In School Debate Too Much Like 'Confrontation'

It's a safe bet that everyone attending Monday's Sausalito School District Board meeting had the same goal — good education for the children. That didn't keep the fur from flying over how to go about it.

It is inevitable that we will be emotional over things as close to us as the education of our children so voices and tempers are bound to rise in the debate.

But what really embitters and frustrates, it seems to me, is that each side is seeing the other as cardboard antichrists, not real people with good and bad points.

The administration and its backers appear unshakeably sure their opponents are so many right-wing racists bent on pressing their children into an iron mold of 19th Century behavior.

THERE MAY well be a handful of extremists in the ranks of both sides. But until both sides realize they are contending with real, thinking, fallible, emotional humans, the only fruit of their arguments will be more bitterness, and any progress will come only at enormous cost.

And the example to the children whom both sides want to educate is appalling. It is little use to lecture the young about protesting in a civilized manner when they see adults verbally at each other's throats.

Violence is only the physical outgrowth of contempt for the other's point of view, and that is the pervading sin of our times.

MONDAY'S MEETING, incidentally, was a two-cigar one for trustee David E. Freedheim, who lights a giant black cigar at the opening of each board meeting. Monday, he finished the first cigar during the early routine items, and was well into the second when the debate over field trips and black vocabulary began.

It must be better than nail-chewing. Freedheim was calmer than most members of the audience when the meeting ended.

THE CHILDREN of Tamalpais Valley have a good thing going for them since the community services district there started its recreation program in December.

Upward of a hundred children a day used the program during the holidays, and about 80 are dropping by now for the after-school program — judo classes, art, guitar and dance classes, crafts and sports. The program runs for two hours daily at Tamalpais Valley School, and for four hours on holidays.

"Before, the main recreation in Tam Valley for children was shoplifting at the Shoreline Market," Mrs. Betty Bishel said. (She's the wife of district trustee Gale E. Bishel.) The only other playground in the area is privately owned, she said.

The program is "tremendous," she said, for older residents as well as for children and their parents. The older people are no longer harassed by children "climbing over their fences or bothering their rose gardens."

The district hopes to expand the recreation program this summer. Pack trips into the lower Sierra, led by recreation director John Aspiris, have been tentatively scheduled.

To expand, the district may have to go to the voters for a tax increase; no one has any figures yet. Parents are sure to support the program, Mrs. Bischel said. "Now we want the older people to know about it."

Primary Pre-School Plans Open House

The Formative Years Teaching (FYT) Primary Pre-School will hold an eighth anniversary open house for parents, educators and the general public from 2 to 4 p.m. Tuesday at the school's new offices, 1046-50 Redwood Highway, Mill Valley.

A tour of new facilities and display of art and special FYT reading materials will highlight the open house, according to director Jaclyn Albright.

What Is Civic Center Costing? Taxpayers Finally Get Answer

Fusselman

Now we can all know the price you are paying for Brasilia and the estimated future costs that are in the planning.

Supervisor Bud Baar asked that the board request Auditor-Controller Mike Mitchell to prepare a financial report of the costs relative to the Civic Center. He has completed and presented it to the board.

The Administration Building cost, consisting of land acquisition, site development, main contract and sub contracts, furniture and fixtures, moving from the courthouse and some rented quarters plus the architect's fees, was $5,147,141.

The actual and estimated cost of the Hall of Justice, consisting of the building, furniture and fixtures, site development, soil testing and other miscellaneous items, plus architect's fees, is $11,778,717 (the moving costs will increase that to some extent).

In addition to the above, Mitchell estimates costs for further requirements from July 1, 1969, through June 30, 1975 for the Civic Center complex, covering Hall of Justice landscaping, Administration Building landscaping, Post Office parking area, Civic Center parking, General Services Building (Civic Center), finished second level Hall of Justice, Civic Center land expansion, plus architects fees, to be $4,053,400.

THIS MAKES a total of just under $21 million ($20,979,258). Over the 40 year period the interest charge on the $7,750,000 bond issue, averaging 3.29125 per cent will be $3,242,751.25.

Now, there is and will continue to be a further, but unseen, cost of unproductive time caused by excessive interdepartmental mileage traveled by personnel, as well as the time cost incurred by the public for the distance to be traveled within the buildings.

In 1964 I asked an engineer I knew to work out for me the comparative heights of the Crown-Zellerbach Building in San Francisco and this administration building if it were placed on end. The answer was that this building would be 16 stories higher that the Crown-Zellerbach one, where they have the bank of elevators close to the entrance and with all departments just a few steps away on each floor.

YOU KNOW how often I have called attention to the cost of the grand manner of conducting county business at the board level out there — such as requiring the high-priced administrator to obtain certain information from a department, when the department head was present at the meeting and could have answered the question on the spot or could have been requested personally to report to the board direct at the next meeting. No, there had to be the elaborate exchange of memos with the personnel costs involved.

Well here is one from Herb Caen's column in the Chronicle that should tickle your ribs. "A secretary in the Wells Fargo Building at 44 Montgomery phoned her Xerox repairman for service and started to give the address when he cut in loftily: 'All I need is the machine's ID number.' She gave it, and he was heard to punch the digits into a machine. 'Uh-huh,' he announced with pride, 'the address is 44 Montgomery,.'"

Session Set On Training

A meeting to establish a training program for the hard core unemployed in Marin County will be held at 8 p.m. Monday in Room 206 of the Marin County Courthouse in San Rafael, sponsored by the Economic Opportunity Council.

Representatives of Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co., Pacific Gas and Electric Co. and the McGraw-Hill Book Co. will be on hand to gather information from the community on what kinds of training are needed.

Transportation will be provided from anywhere in Marin County, council officials said. Arrangements for transportation may be made with the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council, 1327 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael.

Chess Club Now Taking Members

New members are being accepted in the Marin Chess Club which meets at 8 p.m. each Tuesday in the London Arms, 81 Red Hill Avenue, San Anselmo, club president, Ralph Fifer reported.

Fifer said interested persons could come as guests at any meeting. He reported members are in all classifications from beginners to rated players.

Marines Study Antihijack Idea

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Clifford P. Hansen, R-Wyo., says the Marine Corps is studying the idea of putting its men on commercial airliners to prevent hijackings.

Hansen said he had received a letter from Maj. Gen. J. M. Platt, assistant chief of staff to the Marine Corps commandant, saying the Marines and other Defense Department offices were studying the possibility, but no final decision has been made.

Hansen had suggested the use of Marines, pointing out that they were used during the 1920s to guard the mail against train robberies.

Bail Fund Benefit Scheduled Tomorrow

A bail fund benefit party for striking students and teachers at San Francisco State College will be held by the Marin Strike Support Committee at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Othell Mallouf, 315 Rydal Avenue, Homestead Valley.

Guests, the sponsors said, will include Nathan Hare, chairman designate of the black studies department, Nesbit Crutchfield, a member of the central committee of the Black Students Union, and Allan Barnett and Juan Martinez, faculty members.

Figure Corrected

A bill introduced by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R - San Rafael, to eliminate inequities in the sales tax on certain foods, plants and movable homes would deprive the state of about $2 million a year exempting some goods, but pick up about the same amount by extending the sales tax to all hot food and sandwiches. A composing room error inflated the amount in yesterday's Independent-Journal to $62 million.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Accidental Gas Poisoning Is More Common In Cold Months

VAN DELLEN

Accidental carbon monoxide poisoning is common during the winter season when doors and windows are closed and all types of heaters are in use. Natural gas has reduced the hazards but the problem is far from being solved.

Carbon monoxide (CO) is released into the air whenever too little oxygen prevents the carbon components in gas or other fuel from being consumed by the flame. This occurs when the burners are crusty or faulty or the gas units operate in a confined space that lacks air. Coal, coke, and charcoal stoves may generate enough CO to cause fatal asphyxiation.

FATALITIES HAVE occurred when intoxicated or when oldsters turn on a gas appliance but forget to light it. Other deaths have been traced to a pot or pan that boiled over, extinguishing the flame; the hose that brings gas to the stove may be disconnected or loosened; or the individual has fallen asleep with the gas stove burning and a draft blows out the pilot light.

In some instances, the gas was turned off by the utility company, then turned on again, and not lighted. Safety devices are present in modern gas furnaces to prevent these situations.

EXHAUST FUMES from gasoline motors contain approximately 7 per cent carbon monoxide. This makes the car a lethal weapon when it stands in a closed garage with the motor running.

Moreover, carbon monoxide from the exhaust may enter the inside of the car from a defective pipe. This is why it is unwise to drive any distance with the windows closed. Opening the side vent brings in air and also keeps the windows from steaming up on the inside.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

SPINAL CORD BREAKDOWN

S. O. writes: A close relative developed syringomyelia and we would like to know something about this disease.

REPLY

In this disorder, certain cells in the spinal cord degenerate. As a result, the individual becomes insensitive to pain and temperature but not to the touch and vibratory sense in certain areas of the body. The victim may be unaware of the lack of sensitivity until he burns or cuts himself. In addition, the muscles in the same region become weak. There is no satisfactory treatment.

SCARS OF STONE

D. E. writes: What is meant by calcified nodes?

REPLY

Circumscribed bits of tissue that have turned into stone. These represent a special type of healing process in which the inflamed area is replaced by calcium rather than scar tissue. In the lungs, for example, a calcified node is a sign of a healed tuberculous process that has turned to stone and never again will be troublesome.

HOW MANY X-RAYS

A reader writes: Is there a way of checking whether a person has had too much radiation from too many X-rays?

REPLY

The hair offers a clue to how much radiation the scalp has received. But I know of no practical way to determine the amount of radiation that has been received unless an accurate record is kept over a number of years.

HAND IS NUMB

A reader writes: I am 58 years old and about one month ago my hand became numb, and still is numb. Should I consult a physician?

REPLY

You should see your doctor, because the symptom may indicate pressure on the nerve or a disorder of the central nervous system.

Mutiny Defense Wants Shooting Figure Quizzed

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The civilian attorney for Pvt. John Colip, 20, asked yesterday that the guard who shot another soldier in the Presidio's stockade be ordered to testify at Colip's mutiny trial.

Attorney Ron Sypnicki of Sacramento, made the request after being allowed for the first time to read the Army's Criminal Investigation Division report on the shooting which provoked the alleged mutiny by 27 stockade inmates.

Sypnicki also asked Lt. Col. Richard Snyder, the presiding judge at Colip's court-martial, to order five others who gave statements to testify when the trial resumes Monday. The trial is being held at Fort Irwin, a remote Army base in the Mojave Desert where it was moved because of high feeling about the mutiny charges in the Bay Area.

Snyder, who conducted yesterday's hearing at the Presidio without the 10-officer court which must decide Colip's case present, took Sypnicki's request under advisement.

Sypnicki said that the Army report showed that after the shooting, another guard said to the guard who shot Private Richard Bunch, "I wish I'd shot him, so I could get a transfer closer to home." The guard who shot Bunch, who was on the same work detail as Colip, has since been transferred to an undisclosed Army base, a normal practice in such cases.

The Army report included a statement from the guard who did the shooting but Snyder ordered the attorneys not to reveal his name to protect him from harassment.

Sypnicki told Snyder that defense attorneys will attempt to prove from the autopsy report on Bunch that the guard did not aim for the legs, as required by Army regulations.

Colip's military attorney, Capt. Emmit Yeary, said the defense will also contend that the sit-down strike which followed the shooting was not an attempt to override military authority, the legal definition of mutiny.

The trial began Wednesday with the swearing-in of the 10 officers at Fort Irwin who will determine both the verdict and the sentence, if any, in Colip's trial.

Among 23 soldiers still to be tried for mutiny is Pvt. Keith C. Mather of San Bruno, one of the Marin City Nine who staged an antiwar protest last summer at St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church. Mather and eight other servicemen chained themselves to clergymen during the demonstration.

Three men already have been convicted of mutiny and sentenced to 14, 15 and 16 years at hard labor.

Reports Asked On Extra-Hire Status In Marin

Marin County Personnel commissioners declared yesterday they want to make sure that the extra-hire system is not abused to keep employees from getting permanent status.

They asked the personnel director to submit quarterly reports extra-hire employees (those hired for seasonal or temporary work) who stay on for more than three months.

Chairman Bella Aaron said she became concerned when she heard of two extra-hire workers in the county fire department who worked a year to a year-and-a-half without getting tenure.

The Marin County Personnel Commission Also:

AGE LIMIT — Asked personnel analyst Charles H. Wimp to study the present maximum age limit of 35 for those seeking safety (firemen or sheriff's deputy) employment. A sheriff's matron, for example, may be as good or better at 42 than at 22, said Mrs. Aaron.

RULES — Continued a paragraph-by-paragraph revision to update and clarify old 1951 rules and regulations governing the personnel commission.

SACRAMENTO ROUNDUP

Flood Repair Gas Tax Bill To Senate; Unruh Hinting

SACRAMENTO (UPI)— Legislation providing cities and counties with $30 million in flood relief funds by increasing the gasoline tax 1 cent for three months reached the Senate floor today.

The upper house's Finance Committee approved the measure on a split voice vote yesterday over the objections of Gov. Ronald Reagan's administration.

Sen. Ralph C. Dills, D-Gardena, who proposed the gas tax boost, said the increase would raise about $25 million. He said Reagan could reduce the tax sooner than three months if he determined sufficient revenue for repair work had been raised.

But assistant state finance Director Roy M. Bell said the administration opposed the increase because the state could cover its $10 million share of repair costs without boosting the gas tax from 7 to 8 cents a gallon. He estimated total damage to local roads and streets from recent floods and mudslides was $18 million so far.

UNRUH HINTS

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Former Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh has taken another step closer to becoming a 1970 candidate for governor with a statement that he would like to be elected to the post.

Unruh, D - Inglewood, now Democratic leader of the Assembly, was asked in a television interview if he would like to be governor.

"I think California is a great state," he replied. "It affects the lives of one out of 10 Americans and is looked to by other states for leadership.

"On that basis, Yes, I would like to be governor if I thought this state could set an example."

SMOG HEARING

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Federal hearings will open in Los Angeles March 4 to decide if California is justified in having tougher auto smog control standards than other states.

The state is seeking a waiver from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare from a federal law setting maximum uniform standards for the entire country.

The stringent new standards, proposed for 1970 - 74 model autos, were adopted by the Legislature last year.

"Getting the waiver is critical to California enforcing the standards," said John A. Maga, executive officer of the State Air Resources Board.

State officials are optimistic since the man who will make the decision, Welfare Secretary Robert H. Finch, is a former California lieutenant governor.

U.C. QUIZZED

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The University of California is under orders from a legislative committee today to produce evidence it has been punishing violent student activists.

The demand to a university spokesman was made at a long hearing of the special Assembly subcommittee on educational environment last night — a session marked by some legislative criticism of educators.

Assemblyman John L. E. Collier, R-Los Angeles, suggested demonstrators be stopped by walling off University of California and state college campuses, with those entering required to pass through a "Checkpoint Charley."

Jay Michael, lobbyist for the University of California, rejected the suggestion, saying it would be "unreasonable" to check through the some 45,000 people who enter the University of California at Berkeley each day.

Chairman Victor C. Veysey, R-Brawley, of the Assembly Education Committee asked Michael for evidence that U.C. was punishing rulebreakers. He requested a report on what disciplinary action was taken against students arrested in thec urrent disturbances at the Berkeley campus.

The demand followed tough talk by Gov. Ronald Reagan earlier in the day. He said, "I do not feel the university has matched us with a determination" to put down unrest, student and faculty dissidents, he said, are waging "guerrilla warfare" and "the only thing that we can win in guerrilla warfare is . . . you eliminate them by firing the faculty members and expelling the students."

HIPPIE CURBS

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation designed to eliminate migrating hippies from the welfare rolls is being prepared by Gov. Ronald Reagan's Administration.

Human Resources Secretary Spencer Williams and state Social Welfare Director John C. Montgomery told newsmen yesterday the legislation was prompted by hippies leaving the San Francisco Haight - Ashbury district and traveling to peaceful North Coast counties such as Mendocino.

The proposal would disqualify welfare applications or recipients if they refused "to accept an offer of transportation to return to their former community where they had employment," Williams said.

NO TAX STAND

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The board of governors of California Community Colleges yesterday decided to take no stand on any state legislation to continue school tax override elections.

The decision came as the state Senate passed and sent to the Assembly a measure by Sen. John G. Schmitz, R-Tustin, which would extend indefinitely the requirement that all tax override measures be submitted to the voters. Under present law the requirement lapses in 1971.

The board also voted to ask the legislature for an additional $35.5 million in aid to local districts.

California's 89 junior colleges now receive about $100 million in state aid based on average daily attendance, with $628 being alloted for each regular student and $510 for each adult student.

The board wants the figures raised to $727 and $560 respectively.

CAL-VET DEBATE

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A special meeting of an Assembly committee was told yesterday that no Cal-Vet home and farm loan offices should be closed because loan applications are increasing.

The Reagan Administration has proposed closing Cal-Vet offices in Santa Rosa, Bakersfield, Inglewood, Modesto and Oakland effective March 1. It contends the nunber of applications are decreasing.

But Jack Osborne, senior loan appraiser in the Santa Rosa office, told the Government Administration Committee the staffs of the offices already were overworked. He urged the offices be kept open.

Assemblyman William Ketchum, R - Paso Robles, said the closures were based on findings of an administration - appointed task force which are no longer valid.

The committee took no action on a measure by Assemblyman Frank P. Belotti, R-Eureka, urging that the offices be kept open. But it agreed to meet again next week.

Nondinner Role For John Glenn

MEDFORD, Ore. (AP) — Former astronaut Col. John Glenn has agreed to be the nonspeaker at a nondinner which will not be held by the Junior Women's Club.

Glenn accepted the noninvitation when advised that the club had decided to sell tickets at $5 per nonplate and devote all proceeds to a fund for retarded children.

Miniature Delta Set In Sausalito

By ALAN JONES

Cross the new pebble-floored lobby, walk over the Golden Gate and past Carquinez Straits and Antioch, and there it is stretched out before you — the Delta County, a labyrinth of spaghetti-twisted waterways that make seaports of the hot valley towns of Sacramento and Stockton.

Spread out in the high-roofed Army Corps of Engineers building in Sausalito, linked to the 12-year-old San Francisco Bay model at the joining of the Sacramento and San Joaquin Rivers, is the 1-to-1,000 scale model of the Delta, still a few days short of completion but already operating in demonstrations for visiting officers and delegations.

The Army has unromantic workaday plans for the Delta model — studies of salt water intrusion, pollution and channel dredging — but that need not deter the Romantic minded, or the would-be Delta sailor who hesitates, except in imagination, to venture out for winter voyaging.

Like the Delta country itself, the model is umcompromising, flat, empty-looking. But where grass, hay and vegetable crops, highways and bridges, the model has large concrete blanks between the sloughs and rivers.

The engineers are concerned about water flow in the myriad channels, not about the landscape surrounding the waterways. The model, therefore, faithfully reporduces the channel contours of every rivulet all the way to Stockton, Tracy and Sacramento, but islands and shore landmarks are sketched in or denoted by signs to help the viewer orient himself.

The model is 95 per cent complete, but the Corps plans three months of tests to check the accuracy of its water flows against actual measures taken last year in the Delta. By mid-year the model should be ready for three major studies which are planned.

One will be a study of effects of the California Water Plan and its peripheral canal on the Delta. Delta residents fear the canal, tapping Feather River water and bypassing it around the Delta to an aqueduct bound for Southern California, will allow salt water to intrude, ruining crops and driving out freshwater wildlife and fish. The canal is being built into the model.

Another major study will be effects of the San Luis Drain project, in which agricultural waste water from the San Joaquin Valley is to be piped into the upper reaches of the Bay. Circulation of the drain water will be studied to see how far pollution from pesticides might carry through the Delta and the Bay.

A third study will be of proposed deepening of the ship channel past Pittsburg and Antioch into Stockton, and the Army wants to know how fast silting will take place.

Another study proposed is a parallel barrier system of levees to keep out salt water intrusion by leveeing the San Joaquin and Sacramento rivers' flows into Suisun Bay.

Perceptive residents of the area will look at the Bay-Delta model, which sprawls over more than an acre, and will notice that the Delta headwaters meander close to the head of San Francisco Bay near San Jose.

The engineers improved on nature. They skewed the model to fit into the building, bending Carquinez straights and altering the Stockton and Sacramento ship channels to fit everything in. The distortions don't affect the model's hydraulic workings, the Corps says, though they may offend a geographer.

The model is open to the public even during construction, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The engineers plan an open house for mid-March when the model, along with extensive remodeling of the building, will be completed. Remodeling includes new paving in the parking lot, improved ventilation, new restrooms, improvements on the conference room, a new facade and entryway, and a new paint job on the building front.

For the fainthearted, the non-sailing sailor and the romantic, a trip to the delta is nor further away than Sausalito.

WATER FOR THE SOUTH — A significant part of the model is the Clifton Court Forebay, a water storage area in the California Water Plan. Feather River water will be brought to the forebay by canal, then drawn off by aqueduct for southern California use.

FALSE RIVER — The foreground inlet, known as False River, leads to the Franks tract, a long-flooded area in the delta. In the background are the meanders of sloughs and the San Joaquin River. Engineers will use the model to test plans to shorten the passage up the river by dredging a channel through False River and the Franks tract. (Independent-Journal photos by Bob Hax)

'Get Smart' Series To Change Over To CBS Starting In Fall

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—"Get Smart," the long-running comedy series that was canceled officially by NBC-TV this week, has been picked up by the competing CBS-TV network for next season.

Programming for the upcoming season is, at this point, still subject to switches—but unless plans are changed, "Get Smart" will simply continue as before, with viewers merely having to tune in on a different channel.

Assuming CBS-TV definitely keeps "Get Smart" on the air, it will not be the first time the network picked up a show from a competitor. As an example, some years ago it got the Fred MacMurray series, "My Three Sons," from ABC-TV, and it is still running very strong in the ratings.

The CBS-TV schedule that has been leaked out also reveals that the network is making a firm bid to establish the Doris Day series as the big hit it was expected to be, but has not yet become.

What CBS-TV currently planning to do is insert Miss Day's show in its potent Monday night lineup, between "Mayberry R.F.D." and the Carol Burnett series. Other series on CBS-TV on Monday night are "Gunsmoke" and the Lucille Ball program.

Miss Day's transfer to Monday nights would dislodge a very successful series, "Family Affair," which now is slotted for an early time period on Thursdays next season. It will be followed on Thursdays by the new one-hour Jim Nabors variety show. Nabors has quit his long-run "Gomer Pyle" situation comedy series as of this season.

"Gentle Ben," the children's show about a boy and his bear, is currently scheduled for cancellation by CBS-TV. But the Glen Campbell Variety Hour, which had its debut this midseason, has won renewal. It is produced by the same firm that puts on the Smothers Brothers series. The Smothers, according to the pencilled-in schedule, will be back on the network, too.

Over at NBC-TV, an announcement of next season's new shows says the previously-set Bill Cosby half-hour series will concern "a big city high school gym teacher and assistant coach who moonlights — principally as a private investigator—to make ends meet."

NBC-TV's upcoming Debbie Reynolds situation comedy, also previously set, will be about "an on-the-go surburban housewife with a family circle that includes her sportswriter husband, a domineering older sister, an easy-going brother-in-law and a chubby, myopic 10-year-old nephew."

Yet another new NBC-TV series, the hour-long "Bracken's World," is described by sources at the network as "something like 'Peyton Place' in a movie studio—but on a higher plane."

Second Oil Slick Posing New Santa Barbara Threat

SANTA BARBARA (AP) — A $560-million damage suit was filed against the oil firms which drilled a leaking offshore oil well while federal authorities reported a new slick from a second drilling platform.

Federal officials said yesterday the new slick was forming at a platform a half mile west of the one responsible for California's biggest oil disaster.

Union Oil Co. said the new slick was from an oil-smeared workboat which had come from the second platform. Drilling at both platforms was conducted by Union.

Union Oil said there was no leak at the second platform.

Paul De Falco, regional director of the Federal Air and Water Pollution Control Administration, said he and other federal officials would go to the area by boat to determine the source of the new slick.

The $560-million superior court suit was filed on behalf of the state, Los Angeles County and the cities of Santa Barbara and Carpinteria. Defendants in addition to Union Oil are Mobil Oil Co., Gulf Oil Co. and Texaco, Inc., Peter Hawden Drilling, Inc., and 500 John Does.

The suit says an estimated half-billion dollars' damage has been done to beaches, fish and wildlife, harbor facilities, maritime ecology and the tourist industry.

The slick covered 800 square miles earlier, fed originally by 21,000 gallons of crude oil a day. After the original leak was stopped, the current smaller leak about one-tenth the flow developed.

Union Oil said it had authorization from Secretary of Interior Walter Hickel to drill three more wells in an attempt to relieve gas pressure in efforts to halt the leak.

Meanwhile, it was announced in Washington that Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M., will preside at hearings Monday and Tuesday in Santa Barbara on pollution problems exemplified by the oil leak.

The assignment was announced by Chairman Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, of the Senate Public Works subcommittee on Air and Water Pollution.

Muskie, who made a personal inspection of the Santa Barbara oil slick, said Montoya's previous work on antipollution legislation as a subcommittee member makes him "uniquely qualified to represent me at this hearing."

The two-day hearing will be held in the Santa Barbara County Administration Building. Federal, state, and county officials, and representatives of Union Oil conservation groups and civic groups will testify.

DOUBLE TRUMPETS—A highlight of the concert Sunday at San Domenico School will be a teacher-student performance on seldom heard baroque D trumpets. San Rafael High School freshman Bert Truax demonstrates for Sister M. Maurice, O. P., San Domenico principal, how one will sound if she is successful in following the instructions of his teacher, Joseph Alessi.

New Concert Series To Begin On Sunday

A new "orchestre da camera' free public concert series will open Sunday at 7:30 p.m. in the Alumnae Hall of the San Domenico School on the Sleepy Hollow campus.

Organized by the San Domenico Music Department, headed by Faith France and guest-conducted by Hugo Rinaldi, director of music for San Rafael schools, the orchestra is composed of faculty members and students at San Domenico and some Marin professional and non-professional musicians.

The concerts are being presented with the cooperation of Local 6 of the American Federation of Musicians, AFL-CIO, through a grant from the Recording Industries trust fund.

Featured soloists Sunday in Antonio Vivaldi's Concerto for Two Trumpets will be a teacher-pupil duo composed of Joseph Alessi and Bert Truax. They will use two seldom heard baroque D trumpets of Vivaldi's time.

Presently a teacher of trumpet and San Francisco City College faculty and Oakland Symphony member, Alessi played with the Metropolitan Orchestra 12 years and with the NBC Symphony seven years. His pupil Bert Truax, a San Rafael High School freshman, won many musical honors last year.

Second number to be performed will be the rarely heard "The Chinese Flute" by Ernst Toch with sporano Marian Marsh and flutist Terry Summa as soloists.

A member of the San Domenico faculty and San Francisco Opera Guild Talent Bank, Miss Marsh has sung with many orchestras. Summa is music chairman of the San Rafael High School and performs with the Oakland Symphony and Ray Duste Chamber Group.

Concluding the program will be Beethoven's Triple Concerto in C Major, Opus 56, featuring three members of San Domenico's quartet-in-residence: violinist Frances Shorr, cellist Jean Mitchell and pianist Faith France.

A second concert will take place on May 18 at the same time and place.

Seminar Set On Mental Health Law

A day-long seminar on the problems and uncertainties created by California's new mental health law will be held beginning at 10 a.m. March 8 at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo by the Marin Association for Mental Health.

The program is designed for mental health professionals, law enforcement officers, public officials, attorneys, physicians and social and health agency personnel.

Mental Patient Held In Killing

SANTA ROSA (AP) — Ralph Marquez, a patient on leave yesterday from Napa State Hospital, was arrested in the fatal shooting of a woman who operated a "halfway house" for former mental patients, Sonoma County sheriff's deputies said.

Marquez, 23, was booked in the slaying of Lena Lewis, 67, who was licensed by the state to operate a home of persons trying to readjust after discharge from mental institutions.

No apparent motive for the killing was given.

Holiday Sale To Offer Many Big Specials

By BARBARA PACKARD

And tomorrow's event is geared to family needs, including specials for the coming spring and summer seasons.

Also to be offered will be coupons from participating merchants for a special pet zoo to be held at the center, beginning Wednesday and continuing through March 9.

The zoo will include 70 animals, including lambs, baby goats, calves and even a llama.

THOUGH IT MAY be hard to believe, some merchants at the center have great faith that Spring is going to come and the rain will stop.

J. C. Penney Company's Corte Madera manager, Anthony Munoz, is so confident that the store is featuring lawn furniture for tomorrow's bargain day. So consider purchasing for summer days ahead, chaise lounges at $5.99 with matching chairs at $2.99, or padded lounges at $14.99 with replacement pads, $5.88.

Also at Penney's are womens' flair-legged pants of bonded acrylic in solid colors, sizes 6-16, for $3.99.

For the men — be they in the Cub Scout or big game category —Penney's recommends five-pound acrylic sleeping bags at $9.99.

PET ZOO—Leroy, the llama, will make an appearance at the Corte Madera Shopping Center for 12 days, beginning Wednesday. Leroy is part of a 70-animal zoo which will be open for inspection by youngsters visiting the center.

Located on the mall, this specialty store offers a colorful assortment of items ideal for gifts for all occasions for those young at heart.

Glassware and pottery, costume jewelry and sweet scented soaps, Snoopy shirts and barbecue aprons are just a few of the "favorite things" touched with bright, cheery hues.

THOSE COMING TO the Corte Madera Shopping Center to take advantage of the holiday specials will find a full service bank available for all financial transactions.

The atmosphere of quiet in the midst of activity, found in the Crocker-Citizens National Bank, has been set by its assistant vice president and manager, B. A. (Bev) Sill, who has been with the bank since 1956 when it was located in the Corte Madera post office building as First National Bank of San Rafael.

A secondary office was installed in the center in 1958, and Sill operated both offices until the current bank building was completed and opened in March of 1960.

DONALD GILLIS, manager of Montgomery Wards, has forthcoming paint-up, clean-up days in mind, since specials at Ward's tomorrow include one-coat acrylic latex house paint at $6.88 a gallon, and — to help apply that new look — 16 foot aluminum extension ladders at $16.88.

For the woman of the house interested in interior decoration, sofa and love seat combinations —many custom-quilted — are an excellent choice at $299, down $100.

THE EARLY BIRD will be the winner at Louis-George Fine Mens' Apparel. Louis Malvino and George Campanelli will be parting with Nehru jackets and suits, in assorted sizes and colors, for prices starting at $10.

Short-sleeved sports shirts are good buys at $1, as are long and short-sleeved acrylic turtleneck sweater shirts, yellow only, at $3 each.

SESSION WITH TODAY'S PRESIDENT

No, not recently, but nevertheless one one of the milestones in the operation of Corte Madera Shopping Center's Crocker-Citizens Bank, was the visit of Richard Nixon during his campaign for the California governorship. B. A. (Bev) Sill, manager of the bank, is equally well-known in Marin — not only in banking circles, but through his activities with service organizations such as the Lions Club, chairtable groups such as the Bay Area United Crusade, and with the Marin County and Corte Madera chambers of commerce.

Prisoner Assists Sheriff On Problem

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—An inmate of the St. Louis County jail bailed the county sheriff out of a language problem which began when Sheriff Fred M. Joseph received a divorce petition—written in Spanish—from the court at Juarez, Mexico to be served on a woman in suburban Glendale.

Joseph, unable to read Spanish, scanned the prisoner list until he found a Mexican-sounding name: Florencio Diaz. Diaz, held on a burglary charge, agreed to translate the document so the summons could be served.

They Took Sign Too Literally

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — A car carrying four occupants and reportedly travelling between 90 and 100 miles per hour crashed into a humburger place on the north side of town.

It went through the stools and counter of a customer service area, through a large cooler and a six-inch inside wall, across the kitchen and out the north wall.

English Utility Suffers Red Face

BLACKFORDBY, England (UPI) — Mrs. Margaret Hill didn't like it when smoke started pouring from her electric clock. And a neighbor was alarmed when thick clouds of smoke came from his stereo. Others reported bulbs which went "pop" in the night, and steam pouring from the central heating.

The Electricity Board solved the mystery. "It appears everyone's been getting a double charge of electricity in their lines because of a cable fault," a spokesman said.

Concorde Jet—A Giant Gamble

If the venture comes off, Britain and France will have built a supersonic airliner unrivaled in the western world, with all the accompanying prestige and export earnings.

If the venture fails, the two governments will have to write off $744 million spent so far on a project whose eventual cost may be nearer $2.4 billion.

Fingers will be crossed when Concorde makes its first test flight, set for mid-February or thereafter, one year behind schedule and some weeks behind the TU144, the remarkably similar Soviet competitor which stole the title of the world's first supersonic airliner by flying Dec. 30.

The Concorde's trial must prove not only that the great delta-winged plane can fly safely but can do what the designers intended: carry 132 passengers on a non-stop flight of 4,000 miles, twice as high and twice as fast as today's jets. That's London to New York in three-and-a-half hours.

With Concorde's maiden flight one year behind schedule, the delay in getting the plane into airline service is even greater. The original estimate was for 1970. British technology minister Anthony Wedgwood Benn told Parliament the manufacturers now hoped Concorde would be taking fare-paying passengers in 1973.

The latest announced delay on the maiden flight was due to overheating of the disc brakes on taxi runs, but the manufacturer said the trouble has been solved.

There remain persistent rumors about weight problems, a difficulty which many new aircraft encounter when design modifications make them heavier than planned at a cost of seat space or speed or range.

A British Aircraft Corp. (BAC) spokesman gave an angry denial when one newspaper suggested Concorde might be incapable of flying non-stop from Paris to New York without a refueling stop at Shannon in Ireland.

"It is quite untrue," he said. "Concorde will be able to do it non-stop, carrying a full payload of 128 passengers."

His statement does, however, show a loss of four seats on long-range flights, Concorde's passenger capacity had been given as 132-144 passengers.

Concorde's history is not a harmonious one, bedeviled as the project has been by the vagaries of Anglo-French relations, by threats of cancellation, by the sheer physical problems of producing a plane in two countries at once so that neither has a greater share.

The ever-rising cost of developing Concorde has provided critics with a ready weapon.

When the original agreement was signed in 1962, the bill was estimated at 160 million pounds ($448 million before devaluation). Double this already has been spent and the bill is still rising steeply.

Balanced against the cost is the Anglo-French desire to steal a march on the Americans, whose own Boeing supersonic transport has gone back to the drawing board.

Various journalists have called at various times for the abandonment of Concorde as not worth the money. Recently 55 prominent academics, writers, members of Parliament and other public figures in Britain urged cancellation on the grounds Concorde figured low in the list of world priorities headed by poverty.

SUD Aviation and the BAC, the builders, can rightly retort to attacks on the practicality of supersonic flight that many Concorde critics base their facts on inexpert assumptions. The builders argue that the importance of soniic booms has been overemphasized since the Concorde need not break the sound barrier over land. The sales forecast is for up to 250 Concordes by 1975 at a price above 8 million pounds ($19.2 million) each.

BAC general sales manager E. H. Burgess said, " The fact is that of the world's long-haul seat-miles, some 73 per cent are on routes which lie entirely over the sea and 17 per cent more easily can be so directed by small alternations of track. The great transocean routes, which are at the heart of the SST matter, are unaffected by boom problems.

"On the specter of a ban on Concorde at major airports noise has already been measured and is no worse over-all than from present jets. In some aspects it is even better."
